AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on the Core Program

Jeremy R. Knowles, Amory Houghton Professor of Chemistry and Biochemistry (Chair) (on leave 2002-03)
Peter J. Burgard, Professor of German
Andrew Gordon, Professor of History (on leave 2002-03)
Benedict H. Gross, George Vasmer Leverett Professor of Mathematics
Robert P. Kirshner, Clowes Professor of Science
Susan Pedersen, Professor of History (ex officio)
Thomas M. Scanlon, Jr., Alford Professor of Natural Religion, Moral Philosophy, and Civil Polity
R. J. Tarrant, Harvard College Professor and Pope Professor of the Latin Language and Literature (on leave fall term)

The Core Curriculum Program

The philosophy of the Core Curriculum rests on the conviction that every Harvard graduate should be broadly educated, as well as trained in a particular academic specialty or concentration. It assumes that students need some guidance in achieving this goal, and that the faculty has an obligation to direct them toward the knowledge, intellectual skills, and habits of thought that are the hallmarks of educated men and women.

But the Core differs from other programs of general education. It does not define intellectual breadth as the mastery of a set of Great Books, or the digestion of a specific quantum of information, or the surveying of current knowledge in certain fields. Rather, the Core seeks to introduce students to the major approaches to knowledge in areas that the faculty considers indispensable to undergraduate education. It aims to show what kinds of knowledge and what forms of inquiry exist in these areas, how different means of analysis are acquired, how they are used, and what their value is. The courses within each area or subdivision of the program are equivalent in the sense that, while their subject matter may vary, their emphasis on a particular way of thinking is the same.
Foreign Cultures

The goals common to all courses in Foreign Cultures are to expand one’s understanding of the importance of cultural factors in shaping people’s lives, and to provide fresh perspectives on one’s own cultural assumptions and traditions, through study of cultures significantly different from that of the United States and the anglophone cultures of the British Isles, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. These courses also introduce methods of studying a culture, and the issues involved in approaching a culture not one’s own. Whether the primary emphasis is on the analysis of key texts and works of art, on historical change, or on other fundamental aspects of individual or social life, Foreign Cultures courses seek to identify the distinctive patterns of thought and action that account for the particular configuration or ethos of another culture.

With the exception of the specific courses listed at the end of this section, departmental courses, including language courses, may not be substituted for Foreign Cultures courses to meet this requirement. Consult the Introduction to the Core Curriculum for further details.

Foreign Cultures

[Foreign Cultures 12. Sources of Indian Civilization]
Catalog Number: 8312
Diana L. Eck
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
An introduction to the ideas and images that shaped classical Indian civilization and which continue to be of significance to the understanding of modern India. Explores three areas of Indian culture: its philosophical perspectives, its social and moral order, and its mythic and visual imagination.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Foreign Cultures 17. Thought and Change in the Contemporary Middle East
Catalog Number: 8705
Nur Yalman
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
The social and political formation of the countries of the Middle East since the 19th century. Focus on Turkey, Arab countries, Israel, and Iran; how both native and non-native social theorists portray the processes of change, tradition, and history. Orientalist, Marxist, and cultural anthropological theorists are juxtaposed; writers such as Gökalp, Shariati, Fanon are to be situated. Topics include Islam and politics; the impact of the West; culture change; revolutionary movements; mystic orders; ethnicity and alienation; the position of women; “progress.”
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

[Foreign Cultures 19. El poder y lo sagrado: figuras de un conflicto en las literaturas hispanicas]
Catalog Number: 6597
Luis Fernández-Cifuentes
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10 and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

Starting with the identification of modern notions of Power (from Horkheimer to Foucault) as well as modern intimations of the Sacred (mostly vis-à-vis Religion), the course will go on to analyze Hispanic representations of both Power and the Sacred—their iconography and, especially, their interaction with each other in certain strategies of seduction and resistance which seem to characterize Hispanic Modernity—in five films and in the works of twenty major contemporary writers, from Galdós to Cortázar, from Unamuno to García Márquez.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in Spanish.

Foreign Cultures 21. Cinéma et culture française, de 1896 à nos jours
Catalog Number: 8550
Tom Conley
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

Focuses on relations of cinema to French culture from the silent era to the age of video. Explores film in dialogue with cultural and historical events; development of a national style and signature; a history of criticism. Correlates study of cinema to cultural analysis. Takes up Renoir and poetic realism; unrest in 1930s; France and other filmic idioms (Italy, Hollywood, Russia); new wave directors; feminist and minoritarian cinema after 1980.

Note: Conducted in French.

Foreign Cultures 22a. La critique sociale à travers l’humour
Catalog Number: 0656
Marlies Mueller
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

A second-year language course that explores some French institutions, values, and traditions of the 17th and 18th centuries as objects of humorous attacks by such authors as Beaumarchais, La Fontaine, Molière, and Voltaire. Multidisciplinary approach. Modern interpretations by such eminent film directors as Cassell, Leconte, Rossellini, Scola, and Wajda. At the end of the course students should be able to understand lectures in French, converse on a large variety of topics with native speakers, read material of moderate difficulty, write correct French, and be capable of continuing their studies in higher-level French courses.

Note: Conducted in French. Both Foreign Cultures 22a and 22b, not necessarily in sequence, must be taken to fulfill the Foreign Cultures requirement.
Prerequisite: A Harvard placement score of 600 minimum, equivalent preparation, or permission of instructor.

Foreign Cultures 22b. La critique sociale à travers l’humour
Catalog Number: 0591
Marlies Mueller
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

A continuation of Foreign Cultures 22a at a higher level. Explores French institutions, values, and traditions of the 19th and 20th centuries with emphasis on such authors and film directors as Balzac, Beineix, Godard, Renoir, Sartre, and Stendhal.
Note: Conducted in French. Both Foreign Cultures 22a and 22b, not necessarily in sequence, must be taken to fulfill the Foreign Cultures requirement.
Prerequisite: A Harvard placement score of 710 minimum, Foreign Cultures 22a, equivalent preparation, or permission of instructor.

Foreign Cultures 30. Forging a Nation: German Culture from Luther to Kant and Beyond
Catalog Number: 0580
Peter J. Burgard
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
Examines literary, philosophical, religious, and political movements of the period 1500–1775, from the Reformation to the Enlightenment. Analysis of the social and political implications of texts from that time and consideration of their critical reception in the 20th century. Focus on the relevance of this early age in German cultural history for our own age.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Readings in German, discussions in German and English.
Prerequisite: German D, equivalent preparation, or permission of the instructor.

Foreign Cultures 32. Jugend gegen Hitler
Catalog Number: 5463
Judith Ryan
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13
The course will treat a series of fictional, cinematic, biographical, autobiographical, and documentary works that depict young people coming to terms with everyday life in Germany during the Nazi regime. Attention will also be paid to the language of Nazi proclamations and opposition pamphlets and flyers. Topics explored include youth resistance movements, the ubiquitous influence of the Hitler Youth, life in hiding from the Nazis, and the concentration camp experience.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Reading and discussion entirely in German; papers and exams in English.
Prerequisite: German D, equivalent preparation, or permission of the instructor.

Foreign Cultures 34. Mesoamerican Civilizations
Catalog Number: 3196
William L. Fash and David S. Stuart
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6
This course highlights the distinctive features of the evolving cultural traditions of Mesoamerica, one of the oldest living civilizations in the world. Pre-Columbian religion, arts, cultural ecology, and construction of power and social identity through myth, ritual, and official history are explored first. Continuities and changes in those traditions resulting from the Spanish conquest, colonial rule, and subsequent global change in the 20th century are then analyzed. In Mexico and Central America, the past continues to shape the present, and living cultures help illuminate processes, events, and worldview in the archaeological past.
Foreign Cultures 46. Caribbean Societies: Socioeconomic Change and Cultural Adaptations

Catalog Number: 6357

Orlando Patterson

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11; W., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Caribbean societies are largely the economic and political creations of Western imperial powers. Though in the West, they are only partly of it, and their popular cultures are highly original blends of African and European forms. The course examines the area as a system emerging from a situation of great social and cultural diversity to the present tendency toward social and cultural convergence. Patterns of underdevelopment are explored through case studies of Latin and Afro-Caribbean states, as are cultural adaptations through studies of Afro-Caribbean religions, fiction, and music.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

[Foreign Cultures 48. The Cultural Revolution]

Catalog Number: 6474

Roderick MacFarquhar

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 9, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2

From 1966 to 1976, the People’s Republic of China was wracked by civil strife, student violence, political intrigue, and military plots. What had once seemed the best disciplined and most stable of dictatorial states seemed about to dissolve into disunity, even anarchy, and as a result of the actions of the man who had done more than anyone else to create it: Chairman Mao Zedong. The Cultural Revolution is traced in order to pinpoint Mao’s aims and to explore the deeper political, social, economic, and cultural issues that his actions raised for the Chinese, and for the rest of us as well.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Foreign Cultures or Historical Study B, but not both.

Foreign Cultures 56. Jewish Life in Eastern Europe

Catalog Number: 1271

Jay M. Harris

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

An examination of the variegated cultural achievements of Eastern European Jewish society, including its religious and ethical worldviews; its educational institutions; its literature; its politics. Primary focus on the 19th century, the development and continuity of traditional life, and the confrontation between traditional and newer cultural patterns.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Foreign Cultures 60. Individual, Community, and Nation in Vietnam

Catalog Number: 1976

Hue-Tam Ho Tai

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13
An introduction to the enduring bases of Vietnamese society and culture. Focuses on the impact of change on the individual, the family, the community, and the nation through the ages. The condition of women from primitive times to the socialist present, the relationship between religion and politics, the continuing struggle over land, and the dilemmas of leadership and national integration are examined through a combination of literary and historical documents as well as more analytical materials.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Catalog Number: 2628 Enrollment: Limited to 216.

James L. Watson

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

Examines Chinese culture from the “bottom up” with emphasis on the structure of everyday life. The first half deals with prerevolutionary (noncommunist) society. Topics include marriage and adoption strategies, concubinage, inheritance patterns, gender roles, lineage organization, and life crisis rituals. Second half focuses on postrevolutionary society and Maoist attempts to construct a new culture. Topics include land reform and collectivization, marriage, women’s liberation, changing family organization, antisuperstition campaigns, population control, and the impact of post-Mao reforms. Ethnographic laboratories (sections) examine issues such as footbinding, arranged marriage, and political campaigns.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Foreign Cultures or Social Analysis, but not both.

[Foreign Cultures 68. Authority and the Claims of the Individual in Chinese Literary Culture]

Catalog Number: 9028

Stephen Owen

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15

Examines the role Chinese literary texts have played in articulating the place of the individual as part of, or against, the authority of community and state. Beginning with the celebrations of social integration in the early parts of the Classic of Poetry (early first millennium B.C.), we will follow the increasingly complex role literature came to play, both as a critic of authority and as establishing a domain of private life.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Foreign Cultures or Literature and Arts A, but not both.

[Foreign Cultures 70. Understanding Islam and Contemporary Muslim Societies]

Catalog Number: 1065

Ali S. Asani

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

Offers an introductory survey of the Islamic world as well as the fundamental concepts and devotional practices of the Islamic faith. Focuses on developing an understanding of the diversity of the Muslim religious worldview and the manner in which it has influenced the political, social, and cultural life of Muslims in various parts of the world, particularly in the modern period. Briefly considers the contemporary situation of Muslims as a religious minority in Europe and the United States.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Foreign Cultures 72. Russian Culture from Revolution to Perestroika
Catalog Number: 5581
Svetlana Boym

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14
Explores 20th-century Russian culture through literature, art, and film. Topics include art and revolution, utopian imagination and the authoritarian state, the rewriting of history through literature and film, art of the fantastic and the literature of exile, postcommunism and postmodernism, the search for national identity, and resistance to nationalism. Proceedings from revolutionary avant-garde art and artistic experimentation of the 1920s to the declaration of Socialist Realism and the experience of Stalinism, from the dissident art of the 1960s to the culture of the Cold War, perestroika, and beyond. Works by Malevich, Eisenstein, Vertov, Mayakovsky, Babel, Bulgakov, Mandel’shtam, Nabokov, Kundera, and Brodsky.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Foreign Cultures 74. Cultures of Southern Europe
Catalog Number: 0603
M. Herzfeld

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6
This is a survey of the modern cultures of Cyprus, Greece, Italy, Malta, Portugal, and Spain. Southern Europe has been viewed as both the fount of “Western civilization” and as a poor and crime-ridden backwater; it has been home to imperial powers and humiliated client-states alike. Through the reading of anthropological field studies (urban and rural), literary and historical portrayals, and artistic representations (including film and opera), this course focuses on what such contradictions mean for people in those countries at the level of everyday life, and provides an account of differences as well as similarities among the countries discussed.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Foreign Cultures 76. Mass Culture in Nazi Germany: The Power of Images and Illusions
Catalog Number: 3396
Eric Rentschler

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11; screenings, M., 4–6, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
A half-century after Hitler’s demise, the legacy of Nazi sights and sounds remains contested and problematic. We will analyze seminal films of the Third Reich as ideological constructs, popular commodities, and aesthetic artifacts. How did emanations of Joseph Goebbels’ Ministry of Propaganda figure within the larger contexts of state terror, world war, and mass murder, and how have Nazi images been presented and recycled since 1945? Sampling of short subjects and documentaries (Triumph of the Will, Olympia, and The Eternal Jew), and narrative films (Hitler Youth Quex, La Habanera, Jew Süss, and Kolberg). Readings provide pertinent socio-historical backgrounds and important theoretical perspectives.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. No knowledge of German required.
[Foreign Cultures 78. Culture-Building and the Emergence of Modern Scandinavia]
Catalog Number: 0671
Stephen A. Mitchell
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 9, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 11
Focuses on the nordic world (Denmark, the Faroes, Finland, Iceland, Norway, and Sweden) in the 20th century, but begins with early 19th-century nationalist aspirations tied to folklore collecting and literary movements (e.g., the Kalevala). Examines the “valorization” of peasant culture, pre-Christian paganism, and other aspects of nordic cultural history in a wide variety of cultural monuments (e.g., paintings, museum displays, films, and literary works). Traces the question of who shapes public perceptions of “national cultures” in Scandinavia in selected periods, including the Nazi occupation, the “sex, suicide, and socialism” stereotype of the 1960s, and contemporary settings (e.g., the Olympic Games).
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Foreign Cultures 80. The Cultural Identities of Modern Korea]
Catalog Number: 8798
David McCann
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
Surveys the development of Korean cultural identity in literature, art, music, and the writing of history from the first unified kingdom, Silla, in the 7th century, through the succeeding Koryô and Chosôn kingdoms, and into the first half of the 20th century. Then examines modern Korea—the Japanese colonial occupation, 1910–1945; liberation, division, and the Korean War, 1945–1953; the separate cultural regimes in north and south; and hopes for reunification—in the context of its cultural productions.

[Foreign Cultures 82. Modern Arabic Narratives: Self, Society, and Culture]
Catalog Number: 2619
William E. Granara
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14
A historical overview of cultural and social issues in contemporary Arab society as reflected in modern fiction. Attention will be given to the development of the novel and short story as literary media that treat themes such as the conflict between tradition and modernity, anti-colonialism, nationalism, civil war, poverty, alienation, religion and politics, and changing gender roles. Readings will include works of Tayeb Salih, Naguib Mahfouz, Muhammad Choukri, as well as prominent women authors, such as Hanan Shaykh and Sahar Khalifeh.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. No knowledge of Arabic required.

Historical Study

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The common aim of courses in Historical Study is to develop students’ comprehension of history as a form of inquiry and understanding. The courses fall into two groups representing two emphases in historical study.

Historical Study A

Courses in Historical Study A are designed to help the student understand, through historical study, the background and development of major issues of the contemporary world. These courses illustrate the way in which historical study helps make sense of some of the great issues—often problematic policy issues—of our own world. The courses focus on the sequential development of issues whose origins may be quite distant from the present but whose significance is still profound in the world in which students live today.

Historical Study B

Courses in Historical Study B focus closely on the documented details of some transforming event or group of events. They aim to develop an understanding of the complexity of human affairs, of the way in which a variety of forces—economic, cultural, religious, political—have interacted with individual aspirations and with the deliberate efforts of individuals to control and shape events in specific contexts and historical moments. They are sufficiently delimited in time to allow concentrated study of primary source materials.

Historical Study A
Historical Study A-12. International Conflict and Cooperation in the Modern World
Catalog Number: 5129
Andrew Moravcsik and Stephen Rosen
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 3

Why do states wage war? Why do they cooperate? Have the answers changed historically? Are economic globalization, ecological interdependence, and global civil society eroding traditional state sovereignty? Or do nationalism, protectionism, and power politics firmly limit the spread of world order? The course begins with the Peloponnesian War, the European state system, imperialism, the spread of free trade, and the two World Wars. It continues after 1945 with the spread of democracy and human rights, trade liberalization, international law, and ecological cooperation, as well as enduring sources of conflicts like the Cold War, nuclear weapons, civil strife, and rogue states.

Historical Study A-13. China: Traditions and Transformations
Catalog Number: 5243
Peter K. Bol and Endymion Porter Wilkinson
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

Modern China presents a dual image: a society transforming itself through economic development and social revolution; and the world’s largest and oldest bureaucratic state, coping with longstanding problems of economic and political management. Whatever form of modern society and state emerges in China will bear the indelible imprint of China’s historical experience, of its patterns of philosophy and religion, and of its social and political thought. These themes are discussed in order to understand China in the modern world, and as a great world civilization that developed along lines different from those of the Mediterranean.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Historical Study A or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

Historical Study A-14. Japan: Tradition and Transformation
Catalog Number: 5373
Andrew Gordon and Joan Piggott
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

The history of Japan from earliest settlements to the present. Japan’s pre-modern history presents the challenge of understanding distinctive forms of political activity and social relations, from court noblemen and women to samurai warriors, as well as religious traditions of great depth and literatures of unusual range and power. Japan’s modern history presents one of the most striking transformations in world history. For better and sometimes for worse, people in Japan since the mid-19th century have come to share in the dilemmas of modernity that challenge us all. The course examines the pre-modern and modern history of both institutions and ideas, with emphasis on reading selected literary documents as well as historical writings.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Historical Study A or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

[Historical Study A-15. Politics and Society in the Making of Modern India]
Catalog Number: 8301
Devesh Kapur
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

This course examines the complex dynamics of India’s emergence and continuation as a vibrant if contentious democracy. It examines the ways in which the Indian democratic experience has shaped and been shaped by its society and economy by asking questions such as: how do India’s “traditional” institutions adapt or fail to adapt to modern circumstances? How does it weave itself together as a nation? What is the relationship between its politics and economic outcomes? What are the strengths and vulnerabilities of its institutions?

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Historical Study A or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

Historical Study A-16. The Making of Modern South Asia
Catalog Number: 9058

Sugata Bose
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

This course provides the historical depth and the comparative context in which to understand contemporary South Asia through an historical inquiry into the making and multiple meanings of modernity. It covers the history, culture, and political economy of the subcontinent from 1526 to the present. Major topics include the formation of Indo-Islamic cultures; the transition to colonialism; social, economic, and cultural change under British rule; nationalism before and after Gandhi; regional and religious identities; decolonization and partition; the character of the post-colonial era in India, Pakistan, and Bangladesh. Significant use of primary written sources (in English) and multi-media presentations.

Historical Study A-23. Democracy, Equality, and Development in Mexico
Catalog Number: 6861

John H. Coatsworth
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

Mexico has achieved high levels of democratic participation, social equality, and economic growth in the past, but has never managed to achieve all three at the same time. This course explores how history as a mode of inquiry and understanding can illuminate Mexico’s contemporary challenge, that of overcoming underdevelopment, inequality, and authoritarianism all at the same time. The course also addresses Mexico’s complex and ambivalent relationship to external powers, particularly the United States, but only to the extent that doing so can contribute to understanding these three contemporary problems.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Historical Study A or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

Historical Study A-27. Reason and Faith in the West
Catalog Number: 8149

Ann M. Blair
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

Examines from a historical perspective one of the central themes in the Western intellectual tradition: the desire to reconcile rational philosophy with religious and biblical authority. Discusses the transformations in conceptions of reason, science, biblical interpretation, and divine intervention (among other themes) in the context of the long period of change from medieval to modern. Readings emphasize primary sources—including for example Augustine, Aquinas, Galileo, Descartes, Newton, and Darwin—but also pay some attention to the historiography on “science and religion.”

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Historical Study A-33. Women, Feminism, and History]
Catalog Number: 3555
Laurel Thatcher Ulrich
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

From Christine de Pisan in the 14th century to Virginia Woolf in the 20th, women writers have used history to question seemingly unchangeable differences between the sexes. This course examines classic works in Western feminism in the light of contemporary scholarship in women’s history. It emphasizes the range and variety of feminist appropriations of the past, from storytelling to legal briefs, and considers the strengths and pitfalls of historical argumentation. Discussion will focus on close analysis of primary materials.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Historical Study A-34. Medicine and Society in America
Catalog Number: 1552
Allan M. Brandt
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Surveys major developments in the history of American medicine since the discovery of the New World. Emphasis placed upon setting the practice of medicine as well as the experience of health and disease into broad social, cultural, and political contexts. Topics include the social and cultural impact of epidemic disease; the nature of demographic and epidemiological change; the development of medical therapeutics and technologies; the growth of health care institutions; the rise of the medical profession; and debates about the allocation of health care resources. Evaluates the role of medicine in addressing social needs as well as the social and economic determinants of patterns of health and disease.

Historical Study A-35. Democracy in America and Europe
Catalog Number: 9060
James T. Kloppenberg
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
For most of Western history democracy was reviled as mob rule, yet it now commands almost universal approbation. What happened? We will seek to understand that transformation by examining the history of democracy in theory and practice from the 16th century to the present. Readings will include classic European and American texts that explain, defend, and criticize democracy as a political system and as an ethical ideal. Lectures will examine the various contexts—biographical, national, and cultural—surrounding debates over the desirability of democracy and explore the shifting meanings of the democratic ideals of freedom and equality in relation to changing attitudes and practices concerning social hierarchy, race, and gender.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Historical Study A-40. The Middle East and Europe since the Crusades: Relations and Perceptions

Catalog Number: 5423
Cemal Kafadar
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

Nine centuries of interaction between two neighboring world civilizations centered around the Mediterranean basin. Examines the transformation of the terms of coexistence and competition over time from an asymmetry in favor of the Islamic world to one favoring Europe in terms of power and prestige. Surveys major events and broad patterns of human activity (wars, migrations, conversions, trade, cultural exchange); compares institutions and worldviews; studies the variety of ways in which the two civilizations perceived and imagined each other. Focus on common roots and mutual influences. Analysis of (mis)perceptions as historically constructed cultural categories and of their legacy in the modern world.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Historical Study A-44. Jews in Modern Times: From the French Revolution to the Emergence of Israel

Catalog Number: 9323
Jay M. Harris
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

This course seeks to understand the transformation of the Jews from a relatively homogeneous group that was readily distinguished from its surrounding cultures, to their current state in which they are neither homogeneous nor readily distinguished from other identifiable groups. The focus will be on the political, social, and economic shifts that led to major changes in Jewish political and cultural aspirations and achievements. Specifically, the course will examine processes of change in France, Germany, Russia, and the United States.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Historical Study A-51. The Modern World Economy, 1873–2000

Catalog Number: 1263
Jeffry Frieden
Half course (fall term). M., W., 2–3:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

The past 125 years have seen more rapid economic growth, and more global economic integration, than ever before. Yet the gap between rich and poor countries has widened, and “globalization” has alternated with attempts at national self-sufficiency under fascist, communist, and other banners. The course explores the impact of technological, economic, social, and political trends, at both global and national levels, on the development of the world economy since 1873. Topics include free trade and the gold standard in the 19th century, European colonialism, the depressions of 1873–1896 and 1929–1939, and the postwar economic order.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Historical Study A-53. The Chinese Revolutionary Tradition

Catalog Number: 1667
Elizabeth J. Perry

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

The Chinese revolutionary tradition began with peasant uprisings in the mid-19th century and continues to this day. From late imperial times to the present, a steady stream of dramatic revolutionary efforts have exerted a major impact on the direction of Chinese politics. This course examines continuities and changes across successive phases of the process: the quasi-Christian Taipings, the anti-Christian Boxers, the 1911 Revolution, the rise of Communism, Mao’s Cultural Revolution, the 1989 Tiananmen Uprising, contemporary tax riots and labor strikes, etc. It focuses on ways in which earlier repertoires of contentious politics have influenced the aspirations and actions of later generations of protesters.

Historical Study A-68. The Making and Remaking of the Modern Middle East

Catalog Number: 1845
E. Roger Owen

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

Examines the political and social history of the Arab countries of the Middle East (including North Africa) as well as Iran, Israel, and Turkey. Provides a basis for the understanding of the politics of the region in the late 20th century. Major themes are the creation and transformation of the modern states and of their political systems in the period since World War I, and the transformation of Middle Eastern society during this same period under the impact of colonialism, independence, regional wars, and oil. Attention also paid to theoretical discussions concerning modernization and development, including those which seek to define the role of the state.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Historical Study A-70. International History

Catalog Number: 2517
Akira Iriye

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Examines the increasingly globalizing contemporary world against the background of international relations since the 1890s. Topics include European imperialism and decolonization, the origins and consequences of the two World Wars, the Americanization of the globe, and the rise of a multicultural world. Stresses the interplay of states and non-state actors.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Historical Study A-73. The Political Development of Western Europe

Catalog Number: 8261
Peter A. Hall

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

A survey of the creation of modern politics in Britain, France, Germany, and Italy from the feudal period to the 20th century, focusing on the causes and consequences of crucial developments such as the English and French Revolutions, the Industrial Revolution, 19th-century democratization, and the appearance of fascism. Emphasizes the usefulness of comparative, historical analysis for understanding the origins of contemporary politics and competing approaches to understanding the processes of change associated with the development of the modern state.

Historical Study A-74. Contemporary China: The People’s Republic and Taiwan in the Modern World
Catalog Number: 0893
William C. Kirby
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14
What are the enduring problems of modern China? How do different Chinese governments confront them? This course assumes that the basic question of 20th-century China remains unanswered: what kind of government, society, and economy will ultimately replace the old imperial system? Part I defines basic themes: quests for national unity and international importance; population and ecological pressures; competition between capitalism and socialism; problems of democracy in Chinese political culture. Part II contrasts the revolutionary experiments of two “new Chinas” after 1950. Part III discusses contemporary reforms in the P.R.C. and Taiwan, and explores the future of “Greater China,” in the light of its past.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Historical Study A or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

Historical Study A-76. Germany 1871–1990: From Unification to Reunification
Catalog Number: 3594
David Blackbourn
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
Examines the forces that have shaped modern German history from the Empire created in 1871, through the Weimar Republic and Third Reich, to division and reunification. The continuities as well as discontinuities of this history provide a major theme, particularly the roots of the Nazi period and the question of how far the two postwar Germanys broke with the past. The course is built around three interrelated themes: politics, economy and society, and culture. The principal focus is domestic affairs, but the nature of the “German question” means that attention is given to the international dimension where appropriate.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

[Historical Study A-77. The Emergence of Modern China, ca. 1600-2000]
Catalog Number: 0541
Philip A. Kuhn
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13
China’s development from empire to nation has provoked Chinese in many walks of life to ask, “How much of our old culture must we give up to become a strong modern state?” This course will explore not only what has been lost since the 17th century, but also what has been retained or transformed. We shall examine how, over four centuries of history, Chinese struggled to cope with the modern world and learned to address old problems in modern terms. To introduce the people who lived through these transformations, readings will emphasize primary sources in translation.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Historical Study A or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

[Historical Study A-79. The Modern Police State]
Catalog Number: 3282
Terry D. Martin

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
Examines the impact of secret police practices on societies and states in the modern world. Focuses on the Soviet Union and Nazi Germany, but makes comparisons with other European states and the USA. Topics will include surveillance, secret informers, policing technologies, secrecy, censorship, state terror, ethnic cleansing, the concentration camp; as well as popular adaptations such as rumors, bribery, forged identities, collaboration, resistance and denunciation. Ends with a discussion of attempts to deal with the legacy of the police state.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Historical Study A-80. The Cold War]
Catalog Number: 5222
Ernest R. May

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
The East-West Cold War that followed World War II forms the background for all thinking about current and future international relations. This course surveys the Cold War’s origins and development, the crises at its climax, and the course of events from the subsequent détente down to the present.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Historical Study A-81. Chinese Emigration in Modern Times]
Catalog Number: 0303
Philip A. Kuhn

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13
Explores one of the great historic migrations, from the 16th century to the present. Topics include: how migration was related to conditions of late imperial Chinese society; how Chinese interacted with European empires in Southeast Asia and with native peoples; how they developed their economic roles in host societies; and howacculturation and conflict shaped their identities. The experience of Chinese migrants to North America is placed in a world context. Readings emphasize the analysis of primary sources in English.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

[Historical Study B-04. Ancient Greek Democracy]
Catalog Number: 6791
Eric W. Robinson
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
This course examines the origin, essential nature, and importance of ancient Greek democracy, which first took shape in the city-states of Greece over 2500 years ago. The first part of the course looks at the development of democracy, beginning with the earliest signs of pan-Hellenic egalitarianism and ending with the appearance of fully democratic governments in Athens and elsewhere. The second part considers the ideals and institutions of ancient democracy in the context of Greek society as a whole. Herodotus, Thucydides, Aristotle, and other ancient sources will be read in translation along with modern scholarly interpretations.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Historical Study B-09. The Christian Revolution]
Catalog Number: 6389
Christopher P. Jones
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
The course studies the formative period of Christianity as a historical phenomenon. The course begins with the social and political background, and then considers the person of Jesus of Nazareth, how his teaching was developed by his followers, how they built up a “church” of believers, and how Judaism and Christianity were intertwined not only in the person of Jesus but in the history of the two faiths in the decades following the destruction of the Temple. The overall aim is to see how historical methods can be used to explain phenomena which, viewed on their own terms, transcend explanation.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Historical Study B-13. Charlemagne and the Birth of Medieval Civilization]
Catalog Number: 2567
Michael McCormick
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
For 200 years, the family of Charlemagne welded together the disparate fragments of a fallen Roman Empire and free Germania. The result was a new civilization, called Europe; a new cultural movement, called Renaissance. “Charlemagne” investigates how a new civilization arose in the countryside and in the conquests of the 8th and 9th centuries A.D. with consequences that endure down to our own time. But “Charlemagne” is also about historical analysis: the techniques by which today’s historians wrest new data and insights from manuscripts, memorandums, and mud to rediscover the lives of the men and women who created the first European civilization.

Historical Study B-17. Power and Society in Medieval Europe: The Crisis of the 12th Century

Catalog Number: 2086
Thomas N. Bisson

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

Devoted to the strains and conflicts in which European government and law originated. Examines the transformation (ca. A.D. 1050–1250) of tribal societies in which exploitative lordship was the typical mode of power into political societies in which power was redefined in administrative and proto-bureaucratic ways and redistributed among social groups or classes claiming rights as such. Problems for explanation and discussion include the Investiture Struggle, social conflict in Catalonia and Flanders, new procedures in law and finance, the crisis of Magna Carta, and the origins of parliamentary representation and consent. Readings in primary sources, modern historians, and social anthropologists.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

[Historical Study B-35. The French Revolution: Causes, Processes, and Consequences]

Catalog Number: 0525
Patrice Higonnet

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

The cultural, social, and political life of France before 1789; the rise of a public sphere; the Revolution in its development from the decentralized “consensus” of 1789 to Jacobin terrorism in 1793–94; the structures of Jacobin thought; the ideological, social, and administrative effects of the Revolution in France. The roles of Mirabeau, the Montagnards, the Girondins, Robespierre, Babeuf, and Napoleon are considered, as well as more general themes such as the effect of public opinion and the redefinition of gender roles.

Historical Study B-40. Pursuits of Happiness: Ordinary Lives in Revolutionary America

Catalog Number: 2264
Laurel Thatcher Ulrich

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

When Thomas Jefferson listed the “pursuit of happiness” as one of the inalienable rights of humankind, he offered future generations an evocative but elusive vision of the good society. This course explores the competing visions of “happiness” that animated political and social life in the half century surrounding the American Revolution. Was happiness best achieved through collective commitment to public good? Through submission to God? Or in the possession of property and the cultivation of private affections? And what happened when happiness became misery or its pursuit provoked political rebellion, riot, scandal, and crime?

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM
GROUP: 4
An examination of the experiences of both the North and the South during the Civil War and the legacy of the war for the United States. Topics include the origins of the war, Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis as war leaders, Union war aims and emancipation, dissent and opposition to the war in the Union and the Confederacy, the Confederate transformation of the South, the northern and southern home fronts, race, the spiritual and economic costs of the war, and the imprint of the war on American politics, society, and values. This is not a course in military history.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

[Historical Study B-52. Slavery and Slave Trade in Africa and the Americas]
Catalog Number: 3834
Emmanuel K. Akyeampong

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14

This course begins with the question of terminological precision and the definition of slavery and other forms of servile labor—especially in Africa. The course then examines the institution of slavery in Africa and the Americas within this wider historical context, analyzing the political-economies and ideologies that underpin slavery and the crucial role of slave trade in reproducing slave communities that were barely able to reproduce themselves naturally. The course explores the impact of slavery on political, economic, social, and cultural life in Africa and the Americas and ends with a discussion of the legacy of slavery and the global nature of the African diaspora.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Historical Study B-53. World War and Society in the 20th Century: World War I
Catalog Number: 4388
Charles S. Maier

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Viewed together, the two world wars shattered Germany’s bid for European domination, revolutionized Russia and extended her influence over Eastern Europe for over 40 years, helped dissolve the colonial empires and create the modern welfare state, and made the United States the world’s preeminent power. Historical Study B-53 and B-54 examine the problem of war origins; grand strategies of the combatants and the actual nature of fighting; organization of war economies; response of writers and intellectuals; and the nature of the peace settlements and legacies for postwar culture and politics. This course also focuses on the issue of inevitability; the static trench combat; transformation of the state; demographic effects; literary perception and political radicalization of Left and Right; postwar bitterness and disillusion.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Historical Study B-54. World War and Society in the 20th Century: World War II
Catalog Number: 6497
Charles S. Maier

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Examines the failure of the Versailles system, the Pacific conflict after 1937, the continental European war of 1939–41, the vast coalition struggle of 1941–45, and the bipolar postwar settlement. Topics include the strategic demands of multifront warfare; the role of city bombing, intelligence, and partisan warfare; occupation regimes, collaboration and resistance; America’s “good war”—the politics and culture of the home fronts; war costs, including the civilian toll; postwar purges, liberation movements, and commemoration.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Historical Study B-56. The Russian Revolution

Catalog Number: 8064

Eric Lohr

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14

The Russian Revolution was one of the great events of the twentieth century. Not only did it transform life for millions living within the Russian Empire and the revolutionary Soviet regime, which replaced it after a bloody civil war, but it also polarized international politics for the rest of the century. Taking a broad definition of “revolution,” this course is not limited to the Bolshevik seizure of power in 1917. It examines the broad array of social, political, cultural, and economic “revolutions” from the late nineteenth century up to the Bolshevik consolidation of power in the early 1920s.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Historical Study B-57. The Second British Empire

Catalog Number: 6756

Susan Pedersen and T. Robert Travers

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

This course explores the course and nature of the British empire from the late 18th century until the period after World War II. Three main issues are addressed: the establishment and character of British imperial rule, the domestic political and cultural ramifications of empire, and the process of decolonization. Using essays, diaries, political records, fiction, and film, students seek to understand both the experiences of particular colonies (especially Ireland, India, and Kenya) and the consequences of such rule for Britain itself.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Historical Study B-61. The Warren Court and the Pursuit of Justice, 1953–1969

Catalog Number: 6840

Morton J. Horwitz (Law School)

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

Examines the significance of the Supreme Court during the Chief Justiceship of Earl Warren in the broader context of the development of American thought and society. Explores the basic premise that the Warren Era represented not only a major constitutional revolution but that it produced a fundamental transformation in the conception of the role of law in American society. Subjects to be studied are Brown v. Board of Education, the Civil Rights Movement, and the history of race relations; McCarthyism and civil liberties; the emergence of a right to privacy in Griswold v. Connecticut; and the “rights” revolution in jurisprudence.

Historical Study B-64. The Cuban Revolution, 1956–1971: A Self-Debate
Catalog Number: 6974
Jorge I. Domínguez
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
Focus on the insurrectionary war, the consolidation of power, Fidel Castro’s role, the role of organized labor and the peasantry, the U.S.-Cuban conflict, the alliance with the Soviet Union, the choice of economic strategy, the “remaking of human beings,” the role of intellectuals, the support for revolutions in Africa and Latin America, and the change toward “orthodox” policies. The instructor will debate himself, presenting two or more views on each issue. Readings include original documents in translation.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Historical Study B or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

Historical Study B-67. Japan’s Modern Revolution
Catalog Number: 4164
Daniel V. Botsman
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15
Examines the causes and consequences of one of the most important events in modern world history—Japan’s transformation from feudal state to imperialist power. The class begins with a consideration of samurai rule during the Tokugawa period (1600-1868) and the social changes that resulted from over two centuries without war. We then examine the impact of Japan’s forcible incorporation into a “modern world system” in the mid-19th century, the radical reforms implemented in the wake of the Meiji Restoration of 1868, and the beginning of Japanese imperialism in Asia. Discussion sections focus on a broad array of primary documents in translation.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Historical Study B-68. America and Vietnam: 1945–1975
Catalog Number: 3447
Hue-Tam Ho Tai and Ernest R. May
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
Examines modern conflicts in Vietnam and their implications for the United States from 1945–1975, from both Vietnamese and American perspectives. Seeks to provide an understanding of the complexity of the war and the ethical dilemmas it raised by examining issues ranging from the power-politics assumptions of decision makers to the personal experiences of those caught in the war. Covers both background and consequences of the war, but the main focus is on the 30-year period during which the fortunes of America and Vietnam became intertwined.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Courses in Literature and Arts aim to foster a critical understanding of artistic expression, and to exemplify the ways in which the humanities are an arena for scholarly examination and discussion. These courses illustrate and analyze what constitutes knowledge in the various fields—its varieties, forms, scope, uses and abuses, and modes of interpretation—while familiarizing students with major works, major themes, or clusters of creative achievement in particular times and places.

Literature and Arts A

Focuses on literary texts and methods of literary analysis. Courses in this area offer a variety of critical and analytical approaches to literature, and a range of responses to questions such as the following: How does literature function? How are literary genres and traditions constituted and transformed? What are the relations among author, reader, text, and the circumstances in which the text is produced? How is our reading of the literature of the past influenced by the concerns of the present?

Literature and Arts B

Introduces students to a non-literary form of expression, and offers instruction in the elements of either visual or musical understanding, in the discipline of looking or listening. In addition to studying the articulation of visual or musical forms and their meanings, courses may emphasize the relationship between artistic or musical production and the historical/cultural moment in which it takes place.

Literature and Arts C

Studies creative cultural epochs in history, and explores how works of literature and art function within a given society. Focusing on significant periods, styles, or movements, these courses describe and analyze ways in which culture is produced, interpreted, and disseminated.

Catalog Number: 7478
Maria Tatar

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
Analyzes cultural production for children in the larger context of childrearing practices, educational theories, and adult constructions of childhood. Addresses such issues as the folkloristic and literary representation of the child, the cult of childhood innocence, discipline and education, evil children, the cultivation of fantasy and imagination, canon formation, and the impossibility of children’s literature. Authors include Charles Perrault, the Brothers Grimm, Hans Christian Andersen, Oscar Wilde, John Locke, Rousseau, Charlotte Brontë, Lewis Carroll, J. M. Barrie, Roald Dahl, Maurice Sendak, William Golding, Vladimir Nabokov, and others.

Literature and Arts A-20. Classics in Christian Literature
Catalog Number: 1177
Robert Kiely

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14
An examination of selected literary forms and thematic preoccupations of post-Biblical texts in the Christian tradition. Focuses on personal representations of religious experience—the search for faith, narratives of conversion, testimonies of belief, and confessions of doubt. Explores the relationships between aesthetic form (genre, style, voice) and a variety of individual efforts to interpret and reconfigure the claims of the gospels. Authors include Augustine, Teresa of Avila, Juliana of Norwich, Martin Luther, John Donne, Gerard Manley Hopkins, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, and T.S. Eliot.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-22. Poems, Poets, Poetry
Catalog Number: 5808
Helen Vendler

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
A study of poetry as the history and science of feeling: readings in major lyric poems of England and America. Emphasis on problems of invention and execution, and on the poet’s choice of genre, stance, context, and structure. Other topics to be raised include the process of composition, the situating of a poem in its historical and poetic contexts, the notion of a poet’s development, the lyric as dramatic speech, and the experimental lyric of the 20th century.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Studies Dante’s Divine Comedy as an enduring work of poetry, a major text of the European literary tradition, and the most comprehensive synthesis of medieval culture. Largely based on textual analysis, the course looks at how literature works in relation to, on the one hand, the language and rhetorical tradition in which it is expressed and, on the other, the culture which it expresses and interprets. Particular attention is paid to the poem’s central philosophical concerns, from the role of the individual in history and society to the relationship between progress and happiness, and between politics and morality.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-35. Tragic Drama and Human Conflict

Catalog Number: 0172

Bennett Simon (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

Introduces the student to the use of psychoanalytic perspectives in enhancing the understanding and appreciation of tragic drama. Focuses on tragedy as a study of the family, emphasizing the problem of how the family at war with itself can procreate and continue. Also discusses the form of tragic drama, particularly with regard to dialogue and storytelling within the plays. Readings include ancient, Shakespearean, and modern tragedies, as well as secondary sources that assist in understanding psychoanalytic concepts. Films and live performances supplement the readings.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-40. Shakespeare, The Early Plays

Catalog Number: 0176

Marjorie Garber

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

The early comedies, tragedies, and histories, considered in the context of the origins of the English stage and the conventions of Elizabethan drama. Particular attention paid to Shakespeare’s development as a dramatist, and to poetic expression, thematic design, stagecraft, and character portrayal in plays.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-41. Shakespeare, The Later Plays

Catalog Number: 1624

Marjorie Garber

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
The late comedies, tragedies, and romances, with some attention to the prevailing literary traditions of the Jacobean period. Particular attention paid to Shakespeare’s development as a dramatist, and to poetic expression, thematic design, stagecraft, and character portrayal in the plays.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-48. The Modern Jewish Experience in Literature

Catalog Number: 1250

Ruth R. Wisse

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Studies works in different languages and genres that variously interpret the experience of Jews in this century. Explores such issues as what information literature can provide, the relation of language and historical context to artistic strategy, and personal and national perspectives in narrative. Authors include Sholem Aleichem, Franz Kafka, Isaac Babel, Isaac Bashevis Singer, Shmuel Yosef Agnon, Primo Levi, Saul Bellow, and Cynthia Ozick.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-58. Ethnicity, Modernity, and Modernism in 20th-Century Literature, Art, and Culture

Catalog Number: 0287

Werner Sollors

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

Is the stress on ethnic diversity a form of resistance to, or a feature of modernity? How has aesthetic production been affected by the horrors of modernity, by violence and genocide? What is the relationship of modernism to democracy, fascism, and communism? These questions, complemented by ethnic theory, inform discussions of such texts as The Life Stories of Undistinguished Americans and such authors as Mark Twain, Gertrude Stein, Jean Toomer, Eugene O’Neill, Henry Roth, William Faulkner, Hisaye Yamamoto, LeRoi Jones/Amiri Baraka, Maxine Hong Kingston, Richard Rodriguez, and Gerald Vizenor.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-64. American Literature and the American Environment

Catalog Number: 4783

Lawrence Buell

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 9, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 11

A study of selected traditions in American writing that have been formed by perceptions of the American environment. Topics include the cult of wilderness; white images of the American Indian and vice versa; the pastoral, agrarian, and natural history traditions in American prose; and literary responses to urbanization and environmental endangerment. Readings range from 17th-century Puritan texts to contemporary works, with primary emphasis on narrative and nonfictional prose, but some works of poetry are included as well.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
[Literature and Arts A-68. Poets and Poetry in the Celtic Literary Tradition]
Catalog Number: 3957
Patrick K. Ford
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13
Examines the role of poets (i.e., “seers, prophets, satirists, singers of praise”) in the development of the Celtic literary tradition from antiquity through the Middle Ages and beyond. The focus is on the social function of literature, broadly defined, in the Celtic world, and the ways in which poets used their powers of praise and satire in the maintenance of social and political power. Of especial importance is the mythology of poetry, those narratives that tell how wisdom and poetry were first acquired and those that promulgate the magical powers of praise and satire.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-70. The Book of Job and the Joban Tradition
Catalog Number: 7991
Peter Machinist
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
An examination of the biblical book of Job along with related texts, ancient, medieval, and modern, that allow us to establish the literary and philosophical traditions in which Job was composed and the literary and philosophical legacy it has left. Particular focus on the ways the texts play off one another in literary form and expression and in their treatment of such themes as divine justice, human piety, and the nature of the divine-human encounter.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts A-72. The Enlightenment Invention of the Modern Self
Catalog Number: 7800
Leo Damrosch
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15
A study of major 18th-century autobiographical, fictional, and poetic texts that explore the paradoxes of the modern self at a time when traditional religious and philosophical explanations were breaking down. Writers to be read include Mme. de Lafayette, Boswell, Voltaire, Gibbon, Diderot, Rousseau, Laclos, Franklin, Goethe, Wollstonecraft, and Blake.

[Literature and Arts A-74. Other Worlds: Utopia and Anti-Utopia in Central and Eastern Europe]
Catalog Number: 3089
Alfred Thomas
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Analyzes the cultural, political, and philosophical ramifications of central and eastern European utopia and anti-utopia. Includes discussion of such seminal examples of Czech, German, Polish, and Russian science fiction and film as Capek’s robot play R.U.R., Lang’s Metropolis, Lem’s Solaris (as well as Tarkovsky’s Russian film version), and Zamyatin’s We.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. All readings in English.
Literature and Arts A-76. Five Japanese Portraits
Catalog Number: 8909
Jay Rubin
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Exploring a broad variety of modern novels and stories in addition to plays, poems, and chronicles from earlier ages, the course will present five archetypal “portraits” developed in the medieval Noh theater—god, man, woman, lunatic, and demon—and trace their variations in texts and films treating themes of celebration, war, memory, madness, and awe.

Literature and Arts A-78. The Vikings and the Nordic Heroic Tradition
Catalog Number: 7919
Stephen A. Mitchell
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
Examines the heroic legacy resulting from the historical events in northern Europe A.D. 800 to A.D. 1100, concentrating on the medieval Icelandic sagas. The course focuses on how these texts present their heroes as warriors, kings, poets, outlaws, and adventurers—as well as, to quote one 19th-century scholar, “farmers at fisticuffs.” The course considers several specific heroic traditions, such as the “Bear’s Son Tale” and the “Dragon-Slayer,” over time, and reviews how the viking image is received and shaped in later periods (e.g., the poetry of 19th-century Denmark, the art of Victorian England, the scholarship and pseudo-scholarship of our contemporary world). The elusive question of the North American colony of “Vinland” as a meaningful component of this legacy is examined in both its scientific and imaginative contexts.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B

[Literature and Arts B-10. Art and Visual Culture: Introduction to the Historical Study of Art and Architecture]

Catalog Number: 0149

Henri Zerner

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14

A general introduction to an informed and critical experience of art and architecture, using specific cases to introduce concepts by which the visual arts can be analyzed and understood. Examples are taken from all times and places; most of them are recognized important works. While not attempting to cover the history of art chronologically, the course presents different approaches to art, develops visual discrimination, and examines how visual culture affects us and has functioned in different times and places.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature and Arts B-20. Designing the American City: Civic Aspirations and Urban Form]

Catalog Number: 3243

Alex Krieger (Design School)

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15

An interpretive look at the American city in terms of changing attitudes toward urban life. City and suburb are experienced as the product of design and planning decisions informed by cultural and economic forces, and in relationship to utopian and pragmatic efforts to reinterpret urban traditions in search of American alternatives. Topics include: persistent ideals such as the single-family home; attitudes toward public and private space; the rise of suburbs and suburban sprawl; cycles of disinvestment and renewed interest in urban centers; and impacts of mobility and technology on settlement patterns.

[Literature and Arts B-21. The Images of Alexander the Great]

Catalog Number: 2267

David Gordon Mitten

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

The images of Alexander the Great are examined within various cultural contexts ranging from 4th-century B.C.E. Greece to 20th-century America. Various art forms (including sculpture, coins, and paintings) illuminate Alexander’s personality and career and the development of his legend. Course explores how images reveal the complex relationship between a strong individual personality and artistic conventions. Special attention is paid to the importance of political imagery and how the images of Alexander reflect changing ideas of rulership. Where, if anywhere, is the “truth” in these images? Original objects in the Sackler collection and Boston Museum of Fine Arts are emphasized.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B-27. Majesty and Mythology in African Art

Catalog Number: 5822

Suzanne P. Blier

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

Examines the royal arts of Africa, at once providing an overview of key themes in royal African art and discussing what these arts reveal about the nature of kingship generally. The diverse ways that African rulers have employed art and architecture to define individual and state identity are considered in the context of key traditions from West, Central, Eastern, and Southern Africa. Among the topics to be discussed are palace architecture, royal regalia, status prerogatives, women of the court, divine kingship, state cosmology, royal burial, enthronement ceremonies, dynastic history, and the importance of art in diplomacy and war.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B-31. The Portrait

Catalog Number: 4240

Henri Zerner

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14

The most famous of all works of art is a portrait. Sculptors and painters have made likenesses of individuals since the ancient Kingdom of Egypt. The portrait gives visual form to changing conceptions of individual existence, and its history can make us more conscious of how time-bound, how culturally determined is our own sense of self. The course examines how artistic conventions are established to give visual and tangible form to intuitions, feelings, and thoughts. Examples taken from a variety of periods with greater emphasis on the Western tradition from the Renaissance to the present.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B-35. The Age of Sultan Suleyman the Magnificent: Art, Architecture, and Ceremonial at the Ottoman Court

Catalog Number: 1678

Gülru Necipoğlu-Kafadar

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

“Golden Age” of Ottoman-Islamic visual culture in the 16th century, considered within its ceremonial and historical contexts, with focus on architecture, miniature painting, and the decorative arts. The urban transformation of Byzantine Constantinople into Ottoman Istanbul, the formation of an imperial architectural style, and artistic contacts with contemporary European and Islamic courts are stressed. Art and architecture of Safavid Iran and Mughal India are considered as a comparative backdrop. Themes include the role of centralized court ateliers in propagating canons of taste, the emphasis on decorative arts in a culture that rejected monumental sculpture and painting, and representations of the East by European artists in the Orientalist mode.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B-44. The Architecture of Capital and Court in Western Europe, 1600–1800
Catalog Number: 3767
Alice G. Jarrard
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
Examines architectural works in dialogue with the social, cultural, political, and technological forces that shape them. Rather than simply surveying the works of architects including Bernini, Borromini, Guarini, Juvarra, Piranesi, Le Vau, Mansart, Ledoux, Hawksmoor, and Wren, we will approach their buildings and projects by studying selective historical moments in Italy, France, England, and Spain. Themes considered: the creation of the capital city; dialectics between urban and pastoral modes; innovation and the interpretation of the past; printmaking and architectural publication; and the audiences and ritual uses of architecture.

Literature and Arts B-46. Art in the Wake of the Mongol Conquests: Genghis Khan and His Successors
Catalog Number: 6029
David J. Roxburgh
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
Genghis Khan’s legacy entailed the destruction of social and cultural order. Paradoxically, his empire forged a dynamic relationship between nomadic and sedentary societies and his successors fostered a climate of intense cultural activity in art and architecture, producing complex fusions of artistic traditions between the Middle East and China. Key works of art and architecture are studied as a process of cultural assimilation, as constructions of an evolving political structure and social order in the aftermath of the Mongol conquests (ca. 1256-1506). Themes include patronage; production; art as political and ideological tool; tensions between nomadic and sedentary sources of prestige and legitimation.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B-48. Chinese Imaginary Space
Catalog Number: 9186
Eugene Wang
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
The course examines visual representations of imaginary space, i.e., alternative worlds or heightened modes of existence, such as heaven, paradise, numinous afterlife world, utopian land, immortal islets, fictive frontier, and mindscape, etc., as they are evoked in Chinese tombs, cave shrines, sarcophagus design, scroll paintings, calligraphy, gardens, architecture, and films. Modes of analysis are introduced to understand how different media effectively conjure up these other worlds and spaces. The course also explores how these imaginary worlds displace social reality and cultural aspirations. The ultimate goal is to enable the student to appreciate the crucial role of space in the making of visual culture.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature and Arts B-51. First Nights: Five Performance Premieres]

Catalog Number: 0144

Thomas Forrest Kelly

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

A study of five famous pieces of music, both as timeless works of art and as moments of cultural history. Close attention is given to techniques of musical listening, and to the details of the first performance of each work, with a consideration of the problems involved in assembling such a picture. Works studied are Beethoven, Symphony no. 9; Berlioz, Symphonie fantastique; Stravinsky, Le sacre du printemps; Handel, Messiah; Monteverdi, Orfeo. The course concludes with the first performance of a new work especially commissioned for this course.

[Literature and Arts B-54. Chamber Music from Mozart to Ravel]

Catalog Number: 1487

Robert D. Levin

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

Examines selected masterworks of chamber music from the 1770s, when the distinctive timbres of Baroque instruments shaped composers’ imaginations, to the beginning of the 20th century. Follows parallel developments in the technology of instrument making and growing performer virtuosity. Style and rhetoric are central concerns, and attention is given to the evolution in interpretative style through listening to historic, as well as recent, recordings. Selections from the assigned works are demonstrated in live performances.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature and Arts B-63. Bach in His Time and Through the Centuries]

Catalog Number: 1520

Christoph Wolff

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

A study of the music of J.S. Bach in various contexts. The discussion focuses on selected vocal and instrumental compositions of Bach (cantatas, motets, oratorios, concertos, sonatas, suites, preludes, and fugues) with particular attention to style, genre, and the music of major contemporaries. Beyond this, the encyclopedic nature of Bach’s creative output, which renders him one of the most seminal figures in the history of music, lends itself to an examination of his relationship to musical traditions from the Middle Ages through the Baroque as well as his influence on compositional techniques and aesthetics from the 18th through the 20th centuries.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature and Arts B-64. The Symphonic Century: Orchestral Music from 1820 to 1914]

Catalog Number: 7707

Reinhold Brinkmann

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

The theory of the symphony reflected the aesthetics of the sublime, and the symphonic genres included works of extraordinary dimensions and complexity. The “symphonic intent” has always been to present in music the main ideas and concerns of people and society. Mahler: “To me, symphony means constructing a world with all technical means at one’s disposal.” Focus: the “social character” of symphonies; their function as “building society”; public dimension and institutional aspects; the role of the orchestra and, in particular: to understand important and challenging works by Schubert, Mendelssohn, Berlioz, Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Dvorák, Mahler, and Ives.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B-65. Music in Fin-de-siècle Vienna: The Origins of Modernism
Catalog Number: 7260
Reinhold Brinkmann
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

As a means to understand (through guided listening and its reflection) basic principles and major artistic ideas of 20th-century music in general, this course will offer a demonstration and discussion of a “new music” that originated in Vienna after 1900: music-historical place, aesthetics, genres, composers, and single works of the so-called Second Viennese School. Representative compositions by Mahler, Schoenberg, Webern, and Berg, but also by Johann Strauss, Jr., will be studied in some detail. Special attention: historical background, sociocultural conditions, and interdisciplinary context (visual arts, literature, criticism, philosophy, science).

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts B-78. Soundscapes: Exploring Music in a Changing World
Catalog Number: 2093
Kay Kaufman Shelemay
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

Many musical traditions at the turn of the 21st century cross geographic boundaries. Nowhere are diverse music traditions more prominently represented in public performance and maintained in private practice than in North America, where centuries of immigration and an increasingly multiethic population have given rise to a complex musical environment. “Soundscapes” explores a cross-section of the different musical styles that coexist and interact in today’s society, examining their relationship to their historical homelands and to their present-day settings.

Literature and Arts B-80. The Swing Era
Catalog Number: 1899
Robert D. Levin
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

Examines American jazz from the early 1930s—by which time the migration of leading musicians from New Orleans and Kansas City to Chicago, New York, and other metropolitan centers precipitated an evolution from the earlier Dixieland style—to the mid-1940s and the emergence of bebop. The essence of this period was swing—an elusive synthesis of foot-tapping rhythmic vitality with rhapsodic, soaring melodic invention. Investigates the relationship between arrangements and improvisation by comparing selected alternate takes. Considers sociological issues and the relationship of swing-era jazz to classical music and popular song, to place swing’s achievements into a broader historical and musical perspective.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts C

[Literature and Arts C-14. The Concept of the Hero in Greek Civilization]
Catalog Number: 3915

Gregory Nagy

Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

The true “hero” of this course is the logos or “word” of logical reasoning, as activated by Socratic dialogue. The logos of dialogue requires careful thinking, realized in close reading and reflective writing. The last “word” in the course will come from Plato’s memories of Socrates’ last days. These memories depend on a thorough understanding of heroic concepts in all their historical varieties throughout Greek civilization. This course leads to such an understanding through dialogues, guiding the attentive reader through many ancient Greek Classics, including works by Homer, Hesiod, Sappho, Alcman, Pindar, Theognis, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Herodotus, and Plato.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts C-18. Hindu Myth, Image, and Pilgrimage
Catalog Number: 7384

Diana L. Eck

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

An exploration of Hindu myths, images, and pilgrimages in the context of classical and modern Hindu culture. Studies the stories of the gods of India: Vishnu, Krishna, Shiva, and Devi; the heroes and heroines of the Ramayana and the Mahabharata; the temples and visual images of the gods and heroes in the classical and folk traditions; and the pilgrimages that link this mythological and artistic complex to the mountains, rivers, and cities of India.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Literature and Arts C or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

Literature and Arts C-20. The Hero of Irish Myth and Saga
Catalog Number: 7817

Tomás Ó Cathasaigh

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

A study of the ways in which the hero is represented in early Irish sources, especially in the saga literature. The texts reflect the ideology and concerns of a society which had been converted to Christianity, but continued to draw on its Indo-European and Celtic heritage. The biographies of the Ulster hero, Cú Chulainn, of his divine father, Lug, and of certain king-heroes are studied in depth. The wisdom literature, and archaeological and historical evidence will be taken into account.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Literature and Arts C-22. European Culture in the Middle Ages

Catalog Number: 2020

Jan Ziolkowski

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

Studies the culture—literary, artistic, and musical—that was produced and disseminated in the Middle Ages through the fusion of classical education with Christian scriptures and liturgy. Examines major authors and texts in which this culture took shape and expressed itself (such as Augustine, Song of Roland, Chrétien de Troyes, Tristan, and Dante’s Inferno). Relates texts to art, especially manuscript illumination.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts C-25. The Medieval Stage

Catalog Number: 5114

Eckehard Simon

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

Case studies of major plays from medieval Europe (mainly France and England) and how they were staged in their original settings (churches, marketplaces, streets). Examines theater as worship and revelry in monasteries and cathedrals, as an expression of emerging town culture, and as a mass medium of religious instruction. Explores the architecture of theater spaces, different stage types, the “theater” of medieval art, and the role of music. Illustrated lectures. If there is interest in sufficient number, students will do research on and stage a medieval play.

[Literature and Arts C-28. Icon—Ritual—Text: Reading the Culture of Medieval Rus’]

Catalog Number: 2798

Michael S. Flier

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

An introduction to the culture of the medieval East Slavs, precursors of the Russians, Ukrainians, and Belarusians. Exemplars of icon and fresco painting, architecture, ritual, music, folklore, and literature are analyzed in historical and social context for clues to the evolution of an apocalyptic worldview, extending from the Christianization of Rus’ in the 10th century to the advent of Peter the Great at the end of the 17th century.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. All readings in English.

[Literature and Arts C-30. How and What Russia Learned to Read: The Rise of Russian Literary Culture]

Catalog Number: 7952

William Mills Todd III

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

An exploration in the Russian imperial period (18th-19th centuries) of the development of a secular literary tradition. Focus on institutions of literature, issues of literature and ideology, and the refraction of cultural problems in literary form. Reading of novels by Pushkin, Lermontov, Gogol, Turgenev, Dostoevsky, and Tolstoy in social and historical context.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. No knowledge of Russian required.

Literature and Arts C-37. The Bible and Its Interpreters
Catalog Number: 1255
James L. Kugel
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6
Seeks to acquaint students with the principal parts of the Hebrew Bible and to provide some exposure to the different ways in which the Bible has been read and interpreted in various periods, from late antiquity to modern times. To achieve this, the course concentrates on a group of central biblical figures whose stories are examined in the context of ancient Israelite history and society, and then compared with later, often fanciful, elaborations of these same biblical tales by Jewish and Christian interpreters.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts C-40. The Chinese Literati
Catalog Number: 5226
Peter K. Bol
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13
Examines from literary, philosophical, and historical perspectives the creation in later imperial China of an enduring national culture, which flourished through dynastic change and foreign conquest. Particular attention is given to the role of the literati and their work as poets, essayists, novelists, painters, moral philosophers, and political thinkers. Themes include the relation of culture to political authority, the search for grounds for individual autonomy, the literary and artistic representation of the self, growing ambivalence toward political service, and the rise of individualism. Introduces Chinese approaches to interpreting literary, artistic, and philosophical works.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Literature and Arts C or Historical Study B, but not both.

Literature and Arts C-42. Constructing the Samurai
Catalog Number: 3743
Harold Bolitho
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Examines the rise and fall of Japan’s warrior class, and of the bushido ethos. Concentrates on two interrelated themes: the historical reality, and the construction of a mythology—both positive and negative—in Japanese popular culture and the Western imagination. Themes will include warfare, training, religion, values, art, literature, and family life. Visual materials will be used extensively.
Note: For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Literature and Arts C or Historical Study B, but not both.

Literature and Arts C-43. The Medieval Court
Catalog Number: 5794
Eckehard Simon
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

In the High Middle Ages (1100–1250), the European aristocracy created a court culture that became a permanent part of the Western heritage. We study this civilization by reading its greatest literature: the Roland epic, lyrics of the troubadours and minnesingers, the tales of Marie de France, the Arthurian and grail-quest romances of Chrétien and Wolfram, Gottfried’s Tristan. To probe the complex interrelationship between literature and life, we look, in slide lectures, at the historical context: feudal society, castles and castle life, women and marriage, “courtly love,” knights and chivalry, court art, major courts, notable lives.

[Literature and Arts C-47. Language, Literature, and Power in the Early Modern Hispanic World (1492–1700)]
Catalog Number: 2205
Mary Gaylord
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Studies relations between literature, historiography, and politics during Spain’s imperial expansion. Examines writing as program and tool for conquest and as script for the encounters with an American “Other.” Considers ways the New World experience reshaped European thinking about human nature, heroic identity, monarchy, utopias, and the powers of spoken and written words. Sources include legal and diplomatic documents, texts by Machiavelli, Erasmus, More, Montaigne, Columbus, Cortés, Vitoria, Las Casas, Díaz del Castillo, Cabeza de Vaca, Inca Garcilaso, Cervantes, Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Readings in English translation or in original languages.

Literature and Arts C-51. Revolution and Reaction: The Rise and Fall of the Russian Avant-Garde
Catalog Number: 6984
John E. Malmstad
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

An introduction to the radical transformations of Russian culture between 1890–1930, with particular attention to the “isms,” avant-garde and otherwise, that shaped society and the arts during a period of rapid modernization and experimentation: Symbolism, Futurism, Cubo-Futurism, Suprematism, Constructivism. Focuses on developments in literature, art, music, ballet, and film, their interaction and relation to the historical context.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. All readings in English. For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Literature and Arts C or Foreign Cultures, but not both.

Literature and Arts C-55. Surrealism: Avant-Garde Art and Politics between the Wars
Catalog Number: 7818
Susan R. Suleiman
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

An overview of Surrealism in the context of European culture and politics of the 20th century. Focus on major works of writers, artists, and filmmakers associated with the Surrealist movement, chiefly in the period between the two world wars; some attention also paid to earlier works and movements, and to the influence of and reactions to Surrealism after 1945. Discussion of works by Breton, Aragon, Tzara, Lautréamont, Artaud, Eluard, Carrington, Bunuel and Dali, Dulac, Magritte, Tanning, Ernst, Man Ray, Bellmer, and others.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Literature and Arts C-61. The Rome of Augustus

Catalog Number: 1101

R. J. Tarrant

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14

Roman culture and society in a period of radical transformation, the lifetime of the first emperor, Augustus (63 B.C.E.–14 C.E.). Focuses on the interplay between a new set of political realities and developments in literature, the visual arts, and the organization of private and social life. Readings (all in translation) from Catullus, Cicero, Virgil, Horace, Livy, Propertius, Ovid, and Tacitus, with special attention to the two great masterworks of the period, Virgil’s Aeneid and Ovid’s Metamorphoses. Most lectures illustrated with slides.

Note: For students under the Core requirement, counts as either Literature and Arts C or Historical Study B, but not both.

[Literature and Arts C-67. The German Colonial Imagination]

Catalog Number: 9369

Judith Ryan

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15

Representations of German colonialism in fiction and film. Consideration of the following topics: Bismarck’s colonial policies; late 19th-century critiques of colonialism; controversies about the notion of the noble colonist; turn-of-the-century legal debates; National Socialism and its attempts to revive the idea of German colonialism; recent critiques of German colonialism.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

Literature and Arts C-69. Pompeii

Catalog Number: 8499

Rabun Taylor

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

Buried in an eruption in 79 A.D. and rediscovered only in the mid-18th century, the towns of Pompeii and Herculaneum offer modern visitors a panoramic view of Roman life. The forum, temples, baths, houses, shops, theaters, and streets weave a tattered tapestry still saturated with meaning today. Our task is to recover some of that meaning through the refractory lens of our modern minds. Using ancient literary texts and various analytical approaches, we will sample the rich visual and material legacy of Mt. Vesuvius, seeking through artifacts—some magnificent and others merely interesting—to recollect a way of life.

Moral Reasoning

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The common aim of courses in Moral Reasoning is to discuss significant and recurrent questions of choice and value that arise in human experience. They seek to acquaint students with the important traditions of thought that have informed such choices in the past and to enlarge the student’s awareness of how people have understood the nature of the virtuous life. The courses are intended to show that it is possible to reflect reasonably about such matters as justice, obligation, citizenship, loyalty, courage, and personal responsibility.

Moral Reasoning 17. Democracy and Inequality

Catalog Number: 6085
Harvey C. Mansfield

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

In what ways are we equal, in what ways unequal or different? Which are more essential? How much should moral reasoning be guided by our equality, how much by inequality? Can democracy do justice to both? These questions are considered and answered by reading Plato’s Republic, Hobbes’ Leviathan, and Tocqueville’s Democracy in America: three beautiful books presenting the best argument for aristocracy, the most realistic basis for equality, and the best analysis of democracy.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 22. Justice

Catalog Number: 3753
Michael J. Sandel

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

A critical analysis of selected classical and contemporary theories of justice, with discussion of present-day practical applications. Topics include affirmative action, income distribution, surrogate motherhood, free speech vs. hate speech, debates about rights (human rights and property rights), arguments for and against equality, debates about political obligation and the claims of community. Readings include Aristotle, Locke, Kant, Mill, and Rawls.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 33. Issues in Ethics

Catalog Number: 2255
Thomas M. Scanlon, Jr.

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 9, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 11
Is pleasure the only ultimate good? Are individuals’ preferences the only basis for assessing the quality of their lives? What makes acts wrong? Is moral blame applicable only to agents who have free will? Should we accept moral relativism? Readings mainly from contemporary philosophers.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 40. Confucian Humanism: Self-Cultivation and Moral Community
Catalog Number: 0466
Wei-Ming Tu
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14

Explores a style of moral reasoning informed by Confucian humanism, which takes self-cultivation as the basis for the development of a moral community. Focuses on the perception of the self as a center of relationships and the conviction that society ought to be a community of trust. Although our main concern is to understand Confucian ethics as a form of “virtue-centered” morality, attention is also given to a critical analysis of the limits of Confucian ethics in light of contemporary discussions of such issues as human rights and political authority.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 50. The Public and the Private in Politics, Morality, and Law
Catalog Number: 1262
Glyn Morgan
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

The line between what is considered “private” and what belongs to the “public” varies culturally, historically, and socially. The aim of the class is to introduce students to central issues in Western moral, legal, and political thought by examining the ways that this distinction has been drawn and justified by major thinkers. The class also discusses a number of contemporary controversies concerning the public/private divide, including abortion, contraception, private schools, racial and genetic profiling, and cyberspace. Readings will include Plato, Augustine, Hobbes, Rousseau, John Stuart Mill, Robert Nozick, John Rawls, and Michel Foucault.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 54. “If There is No God, All is Permitted”: Theism and Moral Reasoning
Catalog Number: 1321
Jay M. Harris
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

For centuries various Jewish and Christian thinkers have asserted that moral judgment is impossible without some concept of the deity. So convincing were they that one important Russian author of the 19th century was led to exclaim, “if there is no God, all is permitted.” In more recent times some thinkers have challenged this assumption, and insisted that removing (or reducing) the role of God is indispensable to proper moral discourse. This course will examine the ways in which a concept of God has informed Western moral discourse, trying to help students engage the literature as they confront the basic question, why might one think “if there is no God, all is permitted”? and why one might think if there is a God, human moral achievement is impossible.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 56. Self, Freedom, and Existence
Catalog Number: 6507
Richard Moran
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 2, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7
How is human freedom possible? Does acting freely mean acting in accordance with reasons or acting arbitrarily, or neither? Are values chosen, discovered, or invented? How is self-knowledge possible and how is it different from the knowledge of others? Specific issues to be discussed include: self-deception and bad faith; the nature of freedom and autonomy; subjectivity and our relation to others; rationality and irrationality. Readings, which will provide an introduction to a few of the major texts of Existentialism, will be drawn from Kant, Sartre, Dostoevsky, and various contemporary writers.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 58. Slavery in Western Political Thought
Catalog Number: 8892
Richard Tuck
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
The ownership of one man by another is an obvious and profound affront to many of our fundamental ideas about morality, and yet for much of human history it was defended—and often by the greatest moral and political philosophers. How was this possible? The course will trace the theme of slavery through the arguments of political theorists from the ancient world to the present and will study the way in which the rejection of slavery became intellectually possible. These theoretical arguments will be considered in the context of the changing history of slavery as an institution.

Moral Reasoning 60. Reason and Morality
Catalog Number: 9557
Melissa Barry
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15
Can our moral views be defended by rational argument? Or must we resort to mere assertion and counterassertion when trying to defend moral positions? Are there moral facts? If we can reason about morality, what might such reasoning look like? We shall consider several influential accounts of the nature of moral reasoning, and Nietzsche’s powerful challenge to the very idea of reasoning about morality. Readings include works by Hobbes, Kant, Mill, Nietzsche, and some contemporary authors.

Moral Reasoning 62. Reasoning In and About the Law
Catalog Number: 0286
Michael Blake
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

How is law related to morality? How is it distinct? Do we have an obligation to obey the law? What, if anything, justifies the imposition of legal punishment? These issues, and related issues dealing with the analysis and justification of legal practices, will be examined using the writings of philosophers, judges, and legal theorists.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 64. Ethics and Everyday Life: Work and Family
Catalog Number: 7803
Russell Muirhead
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

Analyzes the relation of moral considerations to two central arenas of everyday life, work and family. Also assesses how these in turn relate to politics. Topics include the work ethic, rival conceptions of the family, marriage and its public recognition, the public-private distinction, the division of labor and gender, independence, and obligation. Readings drawn from classic and contemporary thinkers in moral and political thought, including Aristotle, Augustine, Milton, Locke, Marx, and Weber.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Catalog Number: 7778
Susanna Siegel
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

An examination of moral questions that arise in the context of social protest in the United States during the 20th century, including the central question of political philosophy: How can political authority be justified? After studying the Attica prison revolt of 1971, we will consider the following questions: Is there an obligation to obey the law? What, if any, are the moral limits to this obligation? Can civil disobedience be justified, and does it always need to be? What should be the social function of punishment? Texts include classic excerpts from Plato, Hobbes, Rawls, and Marx.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Moral Reasoning 68. Legalism: Ruly and Unruly Thought and Practices
Catalog Number: 1631
Nancy Lipton Rosenblum
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

“Legalism” refers to rule-making, rule-following, and legal reasoning. This course considers the omnipresence of legalism in every aspect of our lives—from criminal due process to Harvard course requirements to the rules made and enforced by voluntary associations like the Boy Scouts. We will explore: the distinctive characteristics of legalistic modes of thought; moral justifications offered for legalism; moral objections to legalism and the power of romantic resistance to rule-making and rule-following; and what happens when the various systems of law under which we live conflict. Readings from literature, court cases, and moral and political theory.

Moral Reasoning 70. Rights
Catalog Number: 6413
Sharon R. Krause
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
This course investigates the meaning and moral significance of rights in contemporary liberal societies and considers how a rights-based ethic affects our broader understanding of morality and political life. We shall compare different philosophical justifications for rights within the tradition of classical liberalism, examine several classical and contemporary critiques of rights, and engage in current debates in ethics and politics as to the scope, content, and application of rights in the United States and in the international context. Readings are drawn from classical and contemporary thinkers in moral and political philosophy.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Departmental course that satisfies the Moral Reasoning requirement

The following departmental course may be taken to meet the Moral Reasoning requirement. This course is not necessarily designed for a general audience; it may assume prior experience or more than could be expected of students seeing the subject for the first time.

Philosophy 174. Recent Ethical Theory

Quantitative Reasoning

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The aim of courses in this area is to introduce students to mathematical and quantitative modes of thought. Some courses emphasize theoretical aspects of mathematics or statistical reasoning: a course on number theory or deductive logic, for example, would fall under this heading. Other courses in this area explore the application of quantitative methods to questions in the natural sciences, social sciences, or humanities: courses on making decisions under uncertainty, or on analyzing demographic trends are examples of such applications.

Quantitative Reasoning 20. Computers and Computing
Catalog Number: 5430 Enrollment: Limited to 60.
William H. Bossert
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 9, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
An algorithm is an unambiguously stated procedure for accomplishing a specific task on the basis of the given information in a given environment. The term is often associated with computer programs. The course will examine a number of algorithms with regard to their design and analysis of their relative efficiency. A central theme is the close interaction between the form of an algorithm and the representation and format of information which it works. Students will learn to design and implement programs of modest complexity in a modern programming... language.

Note: Previous programming experience is not required.

Quantitative Reasoning 22. Deductive Logic

Catalog Number: 2508

Warren Goldfarb

The concepts and principles of symbolic logic: valid and invalid arguments, logical relations of statements and their basis in structural features of those statements, the analysis of complex statements of ordinary discourse to uncover their structure, the use of a symbolic language to display logical structure and to facilitate methods for assessing arguments. Analysis of reasoning with truth-functions (“and”, “or”, “not”, “if...then”) and with quantifiers (“all”, “some”). Attention to formal languages and axiomatics, and systems for logical deduction. Throughout, both the theory underlying the norms of valid reasoning and applications to particular problems will be investigated.

Quantitative Reasoning 24. Health Economics

Catalog Number: 4667

David M. Cutler

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Analysis of the medical care system is integral to a number of disciplines, including economics, philosophy, sociology, demography, and statistics, as well as four professional schools (medicine, public health, law, and public policy). This course uses quantitative methods to examine the organization and operation of the medical system. The course will cover the medical and non-medical determinants of health; markets for medical care services and health insurance; and proposed reforms of medical care. Methods of analysis will include graphical analysis, algebra, survey design, and use of secondary data. Techniques will be developed in class and section. Use of a computer spreadsheet is required and will be demonstrated in class and section.

Quantitative Reasoning 26. Decisions, Games, and Negotiation

Catalog Number: 4123

Daniel L. Goroff and Howard Raiffa (Business School)

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

This course develops quantitative reasoning skills that help individuals and groups make better choices. We study decisions whose results are perfectly predictable as well as situations with incomplete information, uncertainty about the future, or outcomes that depend on other people’s actions. Based on examples that range from everyday career conundrums to the politics of public policy, and from household financial strategies to professional school cases, our discussions cover: the mathematics of ideal rationality; the pragmatic use of spreadsheets, data, heuristics, and other tools; and behavioral research on surprising ways that people estimate, wager, and bargain in practice.

Note: High school algebra and willingness to think hard are prerequisites.
Quantitative Reasoning 28. The Magic of Numbers
Catalog Number: 4764
Benedict H. Gross and Joseph D. Harris
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
This course will explore the beauty and mystery of mathematics through a study of the patterns and properties of the natural numbers 1, 2, 3, .... We will discuss various special classes of numbers, like Fibonacci numbers, factorials, and binomial coefficients, and the many ways they arise in mathematics. We’ll also investigate the distribution of prime numbers and discuss coding systems based on modular arithmetic.
Note: We will assume no mathematical background beyond high school algebra. Emphasis will be placed on discovery through conjecture and experimentation.

[Quantitative Reasoning 32. Uncertainty and Statistical Reasoning]
Catalog Number: 2228
Carl N. Morris
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Individuals continually must make decisions under uncertainty in their personal and in their professional lives. This course develops probability as the appropriate language for describing uncertainty, and it shows how statistical data and planned studies can be crucial when evaluating probabilities and associated risks. It will help students understand and discover how people think about uncertainty and risk. The course will improve each student’s ability to handle uncertainty, and so to make better decisions. It introduces concepts and the language of probability and statistics. Students will review and assess probabilities and statistics developed for and reported in the media, science, industry, law, medicine, and government.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Quantitative Reasoning 33. Causal Inference
Catalog Number: 0424
Donald B. Rubin
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Do private schools do a better job than their public counterparts? Does the existence of the QRR improve the quantitative literacy of the undergraduates at Harvard? Such questions dominate many decision-making processes, but only rarely are their “answers” based on the careful collection and analysis of empirical data. This course confronts such causal questions and how to reach inferentially valid answers that summarize uncertainty using formal probabilistic statements.

[Quantitative Reasoning 36. Statistics and Public Policy]
Catalog Number: 7412
Christopher Winship
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Data, or more accurately statistics calculated from data, are used ubiquitously in the support of various public policy claims. The purpose of this course is to examine the statistical methods used in making such claims and understand their potential strengths and weaknesses. The course examines Sampling, Characteristics of Distributions, Basic Probability, Statistical Reference, Measurement and Scaling, Measures of Association, Experiments, and Quasi-Experiments. The last part of the course will focus on the problem of making causal inferences from empirical data. The goal of the course is to acquire a clear, conceptual understanding of methods as opposed to the ability to manipulate formulas.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Quantitative Reasoning 37. Surveys and Statistics in Sociology]
Catalog Number: 8610
Peter V. Marsden

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduces quantitative analysis in social research, including principles of research design and the use of empirical evidence, particularly from social surveys. Descriptive and inferential statistics, contingency table analysis, and regression analysis. Emphasis on analysis of data and presentation of results in research reports.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Quantitative Reasoning 38. The Strategy of International Politics]
Catalog Number: 7119
Lisa L. Martin

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
International politics is often about strategic interaction among states. When governments make choices about economic, military, or environmental policies, they take into account the likely responses and actions of others. This course introduces the logic of strategic interaction by way of game theory. The principles of game theory are introduced, and students learn how to solve simple games. Mathematical topics covered include probabilities, set theory, linear equations, and quadratic equations. The games are motivated and illustrated with examples drawn from international politics. The logic and techniques developed in this class have wide applications outside the field of international relations.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Quantitative Reasoning 42. Powerful Habits of Mind]
Catalog Number: 4786
Eric Mazur

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Future decision-makers—politicians, executives, scientists, and citizens—must analyze the arguments of others and develop their own. This course is intended to teach quantitative analysis and exploration as habits of mind—as automatic approaches to the certainty of oneself and others—and to develop comfort with numbers and rough estimates. Techniques of analysis: developing reasoning tools that can be applied to scientific and social arguments, and techniques of exploration: how to create new ideas will be studied. The tools developed will be applied to issues reported in the media, to advertisements, to policy documents, and to students’ thinking and writing.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Science

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The common aim of the courses in Science is to explore the phenomena, ways of observing and understanding them, theories that synthesize them, and the undergirding methodology that, taken together, result in the scientific perception of our world. This world encompasses the very small—elementary particles, nuclei, atoms, molecules, genes, and cells; the very large—the Earth, the solar system, and the universe; and living things including human beings in the past and present. Each course addresses one or several of these topics in some depth. Students participate by solving problems, and by observing or by experimenting in the laboratory. This exposure helps to develop scientific literacy and numeracy, thereby leading to a better understanding of today’s technologically and scientifically oriented society.

Science A

Courses in this section, largely concerned with the physical sciences, deal with the analysis of natural phenomena through quantitative descriptions and synthesis of their simple elements.

Science B

Courses in this section, emphasizing biological, evolutionary, and environmental science, present semiquantitative and frequently descriptive accounts of complex systems that cannot yet be fully analyzed on the basis of their simple elements.

Science A

Science A-24. The Dynamic Earth
Catalog Number: 3744 Enrollment: Limited to 100.
Richard J. O’Connell

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10, a weekly section to be arranged, and one three-day camping field trip during Reading Period. EXAM GROUP: 3

A discussion of physical processes that formed the Earth and govern its continuing evolution. How internal workings shape the planet’s surface, producing volcanism, earthquakes, and the uplift of mountains. The course describes the theory of plate tectonics; reviews the observations and phenomena that led to the hypothesis; describes methods of deducing the present state, composition, and structure of the Earth’s interior; discusses the age and the thermal state of the Earth and the evidence for the flow and mobility of the interior. Students are encouraged to think critically, and to appreciate the uncertainties in current models and hypotheses.

Science A-29. The Nature of Light and Matter
Catalog Number: 1706
Roy J. Glauber

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

Explores the ultimate nature of light and develops closely related insights into the structure of matter. An excursion through the physical world that proceeds by means of colorful lecture demonstrations drawn from several areas of optics, acoustics, electricity, and magnetism. The course concentrates on describing natural laws in terms of vivid and useful images emphasizing, for example, the common features of musical instruments, broadcast transmitters, and radiating atoms. The behavior of waves of various sorts is used to explain the limitations on knowledge imposed by the uncertainty principle.

Note: May not be taken for credit by students who have completed Science A-26.

Science A-30. The Atmosphere
Catalog Number: 0477 Enrollment: Limited to 60.
Steven C. Wofsy

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

The physical and chemical processes that regulate climate and the composition of the atmosphere are introduced, including mechanics, thermodynamics, radiation, and chemical kinetics. Atmospheric temperature and precipitation; weather and climate; human activity as a factor for change; influence of carbon dioxide from fossil fuel on climate; modification of stratospheric ozone by industrial chemicals; air pollution; acid rain.

Science A-35. Matter in the Universe
Catalog Number: 5923 Enrollment: Limited to 325.
Robert P. Kirshner
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 12–1:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15

The nature and history of matter revealed by astronomical observation and experimental physics. Explores the Big Bang and models of the universe, stellar evolution and supernova explosions, evidence for invisible matter, and the development of structure in the universe. Demonstrates the physical principles used to interpret astronomical data and to construct a model for the evolution of the universe on the microscopic and cosmic scales. Examines the way microscopic properties of matter determine properties of people, stars, galaxies, and the universe as a whole.

Science A-36. Observing the Sun and the Stars
Catalog Number: 4775
Jonathan E. Grindlay and Robert W. Noyes
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and two laboratory sessions (daytime and evening) to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

The nature of the Sun and the stars, with emphasis on direct observations, to learn how we can understand the Galaxy and the Universe from stars, the basic building blocks. Students conduct visual observations to measure apparent motions of the Sun and stars, laboratory experiments with light and spectra, and make extensive telescopic observations of the Sun and stars using modern instrumentation to explore the energy output of the stars, their relative distances, their temperatures and chemical composition, and something of their life histories. Lectures and readings discuss the physical nature and evolution of stars as well as how stars are organized in our local stellar neighborhood, in our Milky Way Galaxy, and in the Universe.

Science A-39. Time
Catalog Number: 0077
Gary J. Feldman
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Studies the evolution, over the past three centuries, of our concept of time and of related questions, such as the predictability of the future. Newtonian mechanics envisions a universal time, symmetric between past and future. The distinction between past and future emerges in the 19th century from considerations of statistical processes. In the 20th century, the theory of relativity forces fundamental changes in the concept of time. Time ceases to be universal and becomes entangled with space and gravity. Quantum mechanics limits the predictability of the future and introduces recently verified effects so weird that Einstein wrote of them, “No reasonable definition of reality could be expected to permit this.”

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Some knowledge of high school physics will be useful, but is not required.

[Science A-41. The Einstein Revolution]
Catalog Number: 3581
Peter L. Galison
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 9–10:30, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 11, 12

Albert Einstein has become the icon of modern science. Following his scientific, cultural, philosophical, and political trajectory, this course aims to track the changing role of physics in this century. Addresses Einstein and his engagement with relativity, quantum mechanics, Nazism, nuclear weapons, philosophy, and technology, and raises basic questions about what it means to understand physics and its history.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Science A-43. Environmental Risks and Disasters
Catalog Number: 6001
Göran Ekström
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
An introduction to risks and hazards in the environment. Different types of hazards are analyzed and compared: natural disasters, such as tornados, earthquakes, and meteorite impacts; acute and chronic health effects caused by exposure to radiation and toxic substances such as radon, asbestos, and dioxin; long-term societal effects due to environmental change, such as sea level rise and global warming. Emphasizes the basic physical principles controlling the hazardous phenomena and develops simple quantitative methods for making scientifically reasoned assessments of the threats (to health and wealth) posed by various events, processes, and exposures. Discusses methods of risk mitigation and sociological, psychological, and economic aspects of risk control and management.

Science A-47. Cosmic Connections
Catalog Number: 6940
Lars Hernquist
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
This course will examine the origin and evolution of stars and planets, and will consider connections between astronomical events and the conditions that seem necessary for life to develop. The underlying theme is that humans are a part of an evolving Universe and that our presence is linked to the cosmos at large. To tell this story, we must talk about how the Earth and the Sun came about, and ultimately how the Milky Way and the Universe were created.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Science A-49. The Physics of Music and Sound
Catalog Number: 8987
John Huth
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1:30–3, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Sound and music are deeply embedded in all cultures. An understanding of the production, transmission, and perception of sound and music can expand artistic and scientific horizons. Topics will include vibration, resonance, interference, harmony, dissonance, temperament, musical instruments, human auditory response, good and bad acoustics, and sound reproduction. The principles of music and sound are widely applicable to many branches of science and some of the connections will be developed. Hands-on digital and analog investigations will be provided. Mathematics background at the level of high school algebra and geometry is sufficient.

Departmental courses that satisfy the Science A requirement
The following departmental courses may be taken to meet the Science A requirement. These courses are not necessarily designed for a general audience; they may assume prior experience or more than could be expected of students seeing the subject for the first time.

- Chemistry 5. Introduction to Principles of Chemistry
- Chemistry 7. Principles of Chemistry
- Chemistry 10. Accelerated Course: Foundations of Chemistry
- Chemistry 17. Principles of Organic Chemistry
- Chemistry 20. Organic Chemistry
- Chemistry 27. Organic Chemistry of Life
- Chemistry 30. Organic Chemistry
- Earth and Planetary Sciences 5. Introduction to Environmental Science: Atmosphere, Ocean, and Biosphere
- Earth and Planetary Sciences 7. Introduction to Geological Sciences
- Physics 11a. Mechanics
- Physics 11b. Electricity, Magnetism, and Waves
- Physics 15a. Introductory Mechanics and Relativity
- Physics 15b. Introductory Electromagnetism
- Physics 15c. Wave Phenomena
- Physics 16. Mechanics and Special Relativity

The following departmental courses taken together may be used to meet the Science A requirement.

- Physics 1a. Principles of Physics: Mechanics
- Physics 1b. Principles of Physics: Electricity, Waves, Nuclear Physics

Science B

Science B-16. History of Life
Catalog Number: 6718 Enrollment: Limited to 200.
Stephen J. Gould

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged.

EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

Major aspects of the geological and paleontological history of Earth. Part 1 (historical science) uses the development of theories about Earth history to examine styles of doing science when faced with complex histories or unrepeatable events. Part 2 (evolutionary theory) covers basic principles of Darwinism and alternatives, and examines philosophical implications of an evolutionary world view. Part 3 (biological history) examines Darwinian theory as a model for explaining the history of life. Topics: origin of life, rapid extinctions and periods of origination, vertebrate origins, human evolution.

Note: Sections cover basic skills (e.g., identification of fossils), but serve primarily for small-group discussion.

Science B-23. The Human Organism
Catalog Number: 6581
Joseph D. Brain (Public Health), Stephanie A. Shore (Public Health), and Richard L. Verrier
(Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12, plus two two-hour laboratories and periodic section meetings to explore special topics in depth. EXAM GROUP: 5
The physiology and pathophysiology of the human body will be presented with special emphasis on cardiovascular, respiratory, endocrine, and reproductive biology. Topics include not only the normal functioning of these systems but also their responses to infection, injury, and the environment. Through lectures and laboratories, students will explore how their own body functions. The relative power of diagnosis and treatment of disease (medicine) versus primary prevention of disease (public health) in promoting health will be emphasized.

[Science B-27. Human Evolution]
Catalog Number: 0470
David Pilbeam
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
A survey of human evolution as a particular example of general issues in evolutionary biology. Some principles of evolutionary theory, primate behavioral ecology, and functional morphology are used to interpret the fossil record of hominoids (apes and humans) and particularly the hominids (humans and their direct ancestors and collaterals), from hominid origins to the appearance of modern humans through to the origins of agriculture. Emphasis is on the dynamic (behavioral and ecological) interpretation of the human fossil and archeological record.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Science B-29. Evolution of Human Nature
Catalog Number: 0152 Enrollment: Limited to 400.
Richard W. Wrangham and Marc Hauser
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 1, and a 90-minute weekly section/laboratory to be arranged. Additional meeting times for two required film showings to be announced. EXAM GROUP: 6
Human biology and behavior are considered in a broad evolutionary context, showing how the facts of development, physiology, neurobiology, reproduction, cognition, and especially behavior are informed by evolutionary theory and comparative evidence. Field and experimental data on other species are introduced with the aim of illuminating human behavior. Behavior is traced from its evolutionary function as adaptation, through its physiological basis and associated psychological mechanisms, to its expression. The role of ecology and social life in shaping human behavior is examined through the use of ethnographies and cross-cultural materials on a variety of human cultures. Topics include basic genetics, neural and neuroendocrine systems, behavioral development, sex differences, kinship and mating systems, ecology, language, and cognition.

Science B-40. The Biology of Trees and Forests
Catalog Number: 2635
Donald H. Pfister
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a weekly section/laboratory to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Trees are prominent and important organisms in the ecosystem. By photosynthesis, trees convert carbon dioxide into organic molecules that are used as energy reserves and as structural components of these plants. Oxygen is also released. Trees, carbon cycling, and the greenhouse effect are intimately intertwined. This course uses trees as examples to explore several facets of plant biology as they relate to identification, growth, reproduction, physiology of transport, ecology, management, and use of plant products.

Science B-44. Vision and Brain
Catalog Number: 4722
Ken Nakayama
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Drawing upon physical, geometric, biological, and psychological descriptions of vision, the major effort is to understand how the phenomenon of visual experience can be understood in terms of the nature of light in the environment, the properties of the eye and brain, as well as more abstract descriptions of perceptual and cognitive systems.

Science B-46. Molecular Biology and the Structure of Life
Catalog Number: 3395
George M. Whitesides
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 9, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
Describes the applications of molecular biology to medicine, evolution, forensics, and biotechnology. Modern biology is based on a view of life in which a small set of key molecules—DNA, RNA, and proteins—play central roles. This view makes it possible to discuss a remarkable range of characteristics of living organisms using a common set of principles. Also considers the implications of molecular genetics and the human genome project.

Science B-48. From DNA to Brain
Catalog Number: 3320
Howard C. Berg and John E. Dowling
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a weekly discussion/demonstration section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Explores the way in which information is stored and processed by biological systems, first by molecules—DNA, RNA, protein, and phospholipid—then by cells and cell assemblies, particularly the nervous system. Learning how DNA gives rise to brain and how the brain works are among the greatest challenges in modern biology. Our hope is to give students a taste of this remarkable enterprise.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Secondary school chemistry.

Science B-53. Biology of Marine Organisms
Catalog Number: 7050 Enrollment: Limited to 96.
Robert M. Woollacott
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30; Tu., 3–5, and a two-hour weekly section to be arranged. Two half-day and one full-day field trips will substitute for three weeks of section. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Explores the life histories and adaptations of marine life and the ecosystems of the sea. Centers on the complex interrelationships of organisms, the diversity of various habitats, reproductive strategies, and speciation as well as the interplay of currents, light, temperature, and nutrient supply on the distribution of life in the sea.

Prerequisite: Secondary school biology.

Science B-55. Evolutionary Biology
Catalog Number: 1199
Stephen R. Palumbi
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
Explores the process of biological evolution, the way the biosphere has changed over time, and how human actions affect the evolutionary process, thereby changing our contemporary biological environment. Examines the mechanics and pace of evolution, from the molecular to the species level, with an emphasis on the ecological context of natural selection. The evolution of antibiotic resistance, HIV, bioengineered organisms, and human genetic disease are used to illustrate how evolution plays a critical role in modern society.

Science B-57. Dinosaurs and Their Relatives
Catalog Number: 0793
Charles R. Marshall
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Comprehensive exploration of the biology, evolution, and extinction of the dinosaurs and their closest relatives. Through this exploration, core concepts in paleontology, evolutionary biology, and geology will be introduced. Weekly sections center on the examination of fossil material.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Science B-59. Genes and Human Diversity
Catalog Number: 0838
Maryellen Ruvolo
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a 90-minute weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An introduction to human evolution and diversity based on genetic evidence. This course covers an introduction to the human genome, the basics of population genetics, genetic diversity of living humans and our closest primate relatives, origins of modern Homo sapiens, the effects of human demographic history on the hunt for disease genes, forensic applications of DNA diversity, and genetic reconstructions of human history, and how these patterns correspond with linguistic diversity.

Biological Sciences 51 (formerly Biological Sciences 2). Integrative Biology of Organisms
Social Analysis

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The common aim of courses in Social Analysis is to acquaint students with some of the central concepts and methods of the social sciences and to show how these approaches can enhance our understanding of contemporary human behavior. Social Analysis courses are not intended to provide a survey of a particular discipline, but rather to show how, by the use of formal theories that are systematically related to empirical data, one can better understand the application of analytical methods to important problems involving the behavior of people and institutions.

Social Analysis 10. Principles of Economics
Catalog Number: 3660
Martin Feldstein, Judith Li, and members of the Economics Department
Full course (indivisible). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Introduction to economic issues and basic economic principles and methods. Fall term focuses on supply and demand, labor and financial markets, taxation, and social economic issues of health care, poverty, the environment, and income distribution. Spring term focuses on the impact of both monetary and fiscal policy on inflation, unemployment, interest rates, investment, the exchange rate, and international trade. Studies role of government in the economy, including Social Security, the tax system, and economic change in Eastern Europe, Latin America, and Asia. Covers international trade and financial markets.

Note: Must be taken as a full course, although in special situations students are permitted to take the second term in a later year. Taught in a mixture of lectures and sections. No calculus is used, and there is no mathematics background requirement. Designed for both potential economics concentrators and those who plan no further work in the field. The Department of Economics strongly encourages students considering concentration to take this course in their freshman year.

Social Analysis 28. Culture, Illness, and Healing: A Cross-Cultural Comparison of Medicine in Society
Catalog Number: 4247
Arthur Kleinman
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
An inquiry into the role of health and medicine in society that demonstrates how anthropological analysis can be applied to the study of illness and care. Compares medical systems across societies to understand what is shared and what is culturally distinctive in the experience and treatment of sickness. Analyzes how practitioners (biomedical and folk) and patients construe sickness and suffering as distinctive social realities, and how those realities are organized in local cultural systems. Assesses varieties of suffering as social phenomena in order to appreciate the social sources of global social problems, the cross-cultural variety of illness experiences, the reform of services, and the global moral and political-economic crisis in health care.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Social Analysis 34. Knowledge of Language
Catalog Number: 2069
Bert Vaux

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

What does our ability to acquire and use a language tell us about our essential human nature? This course examines the view of modern linguistics that knowledge of language is best characterized as an unconsciously internalized set of abstract rules and principles. Evidence is drawn from a variety of signed and spoken languages, language universals, child language acquisition, and language change.

Social Analysis 36. Religion and Modernization: Cultural Revolutions and Secularism
Catalog Number: 2027
Nur Yalman

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

Theoretical studies on major social and ideological changes concerning religion in modern society with special reference to France, Russia, repercussions in Asia (Hinduism, Buddhism) and the Middle East (Islam). Changes in intellectual attitudes in France and the French Revolution. The Enlightenment, the Russian and Turkish Revolutions, and religious revivalism in Iran are considered. Comparative studies from India and Sri Lanka. Marxist and structuralist theories concerning religion are examined in historical contexts. Students can specialize in regions and topics.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Social Analysis 46. Thinking about Politics: A Rational Choice Approach
Catalog Number: 3544
Kenneth A. Shepsle

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

A commonsensical survey of rational theories of politics, comprised of four segments: (1) individual choice, (2) group choice, (3) collective action, and (4) institutions. The underlying theme is that politics may be described and understood in terms of rational, goal-seeking behavior by citizens, politicians, bureaucrats, and interest groups in various institutional settings. Students are encouraged to think deeply and with sophistication about current events, history, and public life generally, as well as to analyze the politics of private life—in families, clubs, firms, churches, universities, even Harvard Houses—since private politics, like public politics, may be understood in terms of rational behavior.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Social Analysis 50. Urban Revolutions: Archaeology and the Investigation of Early States
Catalog Number: 4409
C. C. Lamberg-Karlovsky

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Examines the development and structure of the earliest state-level societies in the ancient world.
Archaeological approaches are used to analyze the major factors behind the processes of urbanization and state formation in Mesopotamia, Egypt, Central Asia, the Indus Valley, and Mesoamerica. The environmental background as well as the social, political, and economic characteristics of each civilization are compared to understand the varied forces that were involved in the transitions from village to urbanized life. Discussion sections utilize archaeological materials from the Peabody Museum and Semitic Museum collections to study the archaeological methods used in the class.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. No previous knowledge of archaeology is necessary.

Social Analysis 52. Growth and Development in Historical Perspective
Catalog Number: 1879
Robert H. Bates

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 1, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6

Societies now industrial and rich were once agricultural and poor. Growth and development imply a transformation in the politics and economics of nations. How does this transformation take place? What economic forces and political struggles propel it? Drawing on anthropology, political science, and economics, the course explores the process of urbanization, state formation, and war-making, as well as economic development.

Social Analysis 54. American Society and Public Policy
Catalog Number: 6661
Theda Skocpol and Mary C. Waters

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

How do social problems get redefined over time; why do they appear differently to various groups; and how are public policies about problematic social conditions debated, devised, and changed? Looking over modern U.S. history, this course combines demographic data on societal trends, ethnographic data on people’s everyday lives and outlooks, and evidence about changing institutional structures. This combination of approaches often pursued separately in the social sciences is used to explore recurrent yet shifting controversies about the well-being of families and children, about immigration and citizenship, and about access to health care in the United States.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Social Analysis 58. Representation, Equality, and Democracy
Catalog Number: 1341
Sidney Verba

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

Democracy is a system of rule in which the citizenry is the ultimate sovereign. Government policies ought to be responsive to the preferences of that citizenry, with each citizen weighed equally. If this is to happen, there must be procedures whereby the preferences of citizens are expressed, aggregated, and communicated to governing decision-makers, and there must be some set of incentives that lead the decision-makers to be responsive to these preferences. This course examines the ways in which the complex and “unreadable” preferences in the public are communicated to governing officials. The course will connect theories of representation and democracy to systematic studies of citizen behavior.

Social Analysis 60. Wealth and Poverty in the World Economy

Catalog Number: 1402

Jeffrey D. Sachs

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 9, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2

Why are some countries rich and others poor? Why do some countries achieve economic growth while others languish in poverty? This course will study the theory, history, and modern practice of economic development. We will examine how economic and political institutions, culture, physical geography, and international relations affect the development process. Historical experience will be used as a springboard to current policy debates, with a special focus on the problems of globalization.

Social Analysis 66. Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States

Catalog Number: 0916

Jennifer L. Hochschild

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

How are racial divisions and American political structures related? Is racial/ethnic hierarchy built into American politics so deeply that the nation must change dramatically to eradicate it? Or is racial/ethnic hierarchy a flaw in an essentially fair society that we can eradicate without major dislocation? Half of the course addresses this question. How do African Americans, Anglos, Latinos, and Asian Americans relate to one another? Four plausible answers occupy the second half of the course: pluralism (groups interact and partially merge), racial and ethnic separation, rainbow coalition (nonwhite groups come together), and black exceptionalism (nonblack groups come together).

Social Analysis 68. Race, Class, and Poverty in Urban America

Catalog Number: 7451

William Julius Wilson (Kennedy School)

*Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 9, and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM
GROUP: 2*

The purpose of this course is to familiarize students with some of the major empirical, theoretical, and social policy issues concerning race, class, and urban poverty in America. The focus is on contemporary society, but the course provides an historical context for understanding how current patterns of urban inequality have evolved.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Cross-listed Core course that satisfies the Social Analysis requirement

General Education Courses

General Education 105. The Literature of Social Reflection
Catalog Number: 0769 Enrollment: Limited to 500.
Robert Coles (Graduate School of Education and Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, with one ninety-minute section weekly. EXAM GROUP: 12
An examination of selected novels, essays, poems, and autobiographical statements which aim at social scrutiny or at a moral critique of a particular society. Lectures emphasize the distinctive approach of the literary mind to a variety of social problems: poverty, racial injustice, historical change, the various tensions of rural and urban life. Authors studied include George Eliot, Charles Dickens, Thomas Hardy, Georges Bernanos, William Carlos Williams, James Agee, George Orwell, Ralph Ellison, Zora Neale Hurston, Tillie Olsen, Flannery O’Connor, and Walker Percy.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

General Education 156. The Information Age, Its Main Currents and Their Intermingling: Conference Course

Catalog Number: 3172
Enrollment: Limited to 25.

Anthony G. Oettinger

Half course (fall term). M., W., 2:30–4.
EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Dynamics of the worldwide shift toward information-intensive economies. The hype and the ripe in information infrastructures, networks, and multimedia. Transformations of information businesses: telecommunications; computers; TV; consumer electronics; books; newspapers; mail; toys. Antecedents in shifts from memorized to written records in 12th-century England and to steam printing presses in the 19th century. Each term paper traces the linkages between evolving information suppliers and a student-picked sphere of information use—e.g., literacy and numeracy, personal communication, entertainment, political processes, international trade, capital and labor markets, military intelligence and command practices, or organizational structure and behavior.

Note: Term paper in lieu of final examination; extensive research expected of graduate students; counts as an elective for Applied Mathematics concentrators if the term paper includes appropriate mathematical content. Offered jointly with the Kennedy School of Government as BGP-586.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10 or elementary calculus or equivalent.

General Education 175. Native Americans in the 21st Century: Nation-Building I

Catalog Number: 5587

Joseph P. Kalt (Kennedy School) and guest lecturers

Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30.
EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

Uses a hands-on, interdisciplinary approach to examine some of the major issues faced by today’s Native American bands, tribes, and nations. These include: sovereignty, economic development, constitutional reform, cultural and language continuity, land and water rights, religious freedom, health and social welfare, and education. Concepts of “nation-building,” identity, and leadership, taken from tribal points of view, form the central themes of the course. All aspects of the course are placed in a cross-cultural context. Guest presentations are made by Native American students, visiting scholars, and Native American leaders.

Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School of Government as PED-501, and with the Graduate School of Education as A-101.

General Education 186. Introduction to Health Care Policy

Catalog Number: 4045

Richard G. Frank (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10, and a weekly section to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 10, 11

Provides students with an overview of US health care delivery system, its components, and policy challenges. The health care system is considered from an organizational perspective: analysis of roles of patients, providers (doctors and hospitals), health plans, and payers. Considers objectives, constraints, incentives, knowledge, and conduct of each component.
Evaluates problems faced by each component using both “insider” and “outsider” perspectives. What makes health care so hard to reform? How shall we understand recent proposals? Reading will include selections from medical sociology, economics, politics, anthropology, and ethics.

[General Education 187 (formerly Pforzheimer 123). The Quality of Health Care in America]

Catalog Number: 4832 Enrollment: Limited to 35.

Donald M. Berwick (Medical School), Howard H. Hiatt (Medical School), and guest lecturers

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 4:30–6. EXAM GROUP: 18

Offers information and experiences regarding an array of the most important issues and challenges in health care quality. Includes overview of the dimensions of quality of care, including outcomes, overuse, underuse, variation in practice patterns, errors and threats to patient safety, service flaws, and various forms of waste. Each session focuses in depth on one specific quality-of-care issue, exploring patterns of performance, data sources, costs, causes, and remedies. Explores international comparisons and systemic remedies: the desirable properties of health care systems that can perform at extremely high levels in many dimensions of quality.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

House Seminars

Primarily for Undergraduates

All House Seminars are offered for degree credit. House Seminars are normally graded with letter grades; as with other letter-graded courses students may, with the instructor’s permission, take House Seminars Pass/Fail. All House Seminars require the permission of the instructor (*). Information concerning enrollment in House Seminars should be sought from the appropriate House Office. House Seminars are frequently not repeated from year to year.

Adams

Adams 122. Printed Books as a Field of Study

Catalog Number: 6137 Enrollment: Limited to 6.

Roger E. Stoddard

Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Introduces students to the appreciation of books as technical, commercial, and artistic products as well as intellectual ones. With due regard for text and picture, concentrates attention on the printed book in Europe and the Americas from the technical inventions of Gutenberg and other pioneers to the postmodern renovations of today. Books from Houghton Library collections are viewed and discussed in relation to their manufacture, distribution, and use. Much of the work is comparative. Vocations of book culture to be studied and illustrated are printer, book artisan, publisher, bookseller, collector, librarian, antiquarian bookseller, and bibliographer.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Eliot
Eliot 129. Nutrition and Public Health

Catalog Number: 1497  Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Clifford Lo (Medical School)

Half course (spring term). M., 5:30–7:30 p.m.

Introduction to the critical reading of technical nutrition and medical literature; surveys current issues in public health and public policy relating to nutrition. Critical analysis of different types of medical literature: historical monographs, metabolic laboratory observations, clinical case reports, epidemiological surveys, prospective randomized controlled trials, metaanalyses, and literature reviews. Prepares science and non-science concentrators to examine critically current controversies for themselves; requires active participation and presentation by students.

Note: Clinical rounds with the Nutrition Support Services at Children’s Hospital will be optional.

[Eliot 133. The Táin: The Medieval Irish Saga]

Catalog Number: 2966  Enrollment: Limited to 12.

Patrick K. Ford

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Investigates the great medieval Irish saga, Táin Bó Cúailnge. The Táin is the centerpiece of the so-called Ulster Cycle of tales, a group centered on the court of King Conchobor at Emain Macha in 1st-century (CE) Ulster. Cycle focuses on heroic exploits of Cú Chulainn, the Hound of Cooley, and on ethos of a warrior aristocracy in heroic golden age. Of especial interest are roles played by women in the tales. Tensions between literacy and orality in the transmission of the tales and issues related to the translation of the tales into English in the modern period will be studied.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Leverett

Leverett 104. Sigmund Freud and C. S. Lewis: Two Contrasting World Views

Catalog Number: 0773  Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Armand M. Nicholi, II (Medical School)

Half course (spring term). Tu., 7–9 p.m.

Focuses on the “scientific” Weltanschauung (world view) of Sigmund Freud as a key to understanding his life and work. Students examine the world view Freud attacks by reading selected writings of C. S. Lewis and the letters between Freud and Oskar Pfister, the Swiss psychoanalyst and theologian. Considers the following themes: source of morality and ethics, definition and understanding of human sexuality, problem of pain and suffering, definition of happiness and reason that unhappiness prevails, role of different categories of love in human relationships, nature of human nature and the problem of “the painful riddle of death.” Selected expository works by Freud serve as a brief introduction to basic psychoanalytic concepts and to philosophical works that form the core of study.

The Committee on African Studies is a multidisciplinary group of scholars appointed to coordinate teaching and research on Africa within Harvard’s departments and faculties. It is primarily concerned with the planned development of African studies in the University as a whole. Since it is also the Committee’s goal to advance knowledge and understanding of African peoples throughout the University, it sponsors lectures, seminars, conferences, films, and exhibitions on Africa. Its noncredit Africa Seminar is open to all students and faculty members. The Committee offers undergraduate summer grants for senior honors thesis study and graduate dissertation research grants for travel to Africa.

The courses listed below deal either directly or indirectly with the study of Africa. A more detailed description of these courses may be found in this catalog under the appropriate department or committee. Other relevant courses are listed in the catalogs of the schools of Public Health, Education, Law, Divinity, Business, and the Kennedy School of Government. Each September, the Committee publishes “African Studies at Harvard,” a University-wide guide to courses, faculty, and programs. The guide is posted at our website: www.fas.harvard.edu/~cafrica. A printed version is available at the Committee’s administrative office in Coolidge Hall 202, 1737 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, MA, 02138, or by calling (617) 495-5265. The fax number is (617) 496-5183, and email is cafrica@fas.harvard.edu.

*Afro-American Studies 97a (formerly Afro-American Studies 11). Jazz, Race, and Politics Since WWII
Catalog Number: 1439 Enrollment: Limited to Afro-American Studies concentrators and others by permission of the instructor.
Ingrid Monson
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This course addresses the relationship between music and politics after WWII, with emphasis on the impact of Civil Rights Movement and African independence on the aesthetics and politics of jazz. Segregation in the music industry, activism among musicians, and the international significance of jazz and popular music are among the topics addressed. The development of both listening skills and frameworks for social analysis will be intertwined as we explore various postwar musical developments.

*Afro-American Studies 97b (formerly Afro-American Studies 12). Topics in Afro-American History and Society: Seminar
Catalog Number: 2393 Enrollment: Limited to Afro-American Studies concentrators, and others by permission of instructor.
Kimberly McClain DaCosta
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This course introduces topics in Afro-American society and history by focusing on a general theme—changing concepts of blackness. Using a wide range of empirical and theoretical materials, we problematize what constitutes “race” and “blackness.” We explore issues of class division, regional variation, immigration, intermarriage, sexuality and gender, the social conditions which give rise to such formations, and their relation to political and cultural constructions of blackness.

[Afro-American Studies 110. African-American Women’s History: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 7017 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Evelyn Brooks Higginbotham
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores the history of African-American women from the days of slavery to the 1960s. Special emphasis on such topics as the myths and realities of gender identity for African-American women, family life and the challenges posed by black feminism, work patterns, organizational activities, and cultural production. This is an inter-disciplinary course that draws upon the writings of historians, literary critics, sociologists, and novelists.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Afro-American Studies 118. African-American History from the Slave Trade to 1900
Catalog Number: 7429
Susan E. O’Donovan
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An introduction to African American history and the role black men and women have played in the cultural, economic, and political life of the United States. Topics will include the rise of slavery; the American Revolution and the problem of slavery; African American social, economic, and cultural life in the antebellum North and South; the struggle for freedom during the Civil War and Reconstruction; and African Americans in the age of segregation and disenfranchisement.

Afro-American Studies 119. The Age of Jim Crow
Catalog Number: 6246
Evelyn Brooks Higginbotham
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This seminar explores a time when racial segregation was the rule of law. We will explore the rise of Jim Crow beginning in the late nineteenth century and follow its implications and consequences for black and white Americans until the 1950s when the assault on segregation was successfully waged. The course will examine a number of themes, such as the legal process, disfranchisement, violence, arts and entertainment, and scientific racism, but we will also study the institutions, leaders, and ideologies that enabled Americans as individuals and as a group to advance despite the obstacles.

[Afro-American Studies 121. The Tragic, The Comic, and The Political]
Catalog Number: 2170
Cornel West
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar will examine the complex tragic, comic, and political responses to the problem of evil—unjustified suffering and underserved harm—through the distinctive and neglected medium of dramatic art. We shall begin with Sophocle’s Antigone, Dante’s Inferno, and Shakespeare’s Hamlet. Then we will plunge into the terrifying night-side of modernity by wrestling with the great works of Kant, Hume, Dostoevsky, (Nathaniel) West, Kafka, Ibsen, Chekhov, Williams, ONeill, Lorca, Hansberry, Brecht, Beckett, Hwang, Jones, and Soyinka.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Formerly offered as Divinity School 2451.

[Afro-American Studies 123z. American Democracy]
Catalog Number: 2354
Cornel West and Roberto Mangabeira Unger (Law School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Considers, in an American setting, the contemporary meaning of the democratic idea, the relation of democratic government to the market economy as well as to the class, gender and racial divisions of society, and the alternative institutional futures of democracy. Two focal points for the argument of the course are: 1) the exploration of possible, more democratizing arrangements for the organization of government, the economy, and civil society, and 2) the changes in consciousness, culture, and education needed to sustain such arrangements. Seeing American problems and possibilities as variations on worldwide themes, the course asks what it would mean to sacrifice American “exceptionalism” to American experimentalism.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Additional discussion hour scheduled weekly. Offered jointly with the Law School as 30500-11.

[Afro-American Studies 124. Constructions of Identity]
Catalog Number: 3341
K. Anthony Appiah
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the debates about the social construction of race, gender, and sexuality. After exploring some work on gender and on lesbian and gay identities, the course will focus, in particular, on the debates about the interaction between gender and sexuality, on the one hand, and race, on the other. Discussions will center around the claims in political theory for the relevance of these collective identities for conceptions of citizenship and of political life.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Catalog Number: 4852
K. Anthony Appiah
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Human beings characteristically suppose that we come in various kinds. In classifying people into these kinds, different societies have used different sorts of properties. Beginning in the Enlightenment, European and American thinkers began to divide our species into a number of global kinds, relying more and more on modes of classification that were also applied to other animals. Membership in such global kinds as Negro, Caucasian, Mongoloid, Semitic, or Aryan was increasingly held to explain a very wide range of phenomena. In this course, we shall explore the ways in which these modern racial modes of classification have developed over the last three centuries, and look critically at some of the uses to which they have been put.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Afro-American Studies 125. Philosophical Problems of Race and Racism
Catalog Number: 3822
K. Anthony Appiah
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
“Race” is a central term in political debate, social theory and everyday life in our society. It is widely held to be important in large measure because of the history of what we call “racism” in the United States and more generally, in the modern world. Yet there is little reflection on and no consensus about how either “race” or “racism” should be understood. We shall explore three key questions: How are we to understand the term “race”? What is racism? and Why is racism wrong?

[Afro-American Studies 126. Philosophical Perspectives on Issues of Race]
Catalog Number: 7898 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Tommie Shelby
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Critically examines recent philosophical work on the themes of “race” and racism. Topics for discussion include the following: What is a “race” and do any exist? What does it mean to embrace or reject one’s racial identity? What is racism, and what makes it wrong? How should we, from the point of view of justice, respond to racism and the social problems it causes?
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Afro-American Studies 127. Marxist Theories of Racism]
Tommie Shelby
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Marx himself doesn’t say much about racism. However, many social scientists and historians have attempted to extend Marx’s ideas to explain the phenomena of racial oppression and racial antagonism. This course critically examines several Marxist and neo-Marxist accounts of racial ideology, the construction of racial identities, the relationship between class exploitation and racial subordination, and the role of capitalist development and expansion in perpetuating racial inequality.

[Afro-American Studies 128. Black Nationalism]
Catalog Number: 3426
Tommie Shelby
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Critically examines the family of African American social philosophies generally classified under the broad rubric “black nationalism.” Topics to be explored include the meaning of black collective self-determination; the relationship between black identity and black solidarity; the role of black cultural expression in black freedom struggles; and the significance of Africa for black nationalist ideals. Authors to be discussed include Martin Delany, Alexander Crummell, Edward Blyden, W.E.B. Du Bois, Marcus Garvey, Elijah Muhammad, Malcolm X, Stokely Carmichael, Huey Newton, and some contemporary representatives of the tradition.

[Afro-American Studies 130. Harlem Renaissance]
Catalog Number: 1261
Henry Louis Gates, Jr.
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines the period of unprecedented African-American literary flowering during the 1920s and 1930s. Special attention will be given to the following: Harlem and other cultural centers; dialect in poetry and prose; the impact of women authors, editors, and critics; and the central positioning of the Harlem Renaissance in the African American literary tradition.
Afro-American Studies 131. Afro-American Literature to the 1920s
Catalog Number: 2589
Werner Sollors
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 10. Additional discussion hour scheduled every Friday at 10:00 a.m. EXAM GROUP: 3
Note: Special emphasis on Olaudah Equiano and Charles W. Chestnut.

Afro-American Studies 133. African-Americans in the Civil War Era: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 1090
Susan E. O’Donovan
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
No people had a larger stake in the abolition of slavery in the US than African-Americans. This course will focus on the critical roles they played in the national struggle over the meaning of freedom in the Civil War era. Special attention will be paid to the ways in which antebellum and wartime experiences as men and women, slaves and free people, shaped African American’s aspirations and options in the postemancipation world.

Catalog Number: 3543
Jamaica Kincaid
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A people will point to a landscape (the ruggedness of mountains, the lushness of their meadowlands, the mighty flow of a river) to explain their national character. Is this so for the African in America? Readings include Thomas Jefferson’s “Notes on Virginia,” Elizabeth Bishop, Slave Narratives of Frederick Douglass and Mary Prince, Derek Walcott Horace Walpole, John Milton among others.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Afro-American Studies 134z. Reading Thomas Jefferson and The African in America
Catalog Number: 9959
Jamaica Kincaid
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
“We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal....” The author of those words was Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States; but who might have needed them more, the author and President or a contemporary of his, a man he owned named Jupiter. A look through his writings into the world of Thomas Jefferson and the influence the enslaved African had upon him. Special attention will be paid to “The Declaration of Independence,” “Notes on the State of Virginia,” and “The Farm and Garden Book.”
[Afro-American Studies 135z. James Baldwin and Lorraine Hansberry]
Catalog Number: 2175
Cornel West
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the major works—fiction and non-fiction—of these two towering figures. We shall explore their conceptions of what it means to be human, modern, American, and Black.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Afro-American Studies 138z. Interracial Literature
Catalog Number: 0164
Werner Sollors
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
This course examines a wide variety of literary texts and films on black-white couples, interracial families, and biracial identity, from classical antiquity to the present. Works studied include romances, novellas, plays, novels, short stories, poems, non-fiction and examples from visual arts. Topics for discussion range from interracial genealogies to racial “passing,” from representations of racial difference to alternative plot resolutions, from religious and political to legal and scientific contexts for the changing understanding of “race.”

Afro-American Studies 139. Black Travel and Transnationality
Catalog Number: 4744 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Naomi Pabst
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Course examines black travel writing within a broader rubric of black literature and the emerging genre, “travel literature.” With attention to modes of representation and narrative strategy, we will explore histories of black travel and travellers, and the ways that transnational border-crossing influences the cultural, ideological, and political parameters of black identity. We will establish the forms, varieties, motivations, conflicts, and dilemmas of black travel, tourism, and transnational movement, as brought to bear upon issues of race, class, gender, nationality, imperialism, and globalization. Authors include Langston Hughes, James Baldwin, Paule Marshall, Michele Cliff, Dany Laferrière, Shay Youngblood.

[Afro-American Studies 140. Syncretism: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 3988
J. Lorand Matory
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Addresses hotly debated methods in the study of African American lifeways. Syncretism is the convergence of practices and beliefs of diverse origins, culminating in the synthesis of new cultural forms, like jazz and Cuban “Santería.” Examines the cultural prefigurations and political conditions that determine local syntheses and complicate conventional models of cultural retention and purity, acculturation, assimilation, and pluralism. While focused on the African diaspora in the Americas, includes comparative materials from Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Pacific.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3827.
[Afro-American Studies 141 (formerly Anthropology 157). Afro-Atlantic Religions]
Catalog Number: 3336
J. Lorand Matory
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Investigates the spiritual, political, and economic lives of millions around the Atlantic perimeter who worship African gods: West and Central Africans, Cubans, Brazilians, Haitians, and North Americans. For them, the gods are sources of power, organization, and healing amid the local political dominance of Muslims and Christians and the seismic expansion of international capitalism—conditions which themselves require significant attention. Lectures focus on such themes as women’s empowerment and the construction of gender in these religions, while a series of in-class discussions with priests will propose its own themes.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with Divinity School as 3692.

Afro-American Studies 143. African-Americans and a New Racial Divide
Catalog Number: 9321
Lawrence D. Bobo
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course directly engages the debate over racism in post-civil rights America. It provides a contemporary assessment of whether, how much, and why racial dynamics influence education, the economy, politics, and broader social relations. Special attention is devoted to matters of general intellectual and cultural trends as well as to the hard politics of the welfare reform, the criminal justice system, and the HIV/AIDS epidemic in Black communities. It seeks a critical assessment of the future of African-Americans in the post-civil rights, post-affirmative action U.S.

Afro-American Studies 144. Haiti and Haitian Vodou
Catalog Number: 8406
Karen McCarthy Brown (Drew University)
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
The practice of Vodou set in historical, political, and cultural contexts, in Haiti and the US Haitian diaspora. Topics include, among others, African influences, the Haitian Revolution, gender, sexuality, healing, and transnationalism.

Afro-American Studies 145. Live Religion in the American City
Catalog Number: 3203
Karen McCarthy Brown (Drew University)
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
An investigation of religious practices in multi-ethnic, religiously pluralistic cities, with special attention to issues such as social gatekeeping, sites of resistance and/or rebellion, multiple religious allegiances, architectural bricolage, and value negotiation.

[Afro-American Studies 151. Politics and Society in Contemporary Africa]
Catalog Number: 2564
---------
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
This course explores the dynamics of inheritance and choice in post-colonial Africa’s changing... political arenas. The course focuses on different approaches to autochthony (or institutional hybridity) since c. 1945, using fictional and non-fictional material. Also to be explored are some implications of both forms for constructions of identity, progress and change in Africa and among its Diasporas.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. This course is to be offered over two semesters to allow in-depth discussion of historical continuities and change potential on various levels. A part informal-conversational and part Socratic method of teaching/pedagogy is to be adopted. To facilitate discussion in class, readings and supplementary material—video clips, documentaries, feature articles, official reports, guest presentations, etc., are to be made available ahead of meetings, as applicable. Student-led seminars are to be encouraged, as are essays and term papers. A written examination is not anticipated.

In particular, we will examine hip hop literacy, language and learning, art, performance and dress. Topics include: culture, community, crime and injustice, economics, education, family, history, identity, language, politics, sports, race and racism, sex and sexism. Emphasis will be placed on hip hop in a variety of contexts including schools, religious organizations and political movements.

[Afro-American Studies 154. Language and Discourse: Race and Class]
Catalog Number: 9990
Marcyliena Morgan (University of California, Los Angeles)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The purpose of this course is to study, analyze and critique theories concerning the discursive construction of identity(s) and forms of representation of cultures. It will explore the relationship between power and powerful speech through reviews and critiques of theories of language, culture, and identity as they relate to ethnicity, race, and social class. Focus will be on language ideology and analysis of discourse styles used in the construction of regional, national, and global communities.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
[Afro-American Studies 155. Contact Languages: Language, Discourse, and Verbal Style in the African Diaspora]
Catalog Number: 2388
Marcyliena Morgan (University of California, Los Angeles)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Contact situations are often catastrophic events and include conquerors and the conquered, oppressors and the oppressed, intermediaries, onlookers, and more. This course explores the history of contact languages in the African Diaspora from a linguistic, political, social and cultural perspective. Focus will be on language contact resulting from plantation slavery in the Caribbean, and North and South America. And how it effects standardization, identity and nationalism.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course examines the artistic production and the representation of black people in the art of the Western world with a primary focus on archival resources, exhibition practice, collections, and museum catalogues. Its aim is to introduce undergraduates to a variety of art historical research practices using a dynamic schedule of one lecture and one visit to the Image of the Black in Western Art archive, the Fine Arts Library, or other off-site field trip, each week.
Note: To be held at the Sackler. One day of off-site classroom instruction. Locations to be announced in class. Off-site classroom sessions will be convened from 2-4.
Catalog Number: 5551
Gwendolyn DuBois Shaw
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course examines contemporary art made by African American and Latina women working in North America. Special attention will be given to various approaches to writing about raced and gendered artistic production taken over the last three decades. Throughout the course we will contrast critical with academic essays and traditional artistic approaches with Post-modern practices.

Note: To be held in the Sackler.

Afro-American Studies 169. Visualizing Africa
Catalog Number: 6598 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
This course examines the various ways in which Africa historically has been conceptualized and visualized in art and illustrative materials. Emphasis is given to the critical reading of actual works of art and documents. Construction of self and others as seen through images will be discussed. The interface between Africa and the Christian and Islamic Worlds, as well as larger concerns of Slavery, Colonialism, and contemporary art are examined.

Afro-American Studies 187y. Black Cinema as Genre—From Blaxploitation to Quentin Tarantino
Catalog Number: 9338
Isaac Julien
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Looks at the history of African-American Cinema (from Oscar Micheaux to Spike Lee) and focuses on the use of stereotypes and hyperbole in some of its post-war popular genres including blaxploitation (Melvin van Peebles). Discussions will focus on issues of sexism and homophobia as well as the way space, time, and the city figure in these cinemas. Topics include: representation of gender in Dash’s Illusions and Lee’s Girl 6; the role of Pam Grier in blaxploitation films; the “soul film” genre (Superfly) and black independent cinema (Ganja and Hess); the construction of black masculinity in Boyz ‘n the Hood and gangsta-rap themed noir films; and the appropriation of black cinema by other film-makers and genres such as the aesthetic du cool of Quentin Tarantino.

Note: Previous background in cultural theory and/or film theory recommended but not required.

Sally F. Moore, Victor S. Thomas Research Professor of Anthropology

Within the field of concentration there are three special fields: Archaeology, Biological Anthropology, and Social Anthropology. For the requirements in these special fields, consult the Undergraduate Office of the department.

Primarily for Undergraduates

*Anthropology 91r. Supervised Reading and Research

Catalog Number: 2537
Richard W. Wrangham

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Special study of selected topics in Anthropology, given on an individual basis and directly supervised by a member of the Department. May be taken for a letter grade or Pass/Fail. To enroll, a student must submit a petition form (available from the Undergraduate Office, William
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

James 452), signed by the adviser under whom he or she wishes to study, and a proposed plan of study.

*Anthropology 92r. Research Methods in Museum Collections
Catalog Number: 7712
Richard W. Wrangham
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Special study of selected Peabody Museum collections and/or archives, given on an individual basis, and directly supervised by a member of the faculty and a member of the Collections Management Staff. Will require a specific project involving a Museum collection, developed in consultation with the supervisors. Must be taken for a letter grade. Priority given to students in Anthropology and related departments. To enroll, a student must submit a petition form (available from the Undergraduate Office, William James 452), signed by both supervisors, as well as a proposed research agenda, during the term preceding the anticipated term of enrollment.

Note: Information sheets with Museum contacts available in William James 452.

*Anthropology 97x. Sophomore Tutorial in Archaeology
Catalog Number: 0400
Eric Christopher Kansa
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
The sophomore tutorial provides a background in archaeological method and theory, particularly focusing on small-scale societies. Specific topics include the origin of anatomically modern humans, the peopling of the New World, and the nature of small-scale societies in both modern and ancient contexts. Weekly readings (drawn from the current journal literature), discussions, several short writing assignments.

Note: Required of all concentrators.

*Anthropology 97y. Sophomore Tutorial in Biological Anthropology
Catalog Number: 3170
Richard W. Wrangham
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the issues and methods of biological anthropology, including evolutionary theory and its application to humans. Focuses on the comparison of primate and human physiology and social behavior as ecological adaptations and their application to understanding human evolution. Weekly readings, discussions, and short writing assignments, with a final research paper and presentation.

Note: Required of and limited to biological anthropology concentrators.

*Anthropology 97z. Sophomore Tutorial in Social Anthropology
Catalog Number: 5832
Lucia Volk
Half course (spring term). Tu., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 15
The sophomore tutorial provides an in-depth exploration and critique of major theoretical approaches in social and cultural anthropology, the historical context of their emergence, and their contribution and relation to the discipline as a whole. Seminar members will have a chance to read and discuss selected works by key theorists, and to see how their ideas have shaped ethnographic description and analysis.

Note: Required of all concentrators.

Anthropology 98xa. Junior Tutorial in Archaeology
Catalog Number: 2959
Eric Christopher Kansa

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

The junior tutorial provides a background in archaeological method and theory through critical analysis of selected issues and debates particularly focusing on more complex societies. Specific topics include the origins of agriculture and the domestication of animals, the development of complexity and “civilization” and post-colonial and historical archaeology and related ethical and theoretical issues. Weekly readings (drawn from current journal literature), discussions, several short writing assignments.

Note: Required of all concentrators in archaeology.

Anthropology 98xb. Junior Tutorial in Archaeology
Catalog Number: 3568
Eric Christopher Kansa

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

This individual tutorial for archaeology students intending to write a senior thesis is normally undertaken with a member of the faculty during the second term of junior year. To enroll, a student must submit a petition form (available from the Undergraduate Office, William James 452) with a proposed course plan of study and the tutorial adviser’s signature.

Note: Required of candidates for honors in archaeology.

Anthropology 98y. Junior Tutorial in Biological Anthropology
Catalog Number: 3923
Richard W. Wrangham

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Individual tutorial with a member of the biological anthropology faculty for juniors who will be undertaking an honors thesis in senior year. To enroll, a student must submit a petition form (available from the Undergraduate Office, William James 452) with a proposed plan of study and the tutorial adviser’s signature.

Anthropology 98z. Junior Tutorial in Social Anthropology
Catalog Number: 4503
Richard W. Wrangham

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Junior tutorials in Social Anthropology explore critical theoretical issues related to a single ethnographic region (eg. South Asia, Africa, Latin America). The issues and areas change from year to year, but the purpose remains the same: to give students a chance to grapple with advanced readings and to experience the ways that ideas and theories can be applied and critically analyzed in ethnographic studies.
*Anthropology 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 5830
Richard W. Wrangham
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Research and writing of the Senior Thesis. Limited to honors candidates. Signature of the faculty adviser required.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Anthropology 100. Rediscovering Past Societies: A Survey of World Prehistory
Catalog Number: 7182
Eric Kansa
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, and laboratory hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
This course is a survey of human societies of the prehistoric world, from the origins of humanity millions of years ago to the rise and fall of the first civilizations. We will discuss current archaeological reconstructions of prehistory, as well as the methods that are used to form these interpretations. Topics include human evolution, the peopling of the New World, the origins of agriculture, and the ancient civilizations (e.g., the ancient Egyptians, the mound-building peoples of North America, and the ancient Maya). Laboratory sections will give students the opportunity to examine and handle archaeological collections from the Peabody Museum.

Note: Open to freshmen.

Anthropology 101. Introduction to Archaeology
Catalog Number: 8727
Eric Kansa
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

This course is concerned with the actual practice of archaeology: How do archaeologists know where to dig? Why do we did square holes? How do we analyze and understand what we find?
These questions and others are discussed in a lecture/lab format that provides an overview of field, laboratory, and interpretive methodology. Among the topics covered are research design, site survey, mapping, sampling excavation strategy, stratigraphy, chronology, artifact classification and data processing. Archaeological method and theory are fully integrated in this course. Peabody Museum collections are used to provide hands-on experience with various methods of analysis.

Prerequisite: Anthropology 100 suggested but not required.

Anthropology 104. Language and Culture
Catalog Number: 5844
Steven C. Caton
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11 with graduate and undergraduate sections to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Examines the ways forms of speaking can constitute cultural life and vice versa. Though different approaches to this kind of study will be surveyed, an ethnographic one will be emphasized. A comprehensive overview of linguistic theories of structuralism and their criticism will form the basis on which to proceed to this ethnographic approach. Topics will include: the structuralisms of Ferdinand de Saussure, Roman Jakobson, and Edward Sapir; the Sapir-Whorf Relativity Hypothesis and its modern evocations; speech indexicality and pragmatics; performativity; Bakhtinian dialogicality; and poetry and poetics.

Note: No previous knowledge of linguistics or of anthropology is required. Graduate section optional.

Anthropology 105. Food and Culture
Catalog Number: 0206
James L. Watson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12

Food is examined for its social and cultural implications; nutritional or dietetic concerns are of secondary interest. Topics include food taboos and restrictions, gift giving and reciprocity, food panic, exchanges and social boundaries, food symbolism, religion and food systems, food panics, the social construction of food, and the world standardization of food preferences. Examples are drawn from China, India, Latin America, Africa, Europe, the Pacific, and the United States.

Anthropology 110. Introduction to Social Anthropology
Catalog Number: 8296
Theodore C. Bestor (fall term) and Lucia Volk (spring term)
Anthropology 111. Behavioral and Reproductive Endocrinology
Catalog Number: 2265
Peter T. Ellison
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, plus a weekly discussion section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
An introduction to the interaction between the endocrine system, behavior, and reproduction stressing primates and humans. General principles of endocrine physiology are presented first, including a survey of major hormonal, hormone production, receptor interactions and signal transduction, and feedback regulation. The second section of the course covers the relationship of the endocrine system to reproductive behavior, stress reactions, and cognition. The final section covers the role of the endocrine system in human reproductive ecology.
Note: This course is a prerequisite for Anthropology 118.
Prerequisite: Science B-29, Science B-17, Biology 1, Biology 2, or Anthropology 138.

Anthropology 114. Evolution of Human Sexuality: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 8546 Enrollment: Limited to 10. Preference given to anthropology undergraduates.
Frank W. Marlowe
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
This course is an examination of human sexuality in evolutionary perspective. Topics may include sexual selection, mate preferences, mating systems, sex differences, and sexual orientation, among other things. Students collect original data and analyze them for their research projects, with feedback from the class.
Note: Fulfills the research seminar requirement for anthropology concentrators.
Prerequisite: Science B-29 or permission of instructor.

Anthropology 115. Primate Evolutionary Ecology
Catalog Number: 0571
Mark Leighton
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
A survey of interactions between primates and their environments in an evolutionary context. Lectures discuss the influence of competition, predation, and other ecological processes on primate morphological and behavioral adaptations, population distribution and abundance, and coevolutionary relationships with other species in the community. Interspecific comparisons are developed by empirical and theoretical treatment of food resources and feeding patterns, ranging and intergroup spacing, mating systems and sociality, and community structure and niche relationships. Laboratory and field exercises teach some methods of ecological investigation using local vertebrates.

Prerequisite: An introductory course in Biology, or Science B-29, or permission of instructor.

*Anthropology 118. Endocrinology and Behavior: Research Seminar

Catalog Number: 1437 Enrollment: Limited to 8. Preference given to anthropology graduate and undergraduate students.

Susan F. Lipson

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11 with laboratory either M. or W. 2-5. EXAM GROUP: 4
An introduction to laboratory techniques and research design in behavioral endocrinology. Students develop and conduct pilot research projects.

Note: Fulfills research seminar requirement for anthropology concentrators.

Prerequisite: Anthropology 111.

[Anthropology 119. Evolutionary Ecology of Environmental Management]

Catalog Number: 1877

Mark Leighton

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examination of evolutionary models of cooperation and collective action, applied to the global environmental problems requiring solutions during the 21st century. Topics include human warfare and competition for resources, conservation ecology, natural resource management, climate change and human population problems. Lectures will be supplemented by discussions and debates to foster critical analysis of arguments regarding human collective action and public policy.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 120. Anthropology, Cultural Studies, and Film

Catalog Number: 1522

Steven C. Caton

Half course (fall term). Lecture: W., 10–1; Lab: Tu., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4, 5
This course focuses on feature-length commercial film (rather than ethnographic or documentary film) and some of the culture industries (Hollywood and Iran) that produce them. What might an anthropology of film look like? Film theory and cultural studies will be examined for their contributions to the answer to that question. Topics to be explored are: the culture industry, critical theory, the ethnographic gaze, media studies, modernity, nationalism and transnationalism.

Note: Open to non-majors. Graduate students may enroll and make arrangements for specialized readings and assignments.

[Anthropology 122. Japanese Culture and Society]

Catalog Number: 6564

Theodore C. Bestor

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Course examines contemporary Japanese culture and society, drawing on the research findings of anthropologists, sociologists, and social historians. Topics covered in this year’s course may include: the recent history of Japanese family organization; household organization and inheritance patterns; the effects of industrialization on Japanese “tradition”; Japanese “modernity” and popular culture; inter-ethnic relations and social hierarchies; globalism and cultural transformations; schooling and workforce socialization; consumerism and Japanese corporate culture; gender relations and the changing role of women; local politics and the pursuit of “cultural authenticity”; and Japanese culture as an economic and political force in 21st-century East Asia.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Graduate students may enroll and make arrangements for specialized readings and assignments.

Anthropology 123. Environment and Environmentalism: Anthropological Perspectives: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 0889
Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Pauline E. Peters
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
An anthropological exploration of current debates on environment and environmentalism. Through readings on a range of countries and peoples, considers the following themes: the ways in which different groups in different times and places produce cultural constructions of nature, landscape, wilderness, and environment; contestations over the use, knowledge, and meanings of natural resources; movements between the culturalization of nature and the naturalization of culture; environmentalism as discourse; environmental social movements and cults; landscape as commodity.

[Anthropology 127. Social Approaches in Archaeology]
Catalog Number: 4191
Yun Kuen Lee
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course surveys the use of archaeological data for the reconstruction of past socio-cultural organizations. One of the most important questions in archaeology is how people of the past related to each other. All societies comprise multi-faceted social, economic, and political organizations regulated by kinship, gender, ethnicity, faction, etc. The complex interaction of these groups is the dynamic force of societies. We are going to monitor the operation of these past organizations in relation to their levels of complexity, as well as their specific ecological, economic and historical contexts.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

[Anthropology 135. The Archaeology of the American Southwest]
Catalog Number: 8755
Steven A. LeBlanc
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Considers the prehistory of the American Southwest from PaleoIndian times to European contact. Topics include the adoption of agriculture, the development and then collapse of social complexity, and how and why regional differences appeared. A basic familiarity with the artifacts—pottery, stone tools, etc.—will be developed, as well as a working knowledge of the major sites in the region, such as Mesa Verde, Chaco Canyon, and Casas Grandes. We will read selected early ethnographic accounts of the people of the region so that we can consider the relationship of the prehistoric people to modern indigenous populations.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Open to Upper Division and Grad Students.

Anthropology 137. Human Behavioral Ecology
Catalog Number: 6675
Frank W. Marlowe
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1:30–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
The behavioral ecology of humans is examined across modes of subsistence and in relation to other species. Topics include life history, optimal foraging, parental care, mating systems, status, stratification, nepotism, cooperation, violence, ethnocentrism, morality, and cultural evolution.

Prerequisite: Science B-29 or permission of instructor.

Anthropology 138. The Behavioral Biology of Women
Catalog Number: 8721
Cheryl D. Knott
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An exploration of female behavior from an evolutionary and biosocial perspective. Focuses on physiological, ecological, and social aspects of women’s development from puberty, through reproductive processes such as pregnancy, birth, lactation, to menopause and aging. Also explores female life history strategies in a variety of cultural settings. Topics include cognitive and behavioral differences between men and women; violence against and by women; and women’s reproductive health choices. Examples are drawn primarily from traditional and modern human societies; data from studies of nonhuman primates are also considered.

Anthropology 140. The Transition from Hunting-Gathering to Agriculture
Catalog Number: 1837
Ofer Bar-Yosef and Richard H. Meadow
Half course (fall term). F., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Introduces and critically evaluates data and ideas concerning strategy changes during the transition from hunting and gathering to agriculture in different regions of the world. Each regional session includes a brief summary of prehistoric hunter-gatherers in the area, the transition to farming, horticultural, or pastoral communities, the domestication of plants and animals, and the major interpretations or explanations for the transition.

Anthropology 142. Human Skeletal Growth and Function
Catalog Number: 6233
Daniel E. Lieberman
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course provides an integrative overview of human musculo-skeletal anatomy, with a focus on aspects of developmental biology and functional morphology that are especially relevant to problems in human evolution. No prior knowledge of anatomy is required. Topics covered include: muscle and skeletal development, anatomy and histology; the biomechanics of muscles and bones; craniofacial growth and development; the functional morphology of chewing, respiration, vocalization, locomotion, and other activities.

Prerequisite: Science B-27 recommended.

Anthropology 144. The Archaeology of Ancient China
Catalog Number: 4731
Yun Kuen Lee
Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Ancient China offers unique opportunities for the study of cultural and social evolution. It presents a long and uninterrupted continuum of development from the appearance of early humanity to the rise of a complex civilization. In addition, we have at our disposal an extensive body of archaeological data and textual material that are seldom available together in the other parts of the world. This course investigates the archaeology of ancient China from an anthropological perspective. Particular attention will be paid to how human groups adapted to natural and social environments.

Anthropology 146. Archaeological Laboratory Practicum
Catalog Number: 4063
Carole A. Mandryk
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Students learn the basics of processing, cataloguing and analyzing artifacts recovered from archaeological sites of the students’ choosing.

Anthropology 148. Gifts and Goods: Anthropological Approaches to Political Economy
Catalog Number: 0535
Enrollment: Open only to upperclass and graduate students.
Stanley J. Tambiah
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Critically examines a variety of theoretical frameworks or understanding so-called “economic facts” and their placement within larger social, political, and cultural contexts, and for understanding how the production, distribution, and consumption of economic goods and services relate to networks of social relations, structures of exchange, relations of power, and institutions of family, class, caste, etc. The course concludes with an examination of gifts/commodities in late capitalism, the possibilities of alternative development strategies in the post-colonial world, and the nature and consequences of globalization.

Anthropology 149. Primate Nutrition and the Evolution of the Human Diet: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 6239
Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Cheryl D. Knott
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
An exploration of primate and human dietary adaptations, digestive physiology and feeding behavior. Using a nutritional, physiological and ecological framework, topics will include: nutritional requirements, optimal foraging in primates, maternal and infant nutrition, the nature of early hominid diets, the role of hunting and carnivory in human evolution, the impact of technology on dietary composition, the nutritional impact of agriculture, and modern human diets. Projects may include laboratory analyses of plant and animal foods.
Anthropology 150. Environmental Archaeology
Catalog Number: 3504
Jennifer R. Smith
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
This course will examine the history of the relationship between humans and the landscapes and ecosystems which they inhabit. Emphasis is placed on both the increasingly complex impact of humans on the environment, and the role that climate change has played in human biological and cultural evolution. Methods of environmental reconstruction will be discussed, as will critical innovations and events in human/environment interaction.

Anthropology 151. North American Prehistory
Catalog Number: 1421
Carole A. Mandryk
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
An introduction to the archaeology and cultural developments of North America north of Mexico, from first settlement to the arrival of Europeans. Focuses on human adaptation and interaction with the environment, subsistence, settlement patterns, technology, gender and ideology. Reviews major theoretical transformations in North American archaeology; explores some of the major methodological and theoretical problems of selected areas and time periods; examines the archaeological record in specific regions; and examines general trends in cultural evolution on a continental scale.

Anthropology 152. Mesopotamia — Egypt — The Indus Valley
Catalog Number: 8398
C. C. Lamberg-Karlovsky
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course will examine the economic and political interaction that brought the Bronze Age Civilizations of the ancient Near East into contact. The Mesopotamian, the Gulf, Central Asian, Iranian Plateau, Levant, Egypt, and the Indus Valley will all be considered in relation to core-periphery concepts.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 153. Nationalism and Bureaucracy
Catalog Number: 0291 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Michael Herzfeld
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
This course explores the ideological and practical foundations and effects of nationalism. Particular attention is focused on how nationalism is reproduced by bureaucrats in daily practice, and how rituals of national identity are organized and invested with meaning. Cases include systems of taxation, historic conservation, health care, and immigration. The course, comparative in scope, covers several different countries and systems, and is designed to highlight the contribution of ethnography to the analysis of national bureaucracies.

*Anthropology 158. The Fossil Record and Primate Evolution: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 3509 Enrollment: Limited to 8.
John C. Barry
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
An introduction to the analysis of fossils and interpretation of the fossil record, including that of primates. Reading and discussion topics include: reconstructing the behavior of extinct species; limitations of the fossil record; origin and extinction of species; and the role of climate in shaping species’ histories. Students will have individual or group research projects using, among other possibilities, vertebrate fossils from Pakistan.
Prerequisite: Science B-27 or permission of instructor.

Anthropology 159. Museums and Representations: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4185 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Rubie S. Watson
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Treats the ethnographic museum as a focus for historical and cultural study. By analyzing one early Peabody Museum collection (containing some of the oldest examples of 18th- and 19th-century Native American, Pacific Island, and African artifacts and art), students will consider the different ways in which material culture is collected, housed, and exhibited. Readings and discussions will include issues of art/artifact distinctions, ownership and display, history of collecting and display in anthropology. Students will be asked to work with objects in the Peabody Museum’s collections and archival documentation.

Anthropology 160. Historical Archaeology
Catalog Number: 7044
Steven R. Pendery
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
This course is a survey of historical archaeology with a focus on the archaeology of greater Boston. Topics to be covered include the history and theory of historical archaeology, the natural history and prehistory of the greater Boston area, the archaeology of early European settlements, Colonial and Revolutionary War sites, and the nineteenth century and the rise of industrialism. Students will gain hands-on experience by working with artifacts from the Longfellow National Historic Site.

Anthropology 162. Geographic Information Systems (GIS) for Anthropologists
Catalog Number: 9087
Jennifer R. Smith
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3 plus an hour of lab. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
This course introduces fundamental principles of geographic informations systems as they apply to anthropology and archaeology. Students will learn how to use GIS to manage and analyze spatial data, while solving anthropologically relevant problems such as determining locations of specific habitats, identifying site distribution patterns, and managing extensive archaeological data sets. Principles of cartography as well as additional useful computer software packages will be introduced.

[Anthropology 163. Molecular Evolution of the Primates]
Catalog Number: 3359
Maryellen Ruvolo
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Introduction to the primates, emphasizing their molecular phylogenetic relationships and the forces that mold their genomes. Topics include the neutral theory of molecular evolution, molecular clock concept and its applications, evolution of multigene families, relationships between primate morphological and molecular evolution, molecular convergences, evidence for horizontal gene transfer in primate genomes, and evolution of simian and human immunodeficiency viruses.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Anthropology 103 or Science B-59.

Anthony 166. Archaeological Science
Catalog Number: 2013
Carole A. Mandryk
Half course (spring term). M., 7–10 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 18
Pressing issues in archaeology as an anthropological science. Stresses the natural science and engineering methods archaeologists use to tackle them. Reconstructing time, space, and human ecologies provides one focus; materials technologies that transform natural materials to material culture provide another. Topics include 14C dating, ice core and palynological analysis, stable isotope chemistry of palaeodietary foodwebs, soil micromorphology and site formation, Pb isotope sourcing of metal artifacts, and mechanical analyses of cementitious materials used in ancient monumental buildings.

Note: Meets at MIT. Call 253-1375 for more information.

Prerequisite: One year of college-level chemistry or physics.

Anthony 168. Anthropology at Home: Doing Fieldwork in Familiar Places
Catalog Number: 2145 Enrollment: Undergraduates only.
Mary M. Steedly
Picture yourself set down on a tropical island, with all your gear. So begins one of the classic accounts of ethnographic fieldwork, Malinowski’s Argonauts of the Western Pacific. Generations of anthropologists measured themselves against this standard, but today its relevance has come under scrutiny. What are the advantages and disadvantages of conducting fieldwork “at home” instead? Intended primarily for (but not limited to) juniors preparing to do thesis fieldwork, this course explores the problems of and prospects for doing fieldwork in familiar places. The final project will be a plan of research for a summer project or other similar undertaking.

Anthony 184. Ethnicity in the Americas: The Indian Question
Catalog Number: 6872
David H. P. Maybury-Lewis
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
Discusses, from the point of view of political anthropology, the historical developments and regional circumstances that have influenced relations between indigenous peoples and others in the Americas. Considers indigenous efforts to resist assimilation and contemporary indigenous struggles for limited autonomy in Mexico, Peru, Brazil, and the United States. Concludes by showing how these issues are affected by the national agenda of American states and how the indigenous experience in the Americas relates to the problems and prospects of multiethnic societies worldwide.

[Anthropology 186. Ceramics and Exchange in Mesoamerica]
Catalog Number: 3047
William L. Fash
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Exchange systems in pre-Hispanic Mesoamerica were inextricably linked with the evolution of complex society on the local level, and the development of larger sociopolitical units for the cultural area as a whole. We will examine how Mesoamerican ceramics have been collected and analyzed to address issues of exchange, both within and between regions, from the Early Preclassic to the present day. The course will include analysis of some of the Peabody Museum collections from various parts of ancient Mesoamerica.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Anthropology 190. Quantitative Methods In Anthropology]
Catalog Number: 3491
Yun Kuen Lee
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the application of quantitative methods in Anthropology. Emphasizes the understanding of statistical inferences from intuitive reasoning and getting meaningful answers to anthropological problems. Weekly exercises are designed to give students hands-on experience on the application of quantitative methods in Anthropology by using packaged statistical programs on the computer. Students will have the chance to experiment systematically with data in order to estimate probabilities and make statistical inferences, to extract data structures by using univariate and bivariate methods in anthropological research.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Open to both graduates and undergraduates.
Prerequisite: Undergraduates must have completed the quantitative reasoning requirement.

[*Anthropology 194r. Topics in Primate and Human Evolution]
Catalog Number: 2462
David Pilbeam
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A lecture-seminar-laboratory course on current issues in the fields of paleoanthropology and evolutionary primatology.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Fulfills the research seminar requirement for anthropology concentrators.
Prerequisite: Anthropology 117 or equivalent.

Anthropology 198. Violence and the Media
Catalog Number: 7864 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Kay B. Warren
Half course (fall term). W., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
The way diverse media—testimonios, TV, truth commissions, the internet—portray violent conflict. At issue are the representation of pain and social suffering and the political uses of media to justify violence. The goals of this course are to gain insight into violent conflicts—
Vietnam, Northern Ireland, Latin American counterinsurgency wars, racial clashes in the US—and to develop interpretive tools for media analysis.

Note: Open only to upperclass students. Preference given to Anthropology students.

Primarily for Graduates

[*Anthropology 200 (formerly Anthropology 200a). Osteoarchaeology Lab]
Catalog Number: 0363 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Richard H. Meadow
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to the osteoarchaeological analysis. Identification of animal bones and teeth from archaeological sites using comparative materials and their characterization employing visual, metric, and microscopic methods.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Open to qualified undergraduates. Fulfills osteology requirement for archaeology graduate students.

Anthropology 201r. Topics in the Anthropology of Gender
Catalog Number: 8452
Mary M. Steedly
Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines current issues in feminist theory and the anthropological study of gender. Topics change from year to year. In the past, topics have included gender and: citizenship, political economy, subjectivity, and narrative.

Anthropology 203. Human Genetic Diversity: Seminar
Catalog Number: 0775 Enrollment: Strictly limited to biological anthropology graduate students.
Maryellen Ruvolo
Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Restricted to biological anthropology graduate students preparing for general exams. To be taken concurrently with Science B-59 lectures, with additional weekly meeting to be arranged.
Note: In addition to weekly afternoon seminar meetings, students are expected to attend the regular fall term lectures of Anthropology 103 (Tu., Th., 10–11:30).

Anthropology 205a. History and Theory of Social Anthropology: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 7971
Mary M. Steedly
Half course (fall term). W., 3–6. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
A critical review of the major theoretical approaches in social anthropology.
Note: Required of candidates for the Ph.D. in Social Anthropology. Limited to doctoral candidates. Not open to undergraduates.

Anthropology 205b. History and Theory of Social Anthropology: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 7971
Kay B. Warren
Half course (spring term). W., 3–6. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Continuation of Anthropology 205a. Limited to doctoral candidates. Not open to undergraduates.
[Anthropology 206r. Topics in Paleolithic Archaeology and Human Evolution]
Catalog Number: 8630
Ofer Bar-Yosef and David Pilbeam
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Presentations and discussions of selected topics in Paleolithic archaeology and human evolution in the Old World. Among the main issues: the “out of Africa” by Homo erectus, the emergence and dispersals of modern humans, the colonization of Eurasia, the survival strategies of the Neanderthals and their demise, the use of radiometric techniques, the transition to Upper Paleolithic cultural manifestations, and the foraging strategies of past hunter-gatherers.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 207 (formerly Anthropology 207a). Archaeological Method and Theory: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4634
Steven A. LeBlanc
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Examines the historical development and philosophical basis of archaeological method and theory. Discussions focus on critical evaluation of interpretive models, including culture history, positivism, hermeneutics and critical theory. Special attention given to current debates and controversies, including the processualist-postprocessualist debate and the future of archaeology in a changing social and political climate.
Note: Required of first-year students in Archaeology; open to other graduate students in the department.

[Anthropology 210. Anthropology of Events]
Catalog Number: 3939
Steven C. Caton
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar investigates the significance of events in everyday life. What are events? Why are they important? How can anthropology represent or narrativize them? Readings are drawn from anthropology, history, philosophy, and film theory.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 211r. Issues in Mesoamerican Archaeology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 7276
David S. Stuart
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A consideration of the reconstruction of pre-Hispanic societies in Mexico, Guatemala, and lower Central America, with particular emphasis on the development of political organization and its maintenance through the manipulation of symbols in ritual and art and the control of economic processes.

Anthropology 212. Current Topics in Human Evolutionary Genetics
Catalog Number: 1175
Maryellen Ruvolo
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Critical reading of current literature on the genetics of living humans and discussion of evolutionary implications.
Note: Open to undergraduates doing senior thesis research in this area.
Prerequisite: Anthropology 103.

[Anthropology 213. Theories of Discourse in Middle Eastern Ethnography]
Catalog Number: 8989
Steven C. Caton
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The discursive construction of culture and its complex politics are examined in a wide range of ethnographies that have been written recently on countries in the Middle East, including Lebanon, Jordan, Israel/Palestine, Egypt, Morocco, and Yemen. Among the theoretical topics to be considered are orientalism, colonialism and post-colonialism, nationalism, self, gender, and tribalism.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Anthropology 217. Human Evolution Seminar]
Catalog Number: 6884 Enrollment: Limited to graduate students in Biological Anthropology.
David Pilbeam
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Reading and discussion of current research in human evolution, taken with lectures, labs and tests of Science B-27.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Required of entering graduate students in Biological Anthropology.

[Anthropology 221. The Anthropology of Knowledge: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 7070
Michael Herzfeld
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An exploration and comparative analysis of local epistemologies from craft apprentices and seasoned skilled manual workers to schoolchildren and laboratory scientists. Particular attention will be paid to the embodiment, inculcation, and transmission of practical knowledge, and to the relationship between cosmology, social context, and pragmatic understanding.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Anthropology 226t. Research Design]
Catalog Number: 9193 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Theodore C. Bestor
Half course (spring term). F., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Seminar critiques weekly writing assignments leading to complete dissertation research proposals; defining theoretical and ethnographic contexts of research problem; reviewing literature; explaining site selection, methodology, timetable, human subjects protection; preparing budget; identifying grant sources.
Note: Open only to doctoral candidates, with preference given to advanced students in Anthropology.
Anthropology 228r (formerly Anthropology 228). Biology of Aggression
Catalog Number: 6107
Richard W. Wrangham
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Discussion will focus on primate inter-group aggression, with particular attention to humans and chimpanzees. The course will be based around a behavioral-ecological perspective but will include readings from various disciplines, including behavioral ecology, behavioral genetics, social psychology, developmental psychology, neurobiology, social anthropology, political science and international relations.

Anthropology 229. Behavioral Biology Seminar
Catalog Number: 3777
Richard W. Wrangham and Frank W. Marlowe
Half course (spring term). M., 3:30–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Reading and discussion of current research in behavioral biology of primates (including humans) in parallel with Science B-29.
Note: Required of entering graduate students in biological anthropology. Open to other graduate students with permission of instructor. Limited to graduate students. Given in alternate years.

Anthropology 235ar. Laboratory Methods in Primate and Human Nutrition I
Catalog Number: 2187
Richard W. Wrangham
Half course (fall term). Hours to be Arranged.
Independent laboratory study in the biochemical analysis of plant and animal foods, and of human and animal digestive physiology and feeding behavior.

Anthropology 235br. Laboratory Methods in Primate and Human Nutrition II
Catalog Number: 3292
Cheryl D. Knott
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Independent laboratory study in the biochemical analysis of plant and animal foods, and of human and animal digestive physiology and feeding behavior.

*Anthropology 237br. Advanced Laboratory Methods in Endocrinology II
Catalog Number: 5345
Susan F. Lipson
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Intended for students engaged in laboratory research.

Anthropology 239ar. Advanced Laboratory Methods in Primate Endocrinology I
Catalog Number: 9945
Cheryl D. Knott
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Intended for students engaged in laboratory research on non-human primate endocrinology.
Anthropology 239br. Advanced Laboratory Methods in Primate Endocrinology II
Catalog Number: 8585
Cheryl D. Knott
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Intended for students engaged in laboratory research on non-human primate endocrinology.

[Anthropology 245. Culture, Mental Illness and the Body]
Catalog Number: 6013
Byron J. Good (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Briefly reviews the figure of mental illness in Western thought and the social sciences, then focuses on themes in cross-cultural studies of psychopathology: culture and diagnosis; cultural influences on dissociation, depression, and schizophrenia; and madness in non-Euroamerican healing systems and transnational aspects of psychiatry. Particular emphasis will be placed on interviewing methods appropriate for research in cultural psychology.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 246. Maincurrents in Anthropological Thought
Catalog Number: 9980
Nur Yalman
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Developments in social theory in the British, French, German, and American traditions. Positivism, Marxism, Structuralism, Post-modernism reconsidered. Comparisons with Asian traditions of just societies.
Note: Limited to graduate students.

Anthropology 250. Local Biologies: Perspectives on the Interaction Between Culture and Biology
Catalog Number: 8267
Arthur Kleinman
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Reviews the variety of anthropological and other perspectives on the interactions between culture and biology. Topics include mind-brain-society interaction in pain; comparative cross-cultural studies of menopause; the sociosomatics of depression; the new genetics and eugenics; research on stress and trauma; indigenous non-western constructions on the body; history of psychosomatic research.
Note: Open to advanced undergraduates with permission of the instructor.

[Anthropology 253. Theory in Medical and Psychiatric Anthropology: Culture, Science, and the Body]
Catalog Number: 3440
Byron J. Good (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Reviews theoretical debates in medical and psychiatric anthropology, outlining a position at the interface of interpretive and critical perspectives. Special attention given to cultural studies of the biosciences and biomedicine and to recent critical and phenomenological accounts of the body.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 257g. Anthropological Interviewing
Catalog Number: 5768  Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Byron J. Good (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
Will provide theoretical grounding and practical supervision in ethnographic interviewing. Will address life history and interview design, developing and managing intimacy, recognizing transference and countertransference, recording and transcribing data, and textual analysis.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Limited to graduate students. No auditors.

Anthropology 259. Culture, Politics, and the Media
Catalog Number: 8797
Kay B. Warren
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar examines the shifting meanings of “the political” across the post-Cold War transition. Topics include (a) realist representation in mass media, film, museums, popular culture, testimonio, and ethnography and (b) political imaginaries of the violent vs. democratic state. Issues raised by repoliticized and depoliticized situations in Latin America and beyond.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Limited to graduate students. No auditors.

Anthropology 260. Ethnography of Latin America: Views Across The Pacific Rim
Catalog Number: 8928
Kay B. Warren
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
A survey of ethnographic experiments to highlight representational dilemmas in research and writing on Latin America. Theoretical and methodological issues raised by post-Marxism, postmodernism, and cultural studies debates in the U.S. and Latin America; indigenous anthropology; transculturalism and borderlands; and the use and abuse of ethnographic classics.
Note: Open to junior and senior Anthropology concentrators with a background in Latin America. No auditors.

Anthropology 262. Kinship Practice
Catalog Number: 5896
James L. Watson
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Research seminar focusing on the practice of kinship in everyday life, with emphasis on methodology and fieldwork. Students write papers on topics relating to their future research. Seminar discussions include: single-parenthood, family-limitation campaigns, property transfer and heirship, marriage and diaspora formation, global culture and the practice of family life.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Limited to graduate students.

Anthropology 263. Transnationalism, Globalism, and Local Culture
Catalog Number: 5127
James L. Watson
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Examines recent theories of transnationalism and globalism, with emphasis on popular culture (music, TV, style, entertainment, food systems, etc.). Special attention is devoted to debates regarding cultural imperialism and the effects of transnational corporations on “local” cultures. Students are expected to work on individual projects, participate in joint discussions, and help develop new methodologies for the analysis of transnational phenomena.

Anthropology 264 (formerly Social Analysis 48), Anthropology and the Uses of History
Catalog Number: 9103
Michael Herzfeld
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines how people’s ideas about history are created and used for various political and social ends, paying particular attention to the role of nationalism and to the kinds of history people create in opposition to state power. A central concern is to emphasize the existence of local points of view that ordinarily escape the attention of “official” historians. Gender, political affiliation, and social position are examined for their effect on people’s interpretations and use of the past.
Note: May count for graduate ethnography.

Anthropology 266ar. Archaeological Science
Catalog Number: 5945
C. C. Lamberg-Karlovsky
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to laboratory techniques and analytical processes used in the study of bone from archaeological sites. Includes macroscopic and microscopic approaches to the identification and characterization of non-human animal hard tissue.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. CMRAE course topics change each year. Sessions held in CMRAE Graduate Lab, MIT 20B-012. Course continues spring term as Anthropology 266br.

Anthropology 266br. Materials in Ancient Societies: Stone
Catalog Number: 7163
C. C. Lamberg-Karlovsky
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The scientific analysis of stone used for tools, luxury goods, and construction. Laboratory techniques for identifying rock types and determining rock properties, tool manufacturing sequences. Investigation of prehistoric technologies and economies based on stone.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 267r. Current Issues in Reproductive Ecology
Catalog Number: 3717
Peter T. Ellison and Cheryl D. Knott
Half course (fall term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
An exploration of current research in human and primate reproductive ecology, including endocrinology and its relationship to energy metabolism, development, male reproductive effort, seasonality, stress, cognition, and reproductive and parental behavior throughout the lifecourse.
[Anthropology 268. Ethnography and Personhood]
Catalog Number: 3560
Michael Herzfeld
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An intensive, critical review of major ethnographic works, including some that engage biography and autobiography, intended to explore the relationship between society and personhood cross-culturally; to examine ethnographic writing and its relation to other genres; and to trace a history of anthropological theory through changes in descriptive and analytic practice.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 269v. At the Crossroads of East and West: Earliest Prehistory of Central Eurasia
Catalog Number: 6679
Ofer Bar-Yosef
Half course (spring term). F., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Prehistory of Central Eurasia from the Lower Paleolithic to the Mesolithic. Covers material from the Russian Plain, Central Asia, and South Siberia; formation of East-West cultural opposition, fate of the Neanderthals, and other issues.

[Anthropology 274. Sovereignty, Ethnicity, and Pluralism]
Catalog Number: 0688
Nur Yalman
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the political dimensions of cultural pluralism: the questions of legitimacy, nation building, autonomy, and revolution are considered. Western theory and Asian experience: the use of myth, history, and religion with special reference to South and West Asia (other Asian regions may be included).
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Anthropology 275. Gender Issues in Biological Anthropology
Catalog Number: 3764
Cheryl D. Knott
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An examination of the role and influence of gender in studies of primatology, human behavioral ecology and human evolution. Topics include aggression, sexual coercion, the evolution of patriarchy, sex differences, and hormonal influences on behavior.

[Anthropology 277. Development Dilemmas]
Catalog Number: 8724
Pauline E. Peters
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines development and its dilemmas; discusses theories and practices of development and critical positions of under-development, dominating knowledge, and anti-development; explores approaches of sustainable, participatory, and green development, and examples of resistance and reappropriation of development. Throughout, the emphasis is on the cultural politics of Anthropology 278 (formerly Anthropology 183). The Charisma of Saints, and the Cults of Relics, Amulets, Images, and Shrines
Catalog Number: 3340
Stanley J. Tambiah
Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Examination of some Christian, Buddhist, and Islamic traditions with regard to their conceptions of sainthood, and of the above-mentioned cults associated with saints, both living and dead. Comparison focuses on both convergences and differences.
Note: Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3222.

Anthropology 287. Trade and Production in the Bronze Age
Catalog Number: 1577
C. C. Lamberg-Karlovsky and Maurizio Tosi
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
The nature of trade and the production of commodities will be examined in specific core areas (Mesopotamia, The Indus Valley, Central Asia) as well as between these core regions and adjacent peripheries, i.e. The Gulf, Iranian Plateau.

*Anthropology 288r. Zooarchaeology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 5453
Richard H. Meadow
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Topics relating to the analysis and interpretation of faunal remains from archaeological sites discussed. The domains of taphonomy, assemblage characterization, quantification, environmental and dietary reconstruction, and human/nonhuman animal interaction considered using case studies from archaeology and anthropology, paleontology, and zoology.
Note: Does not fulfill osteology requirement for Archaeology graduate students.

Anthropology 289. Culture and Violence
Catalog Number: 2538
Kay B. Warren
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
The anthropology of violence and the ethnographic representation of militant ethnic nationalism, communal violence, organized crime, state terrorism, death squads, and epistemic and structural violence. Comparative consideration of human rights, truth commissions, and peace processes.

[Anthropology 290. Other Others: New Ethnographic Orientations]
Catalog Number: 1747
Mary M. Steedly
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
In its early years, anthropology was defined as a discipline by its focus on isolated or primitive societies. Lately anthropologists have taken a turn toward other forms of “otherness.” This course examines the variety of new ethnographic orientations through which anthropologists are moving beyond the primitive.

*Anthropology 295ar. Laboratory Methods in Evolutionary Genetics
Catalog Number: 7934 Enrollment: Limited to graduate students and undergraduates conducting senior thesis research.
*Maryellen Ruvolo
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

*Anthropology 295br. Laboratory Methods in Evolutionary Genetics
Catalog Number: 6468 Enrollment: Limited to graduate students and undergraduates conducting senior thesis research.
*Maryellen Ruvolo
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Anthropology 296r. Chinese Social Anthropology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4633 Enrollment: Limited to graduate students.
*James L. Watson
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Examines current developments in the social anthropology of Chinese society, with emphasis on popular culture and historical ethnography. Each year a general topic is chosen as the subject of joint research. 2001 is “Recent Ethnographies and New Approaches to Chinese Culture.”

Anthropology 298 (formerly Anthropology 172). Sociocultural Space and Time: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6527
*Engseng Ho
Half course (spring term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Social theory since Durkheim and Mauss has explicitly engaged the dimensions of space and time in confronting the diversity of sociocultural forms. We will begin with the classical sociological impetus which animated interest in the subject, then move on to discrete topical concerns such as landscape, place, travel, built form, memory, genealogy, industrialization, sacrality. The course will end with a consideration of recent works on the cultural politics of space and time. Presentation and research paper required.
*Note: Open to graduate students only.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Anthropology 300. Reading Course
Catalog Number: 3454
Daniel Lieberman 3980 and Members of the Department
Special reading in selected topics under the direction of members of the Department.
Note: Consult the appropriate member of the Department.

Anthropology 301. Reading for General Examination
Catalog Number: 5689
Members of the Department
Individual reading in preparation for the General Examination for the Ph.D. degree.
Note: Restricted to candidates for the Ph.D. degree and ordinarily to those who have completed at least one year in residence.

Anthropology 302. Current Issues in Biological Anthropology
Catalog Number: 9373
Daniel Lieberman, David Pilbeam 7224 (on leave 2001-02), Daniel E. Lieberman 3980, Richard W. Wrangham 2349, and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., 12–1:30.
Weekly seminars in biological anthropology.

Anthropology 303. Readings on Southeast Asia
Catalog Number: 7935
Stanley J. Tambiah 4692
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Anthropology 330. Supervised Field Work in Anthropology

Catalog Number: 5683

Members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Lectures, conferences, field and laboratory work. Daily, at the pleasure of the instructor.

General instruction in field methods and practice in the various divisions of anthropology, including archaeology, ethnography, and physical anthropology. Instructional personnel and location of course vary with the research program of the staff.

Note: May be taken by graduate students for academic credit, but since it is tuition-free, does not count for residence credit leading to reduced tuition. Open to students with adequate previous training in the subject.

Anthropology 340. Reading and Research

Catalog Number: 6699

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in Applied Mathematics

Jeremy Bloxham, Harvard College Professor and Professor of Geophysics

The Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences offers undergraduate and graduate courses in Applied Mathematics, Applied Physics, Computer Science, Earth and Planetary Sciences, and Engineering Sciences. Recommended curricula may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a. Division faculty also offer several courses in the section entitled General Education Electives.

For information concerning the concentration in Applied Mathematics please consult the Director of Undergraduate Studies or the Academic Office, Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences, Pierce Hall 110a. Many additional courses of interest to applied mathematicians can be found in the Computer Science, Engineering Sciences, Mathematics, and Statistics sections of the catalog.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Applied Mathematics 21a. Mathematical Methods in the Sciences
Catalog Number: 6395
Jeremy Bloxham and Anthony Harkin
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Complex numbers. Multivariate calculus: partial differentiation, directional derivatives, techniques of integration and multiple integration. Vectors: dot and cross products, parameterized curves, line and surface integrals. Vector calculus: gradient, divergence and curl, Green’s, Stokes’ and Gauss’ theorems, including orthogonal curvilinear coordinates.
Note: May not be taken for credit by students who have passed Mathematics 21a.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 1b or equivalent.

Applied Mathematics 21b. Mathematical Methods in the Sciences
Catalog Number: 5074
Jeremy Bloxham and Anthony A. Harkin
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Linear algebra: matrices, determinants, eigenvalues, eigenvectors, Markov processes.
Note: May not be taken for credit by students who have passed Mathematics 21b.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a or equivalent.

Applied Mathematics 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 7607
Donald G. M. Anderson
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An individual project of guided reading and research culminating in a substantial paper or other piece of work which can be meaningfully evaluated to assign a letter grade; may not be taken on a pass/fail basis. Students engaged in preparation of a senior thesis ordinarily should take Applied Mathematics 99r instead.
Note: May be taken as a half course in either term; normally may not be taken for more than two terms. Applications may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a. Applicants should consult their advisers and concentration literature for further information and guidance. Applications must be signed by the student, by the faculty member supervising the project (who will assign the grade), and by the Director of Undergraduate Studies, who will sign the student’s study card once the project and its method of evaluation have been approved.

Applied Mathematics 99r. Thesis Research
Catalog Number: 4648
Donald G. M. Anderson
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Provides an opportunity for students to engage in preparatory research and writing of a senior thesis. Graded on a satisfactory/unsatisfactory basis by the thesis supervisor. The thesis is evaluated by the supervisor and by two additional readers.
Note: May be taken as a half course in either term; normally may not be taken for more than two terms. The Director of Undergraduate Studies will sign the student’s study card once a faculty member has agreed in writing to supervise preparation of the thesis, and reaffirmed this agreement if the course is to be repeated. Students should consult their advisers and concentration literature for further information and guidance.
For Undergraduates and Graduates

Applied Mathematics 105a. Complex and Fourier Analysis
Catalog Number: 7732
Dionisios Margetis
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

Functions of a complex variable: mapping, integration, branch cuts, series. Fourier series; Fourier and Laplace transforms; transforms applied to differential equations and data analysis; convolution and correlation; elementary probability theory.
Note: Applied Mathematics 105a and 105b are independent courses, and may be taken in any order.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b, or Mathematics 21a and 21b.

Applied Mathematics 105b. Ordinary and Partial Differential Equations
Catalog Number: 6316
Howard A. Stone
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

Note: Applied Mathematics 105a and 105b are independent courses, and may be taken in any order.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b, or Mathematics 21a and 21b.

Applied Mathematics 106. Applied Algebra and Combinatorics
Catalog Number: 3871
Irvin C. Schick
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 4:30–6. EXAM GROUP: 18

Introduction to abstract algebra and its applications. Topics covered include sets, subsets, and partitions; mappings, operations, and equivalence relations; groups, rings, and fields; counting and number systems; and polynomials. Though the primary aim of the course is to establish the mathematical formalism and conceptual apparatus necessary for some future mathematics and engineering courses, examples will be given from applications such as finite automata, encryption, computer coding, and modular arithmetic.

Applied Mathematics 107. Graph Theory and Combinatorics
Catalog Number: 6411
Rocco A. Servedio
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Topics in combinatorial mathematics that find frequent application in computer science, engineering, and general applied mathematics. Specific topics taken from graph theory, enumeration techniques, optimization theory, combinatorial algorithms, and discrete probability.

[Applied Mathematics 111. Introduction to Scientific Computing]
Catalog Number: 7000
Donald G. M. Anderson
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Elementary numerical methods and their computer implementation: linear and nonlinear equations; interpolation, differentiation and quadrature; ordinary differential equation initial and boundary value problems.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b, or Mathematics 21a and 21b. Ability to program in some high-level computer language like Fortran.

Applied Mathematics 120. Applicable Linear Algebra
Catalog Number: 4378
Donald G. M. Anderson
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An algorithmic approach to topics in matrix theory which arise frequently in applied mathematics: linear equations, pseudoinverses, quadratic forms, eigenvalues and singular values, linear inequalities and optimization, linear differential and difference equations.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b, or Mathematics 21b, or equivalent.

Applied Mathematics 147. Non-linear Dynamical Systems
Catalog Number: 7708
Daniel S. Fisher
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
An introduction to non-linear dynamical phenomena focussing on the behavior of systems described by ordinary differential equations such as oscillations, bifurcations and chaos. Approximations by maps, multiple-scale methods, and other techniques will be introduced. Some stochastic processes will also be studied. Applications will be made to physical and biological systems.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a and 21b, or Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b.

Primarily for Graduates

Applied Mathematics 201. Complex Function Theory with Applications
Catalog Number: 3241
Michael P. Brenner
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 9. EXAM GROUP: 2
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a, b or equivalent.

[Applied Mathematics 202. Partial Differential and Integral Equations]
Catalog Number: 6559
Donald G. M. Anderson
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 9. EXAM GROUP: 2
Theory and techniques for finding exact and approximate analytical solutions of partial differential and integral equations, and related topics: eigenfunction expansions, Green functions, variational calculus, transform techniques, perturbation methods, characteristics.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a and 105b, or equivalent.

Applied Mathematics 203. Topics in Applied Mathematics

Catalog Number: 6336

Tai T. Wu

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 9. EXAM GROUP: 2

Selected advanced mathematical methods. Topics vary from year to year. Examples are asymptotic analysis, WKB theory, multiscale analysis, solitons, singular integral equations, Wiener-Hopf theory.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 201 or equivalent.

---

Applied Mathematics 205. Practical Scientific Computing

Catalog Number: 1370

William H. Bossert

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Computational methods at a sophisticated analytic level. Practical exercises emphasized. Linear algebra; polynomial and rational function extrapolation; Chebyshev methods; special functions; nonlinear root finding; one- and multidimensional extremization; eigensystems; Fourier transform methods; linear and nonlinear model fitting; adaptive methods for differential equations; stochastic methods for integration and optimization of multidimensional functions.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Mathematics at the level of Applied Mathematics 105b. A previous course in computing is not required but ability to program in Fortran or C will be useful.

Applied Mathematics 210. Elementary Functional Analysis

Catalog Number: 2781

Donald G. M. Anderson

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

An introduction to functional analysis and its applications: metric, Banach and Hilbert spaces; linear operators, spectral theory; differentiation and integration.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a and 105b; and Applied Mathematics 120 or Mathematics 121, or equivalent.

Applied Mathematics 211. Introduction to Numerical Mathematics

Catalog Number: 1894

Donald G. M. Anderson

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Principles and techniques of numerical analysis, synthesis and computation: interpolation and approximation, numerical quadrature and differentiation, linear and nonlinear equations, optimization, differential and integral equations.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a and 105b; Applied Mathematics 120, or equivalent, would be helpful. Ability to program in some high-level computer language like Fortran or C.

Applied Mathematics 212. Numerical Solution of Differential Equations
Catalog Number: 6127
Donald G. M. Anderson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
The development, study and implementation of numerical methods for the approximate solution of ordinary and partial differential equation initial and boundary value problems, and related topics.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 211, or equivalent; Applied Mathematics 202 and 210 would be helpful, but are not required.

Applied Mathematics 299r. Special Topics in Applied Mathematics
Catalog Number: 5798
Venkatesh Narayanamurti
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Supervision of experimental or theoretical research on acceptable applied mathematics problems and supervision of reading on topics not covered by regular courses of instruction.
Note: Open to graduate students and A.B./S.M. candidates only. Students must arrange such work with a member of the Division. This course is ordinarily taken with the approval of the Committee on Higher Degrees in certain cases when a letter grade is required. Applicants should file a project sheet before study cards are filed. Project sheets may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a.

The Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences offers undergraduate and graduate courses in Applied Mathematics, Applied Physics, Computer Science, Earth and Planetary Sciences, and Engineering Sciences. Recommended curricula may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a. Division faculty also offer several courses in the section entitled General Education Electives.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Applied Physics 195. Introduction to Solid State Physics]

Catalog Number: 1842

----------

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Fundamental physical properties of crystalline solids discussed in terms of the basic principles of classical and quantum physics. Crystal structure, lattice vibrations, specific heat, energy band theory of metals and semiconductors and insulators, electrical transport in metals and semiconductors, optical and magnetic properties, superconductivity.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Designed as a first course in solid state physics for students with knowledge of elementary quantum mechanics (Physics 143a). Some knowledge of statistical physics (Physics 181) is also helpful, but not a formal prerequisite. Students who propose to take Applied Physics 295a in the spring term, and who have not previously taken a formal course in solid state physics, are strongly advised to take this course first. Students may wish to take Physics 195, whose content is very similar, when this course is bracketed.

Primarily for Graduates

[Applied Physics 216 (formerly Applied Physics 216r). Modern Optics and Quantum Electronics]
Catalog Number: 4691
Lene V. Hau
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Optical systems and lasers have recently revolutionized both communication and basic research. We cover the fundamental physics and topics include Fourier optics, optical cavities and lasers including solid state and pulsed lasers. Electro-and acousto-optical modulation. Non-linear optics. Optical fiber propagation, solitons. Photonic bandgap materials and fibers. Frequency metrology.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Graduate level class in electromagnetism/electrodynamics: Physics 232a, for example. A graduate level class in quantum mechanics is recommended.

Applied Physics 217. Photons and Atoms
Catalog Number: 6965
Lene V. Hau
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Coherent and squeezed light, Casimir force, laser cooling and trapping, atomic fountains, atomic clocks, atom interferometry, EIT, Bose-Einstein condensation, Slow Light and nonlinear optics at ultra-low light levels, cold atoms and nanoscale technology in optical communication.
Note: Students may wish to take Physics 265, whose content is very similar, when this course is bracketed.
Prerequisite: Graduate level class in electromagnetism/electrodynamics (Physics 232a for example) and one semester of intermediate or advanced quantum mechanics. Applied Physics 216 is recommended.

Catalog Number: 5737
Frans A. Spaepen
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11
Bonding, crystallography, diffraction, phase diagrams, microstructure, point defects, dislocations, grain boundaries.
Note: Intended for students planning to specialize in applied mechanics, materials science, solid state physics and chemistry.

Applied Physics 284. Statistical Thermodynamics
Catalog Number: 2257
David R. Nelson
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Basic principles of statistical physics and thermodynamics, with applications including: the equilibrium properties of classical and quantum gases; phase diagrams, phase transitions and critical points, as illustrated by the gas-liquid transition and simple magnetic models; fluctuations about equilibrium, Langevin equations and Fokker-Planck descriptions of time-dependent phenomena. Time permitting, a brief introduction to the statistical mechanics of the DNA sequences which define biological organisms will be given.

Note: It is suggested that students may wish to take Physics 262 when this course is bracketed.

Prerequisite: Ordinarily, Physics 143a,b and Physics 181 or Engineering Sciences 181.

Applied Physics 291. Electron Microscopy Laboratory
Catalog Number: 1761 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Warren J. Moberlychan
Half course (spring term). M., 2–3:30 and a laboratory to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Laboratory instruction in and lectures on transmission electron microscopy and related instrumentation for materials analysis. Students perform experiments on alignment, electron diffraction, bright and dark field imaging, X-ray spectroscopy, high-resolution imaging and sample preparation.

Note: Course intended for graduate students planning to use materials analysis in their research.

Applied Physics 292. Kinetics of Condensed Phase Processes
Catalog Number: 3733
Michael J. Aziz
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and occasional laboratory demonstrations. EXAM GROUP: 4
Kinetic principles underlying atomic motions, transformations, and other atomic transport processes in condensed phases. Applies these and the principles of thermodynamics to the interpretation of diffusion, continuous transformations, nucleation, growth, coarsening, and other kinetic phenomena in bulk, thin film, and surface states. Fundamental principles are emphasized which are broadly applicable to a wide range of current research problems in atomic transport and in materials synthesis and processing. Selected applications will be discussed as time permits.

Prerequisite: An undergraduate-level course in thermodynamics.

Applied Physics 293. Deformation of Solids
Catalog Number: 6796
Frans A. Spaepen
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11
Phenomenology and theory of the mechanisms by which solids can deform, including elastic deformation, microscopic dislocation glide and the kinetics of slip, creep by dislocation motion, creep by diffusion of single ions, twinning, and fracture. The results are applied to several case studies using deformation mechanism maps.

Prerequisite: Knowledge of thermodynamics and elements of crystal structure.

Applied Physics 294hfr. Materials Science Seminar
Catalog Number: 4924
Frans A. Spaepen and Michael J. Aziz
Half course (throughout the year). Th 1. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 15, 16; Spring: 15
Special topics in materials science.
Prerequisite: Check with one of the instructors.

Applied Physics 295a. Introduction to Quantum Theory of Solids
Catalog Number: 6937
Eugene A. Demler

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Electrical, thermal, magnetic and optical properties of solids will be discussed and treated based on statistical mechanics and quantum mechanical models using mostly single electron approximations. Metals, semiconductors, and insulators will be covered. The connections between theory, experiment and applications will be stressed throughout.
Prerequisite: Applied Physics 195 or equivalent, and one full quantum mechanics graduate level course similar to Physics 251a. Physics 251b may be taken concurrently.

Applied Physics 295b. Quantum Theory of Solids
Catalog Number: 3610
Eugene A. Demler

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Theoretical description of solids focusing on the effects of interactions between electrons, including dielectric response, Fermi liquid theory, magnetism, and superconductivity.
Prerequisite: Applied Physics 295a, quantum mechanics, or permission of instructor.

[Applied Physics 296r. Superconductivity]
Catalog Number: 0219
Michael Tinkham

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to theoretical and applied aspects of superconductivity. Topics include BCS microscopic theory, Ginzburg-Landau phenomenological theory, type I and II superconductors, Josephson effect and devices, fluctuation effects, the vortex-unbinding transition in 2-D systems, flux motion and dissipation in high-temperature superconductors, macroscopic quantum tunneling, the number-phase uncertainty relation, and the single-electron tunneling transistor.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Applied Physics 298r. Materials Chemistry and Physics: Seminar
Catalog Number: 7500
Frans A. Spaepen, John W. Hutchinson, Charles M. Marcus, and David A. Weitz

Half course (spring term). M., W., 12–1:30. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6
Each year materials-related topics are chosen from the following: Optical and Electronic Properties; Mechanical Properties; Surfaces and Interfaces; Nanoscale Phenomena; Organic Materials; Synthesis and Fabrication; Characterization Techniques; Solid State Devices and Structural Applications. Each chosen topic is discussed in about five didactic lectures. A paper and oral presentation on two of the principal topics under discussion will be assigned.
Note: Taught by faculty from Chemistry, Physics, and the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences who are associated with Harvard’s Materials Research Science and Engineering Laboratory. Suitable for graduate students with undergraduate concentrations in chemistry, engineering, or physics having present or potential research interests in this field.

Applied Physics 299r. Special Topics in Applied Physics
Catalog Number: 2103
Venkatesh Narayanamurti
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Supervision of experimental or theoretical research on acceptable applied physics problems and supervision of reading on topics not covered by regular courses of instruction.
Note: Open to graduate students and A.B./S.M. candidates only. Students must arrange such work with a member of the Division. This course is ordinarily taken with the approval of the Committee on Higher Degrees in certain cases when a letter grade is required. Applicants should file a project sheet before study cards are filed. Project sheets may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a.

Archaeology

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Archaeology

C. C. Lamberg-Karlovsky, Stephen Phillips Professor of Archaeology and Ethnology (Chair)
Ofer Bar-Yosef, George Grant MacCurdy and Janet G. B. MacCurdy Professor of Prehistoric Archaeology (on leave spring term)
Suzanne P. Blier, Professor of the History of Art and Architecture
Kathleen M. Coleman, Professor of Latin (on leave spring term)
William L. Fash, Bowditch Professor of Central American and Mexican Archaeology and Ethnology
Ioli Kalavrezou, Dumbarton Oaks Professor of Byzantine Art (on leave spring term)
Yun Kuen Lee, Assistant Professor of Anthropology (on leave fall term)
Peter Machinist, Hancock Professor of Hebrew and other Oriental Languages (on leave spring term)
Richard H. Meadow, Senior Lecturer on Anthropology
Lawrence E. Stager, Dorot Professor of the Archaeology of Israel
Piotr Steinkeller, Professor of Assyriology
Irene J. Winter, William Dorr Boardman Professor of Fine Arts

The Committee on Archaeology is a multidisciplinary group of scholars appointed to coordinate the teaching of archaeology among Harvard’s departments. It is designed to advance knowledge of archaeological activity, research, fieldwork, and scientific techniques in the many and varied fields where archaeology is an established and desirable approach to past cultures and histories around the world. It holds a monthly interdepartmental seminar on archaeological themes, and encourages students in the several departments to join together outside their specialties for the advancement of knowledge. It publishes an electronic calendar of forthcoming archaeological lectures and activities in the Boston area.

The courses listed below deal either directly or indirectly with the study of archaeology and will be given in 2001–2002. Please also consult departmental listings in Classics and in Ancient Near East. More detailed descriptions may be found listed under the several departments.

Stephen Owen, James Bryant Conant University Professor (on leave 2002-2003)
Dwight H. Perkins, Harold Hitchings Burbank Professor of Political Economy
Eliza Elizabeth J. Perry, Henry Rosovsky Professor of Government
Susan J. Pharr, Edwin O. Reischauer Professor of Japanese Politics (on leave spring term)
Michael James Puett, John L. Loeb Associate Professor of the Humanities
John Mark Ramseyer, Mitsubishi Professor of Japanese Legal Studies (Law School)
Michael Robin Reich, Professor of Population and International Health (Public Health)
Peter G. Rowe, Raymond Garbe Professor of Architecture and Urban Design and Dean of the Graduate School of Design (Design School)
Jay Rubin, Takashima Professor of Japanese Humanities
Anthony Saich, Daewoo Professor of International Affairs (Kennedy School)
Hue-Tam Ho Tai, Kenneth T. Young Professor of Sino-Vietnamese History
Wei-Ming Tu, Harvard-Yenching Professor of Chinese History and Philosophy and of Confucian Studies
Leonard W. J. van der Kuijp, Professor of Tibetan and Himalayan Studies
James L. Watson, John King and Wilma Cannon Fairbank Professor of Chinese Society
Michael Y. Yoshino, Herman C. Krannert Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
By resolutions of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences of April 12, 1972, and April 25, 2001, the Council on Asian Studies and its Executive Committee are appointed by the Dean in consultation with the Faculty Committee to supervise such interdepartmental and other committees concerned with Asian Studies as the Dean may designate.

The A.M. program in Regional Studies—East Asia and the PhD program in History and East Asian Languages are supervised by the Council and are described below.

The A.M. Concentration in East Asian Studies is advised and supported by the Council, and is described under East Asian Languages and Civilizations. Courses on East Asian languages, early history, literature, and thought are listed under East Asian Languages and Civilizations.

Programs in South Asian Studies and in Inner Asian and Altaic Studies are advised and supported by the Council and are listed separately in the catalog.

Other courses in Asian Studies are listed under the Core Curriculum, Anthropology, Economics, Fine Arts, Government, History, Linguistics, Psychology, Sociology, the Study of Religion, and other departments.

The Harvard University Asia Center was created in 1997. Its Steering and Executive Committees are drawn from the Faculty of the Council on Asian Studies. The Center coordinates and supports research, teaching, and public programs on Asia throughout the University. The Center sponsors lectures, seminars, and conferences; supports faculty research; publishes books and journals; funds research and travel grants to undergraduate and graduate students; administers Harvard’s National Resource Center for East Asian Studies, and manages the competition for Title VI Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships for graduate and professional students. The Center publishes a bi-weekly calendar of events during the Academic Year. The Center’s main office is located in Coolidge Hall, on the third floor.

Faculty of the Standing Committee on the A.M. in Regional Studies—East Asia

Hue-Tam Ho Tai, Kenneth T. Young Professor of Sino-Vietnamese History (Chair)
Eileen Cheng-yin Chow, Assistant Professor of Chinese Literary and Cultural Studies (on leave 2002-2003)
Edwin A. Cranston, Professor of Japanese Literature (on leave 2001-02)
Margarita Estevez-Abe, Assistant Professor of Government
Wilt Lukas Idema, Professor of Chinese Literature (on leave 2001-02)
David McCann, Korea Foundation Professor of Korean Literature

The program in Regional Studies—East Asia, leading to a Master of Arts degree, is a basic preparation (1) for students who intend to go on to PhD work in an East Asian specialization; and (2) for students who wish to equip themselves for nonacademic work. The program, which normally requires two years for completion, aims to make the student broadly conversant with the societies of the region, and also to give him or her a sound knowledge of one of the languages of the area. Details may be obtained from the Committee’s offices at Coolidge Hall 102, 1737 Cambridge Street, MA, 02138 or (617) 495-3777.

Faculty of the Standing Committee on the PhD in History and East Asian Languages

Philip A. Kuhn, Francis Lee Higginson Professor of History and of East Asian Languages and Civilizations (Chair)
Peter K. Bol, Harvard College Professor and Professor of Chinese History (on leave 2002-2003)
Harold Bolitho, Professor of Japanese History
Carter J. Eckert, Professor of Korean History
Andrew Gordon, Professor of History (on leave 2002-03)
Akira Iriye, Charles Warren Professor of American History
William C. Kirby, Edith and Benjamin Geisinger Professor of History and Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences
Hue-Tam Ho Tai, Kenneth T. Young Professor of Sino-Vietnamese History

Established in 1941 to administer the PhD in History and Far Eastern Languages, this program was renamed by a Faculty vote of April 11, 1972, without other modification of its program. The Committee, drawn from the two departments of History and of East Asian Languages and Civilizations, administers a program leading to the PhD degree. The program in general combines study of the Chinese and Japanese languages (and sometimes other East Asian languages such as Korean, Mongolian, or Vietnamese) with advanced study and research in East Asian history. Normally this requires four courses (or equivalent) in the primary language, two and one-half in the secondary, and preparation for an oral examination in three history fields, of which two are ordinarily East Asian, and one Western, depending on the individual’s preparation and program. In some cases, fulfilling these requirements may entail taking a fourth field. Further information may be obtained from the office of the Committee, at Vanserg 206, 10 Divinity Avenue, Cambridge, MA, 02138.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

*Regional Studies — East Asia 300. Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 4614
Hue-Tam Ho Tai 6079 and members of the Committee
Designed to provide students with the opportunity to do reading and research in an approved area of their choice under the direction of a member of the Committee.
Note: Open only to students affiliated with the Regional Studies–East Asia program.

*Regional Studies — East Asia 310. Thesis Development
Catalog Number: 8453
Hue-Tam Ho Tai 6079, Carter J. Eckert 1178, Robert M. Gimello 9240, Helen Hardacre 3191 (on leave spring term), Arthur Kleinman 7473, Michael James Puett 1227, James L. Watson 2172 and members of the Committee
Designed to allow students to develop previous research or a previously written paper into the A.M. thesis, under the direction of an appropriate faculty advisor.
Note: Open only to students affiliated with the Regional Studies–East Asia program. Counts as course credit, but not towards the basic course requirements for the degree.

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of Astronomy

Owen Gingerich, Research Professor of Astronomy and of the History of Science

Astronomy 1, 2, and Science A-35, A-36, A-47 provide a variety of approaches toward introducing the substance of astronomy and astrophysics to interested students. They are aimed at nonconcentrators with curiosity about the contents of the universe and its underlying organization. None of these courses presumes a knowledge of algebra more extensive than that used in a high school physics course. Astronomy 97hf (the Introductory Tutorial) is open to sophomores and freshmen who have some high-school physics background and are considering the concentration or a combined concentration. Astronomy 98hf and 99, Junior and Senior Tutorials, are intended for concentrators in Astronomy and Astrophysics, but are open in special cases to concentrators in other physical sciences. They provide an opportunity for close contact with the faculty and often result in significant research experience. Astronomy 45, 135, 145, 150, 191, 192, and 193 are intended primarily for concentrators in the physical sciences. Each of these courses uses the tools of mathematics and physics to reach an understanding of astronomical phenomena. Since the prerequisites for these courses include substantial preparation in physics and mathematics, students with an interest in taking them or intending to concentrate in Astronomy and Astrophysics should make an effort to take Physics 15a,b,c and Mathematics 21a,b (or Mathematics 22a,b) at the earliest opportunity.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Astronomy 1. The Astronomical Universe
Catalog Number: 4287
_Dimitar D. Sasselov and Simon J. Steel_
_Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4_
A general introductory course for nonscience concentrators. Topics include observational astronomy, the nature of the Sun and stars, the evolution of the universe from a hot big bang, its composition (including a discussion of what is currently understood about dark matter) and structure, the nature of space and time and current theories of quasars and black holes. The course is primarily descriptive. Where possible, basic principles of physics are explained and then applied to astronomical phenomena, but no mathematics beyond elementary algebra is used.

Astronomy 2. Celestial Navigation
Catalog Number: 2179 Enrollment: Limited to 30.
_Philip M. Sadler and assistants_
_Half course (spring term). Tu., 11:30–1:30 and 7–10 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14, 15_
The dance of the Sun, Moon, planets, and stars across the sky allows the navigator to find his or her position anywhere on Earth. Celestial and terrestrial measurements are reduced with a watch and nautical charts and tables to create accurate and safe navigation for boats and airplanes. Students learn to use a sextant and compass, and build an instrument for measuring angles and a celestial sphere. Through personal observations and the use of a planetarium, students become familiar with a variety of celestial motions. Coastwise navigation, piloting, currents, tides, and electronic aids to navigation are also studied. Historical artifacts (instruments, maps, books, captains’ logs) are used to explore the development of the field.

Note: Minimum lecturing; predominantly practical laboratory activities with individual attention from teaching staff. Mathematics beyond geometry and trigonometry not required. Some familiarity with sailing and/or astronomy is helpful.

Astronomy 45. Introduction to Astrophysics
Catalog Number: 5375
Alexander Dalgarno
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
An introduction to the concepts and methods of astrophysics, including a discussion of astronomical measurements and stellar magnitudes, and a systematic account of the astrophysical nature of radiation, planetary motion, tidal interactions, binary stars, galactic dynamics and cosmology.

Prerequisite: Physics 15a,b (Physics 15b may be taken concurrently).

Astronomy 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1545
Jonathan E. Grindlay and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Supervised reading and research in subjects not normally included in the regular course offerings of the department.

Note: Students must arrange for course supervision with an individual member of the department. The course may not be counted for the concentration requirements except by special permission and may not be taken more than twice.

Astronomy 97hf. Introductory Tutorial
Catalog Number: 6604
Robert W. Noyes and members of the Department
Half course (throughout the year). F., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Introduction to methods of problem solving in astrophysics. Contact with Department of Astronomy faculty and their research programs. Students meet in small groups with a faculty member for two weeks to work through a problem as an introduction to astronomical questions and research methods. Through the year, each student meets with approximately 10 members of the department.

Note: Open to sophomore concentrators and others (including freshmen with a high school physics background) considering the concentration or a combined concentration.

Prerequisite: Physics 15a,b or equivalent (can be taken concurrently).

Astronomy 98hf. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 3121
John P. Huchra and members of the Department

Previous Courses of Instruction

Half course (throughout the year). F., 2–4.

Note: Normally a required course for junior concentrators in Astronomy. Open in special cases to concentrators in other physical sciences. Weekly lectures, assigned reading, and discussion meetings during the fall term, individually supervised program of reading and research leading to a paper and lecture on a chosen topic during the spring term.

Astronomy 99. Tutorial — Senior Year

Catalog Number: 5413

John P. Huchra and members of the Department

Full course. F., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Note: For honors candidates in Astronomy. Individually supervised reading and research leading to the honors thesis.

Prerequisite: Astronomy 98hf.

Cross-listed Courses

Science A-35. Matter in the Universe

Science A-36. Observing the Sun and the Stars

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Astronomy 135. Planetary System Astronomy]

Catalog Number: 4850

Matthew Holman and Robert W. Noyes

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Uses our solar system as an example to understand the origin and evolution of planetary systems in general. Emphasis on how physical patterns inherent in our solar system provide clues to the conditions and mechanisms that give rise to the formation of planets orbiting the Sun or similar stars, and govern their evolution. Topics include the formation and evolution of the Sun; origin, structure, and evolution of solar system planets; planetary satellites; small bodies of the solar system (comets, asteroids, and meteorites); and solar magnetic activity and its influence on the Earth and planets. Also included will be discussion of planets orbiting other stars, what they tell us about how planetary systems (including our own) form and evolve, and the possibilities of habitable environments in other planetary systems.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Physics 15a, b, c, or Physics 11a, b and permission of the instructor.

Astronomy 145. Topics in Astrophysics

Catalog Number: 0212

Abraham Loeb

Half course (spring term). M., W., 9:30–11. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3

Discussion of a wide range of astrophysical systems, their physical processes, and observed characteristics. Topics include the Big Bang, the microwave background, the formation of structure in the universe, galaxy formation and evolution, star formation, energy generation in stars, white dwarfs, neutron stars, and black holes.

Prerequisite: Physics 143a (may be taken concurrently).

Astronomy 150. Radiative Processes in Astrophysics

Catalog Number: 8993

George B. Rybicki

Half course (fall term). M., W., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4

Survey of radiative processes of astrophysical importance from radio waves to gamma rays. Thermal and non-thermal processes, including bremsstrahlung, synchrotron radiation, and Compton scattering. Radiation in plasmas. Atomic and molecular structure and spectra.

Prerequisite: Physics 143a (may be taken concurrently).

Astronomy 191. Astrophysics Laboratory

Catalog Number: 3615 Enrollment: Limited to 16.

Jonathan E. Grindlay and Patrick Thaddeus

Half course (spring term).

Laboratory and observational projects in astrophysics. Carried out in collaboration with researches at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics, mainly with in-house or nearby facilities. Students choose two projects from a larger group that may include: measurement of the temperature of the cosmic microwave background radiation; laboratory spectroscopy of jet-cooled, gas phase molecules; observations of dense, star-forming interstellar clouds with the Haystack Observatory; various projects with the Very Large Array: measurement of the rotation of the Galaxy with the CFA millimeter-wave telescope; development of superconducting submillimeter detectors; spectroscopic observations of binary stars at Oak Ridge Observatory; photometry and spectroscopy of star clusters with the Knowles telescope at the Science Center; principles of soft x-ray detectors and imaging, construction, and evaluation of hard x-ray imaging detectors and telescope systems.

Note: Intended primarily for concentrators in Astronomy and Astrophysics or combined concentrators with Physics. Students with Physics as their primary concentration, but with a serious interest in astrophysics, may take this to satisfy their laboratory requirement (in lieu of Physics 191) upon petition to the Head Tutor in Physics.

Prerequisite: Physics 15c or equivalent.

Astronomy 192. Tools and Techniques of Astronomical Measurements

Catalog Number: 4741

Irwin I. Shapiro and Krzysztof Z. Stanek

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Presentation of physical principles and techniques used for detection across the frequency domain of both electromagnetic and gravitational radiation. Description and analysis of the corresponding tools used for detection, including telescopes and basic instrumentation, present and (near-term) future. Discussion of different types of measurements—intensity, imaging, spectroscopic, polarimetric, astrometric, and interferometric—throughout the electromagnetic spectrum, including related parameter estimation and error analyses.

Prerequisite: Physics 15a,b,c and Applied Mathematics 105 (or equivalents).
[Astronomy 193. Noise and Data Analysis in Astrophysics]

Catalog Number: 4495
James M. Moran
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
How to design experiments and get the most information from noisy, incomplete, flawed, and biased data sets. Basics of probability theory; Bernouli trials; Bayes theorem; random variables; distributions; functions of random variables; moments and characteristic functions; Fourier transform analysis; Stochastic processes; estimation of power spectra. Digital data processing: sampling theorem, filtering; fast Fourier transform; spectrum of quantized data sets. Weighted least mean squares analysis and nonlinear parameter estimation. Noise processes in periodic phenomena. Image processing and restoration techniques.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21b or equivalent.

Cross-listed Courses

[Applied Mathematics 111. Introduction to Scientific Computing]
[Physics 191r. Advanced Laboratory]

Primarily for Graduates

These courses are primarily aimed at graduate students in astronomy, although properly prepared undergraduates and graduate students from other fields are welcome. The required core courses are Astronomy 150, 192, 206, 207, and 208, while a wide range of advanced courses is available for further work. Courses may be available as reading courses at times other than those shown, by arrangement with the instructor. Students with a special interest in relativity should note Physics 210 and 211.

Astronomy 200hf (formerly Astronomy 200). Seminar in Modern Astrophysics and Cosmology
Catalog Number: 8574
Krzysztof Z. Stanek and Martin J. White (fall term)
Half course (throughout the year). Fall: W., 3:45–5; Spring: W., at 4. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 8, 9; Spring: 9
Graduate seminar on topical areas in modern astrophysics and cosmology. Each semester a different topic of current special interest is selected. Participants in this seminar discuss papers given by seminar members (in rotation). Several faculty members also participate.

[Astronomy 204. Galactic and Extragalactic Dynamics]
Catalog Number: 6396
----------
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Physics 151 or equivalent.

[Astronomy 206. Stellar Physics]
Catalog Number: 2128
Dimitar D. Sasselov
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Stellar physics is studied from two basic precepts: of stars as the elementary (baryonic) building blocks in the Universe and of the evolution of matter (nucleosynthesis). The theory of stellar interiors and atmospheres is developed from general grounds and applied as fit to the variety of stellar objects and their environments. The observational methods (spectroscopy, dynamics, and seismology) are also discussed briefly. The goal is to provide basic tools for further research and an overall picture of the evolution of matter in the Universe.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Astronomy 207. Cosmology and Extragalactic Astronomy
Catalog Number: 2446
Lars Hernquist
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
The cosmological principle: isotropy and homogeneity, cosmological world models, thermal history of the Big Bang, the microwave background, growth of density fluctuations, formation and evolution of galaxies, active galactic nuclei, large scale structure, structure of galaxies and clusters of galaxies, gravitational lensing, candidates for dark matter, measurements of cosmological parameters.

Astronomy 208. The Physics of the Interstellar Medium
Catalog Number: 4842
Alyssa A. Goodman
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The Interstellar Medium [ISM] of our own and other galaxies, as well as the Intergalactic Medium will be discussed, with the greatest emphasis on the Milky Way’s ISM. Various physically distinct regions will be investigated, including cold neutral gas, hot ionized gas, photon-dominated regions, high-velocity clouds, and galactic nuclei. Star-forming clouds and supernova remnants will be addressed in detail, as well the interaction of stellar winds with the ISM. The goal of the course will be an understanding of how to measure, understand, and predict the conditions (i.e., temperature, density, chemical composition, ionization state, magnetic field, velocity distribution) of the gas and dust in interstellar material, and to understand the role of the interstellar material in galaxies and the universe.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Astronomy 218. Radio Astronomy
Catalog Number: 2883
James M. Moran
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Historical development; theory of antennas and interferometers; signal detection and measurement techniques. Thermal, synchrotron and spectral-line emission in the context of radio observations of the sun, planets, pulsars, masers, hydrogen clouds, molecular clouds, ionized regions, active galaxies, quasars, and the cosmic background.

Prerequisite: Astronomy 150 or Physics 153 recommended.

Astronomy 219. High Energy Astrophysics
Catalog Number: 1858
Jonathan E. Grindlay and Ramesh Narayan
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Astronomy 225. Formation of Stars and Planets
Catalog Number: 0983
Philip C. Myers and Lee W. Hartmann
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Physical properties of the interstellar medium, molecular clouds and their cores, young stellar objects in isolation and in clusters, dynamical processes in star formation and circumstellar disk evolution, properties of the primitive solar nebula and solar system development, extrasolar planetary systems.

Cross-listed Courses

[Applied Mathematics 205. Practical Scientific Computing]
Physics 210. General Theory of Relativity

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Unless otherwise specified, these courses are given fall term, repeated spring term.

Astronomy 300. Topics in Modern Astrophysics
Catalog Number: 7915
A seminar, reading, or research course may be arranged with any of the faculty listed. Students can also arrange to obtain Astronomy 300 credit for reading or research with scientific staff members of the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics; consult Astronomy Department office.

The courses designated Biological Sciences are an introductory sequence in the Biochemical Sciences and Biology concentrations. They are jointly organized by the departments of Molecular and Cellular Biology and Organismic and Evolutionary Biology. The courses designated Molecular and Cellular Biology are the responsibility of that department. The courses designated Biology are the responsibility of the Department of Organismic and Evolutionary Biology. The Acting Head Tutor for the Biochemical Sciences concentration is Stephen C. Harrison. The Head Tutor for the Biology concentration is William M. Gelbart.

Biological Sciences

Primarily for Undergraduates

Biological Sciences 50. Genetics and Genomics
Catalog Number: 9370
William M. Gelbart (fall term), William D. Fixsen (fall term), and Daniel L. Hartl (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., W., F., at 12 and three hours of laboratory/discussion each week. EXAM GROUP: 5
Analysis of genes and genomes with emphasis on function, transmission, mutation, and evolution, with examples from animals, plants, bacteria, and fungi. Discusses classical and current methods of gene and genome analysis, including genetic, molecular, quantitative, and bioinformatic approaches.
Note: Lectures and weekly laboratory/discussion section.
Biological Sciences 51 (formerly Biological Sciences 2), Integrative Biology of Organisms
Catalog Number: 1922
Andrew H. Knoll, Brian D. Farrell, and James Hanken
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12, and three hours of laboratory each week. EXAM GROUP: 5
An integrative and functional approach to plant and animal biology in an evolutionary context, emphasizing common attributes of whole organisms and their solutions to problems imposed by the physical environment. Topics to be covered include development and organization of body plans, gas exchange, transport and excretion, information processing, support and locomotion, and the acquisition of energy sources.
Note: Knowledge of introductory molecular, cellular biology, and genetics is recommended.

Biological Sciences 52 (formerly Biological Sciences 10), Introductory Molecular Biology
Catalog Number: 1938
Richard M. Losick
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10, and a one-hour meeting each week; approximately six afternoon laboratory sessions to be arranged over the course of the semester. EXAM GROUP: 3
An integrated introduction to the basic principles of molecular biology. Topics covered: the biochemistry and molecular biology of nucleic acids; the Central Dogma; DNA, RNA, and protein synthesis; mutation and repair; recombination and transposition; the genetic code; the turning on and off of genes; RNA, ribozymes and splicing; development. For current Biology and Biochemical Sciences concentrators, this course may be taken in lieu of Biological Sciences 10. Please refer to the respective concentration notes for additional information on the new course sequence.
Note: Chemistry 17 may be taken concurrently.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 17 or 20.

Biological Sciences 53, Evolution, Diversity and History of Life
Catalog Number: 3342
David A. Haig and John R. Wakeley
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30 and a weekly three-hour lab. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
A study of the process of organic evolution and its result: the structural, functional, and genetic diversity of organisms. Emphasis on recent advances in understanding phylogenetic relationships among the primary groups of organisms, major events in the history of life, and the fundamental concepts and methods of evolutionary biology.
Note: Replaces Biology 17 and 20.
Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50 or permission of instructor.

Biological Sciences 54, Introductory Cell Biology
Catalog Number: 0801
Robert A. Lue and Raymond L. Erikson
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10, and a one-hour meeting during which problem sets are solved; one laboratory session each week. EXAM GROUP: 3
An integrated introduction to the structure, function, and interactions of cells, with an emphasis on their molecular composition and dynamics. Topics covered include: membrane structure and transport; receptors and channels; protein targeting; cytoskeleton; cell cycle control; signal transduction; programmed cell death; cell adhesion and differentiation.

Note: Discussion sections will focus on problem-solving and evaluation of data. Laboratory exercises will provide exposure to several techniques commonly used in cell biology. For current Biology and Biochemical Sciences concentrators, this course may be taken in lieu of Biological Sciences 11. Please refer to the respective concentration notes for additional information on the new course sequence.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 17 or 20.

Biological Sciences 55 (formerly Biology 19). Population Biology: Ecology

Catalog Number: 3365

William H. Bossert

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10, weekly discussion section, and a minimum of three field trips on Saturday and/or Sunday. EXAM GROUP: 3

Relationships of organisms to their environment at the individual, population, and community level. Topics in pure and applied ecology including adaptations to physical environment, competition, concept of the niche, population dynamics, predator-prey interactions, herbivore effects, community ecology, ecosystem structure and stability, and resource management.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 1 and prior biology experience.

Biological Sciences 56. Structure, Function, and Physical Chemistry of Macromolecules

Catalog Number: 5424

Stephen C. Harrison and Don C. Wiley

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 9 and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2

An introduction to macromolecular structure that integrates the basic principles of equilibrium thermodynamics, chemical kinetics, and molecular dynamics. Particular attention is paid to the forces and energetics of single molecules and how they determine the properties of ensembles of these molecules. Specific examples of such phenomena will be drawn from biochemistry and cell biology.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52 and BS 11 or 54 are recommended but not required; Chemistry 10 or equivalent; Chemistry 27 or Chemistry 30; Physics 11 (may be taken concurrently); Math 21a; Math 21b is recommended but not required.

Biological Sciences 57 (formerly Biology 22). Animal Behavior

Catalog Number: 2539

Naomi E. Pierce

Half course (fall term). Lectures, Tu., Th., at 10; evening movie section to be arranged; ninety minutes of discussion section each week. EXAM GROUP: 12

A review of the behavior of animals under natural conditions, with emphasis on both mechanistic and evolutionary approaches. Topics include classical ethology, behavioral endocrinology; behavioral genetics; learning; signaling, deceit and animal consciousness; orientation, migration and biological rhythms; optimization and game theory; parental investment and mating systems; selfishness, altruism, and reciprocity; and sociality in vertebrates and invertebrates.

Prerequisite: Science B-29 or BS 50, 51, 53 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.
Biological Sciences 80 (formerly Biological Sciences 25). Behavioral Neuroscience
Catalog Number: 6052
John E. Dowling
Half course (spring term). Lectures, Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a 90-minute section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An introduction to the organization and function of the nervous system and its role in behavior. Topics include the cell biology of neurons, electrical and biochemical signaling by neurons, mechanisms of sensation and perception, control of movement, learning and memory, language, motivation and emotion.

Molecular and Cellular Biology

*Biochemical Sciences 91r. Introduction to Research
Catalog Number: 6083
Stephen C. Harrison and members of the Faculty
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Laboratory research in topics related to the Biochemical Sciences concentration under the direction of, or approved by, members of the Board of Tutors in Biochemical Sciences. A paper must be submitted to the laboratory sponsor and to the Biochemical Sciences Tutorial Office for review by the Course Director and members of the Board of Tutors.
Note: Open only to Biochemical Sciences concentrators; written permission of both the tutor and laboratory sponsor must be submitted to the Biochemical Sciences Tutorial Office prior to enrolling in the course. This introductory research course is intended to prepare students for Biochemical Sciences 99, and may ordinarily be repeated no more than once.

*Biochemical Sciences 99. Laboratory Research for Honors Thesis
Catalog Number: 6670
Stephen C. Harrison and members of the Faculty
Full course (indivisible). Hours to be arranged.
For honors candidates writing a thesis in Biochemical Sciences. Indivisible for students enrolling in the fall term. Students intending to enroll in the fall are required to submit a written proposal to the Head Tutor. Students may enter the course at midyear only with the permission of the Head Tutor. The thesis proposal must be approved by the Head Tutor prior to enrolling in Biochemical Sciences 99.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Attention is called to the following course: Chemistry 170. Chemical Biology
[MCB 112. Structure and Function of Proteins and Nucleic Acids]
Catalog Number: 6380
Stephen C. Harrison
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Principles of protein and nucleic acid structure and assembly. This course is especially intended for first year graduate students in MCB and Biophysics, but it is also appropriate for suitably prepared undergraduates.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52, BS 11 or 54 and MCB 61, or equivalent preparation in physical chemistry.

[MCB 114. Structure and Function of Membrane Proteins]
Catalog Number: 8244
Don C. Wiley
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An advanced course on the relationship between the atomic structure and the biological function of membrane proteins. Topics include: Both methods, such as: membrane protein crystallization; 2D electron crystallography; single particle image reconstruction; X-ray diffraction; and biological examples, such as: bacterial rhodopsin, photosynthetic and respiratory proteins, toxins, pores, and ion channels. Because relatively few membrane protein structures have been determined, a complete examination of current knowledge is possible. Students are required to evaluate and discuss scientific papers.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52, BS 11 or 54 and MCB 61 or equivalent preparation in physical chemistry.

[MCB 115. Cellular Basis of Neuronal Function]
Catalog Number: 8703 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Venkatesh N. Murthy
Half course (fall term). W., F., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4
Cellular processes involved in the function of neurons will be explored, with emphasis on biophysical and cell biological approaches. Topics include excitable membranes, intracellular membrane trafficking, cytoskeletal dynamics, synaptic transmission, dendritic integration, and synaptic plasticity.

Prerequisite: BS 25 or BS 80 or equivalent.

MCB 116. Experimental Embryology
Catalog Number: 1207 Enrollment: Limited to 24.
Elizabeth J. Robertson
Half course (fall term). M., 2–6. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
An introduction to basic problems in developmental biology by direct experimentation. Both classical and modern molecular manipulations of developing embryos are performed to study cell specification, differentiation, organ formation, and embryonic induction. Various aspects of pattern formation are analyzed, including the establishment of polarity and body axes, making use of frogs, chicken, mice, and fish.

Note: Laboratory course primarily for advanced undergraduates and graduate students.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52, or BS 11 or 54, or MCB 16 or 118 or their equivalents.

MCB 117. Experimental Neuroscience
Catalog Number: 3175 Enrollment: Limited to 16.
Markus Meister
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
An inquiry-based approach to neuroscience that uses state of the art technology to study the development and function of the nervous system. Topics include neural development, growth cone behavior, properties of voltage gated channels, systems neurobiology, and psychophysics. Experimental approaches include immunohistochemistry, molecular genetics, time lapse video-enhanced microscopy, gene expression of channels, whole cell voltage clamp, and extracellular recording.

Note: Primarily for upper-level undergraduate and graduate students; background in biochemistry or physics suggested.

Prerequisite: BS 25 or 80.

MCB 118 (formerly MCB 16). Developmental Biology

Catalog Number: 0749
Douglas A. Melton

Half course (fall term). M., W., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 1, 2

A comprehensive lecture course in developmental biology. The principles and mechanisms of development are emphasized and illustrated using several animal models. We will discuss how the basic body plan of an embryo is created and how the adult organism is maintained and repaired. Emphasis is placed on experimental approaches at the molecular, genetic and cellular levels. The establishment of pattern and polarity, embryonic induction, sex determination, organogenesis, stem cells and cloning are examples of the topics to be considered.

Prerequisite: BS52 or 10 and BS 54 or 11, or permission of the instructor.

[MCB 119. Experimental Genetics]

Catalog Number: 4472 Enrollment: Limited to 15.

Members of the faculty

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

The primary objective is to illustrate the principles and techniques of genetics with the most tractable eukaryotic genetic organism, budding yeast. Because yeast cells are used so widely in biology as the organism of choice or as an organism for working with heterologous proteins, the course also serves as an introduction for those who wish to use yeast in the future. Each week, a genetic experiment is performed. For each experiment, there is some modest background reading from research literature and a short lecture at the beginning of the laboratory period.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

MCB 120. The Cell Cycle, Tumor Suppressors, and Cancer

Catalog Number: 3069 Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Matthew Michael and Brian D. Dynlacht

Half course (fall term). M., W., 4–6; plus 4 laboratory sections, hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 9

Course will cover the molecular biology and biochemistry of the cell cycle with an emphasis both on normal cell cycles and on the mechanisms by which cell cycle dysfunction leads to genomic instability and tumor formation. Topics include genetic analysis of the cell cycle in yeasts, biochemical analysis of the cell cycle in Xenopus and human cells, cell cycle checkpoints, DNA damage and its repair, tumor suppressor gene function, oncogenes, and transformation to neoplastic growth.

Note: The course consists of lectures, student presentations from the literature, and 4 laboratory exercises that will demonstrate experimental approaches currently used in cell cycle and cancer research.

Prerequisite: BS 52 or 10 and BS 54 or 11, or permission of the instructor.

MCB 122. Regulation of Cell Proliferation

Catalog Number: 1403 Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Raymond L. Erikson
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

The molecular and biochemical events occurring during the cell cycle are considered. Topics include growth factors and their receptors, second messengers, protein phosphorylation, gene expression, oncogenes, and tumor suppressor genes. The course consists of lectures and student presentations from the current literature. An optional laboratory section will be offered to students with limited laboratory experience interested in the techniques considered in the lectures.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52 or equivalent.

MCB 123. Mammalian Cell Physiology

Catalog Number: 4920 Enrollment: Limited to 25.

Axel Nohturfft
Half course (spring term). W., F., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4

The course explores the question of how cells maintain stability in the face of external change and internal turnover. Introduces the concepts of homeostasis, dynamic equilibrium and feedback control. Selected topics will be drawn from protein biochemistry, lipid metabolism, membrane biology, and mineral balance. Lectures and discussions of scientific papers.

Prerequisite: BS 52 or 10 and BS 54 or 11 or permission of the instructor.

MCB 129. Molecular Genetics of Neuronal Development

Catalog Number: 8956 Enrollment: Limited to 25.

Samuel M. Kunes
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Topics include the control of neuronal differentiation and cellular identity, cell birth and cell death, axon guidance, and the mechanisms of synaptic specificity. Emphasis placed on genetic approaches to understanding the development of the nervous system.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 25 or 80 and one half course in physics or permission of instructor.

MCB 138. Function of Neural Systems

Catalog Number: 1153 Enrollment: Limited to 25.

Markus Meister
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Introduction to the known functional principles of large neural circuits responsible for the processing of sensory input, learning and memory, and control of movement. Covers the physiological mechanisms underlying collective neural function and the methods useful in their analysis.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 25 or 80 and one half course in physics or permission of instructor.
MCB 140. Introduction to Biophysics
Catalog Number: 9736 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Howard C. Berg and David R. Nelson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An introduction to the biology and physics of stochastic processes that affect the behavior of cells, biopolymers, and biological motors. Elements of probability and statistics, entropic elasticity, the random walk, diffusion, sedimentation and electrophoresis. Applications to sensory physiology, cell motility, stretching and twisting of DNA and the motion of motors along biopolymers.
Note: To be given in alternate years. Lectures, problem sets, discussions. May not be taken for credit by students who have taken Physics 140.
Prerequisite: Mathematics at the level of 21a, Physics 15a/15b or Physics 11a/11b or permission of the instructor. Some familiarity with elementary statistical mechanics helpful.

MCB 141. Molecular and Developmental Neurobiology
Catalog Number: 5205
Catherine Dulac
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11
Molecular basis of sensory perception and formation of related neuronal networks during vertebrate development. Topics will include: mechanisms of sensory discrimination at the level of receptor molecules and receptor cells; coding of sensory information by the brain; establishment of appropriate connections in the developing brain. Molecular and genetic approaches to memory and behavior will be discussed.
Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52, and BS 25 or 80.

MCB 142. Chromosomes
Catalog Number: 7948 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Matthew Meselson
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Selected aspects of the structure, replication, segregation, recombination, and function of chromosomes. Current findings will be considered in a historical context. Lectures, student presentations and critical discussion of the scientific literature.
Prerequisite: BS50 or equivalent.

MCB 150. Developmental Genetics and Genomics
Catalog Number: 5703
Craig P. Hunter
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An advanced course on the genetic control of plant and animal development. Topics include classical and molecular genetic analysis of developmental processes and mechanisms in nematodes, flies, fish, plants, mice, and man. The course will consist of lectures, student presentations, several written assignments, and an exam.
Prerequisite: BS 1or 50, BS 10 or 52, BS 11 or 54, their equivalents or permission of instructor.

MCB 155. Molecular Mechanisms of Gene Control
Catalog Number: 6230
Tom Maniatis

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 4–5:30, plus two-hour section times to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 18

An advanced course on the control of gene regulation. Topics include: mechanisms of gene regulation at the level of transcription, chromatin structure, DNA methylation, RNA processing, mRNA localization, and protein synthesis and degradation. The course is taught through weekly lectures and readings from the current literature. Topics covered in lectures and the reading assignments are discussed in sections. Students are required to critically evaluate and discuss recent papers in sections. Two exams.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52 and BS 11 or 54 (or equivalent), and permission of instructor.

MCB 169. Molecular and Cellular Immunology

Catalog Number: 2518

Hidde Ploegh (Medical School & Affiliate member of MCB)

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a ninety minute discussion section per week to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50 and BS 10 or 52. Genetics and Cell Biology strongly recommended.

MCB 176. Biochemistry of Membranes

Catalog Number: 3186

Guido Guidotti

Half course (fall term). M., W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

A course on the properties and involvement in disease of biological membranes, essential elements for cell individuality, communication between cells, and energy transduction. Topics include: membrane structure; membrane protein synthesis, insertion in the bilayer and targeting; transporters, pumps and channels; electron transport, H+ gradients and ATP synthesis; membrane receptors, G proteins and signal transduction.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52 and BS 11 or 54.

[MCB 177. Macromolecular Assemblies in Genetic Processes]

Catalog Number: 3102 Enrollment: Limited to 30.

James C. Wang

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Selected topics on complex assemblies in replication, repair, recombination, and transcription will be discussed. Emphasis is on the structural basis of an assembly and the macromolecular interactions underpinning its function.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52 and BS 11 or equivalent, or permission of the instructor. Background in macromolecular structures and functions encouraged.

MCB 186. Circadian Biology: From Cellular Oscillators to Sleep Regulation

Catalog Number: 2854

J. Woodland Hastings and Charles A. Czeisler (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). W., 2-5, and a one hour discussion section per week to be arranged.

EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9

Properties, mechanisms, and functional roles of circadian (daily) rhythms in organisms ranging from unicells to mammals. Cellular and molecular components, regulation of gene expression and physiological functions, genetic and biochemical analyses of circadian rhythms, and neurobiology of the mammalian circadian pacemaker. Mathematics and modeling of oscillatory systems and applications to circadian rhythms. Experimental studies of human rhythms, including the sleep-wake cycle and hormone rhythms, with applications to sleep disorders.

Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50 and BS 2 or 51; BS 25 or 80 desirable.

MCB 188. Genetics and Biochemistry of Chromosome Behavior

Catalog Number: 8561

Nancy Kleckner

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Chromosome morphogenesis in prokaryotic and eukaryotic organisms. Topics will include chromosome structure, interactions between chromosomes (sisters and homologs), DNA recombination and repair, topoisomerases, transposable elements and site-specific recombination, epigenetic inheritance. Genetic, cytological, and biochemical approaches will be integrated. Lecture, reading, and discussion of classical and current literature and consideration of future experimental directions.

Prerequisite: BS 10 or 52, BS 11 or 54, and BS 14 or 50.

MCB 195. Genomics and the Biology of Complex Systems

Catalog Number: 8701 Enrollment: Limited to 65.

Andrew W. Murray

Half course (spring term). M., W., 12–1:30.

The complete sequences of an increasing number of genomes have produced a range of new experimental and computational approaches to biological problems. This course takes an integrated approach, exploring how genomes are mapped and sequenced, how various computational methods convert this raw data into information about biology, and how new experimental methods can provide comprehensive information about the behavior and function of genes and their products. Central issues include discussing ways in which computational and experimental methods can work together to provide new insights into biology, the search for general principles in biology, and the idea that evolutionary comparisons will play the critical role in turning raw data into knowledge about how cells and organisms, grow, survive, reproduce, and evolve.

Prerequisite: BS 50 or 1 or BS 52 or 10 strongly recommended. Computer Science coursework desirable but not required. Or permission of the Instructor.

Cross-listed Courses

Biophysics 101. Genomics and Computational Biology

Primarily for Graduates
MCB 200a. Introduction to Graduate Study in Molecular and Cellular Biology
Catalog Number: 7215 Enrollment: Limited to MCB graduate students.
Markus Meister and members of the faculty
Half course (fall term). Tu., 8:30–10, F., 3:30–5.
The goal of the course is to introduce the methods and logic of modern biology as developed through reading and discussion of research papers in neurobiology, developmental biology, and protein structure.
Note: Students are expected to actively participate in critical evaluation and discussion. The course will be team-taught by faculty.

[MCB 212. Topics in Biophysics]
Catalog Number: 3351
Howard C. Berg
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Motility and sensory transduction; Chemotaxis in bacteria; flagellar motility; prokaryotic and eukaryotic motor molecules.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. A term paper and seminar will be required.

[*MCB 250. Producing a Phenotype: Modern Genetics & Genomics
Catalog Number: 7006 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
William M. Gelbart
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A course consisting of a combination of lectures, student seminars, and computational investigations exploring the current interface between the genetic and genomic analysis of DNA sequences and gene products. The goal is to understand how these different approaches may be synthesized to understand biological processes.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Courses in basic genetics and molecular biology, and permission of instructor.

MCB 268. Molecular Immunology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 2196 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Jack L. Strominger
Half course (spring term). M., Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9, 18
One session each week is a lecture on the topics. At the second session, four papers are read from the current literature; each is presented by a student in 20–30 minutes. Reading of the papers, seminar presentations, and class participation are the only work of the course.
Prerequisite: MCB 169 or permission of instructor required for undergraduates, but not essential for graduate students.

[MCB 289. Photobiology]
Catalog Number: 7087 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
J. Woodland Hastings
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Interaction of light with biological systems and the relevant principles of photochemistry and photophysics. Topics include vision, photosynthesis, bioluminescence, photoinactivation and mutation, photomovement and morphogenesis, photoperiodism, and photomedicine.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50 and BS 11 or 54 or equivalent, and an introductory course in physics.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Biology

Certain courses at the Medical School, offered by the FAS through the Division of Medical Sciences (see listings in this catalog), may be counted for concentration credit by individual petition to the Biology Undergraduate Committee prior to filing the study card. These include courses in Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology, Cell Biology, Genetics, Immunology, Microbiology, Neurobiology, Pathology, and Virology.

With the approval of the Biology Undergraduate Committee, summer courses taken at the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Massachusetts, may be counted toward degree requirements, but the total credit so obtained shall not exceed one course. Similarly, and with the same limitations, courses taken in Tropical Biology under the auspices of the Organization for Tropical Studies may be counted toward degree requirements.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Biology 10. Biology of Invertebrate Animals
Catalog Number: 7873
Kenneth J. Boss
Half course (fall term). Lectures M., W., F., at 11; laboratory to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Surveys the diversity of invertebrate animals, including their natural history and probable evolutionary relationships. The ecological and behavioral adaptations as well as the morphology and systematics of these organisms are explored, using common marine, freshwater, terrestrial, and parasitic species.
Note: BS 2 or 51 recommended, or permission of instructor required.

Biology 21. Structure and Physiology of the Vertebrates
Catalog Number: 0921
George V. Lauder and Andrew A. Biewener
Half course (fall term). Lectures, M., W., F., at 9, and five hours of laboratory each week. EXAM GROUP: 2
Introduction to the relationship between physiology, structure, and function of vertebrates. Lectures concentrate on selected organ systems (musculoskeletal, cardiovascular, respiratory, reproductive, excretory, and digestive) paying particular attention to how they have evolved and diversified within living vertebrate groups in relationship to environmental factors. General principles of structure-function relationship are emphasized. Physiology and morphological dissection labs concentrate on higher vertebrates and are correlated with one another and with the lectures.
Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50 and 2 or 51.

Biology 24. Biology of Plants
Catalog Number: 1343
N. Michele Holbrook and Elena M. Kramer
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, one afternoon laboratory per week, plus occasional field trips. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Introduction to the structure, diversity, and physiology of plants with an emphasis on evolutionary relationships and adaptations to life on land. Topics include growth, resource acquisition, interactions with other organisms (i.e., fungi, bacteria, insects), reproduction, and survival in extreme environments. Laboratory sessions provide an overview of plant and diversity and an introduction to basic physiological processes.
Tutorials, Independent Research, and Thesis Work

See Biology 121a, Biology 121b, and Biology 200r for other independent research options. Students who participate in independent research laboratory courses (Bio 98r, 99ar, 99b, 121a, 121b, or 200r) are required to attend a safety session on matters concerned with safety procedures before or at the beginning of their laboratory work. Credit for these courses is contingent upon compliance with this requirement. The Biology 95hf Tutorial Program, consisting of 17 seminars on various biological topics not covered in depth in other undergraduate offerings, is designed to provide undergraduates with the opportunity to associate with a professional biologist over an extended period of time and to be full participants in directing a course of study. The seminars build upon the mid-level biology courses and bridge the gap between regular coursework and independent research. The seminars carry 1/2 course credit for the entire year (are usually taken as a 5th course). They begin in fall, and cannot be divided mid-semester or combined with a seminar the following year. The Biology 95hf Program is directed by the Head Tutor in Biology, Professor William Gelbart. However, the tutorial seminars are taught by post-doctoral fellows and medical school faculty. Students should feel free to get in touch with the tutorial instructors directly - their names, phone numbers and e-mail addresses, as well as tutorial seminar course descriptions, are posted on the Biology website: biology.harvard.edu. Please consult the Biology website for dates and times of first meetings.

*Biology 91r. Supervised Reading
Catalog Number: 2817
William M. Gelbart and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Supervised reading on topics not covered by regular courses of instruction. Normally work is directed by a Biology faculty member of the Department of Molecular and Cellular Biology or Organismic and Evolutionary Biology. For Biology concentrators, work may be supervised by faculty in other departments or outside Cambridge, provided it is co-sponsored by a Biology faculty member. Nonconcentrators must conduct their reading project with a Biology faculty member. Students must submit a registration request to the Biology Undergraduate Office before course enrollment. A written report of approximately 10 pages describing the material covered during the term is due in duplicate in the Undergraduate Office on the date indicated on the registration form.
Note: May be taken only once for concentration credit. May not be taken with the director/sponsor of an independent research course. Registration forms will not be accepted after Study Cards are due.
Prerequisite: Four semesters of introductory biology.

*Biology 98r. Introduction to Research
Catalog Number: 8616
William M. Gelbart and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to independent research. Recommended for students (ordinarily in the junior year) with no previous independent laboratory or library research experience. For Biology concentrators, ordinarily work is directed by a member of the Biological Sciences departments (MCB: Molecular and Cellular Biology, and OEB: Organismic and Evolutionary Biology) or affiliates. Other research sponsors must be approved by petition to the Biology Undergraduate Office. Non-concentrators must conduct their project with a faculty member in MCB or OEB. All students must submit registration materials for Biology 98r at the time of enrollment. A written report of approximately 5 pages is due in duplicate in the Biology Undergraduate Office on the date indicated on the registration form.
Note: To be graded SAT/UNS only. Laboratory safety session required.

*Biology 99ar. Research for Honors Thesis
Catalog Number: 8037
William M. Gelbart and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Ordinarily taken by students planning on writing an honors thesis. Recommended as the research course to be taken in the first semester of the student’s senior year. For Biology concentrators, work may be directed by a member of the Biological Sciences departments (MCB: Molecular and Cellular Biology, and OEB: Organismic and Evolutionary Biology) or affiliates. Other research sponsors must be approved by the Biology Undergraduate Committee and require an MCB or OEB co-sponsor. Non-concentrators must conduct their project with a faculty member in MCB or OEB. All students must submit registration materials for Biology 99ar at the time of enrollment. A written report of approximately 10 pages is due in duplicate in the Biology Undergraduate Office on the date indicated on the registration form. All students enrolling in this course must submit a short thesis proposal prior to the first day of classes of the fall semester. The thesis proposal form is available in the Biology Undergraduate Office.

Note: May be repeated only with special permission of the Biology Undergraduate Committee. Laboratory safety session required.

Biology 99ar, Honors Thesis
Catalog Number: 7264
William M. Gelbart and members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Taken by students who are actively writing their honors thesis (ordinarily in the second semester of their senior year). For Biology concentrators, work may be directed by a member of the Biological Sciences departments (MCB: Molecular and Cellular Biology, and OEB: Organismic and Evolutionary Biology) or affiliates. Other research sponsors must be approved by the Biology Undergraduate Committee and require an MCB or OEB co-sponsor. Non-concentrators must conduct their project with a faculty member in MCB or OEB. All students must submit registration materials for Biology 99ar at the time of enrollment. A written report of approximately 10 pages is due in duplicate in the Biology Undergraduate Office on the date indicated on the registration form. All students enrolling in this course must submit a short thesis proposal prior to the first day of classes of the fall semester. The thesis proposal form is available in the Biology Undergraduate Office. Honors levels determined by the Biology Undergraduate Committee based upon readers’ evaluations.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Biology 103. Plant Systematics
Catalog Number: 8704
David John Middleton

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11.

An introduction to the phylogeny, evolution, and diversification of the flowering plants, with emphasis on the major plant families of the world. Native and cultivated plants of eastern North America are studied in laboratory and field work.

Prerequisite: Biological Sciences 51 or permission of instructor.

Biology 104. Plants and Human Affairs
Catalog Number: 5281
Otto T. Solbrig

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

An introduction to the biology and use of plants of economic importance, including the role that plants have played in the development of civilization and in modern society. Topics to be covered are the structure, classification, economic importance, chemistry, and evolution and culture of the principal crops of the world, and cultural methods, including the use of biotechnology in plant breeding.

Prerequisite: Introductory Biology (Biological Sciences 51) or equivalent.

Biology 107. Evolution of Plant Life in Geologic Time
Catalog Number: 1318
Andrew H. Knoll

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 9 and one 3 hour laboratory each week. EXAM GROUP: 2

Origin, evolution, dispersal, paleoecology, and geologic history of the major groups of the plant kingdom. Laboratory study of representative groups, living and fossil.

Prerequisite: BS 2 or 51 or permission of instructor.

Biology 114. Vertebrate Viviparity
Catalog Number: 4953
David A. Haig

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 15

Viviparity has evolved many times in vertebrate phylogeny. The course will review the diversity of parental care in vertebrates and explore the selective forces that have favored the evolution of live-bearing. The evidence for intergenerational conflicts will be considered.

Biology 115. The Diversity of Coral Reef Habitats
Catalog Number: 1422
Gonzalo Giribet and Stephen R. Palumbi

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

The taxonomy, diversity, ecology and conservation of different habitats in a tropical reef area of the Caribbean will be studied. Typical coral reef habitats, mangrove, water column (pelagos), sediments (meio and megafauna), and seagrass communities will be investigated. The course consists of a series of lectures and labs integrating reef ecology, invertebrate diversity, and conservation issues.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. A field trip to a marine biological station during spring break will serve to start a team project on invertebrate reef ecology.

Prerequisite: Any two courses of the following 4 topics: BS51, BS 53, Biology 10, Biology 187, or BS 55 (formerly Biology 19).

Biology 118. Biological Oceanography
Catalog Number: 7752
James J. McCarthy

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12

The ocean as an ecological system. Emphasis on the ecology and physiology of the plankton. Considerable attention to processes and events that demonstrate the complexity of environmental-organismal interactions. Discussion sessions treat special topics such as sampling strategies, plankton demonstrations, and critical analyses of current literature.

Note: For Biology and other natural science concentrators.

Prerequisite: BS 1 and Chemistry 5 and 7 or Chemistry 10. Biological Sciences 55 (formerly Biology 19) is recommended.
Biology 120. Physiology of Plants
Catalog Number: 2554
N. Michele Holbrook
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11
Introduction to the physiology, biochemistry, and development of plants. Topics include photosynthesis, energy balance, transport processes, growth, biomechanics, and reproduction. Emphasis on the physiological basis for structural adaptations of plants in relation to environmental constraints and on mechanisms leading to developmental and physiological integration at the whole-plant level. Laboratory sessions provide an introduction to basic measurement techniques in plant physiology.
Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

Biology 121a. Advanced Structure and Physiology of the Vertebrates
Catalog Number: 4049
Andrew A. Biewener, George V. Lauder, and Daniel E. Lieberman
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The purpose of this course is to introduce students to experimental techniques used in investigating the structure and physiology of vertebrates. Each instructor offers a list of research projects to be undertaken in his or her laboratory, and is prepared to supervise 5 students per instructor. The only formal class meetings are at the beginning (at which time the students outline their projects) and at the end when the project results are presented. An extensive commitment of time in the laboratory is required. The grade is based on the work completed, the oral presentation, and a short paper prepared as if it were to be submitted for publication in a professional journal.
Note: Laboratory safety session required.
Prerequisite: Biology 21 preferred, or permission of instructor.

Biology 121b. Advanced Structure and Physiology of the Vertebrates
Catalog Number: 4670
Andrew A. Biewener and George V. Lauder
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Students may extend the initial project undertaken in Biology 121a into a thesis research project.
Note: Laboratory safety session required.
Prerequisite: Biology 121a.

[Biology 123. Biology of Symbiosis]
Catalog Number: 0508
Colleen M. Cavanaugh
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An examination of the major aspects of endosymbiosis with emphasis on mutualism, although some parasitic interactions are covered. Topics include origins of the eukaryotic cell, specificity and recognition of partners, distribution and diversity of associations, and coevolution of host and symbiont.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50 and 2 or 51, and BS 11 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.
[Biology 130. Patterns and Processes in Fish Diversity]
Catalog Number: 4624 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Karel F. Liem and George V. Lauder
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
As the largest and most diverse group of vertebrates, fishes inhabit virtually all aquatic environments including deep seas, intertidal zones, coral reefs, polar waters, the vast Amazonian basin, and great East Africa lakes. Some even exploit anoxic systems and temporary water bodies uninhabitable by other vertebrates. Moreover, a single fish species may occupy diverse environments through extraordinary long distance horizontal and vertical migratory strategies. To explore this unparalleled diversity, the course emphasizes bridging traditional academic boundaries with integrative analyses of the biology underlying rapid evolutionary radiations, stasis, and mass extinctions.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50, and 2 or 51, or permission of instructor.

[Biology 133. Biology of Mollusks]
Catalog Number: 0751
Kenneth J. Boss
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. Field trips and laboratories to be arranged.
Predominantly an organismic approach to the biology of the Phylum Mollusca; surveys the diversity of marine, terrestrial, and fresh-water mollusks, including special aspects of current research in systematics, ecology, zoogeography, and paleontology.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. BS 2 or 51 recommended, or permission of instructor required.
Prerequisite: BS 2 or 51 recommended, or permission of instructor required.

[Biology 135. The Biology, Biochemistry, and Physiology of the Skeletal System of Vertebrates]
Catalog Number: 1278 Enrollment: Limited to 30.
Melvin J. Glimcher (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Topics include development of bone and cartilage as organs and as tissues; mechanisms for remodeling (including fracture repair and tissue and organ grafting); biochemical composition, structure, and ultrastructural organization of the inorganic mineral phase and its molecular and structural relationships to the constituents of the organic matrix; the primary, secondary, and higher-ordered structures of collagen and noncollagenous proteins of bone; general principles underlying the molecular mechanisms and calcification of bone and other mineralized biological tissue; the structure, chemical composition, and function of the articular cartilage; and the biomechanics and biochemistry of joint function: and the pathophysiology of bone and cartilage to illuminate the basic biology, chemistry, and physiology of these tissues and organs. Selected related topics in molecular biology, and the molecular basis of genetic abnormalities of the skeleton.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: BS 2 or 51 and inorganic and organic chemistry, or permission of instructor.
[Biology 139. Evolution of the Vertebrates]
Catalog Number: 8562
Farish A. Jenkins, Jr.
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Concentrates on the major steps in vertebrate evolution and does not attempt a synoptic review of fossil vertebrates. Emphasis on the anatomical and physiological changes that occurred in the transitional stages leading to fish, amphibians, reptiles, birds, and mammals as well as the geographic locations and environment in which these groups originated.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: BS 2 or 51, Biology 21, or equivalent.

[Biology 149. Plant Ecology]
Catalog Number: 2670
Fakhri A. Bazzaz
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to concepts and principles of plant ecology, with emphasis on experimental approaches to understanding the biology of plant populations. Special attention is given to plant ecophysiological response to the physical and biological environment including energy, water, nutrients, environmental contaminants, pollinators, herbivores, predators and pathogens; competition and resource sharing; the niche and the level of ecological variation; community organization.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: BS 53, Biology 17, 19 or permission of instructor.

Biology 152. Population Genetics
Catalog Number: 0903
John R. Wakeley
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Introduction to population genetic theory. Covers deterministic and stochastic theory of gene frequencies, and coalescent theory of sample-based statistics. Emphasis on patterns of observed genetic variation within and between populations, and how these can serve as the basis for inference about mutation, genetic drift, migration, natural selection, and population structure.
Prerequisite: BS 53, calculus, and knowledge of statistics and probability.

Biology 155r. Biology of Insects
Catalog Number: 2346 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Naomi E. Pierce and Brian D. Farrell
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
An introduction to the major groups of insects. The life history, morphology, physiology, and ecology of the main taxa are examined through a combination of lecture, lab, and field exercises. Topics include the phylogeny of terrestrial arthropods with a review of the extant orders, an analysis of abiotic and biotic factors regulating populations, including water balance, temperature, migration, parasitism, mutualism, sociality, insect/plant interactions, and a historical examination of the use of insects in biological control.
Prerequisite: Science B-29 or BS 50, 51, or 53 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.
[Biology 160. Forest Ecology]
Catalog Number: 4369
David R. Foster

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Plant community organization, structure, and dynamics focusing primarily on the forest vegetation of northeastern North America. Field studies emphasize the role of natural and anthropogenic disturbance in controlling the pattern of vegetation, methods of vegetation analysis, and historical methods of vegetation reconstruction.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Includes two full weekend field trips to the Harvard Forest.

Prerequisite: BS 2 or 51 or permission of instructor.

[Biology 174r (formerly Biology 174). Topics in Behavioral Biology: Evolution of Communication]
Catalog Number: 5199
Naomi E. Pierce, David A. Haig, Marc D. Hauser, and Richard W. Wrangham

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Major issues in behavioral biology are examined in this course, with topics to change each year. The evolution of communication will be the focus of the 2001 fall term. The course will involve invited speakers and participation of professors across disciplines.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: BS 57 (formerly Biology 22), Anthropology 170, BS 25 or 80 or Science B-29 or permission of instructor.

[Biology 181. Systematics]
Catalog Number: 5459
Gonzalo Giribet and Charles R. Marshall

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
Theory and practice of systematics, emphasizing issues associated with homology statements and alignments, methods of tree reconstruction, and hypothesis evaluation. The course combines theoretical considerations, paying especial attention to algorithmic aspects of phylogenetics, with the use of different computer programs for conducting evolutionary and phylogenetic analyses.

Prerequisite: BS53, or permission of instructor required. Recommended: Familiarity with computers, especially Mac and PC platforms. Linux also recommended.

[Biology 187. Current Advances in Metazoan Diversity and Evolution]
Catalog Number: 3220
Gonzalo Giribet

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Current discoveries of new metazoan groups, their relationships to known animals, and the newest hypotheses in metazoan evolution are examined. Background in metazoan diversity and in systematics are recommended. Newly discovered animal groups, their evolutionary significance, and their possible relationships will be presented. Examples will be drawn from various phyla including Gnathostomulida, Loricifera, Cycliophora, Micrognathozoa, and other poorly understood animals. Original literature will be discussed, emphasizing on the evolution and relationships of the organisms presented in class.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Primarily for Graduates

Biology 200r. A.B./A.M. Laboratory Research

Catalog Number: 3696

William M. Gelbart and members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Open only to Advanced Standing Biology concentrators doing research as part of a combined A.B./A.M degree. To be taken in both the first and second semesters of the student’s fourth year. Work may be directed by a member of the Biological Sciences departments (MCB: Molecular and Cellular Biology, and OEB: Organismic and Evolutionary Biology) or affiliates. Other research sponsors must be approved by the Biology Undergraduate Committee and require an MCB or OEB co-sponsor. All students must submit registration materials for Biology 200r at the time of enrollment. In the first semester, a written report of approximately 10 pages is due in duplicate in the Biology Undergraduate Office on the date indicated on the registration form. In the second semester, the honors thesis will be submitted on the date indicated on the registration form. All students enrolling in this course must submit a short thesis proposal prior to the first day of classes. The thesis proposal form is available in the Biology Undergraduate Office.

Note: Laboratory safety session required.

Biology 208. Issues in Paleobiology: Seminar

Catalog Number: 1344

Andrew H. Knoll, Stephen J. Gould, and Charles R. Marshall

Half course (spring term). M., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8

A seminar focusing on current issues in paleobiology. Examines patterns of diversification, morphological change, and extinction, as well as detailed patterns of change across selected stratigraphic boundaries.

[Biology 211r. Form, Function, and Evolution]

Catalog Number: 2056

Karel F. Liem and guest lecturers

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Intrinsic and extrinsic determinants of form, considered from the evidence of neontological studies of vertebrates. Emphasis on current research approaches and theories. Consists of a mixture of seminars by faculty, guest lecturers, and students. Topics vary from year to year and are determined by the interests of the students.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Biology 212r. Advanced Topics in Plant Physiology]

Catalog Number: 2176

N. Michele Holbrook

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

A critical discussion of current research in plant physiology including measurement techniques, modeling, and experimental approaches.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Biology 120 or permission of instructor.

[Biology 214. Macroevolution of Interactions]
Catalog Number: 7040 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Brian D. Farrell and Naomi E. Pierce
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Focuses on current issues pertaining to the macroevolution of resource use and interspecific interactions, with emphases on insects, plants, and fungi. The goal will be to achieve a synthetic view of the evolution of ecological specialization and the evolving trophic web. Topics will include the timing, liability, and consequences of evolutionary change in traits affecting interactions (including mutualisms and antagonisms), and their implications for community structure and diversity. Readings will be of paleontological, phylogenetic, and neontological studies from primary literature and recent reviews.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: BS 53 (formerly Biology 17 and 20), Biology 22 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

Biology 221. Bacterial Diversity
Catalog Number: 1234
Colleen M. Cavanaugh
Half course (spring term). First class meeting to be held on 2/5/02 at 1 pm, subsequent meetings to be arranged.
The remarkable diversity of prokaryotes is examined. Physiological, genetic, ecological, and evolutionary characteristics of Bacteria and Archaea divisions are discussed, as well as the relation of phenotype to phylogeny.
Prerequisite: BS 1 or 50 and 2 or 51, and BS 11 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

[Biology 224 (formerly Biology 143). Biology of the Fungi]
Catalog Number: 1308
Donald H. Pfister
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This is an intensive course covering the morphology, classification, evolution, and diversity of the fungi, including both parasitic and saprophytic members. Attention is given to biological phenomena unique to fungi. Readings and discussion will draw from the primary literature. Students will apply a variety of techniques to study fungi in the field and in the laboratory.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. At least one weekend field trip to be arranged.
Prerequisite: Biology 113 or permission of instructor.

[Biology 227. Molecular Approaches to Environmental Microbiology]
Catalog Number: 4444
Colleen M. Cavanaugh
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examination of the new understanding of microbial activities and biodiversity in the environment resulting from the application of cellular and molecular techniques. Critical review and discussion of advances in studies of bacterial diversity and community structure in aquatic and terrestrial environments, uncultivable bacteria, symbiotic associations, microenvironments, and genetic and metabolic capabilities of microorganisms in their natural habitats.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Earth and Planetary Sciences 30 and BS 11 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

Biology 234. Topics in Marine Biology

Catalog Number: 4637 Enrollment: Limited.

Robert M. Woollacott

Half course (spring term). W., 2:30–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Reproduction and dispersal of marine organisms.

Note: Weekly class meeting and several field trips and laboratories through course of term.

Biology 239r. Topics in Molecular Ecology and Evolution

Catalog Number: 8124

Stephen R. Palumbi

Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9

Focuses on the use of molecular genetic tools to illuminate current issues in ecology, population biology, and evolution. In even years, we will use the primary literature to explore a particular topic chosen by the course participants, including mating systems, population structure, genetic signatures of demographic history, etc. In odd years, the course will be a more basic exploration of the growing field of molecular ecology and be appropriate for advanced undergraduates.

Biology 245r (formerly Biology 245). Topics in Plants and Environments

Catalog Number: 1739

Fakhri A. Bazzaz

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: Spring: 18

A discussion of recent advancements in research on plants in their environments. Presentations of research proposals. Discussions on design and execution of field and laboratory experiments and readings and discussions of important recent papers.

Prerequisite: Biology 149, equivalent, or permission of instructor.

Biology 251. Introduction to Vertebrate Surgery

Catalog Number: 2075 Enrollment: Limited to 16.

Arthur L. Lage (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). W., 1–5. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9

Teaches students the basic principles of aseptic surgery with emphasis on practicality. Students learn basic “open” surgery as well as newer high tech videoscopic minimally invasive technique, obtaining hands-on experience in scrubbing, gowning, and sterile technique while serving as anesthetist and surgeon. Course covers surgical applications for a wide variety of species including biped and quadruped mammals, ruminant and non-ruminant mammals, birds, amphibians, and reptiles; students are expected to integrate their previously learned knowledge of anatomy and physiology into the context of the whole, living animal.

Note: Intended for the student interested in the application of surgical technique in higher studies in biology and related disciplines.

Prerequisite: Comparative Anatomy, Biology 21, or equivalent course.
[Biology 252. Coalescent Theory]
Catalog Number: 0118
John R. Wakeley

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The mathematics and computation of ancestral inference in population genetics. Theory relates observable genetic data to factors of evolution such as mutation, genetic drift, migration, natural selection, and population structure.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Biology 152 or consent of instructor: calculus and statistics or probability.

[Biology 253r. Seminar in Evolutionary Genetics]
Catalog Number: 8104
John R. Wakeley

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: M., at 2; Spring: Tu., at 1. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 7; Spring: 15
Readings and discussion of primary literature in population and evolutionary genetics.

[Biology 254. Genomic Imprinting and Parent-Offspring Conflict]
Catalog Number: 9341
David A. Haig

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A seminar course that will discuss evolutionary aspects of genomic imprinting and the related theory of parent-offspring conflict.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Biology 19 and 118.

[Biology 255. Nature and Regulation of Marine Ecosystems]
Catalog Number: 7753
James J. McCarthy and guest lecturers

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A presentation of topics that are of current interest in marine ecosystems. Emphasis on identification and quantification of biological and environmental factors important in the regulation of community structure in the intertidal, deep benthic, and planktonic realms.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Biology 19 and 118.

[Biology 261r (formerly Biology 261). Seminar in Evolution and Development]
Catalog Number: 8451
James Hanken and Elena M. Kramer

Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Graduate seminar in evolution and development. This seminar will evaluate contemporary problems and issues in the field of evolutionary developmental biology. Weekly meetings will include student presentations based on assigned readings, plus occasional guest speakers. Examples will be drawn from both plants and animals.

[Biology 267. Topics in Symbiosis: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 3859
Colleen M. Cavanaugh
Half course (fall term). First class meeting to be held 9/18/01 at 1 pm, subsequent meetings to be arranged.
Focuses on current issues in symbiosis. Emphasis on prokaryote-eukaryote associations and comparative approaches to both mutualistic and parasitic interactions. Critical review and discussion of one or a few topics of interest to participants.

Biology 268r. Topics in Plant Developmental Genetics
Catalog Number: 5020
Elena M. Kramer
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
The primary goal of this seminar is to review the current literature related to a particular topic in the field, such as floral development, embryogenesis, root development, etc. Additional goals of the course include familiarizing the participants with the both the advantages and pitfalls of molecular techniques, and acquainting students with the process of developing fundable projects which utilize molecular techniques as well as more traditional botanical approaches.
Prerequisite: Biology 120, and either BS 50, BS 52, equivalents or by permission of instructor.

Biology 299r. Forest Practice and Research
Catalog Number: 6128
David R. Foster
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Field and laboratory research into the history, biology, ecology, culture, and economic problems of local, regional, and world forests. Individual research projects.
Note: Open to students who satisfy the staff that they have had adequate training. Seminars, conferences, field and laboratory work at the Harvard Forest, Petersham, Massachusetts.

Presents the research interests and experiences of scientists in organismic and evolutionary biology. Specific topics treated vary from year to year.
Note: Required of all first-year graduate students in Organismic and Evolutionary Biology.
Biological Sciences in Dental Medicine

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSE SOF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Higher Degrees in Dental Medicine

Bjørn R. Olsen, Harvard-Forsyth Professor of Oral Biology and Hersey Professor of Cell Biology (Dental School, Medical School) (Chair)
Patricia A. D’Amore, Professor of Opthalmology and Pathology (Medical School)
Floyd Everett Dewhirst, Associate Professor of Oral Biology (Medical School)
David E. Fisher, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Mark C. Fishman, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Paul F. Goetinck, Professor of Anatomy and Cellular Biology and Professor of Dermatology (Medical School)
Peter Voorhees Hauschka, Associate Professor of Oral Biology (Dental School)
Elisabeth D. Hay, Louise Foote Pfeiffer Professor of Embryology (Medical School)
Henry Morris Kronenberg, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Andrew B. Lassar, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Yi-Ping Li, Assistant Professor of Oral Biology (Dental School)
Daniel E. Lieberman, Professor of Anthropology
Richard L. Maas, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Mark Mercola, Associate Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Bruce Jay Paster, Associate Professor of Oral Biology (Dental School)
Philip Paul Stashenko, Associate Professor of Oral Biology (Dental School)
Clifford J. Tabin, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Martin Arnold Taubman, Professor of Oral Biology (Dental School)
David Tai Wai Wong, Associate Professor of Oral Medicine and Diagnostic Sciences (Dental School)

The Biological Sciences in Dental Medicine (BSDM) Program, leading to the PhD degree combines faculty from the Harvard-Forsyth Department of Oral Biology and other Harvard School of Dental Medicine departments with faculty from basic science departments at Harvard Medical School, and faculty from the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

This newly established program offers advanced study in the molecular, supramolecular, cellular, and supracellular processes that provide the intellectual basis for dental medicine.

The BSDM program is intended for scholars interested in pursuing a career in basic or patient-oriented science in the areas of skeletal biology, cell biology and development, immunology, or microbiology leading to a PhD degree. Eligible applicants will be individuals with a baccalaureate in sciences (BS), a master degree in sciences, (MS), a doctoral degree in dentistry, (DMD, DDS), or a medical doctoral degree (MD).

Primarily for Graduates

BPH 205. Introduction to Cancer Biology
Catalog Number: 6234 Enrollment: Limited to 30.
Carl G. Maki (Public Health)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Emphasizes current experimental approaches to studying cancer biology and the process of carcinogenesis. Topics include the biology of cell modification and differentiation, the phenotype of the cancer cell, properties of human and animal cancers, the process of cell transformation, mutagenesis, carcinogen metabolism, and cancer epidemiology.
Prerequisite: College-level course in biology required.

BPH 206. Advanced Respiratory Physiology
Catalog Number: 1049
Stephanie A. Shore (Public Health)
Half course (fall term). M., W., 9–10:20.
Covers a broad range of topics in respiratory physiology including: lung structure, volume and flow mechanics, surfactant function, gas exchange, lung and chest wall interaction. Special topics may include pulmonary circulation, lung endocrine functions, airway physiology and pharmacology. Reviews classic concepts and presents some recent advances.
Note: Offered jointly with the School of Public Health as EH 223ab. Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 735.0.
Prerequisite: College-level physiology and EH 205ab or equivalent or signature of instructor indicating suitable background required.

BPH 207. Advanced Topics in Physiology
Catalog Number: 2146
Jeffrey J. Fredberg (Public Health)
Half course (spring term). M., 10:30–12:20, W., 3:30–5:20. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4, 5, 8, 9
Focus on special topics in lung biology. Emphasis is on the fundamental physical basis and quantitative description of chemical, electrical, and mechanical signaling within the cell. Specific topics include passive diffusion, facilitated diffusion, solvent and solvent transport, channels, action potentials, membrane transport, and receptor ligand binding.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 727.0, and with the School of Public Health as EH 225cd.

BPH 208. Human Physiology
Catalog Number: 3627
Nancy Long Sieber and Stephanie A. Shore (Public Health)
Half course (fall term). M., F., 10:30–12:20.
Introduction to the principles governing function in the human body—course designed to provide a framework in physiology for future public health researchers and professionals who have not taken college level physiology. Emphasis placed on concept of homeostasis and integrative aspects of physiology.
Note: Lectures, laboratories. Two 2-hour sessions each, including 2 laboratory meetings. Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 728.0 and with the School of Public Health as EH 205ab.
Prerequisite: College level introductory biology or permission of the instructor is required.

BPH 210. Pathophysiology of Human Disease
Catalog Number: 3078
Lester Kobzik (Public Health)
Half course (spring term). M., F., 1:30–3:20. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Surveys common and important human disease problems in the major organ systems. Emphasis on understanding the pathophysiologic basis of typical disease manifestations and the pathogenesis of the disease process at a molecular and cellular level. Relevant public health perspectives on the epidemiology or control of disease are also integrated.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 729.0, and with the School of Public Health as DBE 208cd.
Prerequisite: College-level physiology, EH 205ab, or equivalent.

BPH 212. Cellular and Molecular Biology of Parasites
Catalog Number: 0703 Enrollment: Limited to 35.
Barbara Burleigh (Public Health), Ali A. Sultan (Public Health), Members of the department, and Guest Lecturers
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Covers aspects of biochemistry, cell and molecular biology of protozoan parasites of man (e.g. malaria, toxoplasma, leishmania, trypanosomes, amebae, giardia, and trichodomonads). Includes discussions on mechanisms of pathogenesis, unique parasite biochemistry and organelles, molecular basis of antigenic variation, and population genetics.
Note: Offered in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 721.0 and with the School of Public Health as IMI 216cd (formerly TPH 216cd).
Prerequisite: Suitable course in biochemistry, genetics, or microbiology required.

[BPH 213. Cell Response to Mutagens and Carcinogens]
Catalog Number: 0932
Bruce F. Demple (Public Health)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

A seminar course based on emerging research on the molecular effects of mutagenic, carcinogenic, and cytotoxic agents. Particular focus on the cellular mechanisms that preserve biological integrity (e.g., cell cycle checkpoints; DNA repair) or mediate cellular responses to stress (e.g., redox signal transduction; apoptosis pathways). Emphasis on critical analysis of research papers and active class participation. Written assignments in developing relevant research projects (mini-grant proposals).

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 723.0 and the School of Public Health as CCB 250cd. Contact instructor at 432-3462.

Prerequisite: Advanced/graduate courses in biochemistry, cell biology, or genetics.

BPH 215. Principles of Toxicology

Catalog Number: 5366

Dieter Wolf (Public Health) and Donald K. Milton (Public Health)

Emphasizes mechanisms of injury and clinical consequences following exposures to environmental and occupational chemicals. Examines actions at the molecular, cellular, organ system, and organismal levels. Discusses methods for detecting, evaluating, analyzing, and combating toxic effects.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 713.0 and with the School of Public Health as CCE 204ab.

Prerequisite: Organic chemistry and mammalian physiology or equivalents required. Required lab.

---

[BPH 216. Immunology of Infectious Diseases]

Catalog Number: 6938 Enrollment: Limited to 35.

Donald A. Harn (Public Health)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Covers in detail the interactions of pathogens with the host immune system, from pathogen invasion to pathogenesis. Lecture topics include: the role of secretory immune system; innate immunity mediated through the “collectins”; how pathogens regulate the host immune response; pathogen evasion of immune effect or mechanisms; polarization of CD4+ T helper cell subsets and relationship to disease outcome; co-infection with HIV and other pathogens; mechanisms of immunopathogenesis; and development of vaccines. Viral, bacterial and parasitic pathogens are covered in the course.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years. Offered jointly with the HMS as BPH724.0 and the School of Public Health as IMI208cd. Each lecture requires reading several relevant papers and completion of a problem set.

Prerequisite: Course in immunology required.

BPH 219. Biological Sciences Seminars

Catalog Number: 1152

Michael Grusby (Public Health) and I-Cheng Ho (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10:20 a.m. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12
Faculty participating in the Biology and Public Health degree program present seminars on their current research in the biological sciences and direct a student discussion of the logic and experimental design of this research. Topics include chemical and viral carcinogenesis, DNA damage and repair, immunology, molecular biology, metabolism, cardiovascular disease, parasitology, and how these areas apply to public health issues.

Note: Required for first-year students in the BPH program. Offered jointly with the School of Public Health as DBS 205ab.

BPH 222. The Science of Human Nutrition
Catalog Number: 0216
Frank M. Sacks, Clifford Lo (Medical School) and members of the Faculty
Reviews the biochemistry of carbohydrates, fats, proteins, vitamins, and minerals in the context of human disease. Particular emphasis given to current knowledge of the mechanisms that may explain the role of diet in the causation and/or prevention of ischemic heart disease, diabetes, obesity, hypertension, and cancer. Recommended dietary intakes of selected nutrients are discussed in order to understand their limitations.
Note: NUT 201ab is strongly recommended; prior familiarity with nutrition and the health sciences is expected, as is a basic knowledge of biochemistry and human physiology. Offered jointly with the Medical School as BPH 733.0, and with the School of Public Health as NUT 202cd.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

* BPH 300r. Laboratory Rotations
Catalog Number: 8441
Dyann F. Wirth (Public Health) 2492 and Marianne Wessling-Resnick (Public Health, Medical School) 1315 (spring term only)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Members of the Division of Biological Sciences offer hands-on experimental methods of research in the biological sciences.
Note: Offered jointly with the School of Public Health as DBS 300ab, DBS 300cd.

* BPH 302. Molecular Regulation of Thrombosis
Catalog Number: 2731
Guy L. Reed III 1615

* BPH 304. Study of Workplace Mutagen and Carcinogen Exposure
Catalog Number: 2734
Karl Kelsey (Public Health, Medical School) 2316

* BPH 306. Circadian and Sleep Physiology and Disorders

*BPH 311. Molecular Mechanisms of Control of the Biosynthesis, Secretion, and Action of Polypeptide Hormones
Catalog Number: 2757
Armen H. Tashjian, Jr. (Public Health, Medical School) 2071

*BPH 312. Regulation of the Cellular Uptake of Macromolecular Nutrients
Catalog Number: 2736
Marianne Wessling-Resnick (Public Health, Medical School) 1315

*BPH 313. Mechanisms of Drug Resistance in Entamoeba histolytica
Catalog Number: 2681
John C. Samuelson (Public Health, Medical School) 1618

*BPH 315. Molecular Genetic Analysis of Gene Expression and Drug Resistance in Parasitic Protozoan, Including Leishmania and Malaria
Catalog Number: 2756
Donald F. Wirth (Public Health) 2492

*BPH 316. Immunology and Molecular Biology of Schistosoma mansoni
Catalog Number: 2737
Donald A. Harn (Public Health) 2051

*BPH 317. Gene-Environment Interactions in Human Lipoprotein Metabolism
Catalog Number: 2541
Hannia Campos (Public Health) 2710

*BPH 319. Signaling Mechanisms of Peptide Hormones, Genetic and Molecular Basis of Obesity and Diabetes
Catalog Number: 8425
Gokhan S. Hotamisligil (Public Health) 2725

*BPH 321. Mechanical Mechanisms of Cytoskeleton and its Regulatory Role in Cell Growth and Migration
Catalog Number: 5552
Ning Wang (Public Health) 2737

*BPH 322. Study of Epidemiologic and Biological Characteristics of HIV Viruses in Africa
Catalog Number: 4523

Biophysics students should consult course listings from the departments of Biology, Chemistry and Chemical Biology, Physics, Molecular and Cellular Biology (formerly Biochemistry and Molecular Biology, Applied Mathematics, the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences, and the Division of Medical Sciences.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Biophysics 101. Genomics and Computational Biology
Catalog Number: 6896
George M. Church (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., 12–2; Tu., 5:30–7:30 p.m. and nine additional sections to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15 Assesses the relationships between sequence, structure and function in complex biological networks as well as progress in realistic modeling of quantitative, comprehensive functional genomics analyses. Topics include algorithmic, statistical, database, and simulation approaches and practical applications to biotechnology, drug discovery and genetic engineering. Future opportunities and current limitations will be critically assessed. Problem sets and a course project emphasize creative, hands-on analyses using these concepts.

Prerequisite: Basic understanding of molecular biology, statistics, and computers.

Biophysics 164r (formerly Biophysics 151r). Molecular Biophysics and Biophysical Chemistry: Theory and Simulation of Macromolecules

Catalog Number: 7317 Enrollment: Limited to 18.

_Eugene I. Shakhnovich_

_Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16_

Introduction to the principles of macromolecular structure, folding and dynamics, with emphasis Molecular dynamics and other simulation approach to protein dynamics, enzymatic function and folding. Empirical and knowledge-based energy functions for structure prediction and design.
Examples include: prediction of protein structure using ab initio and bioinformatics approaches, theory of random and designed heteropolymers with application to protein folding and design, molecular recognition, rational drug design.

Note: Offered in alternate years. It is suggested that students enroll in Chemistry 164 when this course is bracketed. Cannot be taken for credit by students who have completed Chemistry 164.

Prerequisite: Biological Sciences 11 or 54 and one of the following: Chemistry 160, MCB 61, Physics 143, or permission of instructor.

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., W., F., 4:30–5:30.

Introductory lectures by faculty members associated with the Biophysics program. Lectures are accompanied by three periods of instruction in laboratories of structural molecular biology, cell and membrane biophysics, molecular genetics and development, physical biochemistry, neurobiology and bioinformatics. Students normally spend each laboratory period in a different field. It is possible to undertake a suitable problem in mathematical biophysics in place of one of the three fields.

Business Studies

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Higher Degrees in Business Studies

George P. Baker, Professor of Business Administration (Business School) (Chair)

The Standing Committee on Higher Degrees in Business Studies is a joint committee consisting of members from both the Harvard Business School (HBS) and the Faculty of Arts and Sciences (FAS). The committee is composed of the members of the following subcommittees:

Subcommittee on the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Business Economics

Adam M. Brandenburger, Professor of Business Administration (Business School) (Chair)
George P. Baker, Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
John Y. Campbell, Otto Eckstein Professor of Applied Economics
Oliver S. Hart, Andrew E. Furer Professor of Economics
Paul Murray Healy, James R. Williston Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
Alvin E. Roth, George Gund Professor of Economics and Business Administration

Subcommittee on the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Information Technology and Management

Marco Iansiti, Professor of Business Administration (Business School) (Co-chair)
H. T. Kung, William H. Gates Professor of Computer Science and Electrical Engineering (Co-chair) (on leave spring term)
George P. Baker, Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
Paul Murray Healy, James R. Williston Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
John W. Hutchinson, Abbott and James Lawrence Professor of Engineering
Michael O. Rabin, Thomas J. Watson, Sr. Professor of Computer Science
David Mark Upton, Albert J. Weatherhead III Professor of Business Administration (Business School) (Acting Chair)

Subcommittee on the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Organizational Behavior

Peter V. Marsden, Professor of Sociology (Acting Chair)
Teresa M. Amabile, Edsel Bryant Ford Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
George P. Baker, Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
J. Richard Hackman, Cahners-Rabb Professor of Social and Organizational Psychology
PhD programs in Business Economics, Organizational Behavior, and Information Technology and Management are administered by the Standing Committee on Higher degrees in Business Studies consisting of members from both Harvard Business School (HBS) and the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The programs are intended for students who wish to enter careers in scholarship and advanced research.

Each September the Committee publishes Business Studies at Harvard, a Guide to Courses, Faculty and Programs. A printed version of the guide is available at the GSAS Dean’s Office, Byerly Hall, 8 Garden Street and at HBS Doctoral Program Office, Sherman Hall. The guide is available at the following web site and is distributed at FAS Registration. www.hbs.edu/doctoral.

Primarily for Graduates

Business Studies 2000ab. Management and Markets: Organizational Economics and Finance
Catalog Number: 5800 Enrollment: Limited to 36.

George P. Baker (Business School) and members of the HBS faculty.
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., 12:30–2. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6

The course will expose students to the classic works in administrative theory, recent work on organizational processes, the management of change and the management of technology. The course will cover theories of human motivation and human interaction from numerous perspectives.
Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4001/4002.

Catalog Number: 3946 Enrollment: Limited to 36.

George P. Baker (Business School) and members of the HBS faculty
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., 12:30–2. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6

This course will cover the foundations of corporate strategy and organizational design as informed by industrial and organizational economies; In the second part, we will look at the functioning of modern capital markets, and the interactions of firms within this market.
Note: Jointly offered with the Business School as 4003/4004.

Business Studies 2110. The Foundations of Strategy
Catalog Number: 2784 Enrollment: Limited to 36.
Kenneth S. Corts (Business School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

This new course will focus on the application of contemporary thinking about microeconomics and, particularly, industrial organization, to business strategy. The perspective taken, however, will emphasize issues associated with business administration and research in that area.
Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4110.
Prerequisite: Economics 2010a, or the equivalent.

Business Studies 2120. Game Theory
Catalog Number: 8305 Enrollment: Limited to 36.
Adam Brandenburger (Business School)
Half course (spring term). Th., F., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 15, 16
This course is a broad coverage of game theory, including: non-cooperative and cooperative games; rationality and irrationality; first- and second-mover advantages; measures of bargaining power; conditions for efficiency and inefficiency in bargaining games; and links between games. The course will emphasize applications to business-strategy concepts, such as positioning, judo, bundling, and innovation.
Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4120. Open to advanced undergraduates with permission of instructor.

Business Studies 2130. Institutional Foundations of Capitalism
Catalog Number: 3619 Enrollment: Limited to 36.
David Abraham Moss (Business School) and I J Alexander Dyck (Business School)
Half course (spring term). M., 3–6. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Examines the institutional foundations of a market economy and explores new approaches to institutional research. This year we will focus on institutions of corporate governance and risk management.
Note: Scholars will deliver papers in a conventional seminar format and then meet exclusively with students for an hour. Offered jointly with the Business School as 4130.

Business Studies 2140. Information and Network Economics
Catalog Number: 1350
Charles King (Business School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., 3–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
This is a new course, designed as an introduction to the economics of information and networks supplemented by how firms design information products and how organizations distribute and generate information. It covers four major topics: (1) concepts of information and how to measure it, (2) how individual rational actors use information and make choices under uncertainty, (3) how information goods differ from tangible goods, and (4) how different governance mechanisms affect information creation and distribution.
Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4140.
Prerequisite: Economics 2010, 2020 or the equivalent; can be taken concurrently. Knowledge of multivariate calculus and basic principles of computer science.

Business Studies 2310. Policy and Management: Theory and Application
Catalog Number: 9281 Enrollment: Limited to 36.
Joseph L. Bower (Business School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The readings in this new course cover related literatures of policy formulation and implementation, organization development and learning, and governance, in the context of rapidly evolving fields such as the management of innovation and application of modern information technology. Wherever possible, the perspective will be comparative. Building on classics in the field, the course will deal with contemporary topics such as rapid growth, knowledge sharing and virtual organizations. The readings are complemented by case studies so that classes will deal with theory and application.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Business School as 4310.

Business Studies 2540. The Management of Technological Innovation
Catalog Number: 8573 Enrollment: Limited to 36.
Lee Fleming (Business School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 18
This new course explores a range of topics and themes associated with technological innovation. It is designed to provide doctoral students with a relatively comprehensive overview of the important streams of literature in the innovation field. This course is inter-disciplinary in focus and includes perspectives from operations, management, and organizational theory.

Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4540.

Business Studies 2630. Consumer Behavior
Catalog Number: 5513 Enrollment: Limited to 36.
John Timothy Gourville (Business School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., 3–6. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
This new course will provide a research overview of the field of consumer behavior and consumer decision making. Drawing principally from research papers from the fields of economics, psychology, and sociology, the course will cover topics including persuasion and attitude formation, emotion and affect, learning and memory, and behavioral decision making.

Business Studies 2810. Business History Seminar
Catalog Number: 3157 Enrollment: Limited to 36.
Thomas K. McCraw (Business School)

Half course (fall term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Business History, Economic Theory, and Biography cut across disciplines, and the central question is this: does a theorist’s biography tell us anything about the theory itself? Theorists include Keynes, Schumpeter, Ronald Coase, and more recent Nobel Laureates.

Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4810. The theme for the Seminar will be Business History, Economic Theory, and Biography. Both HBS faculty and professors from other universities will present panels and papers on this theme.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Business Studies 3000. Direction of Doctoral Dissertations
Catalog Number: 6863
George P. Baker (Business School) 3834, Adam M. Brandenburger (Business School) 2177, Richard E. Caves 1414, and Paul Murray Healy (Business School) 3838

Celtic Languages and Literatures

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Department of Celtic Languages and Literatures

Patrick K. Ford, Margaret Brooks Robinson Professor of Celtic Languages and Literatures (Chair)
Kathryn Ann Chadbourne, Lecturer on Celtic Languages and Literatures
Gene C. Haley, Lecturer on Celtic Languages and Literatures, Associate of the Department of Celtic Languages and Literatures
Barbara L. Hillers, Assistant Professor of Celtic Languages and Literatures
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh, Henry L. Shattuck Professor of Irish Studies (Director of Graduate Studies)

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of Celtic Languages and Literatures

Calvert Watkins, Victor S. Thomas Professor of Linguistics and the Classics

Graduate students in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences may enroll in certain foreign language courses for the grade of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Students should consult with course heads to determine if a course is offered on that basis.

Primarily for Undergraduates

*Celtic 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1323
Patrick K. Ford and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Instruction and direction of reading on topics not treated in regular courses of instruction.

For Undergraduates and Graduates
[Celtic 106. Folklore of Ireland]
Catalog Number: 3966
Barbara L. Hillers
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the oral literature of Ireland. We will read folk- and hero-tales, work-songs and love-songs, fairy legends, charms and prayers—placing them within the context of daily life, belief, and performance. Themes will include: understanding oral literature; the relationship of “art” and function; and women’s folklore.
Note: Expected to be given in 2004–05. Knowledge of Irish helpful but not required; all texts will be read in English translation.

Celtic 107. Early Irish History
Catalog Number: 7976
Gene C. Haley
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12
An introduction to the sources for the history of Ireland before 1167 A.D. Through native annals, regnal lists, genealogies, laws, martyrologies, related literary and hagiographic works, pseudo-historical documents, and archaeological evidence, this course will examine the major social, political, military, religious, and cultural developments from roughly the third century A.D. to the eve of the Norman Invasion.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. No Knowledge of Irish required; all texts will be read in English translation.

Celtic 113. Gaelic Women’s Poetry
Catalog Number: 7517
Barbara L. Hillers
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
This course explores the ways gender, genre, and tradition intersect in Gaelic poetry from the Middle Ages to today. After an excursion into early medieval literature, we will focus on three types of poetry in particular: (1) the work of aristocratic practitioners such as Isabel Countess of Argyll, (2) the traditionally female genres, including waulking songs, laments and lullabies, which were composed, transmitted, and performed by women, and (3) contemporary women’s poetry which has succeeded in creating a new sense of ‘female’ poetry.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. This course will be of particular interest to students with a background in Irish or Scottish Gaelic, but no knowledge of either language is necessary. All texts will be read in English translation.

Celtic 114. Early Irish Historical Tales
Catalog Number: 0781
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Introduction to early Irish story-material about legendary and historical persons and events. Attitudes to kingship and views of history in the tales will be explored.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. All texts will be read in English translation.
[Celtic 124. Modern Irish Literature]
Catalog Number: 7084
Barbara L. Hillers
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A survey of 20th-century prose and poetry in Irish, from its partisan beginnings to the work of acclaimed contemporary authors. We shall look at a few of the more important novels, and particularly at short stories by Ó Conaire, Ó Flaithearta, and Ó Cadhain. Poetry came into its own in the second half of the 20th century with such outstanding poets as Máirtín Ó Direáin and Seán Ó Riordáin, and we shall finish our survey with the contemporary poetry of Nuala Ní Dhomhnaill and others.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Knowledge of Irish helpful, but not required. All texts will be read in English translation.

[Celtic 128. Introduction to Modern Welsh]
Catalog Number: 4148
Patrick K. Ford and others
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Basic grammar, translation of simple contemporary Welsh writings, and practice of pronunciation and conversation.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. It is suggested that this course be followed by Celtic 129r.

[Celtic 129r. Intermediate Modern Welsh]
Catalog Number: 4694
Patrick K. Ford and others
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Further grammatical study, with continued pronunciation and conversation, and readings in contemporary Welsh literature.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 128 or permission of instructor.

[Celtic 130. Introduction to Scottish Gaelic]
Catalog Number: 1846 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Barbara L. Hillers and others
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the spoken and written language.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. It is suggested that this course be followed by Celtic 131.

[Celtic 131. Intermediate Scottish Gaelic]
Catalog Number: 4542 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Barbara L. Hillers and others
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A continuation of the fall term course.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 130 or equivalent.
Celtic 132. Introduction to Modern Irish
Catalog Number: 6725 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Kathryn Ann Chadbourne
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Introduction to speaking, reading, and writing Modern Irish. The class aims to build up students’ confidence in using the language as a medium of communication.
Note: It is suggested that this course be followed by Celtic 133r.

Celtic 133r. Intermediate Modern Irish
Catalog Number: 6689 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Barbara L. Hillers
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Development of oral competence and writing skills; an exploration of the oral and literary tradition.
Prerequisite: Celtic 132 or permission of instructor.

Celtic 138r. The Mabinogi
Catalog Number: 6480
Kathryn Ann Chadbourne
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
A study of the prose and literature of medieval Wales, focusing on the Four Branches, the early Arthurian tales and associated works. The class will consider the texts as folklore, as myth, and as literature, especially addressing the ways in which assumptions about genre affect the reading produced. Supplemental readings will address theoretical approaches to myth, folklore, and literature.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Knowledge of Welsh helpful but not required; all texts will be read in English translation.

Celtic 150. Celtic Paganism
Catalog Number: 6589
Patrick K. Ford
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
A survey of the evidence relating to the beliefs, gods, cults, and druidic priest class of the pagan Celts, both continental and insular. Materials studied include the commentaries of Greek and Roman ethnographers, the archaeological record, and in particular the writings of the early Irish and Welsh themselves.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3686. All texts will be read in English translation.

[Celtic 160. Advanced Modern Irish]
Catalog Number: 0704
Barbara L. Hillers
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Reading, listening, and speaking, with grammatical study, geared to the interests and aptitudes of the participants.
*Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. It is suggested that this course be followed by Celtic 161.

Prerequisite: Celtic 133r or permission of instructor.

[Celtic 161. Continuing Advanced Modern Irish]
Catalog Number: 4421
Barbara L. Hillers
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Intensive study of selected topics in Modern Irish.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 160 or permission of instructor.

[Celtic 182. Modern Welsh Literature]
Catalog Number: 1653
Patrick K. Ford
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Readings in major works of prose and poetry from the 18th to the 20th century, including William Williams (Pantycelyn), Ann Griffiths, R. Williams Parry, Waldo Williams, Daniel Owen, Kate Roberts, Caradog Pritchard, and T. Rowland Hughes.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. All works read in Welsh.

[Celtic 184. Early Irish Literature]
Catalog Number: 2150
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A survey of scholarly and critical work on The Táin together with a close reading of parts of Recension I.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. The text will be read in English translation.

Primarily for Graduates

Celtic 200. Introduction to Old Irish
Catalog Number: 8266
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
An introduction to the language of the 8th and 9th centuries, with elementary readings in prose texts.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. It is suggested that this course be followed by Celtic 201.

Celtic 201. Continuing Old Irish
Catalog Number: 6073
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
Further grammatical study, with continued reading of saga texts.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 200 or permission of the instructor.

[Celtic 203r. Middle Irish]
Catalog Number: 1062
Barbara L. Hillers
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to Middle Irish (900–1200) together with a close reading of Middle Irish texts.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Celtic 204r. Readings in Early Irish Poetry]
Catalog Number: 8493
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Readings in Early Irish Lyrics.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 200 or permission of the instructor.

[Celtic 205r. Readings in Early Irish Prose]
Catalog Number: 2705
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A reading of Bethu Brigithe.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 200 or permission of the instructor.

[Celtic 208. Early Irish Society]
Catalog Number: 1359
Tomás Ó Cathasaigh
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The course is concerned with the institutional and conceptual framework of early Irish life. The evidence of the laws will be considered in translation, and the literature will be taken into account.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

[Celtic 225a. Introduction to Middle Welsh]
Catalog Number: 3960
Patrick K. Ford
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to the language, leading to the reading of Middle Welsh prose texts.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. It is suggested that this course be followed by Celtic 225b.

[Celtic 225b. Continuing Middle Welsh]
Catalog Number: 4167
Patrick K. Ford
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Further grammatical studies with continued readings of Middle Welsh prose and poetry.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 225a or permission of instructor.

Celtic 226r. Readings in Middle Welsh
Catalog Number: 2796
Patrick K. Ford
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Readings in the poems of Dafydd ap Gwilym.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Celtic 225b or permission of the instructor.

Celtic 227. Welsh Bardic Poetry: Seminar
Catalog Number: 2580
Patrick K. Ford
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Selected readings from the Poets of the Princes, with special attention to the historical development of the genre, the social organization of poets, and the bardic grammars.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Knowledge of Welsh or permission of the instructor.

Celtic 230r. Sources for Medieval Welsh Culture and Society
Catalog Number: 3511
Patrick K. Ford
Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Readings in the chronicle of Elis Gruffydd. Ancillary sources, such as the Welsh Brutiau and genealogies, may be used as well.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Knowledge of Middle Welsh or permission of the instructor.

Chemical Physics

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Chemical Physics

Eric J. Heller, Professor of Chemistry and Physics (Chair) (on leave fall term)
John M. Doyle, Professor of Physics (on leave fall term)
Roy G. Gordon, Thomas Dudley Cabot Professor of Chemistry
Dudley R. Herschbach, Frank B. Baird, Jr. Research Professor of Science (on leave 2001-02)
William Klemperer, Erving Research Professor of Chemistry (on leave 2001-02)
David R. Reichman, Assistant Professor of Chemistry and Chemical Biology
Matthew D. Shair, Professor of Chemistry and Chemical Biology
Eugene I. Shakhnovich, Professor of Chemistry and Chemical Biology
Xiaoliang Sunney Xie, Professor of Chemistry and Chemical Biology
Xiaowei Zhuang, Assistant Professor of Chemistry and Chemical Biology and of Physics

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Chemical Physics is offered to students with undergraduate education in chemistry or physics. It provides a program of study and research in joint areas of physics and chemistry. The Committee in Chemical Physics serves to aid students interested in chemical physics plan their program of graduate studies. The program of research leading to the PhD may be carried out under the direction of members of the departments of Chemistry, Physics, Astronomy, and the Division of Engineeering and Applied Sciences who have interests in chemical physics. Specific information may be obtained from any member of the committee and from the Department of Chemistry Information Office.

Depending on their prior preparation, students will choose one of three possible entries to studies in this Department. Students with an average or weak background in chemistry should enroll in Chemistry 5 and 7; students with a strong background in chemistry should enroll in Chemistry 10; students with outstanding chemical preparation may enroll at once in Chemistry 17 or 20. Most well prepared students who wish to pursue honors level concentration in chemistry or closely allied fields will elect the (10)+20+30+40+135 track. Others who start with 5+7+17+27 may join the other track by taking 135 and 40. Most students of life sciences, especially those preparing for medical school, will take 5+7 or 10 followed by 17 and 27. Students may not take both Chemistry 17 and 20 for credit. Since there is little or no overlap in content between Chemistry 27 and 30, students interested in a strong background in both bio-organic and theoretical organic chemistry may take both courses. The Science A Core requirement may be satisfied by taking any one of Chemistry 5, 7, 10, 17, or 20.

Certain courses in biochemistry and biophysics are listed under Molecular and Cellular Biology or Biophysics (see cross-listings at end of middle group course section.) The Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences, the Department of Physics, and the Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences also list a number of courses of interest to chemists.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Because of the sequence of prerequisites for chemistry courses, the Department strongly recommends some work in mathematics as well as chemistry in the first year. Freshmen contemplating this program are urged to consult a member of the Chemistry Department in planning their work for the first year. Advice may be obtained in the Head Tutor’s Office, Science Center 114.

Chemistry 5. Introduction to Principles of Chemistry

Catalog Number: 7171

James E. Davis

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 9, one hour per week of discussion, and three hours per
Introduction to the structure and properties of atoms, molecules, and ions; stoichiometry; thermochemistry; electronic structure of atoms; periodic properties of the elements; chemical bonding; molecular geometry and bonding theories; gases; intermolecular forces, liquids, and solids; properties of solutions.

Note: Chemistry 5–7 is the mainstream general chemistry sequence for students with typical high school chemistry backgrounds (one year) or for students with no previous study of chemistry. Calculus is not necessary for Chemistry 5, but a strong background in high school algebra is essential. Students who lack this algebra background should take Math Ar or Math Xa before attempting Chemistry 5. Students with very strong high school chemistry backgrounds may enroll instead in Chemistry 10, 17, or 20; see those course descriptions for details.

Chemistry 7. Principles of Chemistry
Catalog Number: 5118
Hongkun Park and Charles M. Lieber
Half course (spring term), M., W., F., at 9, one hour per week of discussion, and three hours per week of laboratory. EXAM GROUP: 2
Evolution of the elements; nuclear chemistry; rates and mechanisms of chemical reactions; chemical kinetics; chemical equilibrium; acids and bases; additional aspects of aqueous equilibria; instrumental analysis; chemistry of the environment; chemical thermodynamics; electrochemistry; modern materials; chemistry of the nonmetals; metals and metallurgy; chemistry of coordination compounds; the chemistry of life.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 5 or equivalent, in particular: chemical equilibrium, the first and second law of thermodynamics, and elements of acid-base chemistry. A few simple operations of the calculus are developed and used. Fluency in precalculus secondary school mathematics is assumed. Exposure to secondary school physics will be helpful.

Chemistry 10. Accelerated Course: Foundations of Chemistry
Catalog Number: 1376
Roy G. Gordon and Dudley R. Herschbach
Half course (fall term). Lectures M., W., F., at 9, discussion section, and laboratory work averaging four hours a week, to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
Physical principles in chemistry: atomic and molecular structure, thermodynamics, and chemical kinetics. Applications to reaction equilibria and mechanisms; electrochemistry; photochemistry; environmental chemistry, life sciences and materials chemistry; selected commonplace, exotic, and poetic phenomena. Laboratory work stresses the principles and techniques of quantitative chemistry.
Note: Open to students with strong secondary school courses in chemistry, physics and mathematics, and who are currently enrolled in Mathematics 1a (or equivalent preparation). To be admitted to Chemistry 10, students must obtain a satisfactory score on the Harvard Chemistry Placement Examination, given during freshman week, or must obtain permission of the instructor. Students who do not take this examination or do not achieve a satisfactory score should take Chemistry 5 and 7. Chemistry 10 may not be counted toward a degree in addition to Chemistry 5 or 7.
Chemistry 17. Principles of Organic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 5085
Claude Wintner (Haverford College)
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, and a discussion section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

An introduction to structure, bonding, and reaction mechanisms of organic compounds; chemical transformation of the common functional groups; principles of organic synthesis.
Note: The Chemistry 17/27 sequence is intended primarily for students in the life sciences, whereas the 20/30 sequence is intended primarily for Chemistry concentrators and other students concentrating in the physical sciences. Either sequence satisfies the organic chemistry requirement for medical school. The content of Chemistry 17 is similar to that of Chemistry 20, so students may not count both courses toward the degree. On the other hand, Chemistry 27 and Chemistry 30 cover different material, so students may choose to take both courses for degree credit; students should ordinarily take the third half course only after completing either the 17/27 or 20/30 sequence.

Prerequisite: Open to freshmen with a score of 750 or higher in the College Boards or the Chemistry Placement Examination; to students who scored 4 or 5 on the Chemistry Advanced Placement Examination; and to students who achieved a grade of B or higher in either Chemistry 7, 9, or 10. Others may enter only by permission of the instructor.

Chemistry 20. Organic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 0876
Andrew G. Myers
Half course (spring term). Lectures, M., W., F., at 9, and a discussion section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2

An introduction to structure, bonding, and mechanism of organic reactions; chemical transformation of the common functional groups in aliphatic and aromatic compounds; synthesis; determination of structure; infrared and NMR spectroscopy.
Note: The Chemistry 17/27 sequence is intended primarily for students in the life sciences, whereas the 20/30 sequence is intended primarily for Chemistry concentrators and other students concentrating in the physical sciences. Either sequence satisfies the organic chemistry requirement for medical school. The content of Chemistry 17 is similar to that of Chemistry 20, so students may not count both courses toward the degree. On the other hand, Chemistry 27 and Chemistry 30 cover different material, so students may choose to take both courses for degree credit; students should ordinarily take the third half course only after completing either the 17/27 or 20/30 sequence.

Prerequisite: Open to freshmen with a score higher than 750 in the College Boards or the Chemistry Placement Examination; to students who scored 5 on the Chemistry Advanced Placement Examination; and to students who achieved a grade of B or higher in either Chemistry 7, 9, or 10. Others may enter only by permission of the instructor.

Chemistry 27. Organic Chemistry of Life
Catalog Number: 5978
David R. Liu
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a discussion section, and a five hour laboratory each week to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Sequel to Chemistry 17. Organic chemical principles of molecular science that govern the processes occurring in living systems are illustrated with examples drawn from biochemistry, cell biology, and medicine. The course deals with generalities of organic chemical reactivity (reaction mechanisms, structure-reactivity and structure-property relationships), with matters specifically relevant to the life sciences (chemistry of proteins, nucleic acids, natural products, cofactors, signal transduction), and with applications of chemical biology in medicine and biotechnology (drug design and mechanism, metabolism). It requires an understanding of organic reactions and their mechanisms, with considerable focus on “arrow pushing”.

Note: Chemistry 27 and 30 may both be taken for degree credit. See note for Chemistry 17.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 17; Chemistry 30; or Chemistry 20 with permission of the instructor.

Chemistry 30. Organic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 6587
Yorke Rhodes

Half course (fall term). Lectures M., W., F., at 9, and laboratory, four to six hours a week, to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2

Continuation of Chemistry 20 including reactions involving carbanions, carbonium ions, carbenes and free radicals; and an introduction to biologically important classes of compounds including carbohydrates, amino acids, peptides, nucleic acids and other heterocyclic compounds. Laboratory: an introduction to the practice of organic chemistry and the identification of unknown compounds.

Note: Chemistry 27 and 30 may both be taken for degree credit. See note for Chemistry 17.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 20 or Chemistry 27.

Chemistry 40. Inorganic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 8201
William Klemperer and Richard H. Holm

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5

An introduction to basic concepts of inorganic chemistry. Topics include synthesis, bonding, thermodynamics, stereochemistry, and reactivity of inorganic compounds of the main group and the transition elements.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 17 or 20.

Chemistry 60. Foundations of Physical Chemistry
Catalog Number: 5181
Eric J. Heller

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

This course is designed to be a compact introduction to major principles of physical chemistry (chemical kinetics, thermodynamics, and statistical mechanics), concurrently providing mathematical and physical foundations for these subjects and mathematical preparation for Chemistry 160 and 161, or Chemistry 105.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 5, 7 or 10 or equivalent; completion or concurrent enrollment in Mathematics 21a or Applied Mathematics 21a; completion or concurrent enrollment in Physics 11a or equivalent.
*Chemistry 91r. Introduction to Research
Catalog Number: 4366
James E. Davis (fall term), Dudley R. Herschbach (spring term) and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Reading and/or laboratory work related to one of the research projects under way in the department.
Note: Open to a limited number of chemistry concentrators who are accepted as research students without having taken Chemistry 98. Written permission of the sponsor must be filed at the Office of the Head Tutor in Chemistry. Any student enrolling in this course must register the name of his or her research mentor with the course head, James E. Davis, and Dr. Davis’ signature must appear on each student’s study card.

*Chemistry 98r. Introduction to Research—Junior Year
Catalog Number: 3124
James E. Davis (fall term), Dudley R. Herschbach (spring term) and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Research under the direction of, or approved by, a member of the faculty of the Department of Chemistry.
Note: Open with approval of the instructor to junior chemistry majors who have satisfactorily completed the non-credit Introduction to Research Tutorial in the spring term of the sophomore year. In that non-credit spring term tutorial, taught Tu., Th., 1–2:30, students will attend introductory lectures and research seminars in order to acquaint themselves with departmental research programs. In the junior year, students who complete the non-credit tutorial and obtain placement in a research laboratory will undertake research as Chemistry 98r. Written permission of the research adviser must be filed at the office of the Head Tutor in Chemistry. Any student enrolling in this course must register the name of his or her research mentor with the course head, James E. Davis, and Dr. Davis’ signature must appear on each student’s study card.

*Chemistry 99r. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 4508
James E. Davis (fall term), Dudley R. Herschbach (spring term) and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Research under the direction of, or approved by, a member of the faculty of the Department of Chemistry.
Note: Open to seniors accredited by the Department as honors candidates. Written permission of the research adviser must be filed at the office of the Head Tutor in Chemistry. Any student enrolling in this course must register the name of his or her research mentor with the course head, James E. Davis, and Dr. Davis’ signature must appear on each student’s study card.

Cross-listed Courses

Biological Sciences 52 (formerly Biological Sciences 10). Introductory Molecular Biology
Earth and Planetary Sciences 107. Environmental Geochemistry
[MCB 112. Structure and Function of Proteins and Nucleic Acids]
MCB 176. Biochemistry of Membraness
For Undergraduates and Graduates

Chemistry 105. Mechanisms of Organic Reactions
Catalog Number: 3181
George M. Whitesides

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
The study of the relation between structure of carbon compounds and their reactivity and properties. Thermodynamics, electronic structure, reaction mechanisms, reactive intermediates, catalysis, structure-reactivity relations, influence of solvents on reactivity.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 5 and 7, or 10; and Chemistry 20 and 30 with a grade of B- or better. Chem 60 or MCB 61 highly recommended.

Catalog Number: 0480
Andrew G. Myers

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An integrated course in complex synthetic problem solving that focuses on the development of principles and strategies for synthesis design with a concurrent, comprehensive review of modern synthetic transformations.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 105 or a grade of A in Chemistry 30.

Chemistry 117. Diversity-Oriented Synthesis
Catalog Number: 2774
Matthew D. Shair

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12
This course will cover reactions and strategies used in the synthesis of complex molecules. Special emphasis will be placed on reactions and strategies that are useful in diversity-oriented syntheses. Areas covered will include: conformational analysis, important C-C bond forming reactions, asymmetric synthesis, asymmetric catalysis, functional group manipulation, tandem reactions, multicomponent reactions, and strategies for ring formation. The application of diversity-oriented synthesis to the discovery of new reactions, catalysts, and molecules with novel biological properties will also be included.

Chemistry 135. Experimental Synthetic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 3406 Enrollment: Limited to 64. Preference given to concentrators in Chemistry, Biochemical Sciences, and Biology, in that order.
Garry Procter

Half course (spring term). Lectures M., at 1, and laboratory, eight to nine hours a week, Tu., 2–10 p.m., W., 1–9 p.m., or Th., 2–10 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 6
An introduction to experimental problems encountered in the synthesis, isolation, purification, characterization, and identification of inorganic and organic compounds. Each student works on a different sequence of reactions chosen to encourage the development of technical proficiency and to simulate actual research.
Note: Recommended as an efficient preparation for research in experimental inorganic and organic chemistry and related sciences such as biochemistry and pharmacology. Normally follows Chemistry 27 or 30 and is strongly recommended as preparation for Chemistry 98 and 99.

Chemistry 150. Inorganic Chemistry II, Transition Elements
Catalog Number: 6491
Richard H. Holm
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10, and a discussion section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
An introduction to the chemistry of the transition elements and bioinorganic chemistry. Topics include electronic structure, physical methods, stereochemistry, kinetics, and mechanisms of inorganic reactions. Liberal use will be made of elementary theory and quantum chemistry.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 40 or 160, or permission of the instructor.

[Chemistry 153. Organotransition Metal Chemistry]
Catalog Number: 1848
Eric N. Jacobsen
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to organotransition metal chemistry. Topics include organometallic reaction mechanisms and the application of transition metal complexes in organic synthesis and in homogeneous catalysis.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Intended primarily for graduate students and advanced undergraduates in chemistry.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 30 or equivalent, and Chemistry 40 or equivalent. Concurrent enrollment in Chemistry 115 and/or Chemistry 206 is recommended.

Chemistry 154. Crystal Symmetry, Diffraction, and Structure Analysis
Catalog Number: 8873
Richard J. Staples
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 9; laboratory one afternoon per week. EXAM GROUP: 2
Theory of the internal symmetry and arrangement of atoms in crystals; development and use of space groups. Geometrical and physical aspects of the diffraction process, with emphasis on comprehensive interpretation of x-ray diffraction effects from single crystals. Methods of crystal structure analysis. Laboratory includes searching and utilizing the CSD database, as well as the data collection and crystal structure solution of a new single crystal.
Note: Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Familiarity with atomic structure, basic symmetry principles, linear algebra, and electromagnetic waves.

[Chemistry 158. Materials Chemistry]
Catalog Number: 7504
Charles M. Lieber
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to inorganic and organic materials. Topics include: structure of crystalline solids; electronic structure and conduction in materials; crystal chemistry; synthesis of bulk, thin film, and nanoscale materials; structure-property relationships, including superconductivity.
magnetism and giant magneto resistance, nonlinear optical materials, mesoporous structures, and monostuctures.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Primarily intended for advanced undergraduates and graduates.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 40 or equivalent.

Chemistry 160. Physical Chemistry

Catalog Number: 3420
Cynthia M. Friend
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

An introduction to modern theories of the structure of matter, including the principles of quantum mechanics, the electronic structure of atoms and molecules, chemical bonding, and atomic and molecular spectra.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b, Mathematics 21a and 21b, or equivalent preparation in calculus and differential equations; one full course in physics (with an honor grade, if in Physics 1); Chemistry 10 or equivalent.

Chemistry 161. Statistical Thermodynamics

Catalog Number: 3575
David R. Reichman
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

An introduction to statistical mechanics, thermodynamics, and chemical kinetics with applications to problems in chemistry.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 160 and Applied Mathematics 21a, or equivalent.

Chemistry 162. Molecular Spectroscopy

Catalog Number: 0924
William Klemperer and Xiaoliang Sunney Xie
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Modern molecular spectroscopy applied to the study of the structure and dynamics in gas and condensed phase systems. Topics include electronic, vibrational, rotational and nuclear hyperfine energy levels of polyatomic molecules, their interactions with electromagnetic radiation, selection rules and relaxation processes. The fundamental principles are illustrated by spectroscopic approaches, such as absorption, fluorescence, scattering, magnetic resonance, as well as nonlinear processes and photochemistry.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 160 and 161; or Physics 143 and 181; (or equivalent preparation). Concurrent registration in Chemistry 161 or Physics 181 acceptable.

Chemistry 163. Molecular Biophysics and Biophysical Chemistry: Structure and Conformational Dynamics of Bio-macromolecules

Catalog Number: 3635
Xiaowei Zhuang
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3

An introduction to the structure and conformational dynamics of bio-macromolecules including proteins and nucleic acids. Emphasis will be placed on the molecular interactions responsible for the macromolecular structure and the experimental techniques used to probe the macromolecular structure and conformational dynamics. The relation of structure and dynamics to function will also be discussed.

Prerequisite: Biological Sciences 10 or 52 or 56; Chemistry 160 or Physics 15; or permission of instructor.

[Chemistry 164r. Molecular Biophysics and Biophysical Chemistry: Theory and Simulations of Macromolecules]
Catalog Number: 5588
Eugene I. Shakhnovich
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to the principles of macromolecular structure, folding and dynamics, with emphasis on structure-function relationship. Principles of protein folding and molecular evolution. Molecular dynamics and other simulation approach to protein dynamics, enzymatic function and folding. Empirical and knowledge-based energy functions for structure prediction and design. Examples include: prediction of protein structure using ab initio and bioinformatics approaches, theory of random and designed heteropolymers with application to protein folding and design, molecular recognition, rational drug design.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. It is suggested that students enroll in Biophysics 164 when this course is bracketed. Cannot be taken for credit by students who have completed Biophysics 164r.
Prerequisite: Biological Sciences 11 and one of the following: Chemistry 160, Biochemistry 61, Physics 143, or permission of instructor.

Chemistry 165. Experimental Physical Chemistry
Catalog Number: 0667
Bretislav Friedrich
Half course (spring term). Lectures: F., 1–2:30; laboratories M., or Tu., 1–5. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
The course aims at providing an introduction to the methods and techniques used in current physical chemistry/chemical physics research laboratories and at developing scientific writing and oral presentation skills. Nine out of a total of eleven laboratory assignments are experiments conducted directly in the Research Groups of the Chemistry Department using their state-of-the-art equipment. These involve: molecular beams; mass spectrometry; Fourier transform infrared and nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopies; laser ablation; laser spectroscopy; cavity ring-down spectroscopy; scanning tunneling and atomic force microscopy; kinetics. Computer-based methods of data acquisition & analysis are used throughout.
Note: Recommended as an efficient preparation for research in experimental physical chemistry/chemical physics and related sciences.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 160 or Physics 143a

Chemistry 167. Surface and Interfacial Phenomena
Catalog Number: 7480
Cynthia M. Friend
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
General principles governing surface and interfacial phenomena are developed using treatment of surface electronic and geometric structure as a foundation. The course will treat both Theoretical and experimental tools for the investigation of surface structure. Selected spectroscopic techniques will also be treated, with emphasis on surface phenomena. The latter part of the course will develop principles of adsorption, reaction, and growth phenomena illustrated through current literature topics.

Note: Primarily for graduates and advanced undergraduates in Chemistry, Physics, and Applied Sciences.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 160 or equivalent.

[Chemistry 170. Chemical Biology]
Catalog Number: 7754
David R. Liu
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

This course explores many of the most interesting recent advances in applying chemical approaches to problems in chemistry and biology. Topics include: protein design and engineering, molecular evolution, DNA damage and repair, novel natural proteins, metabolic engineering, drug action and resistance, rational and combinatorial approaches to drug discovery, chemical genetics, and genomics. Lectures are supplemented with problem sets, discussion sections, and additional readings from the scientific literature.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: A strong background in organic chemistry, including basic biochemistry.

Chemistry 180. Macromolecular Structure and Function
Catalog Number: 6449
Gregory L. Verdine
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

This course will explore in detail the relationship between the structure and function of biological macromolecules. Emphasis will be placed on the chemical principles governing recognition and catalysis in biological systems, using examples drawn from the scientific literature. Topics will include conformational analysis of nucleic acids and proteins, binding of biological macromolecules to each other and small molecules, and the molecular basis for catalysis. Areas of biologic emphasis will include gene regulation, signal transduction and chemical genetics.

Engineering Sciences 168. Aquatic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 5874
Scot T. Martin
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Applications of organic, inorganic, and physical chemistry to describe and quantify processes occurring in natural waters. Thermodynamics and kinetics of aqueous solutions, acid-base chemical transformations, role of dissolved carbon dioxide, gas-water exchange, complexation of aqueous metal ions, precipitation and dissolution, oxidation and reduction, electrical aspects of solid-solution interfaces, particle aggregation, trace metal cycling, and photochemistry.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 5 and 7 or equivalent.

Cross-listed Courses
Biophysics 164r (formerly Biophysics 151r). Molecular Biophysics and Biophysical Chemistry: Theory and Simulation of Macromolecules

Primarily for Graduates

Chemistry 206. Advanced Organic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 1063
David A. Evans
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
An in-depth discussion of the important classes of organic reactions will be provided. The discussion will include an introduction to FMO theory, streeoelectronic effects, conformational analysis, and enantioselective reaction variants. Reaction families that will be surveyed include the major classes of cycloadditions, olefin and carbonyl addition processes, and sigmatropic rearrangements. The generation, structure, and reactivity of commonly encountered reactive intermediates such as enolates, metalloenamines, carbenes, carbonim ions, and free radicals will be integrated into the lectures. Weekly problem assignments designed to improve “electron-pushing” skills will be provided. Small study groups headed by experienced graduate student mentors will emphasize the development of problem-solving skills.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 105, a prior course in mechanistic organic chemistry, or permission of instructor.

Chemistry 240. Statistical Mechanics
Catalog Number: 5215
David R. Reichman
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Equilibrium and nonequilibrium statistical mechanics, with a strong emphasis on interacting systems, including the thermodynamics and structure of gases, liquids, and crystals, critical phenomena, and the theory of transport processes.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 160 and 161, or permission of instructor.

Chemistry 241. Chemical Kinetics
Catalog Number: 6976
Dudley R. Herschbach
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Theory of bimolecular gas phase reactions, success of those theories when applied to reactions of free radicals, unimolecular and thermomolecular rate theories, thermochemistry, energy transfer and recent advances in molecular beam and laser chemistry.
Note: Given in alternate years.

Chemistry 242. Quantum Mechanics I
Catalog Number: 2971
William Klemperer and Hongkun Park
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Principles of quantum mechanics, Particle in a potential well, Identical particles, Angular momentum, time-independent perturbation theory, Chemical bonding in molecules.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 160 or Physics 143, Physics 11 or 12, and Applied Mathematics 105a and 105b, or Mathematics 21, or equivalent.

[Chemistry 243. Quantum Mechanics II]
Catalog Number: 0566
Hongkun Park
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 242.

[Chemistry 244. Quantum Chemistry]
Catalog Number: 8295
Roy G. Gordon
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Quantum mechanics applied to molecules and solids. Hartree-Fock, configuration-interaction, perturbation, coupled cluster, density functional, Monte-Carlo and semi-empirical theories. Use of computer programs for these methods.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 242.

Chemistry 245. Single-molecule Biophysics
Catalog Number: 0944
Xiaoliang Sunney Xie
Half course (fall term). W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
The emerging single-molecule methodology of biophysics, including the principles of single-molecule studies and the experimental approaches, such as the patch clamp technique, atomic force microscopy, optical tweezers, near field microscopy, and confocal and nonlinear optical microscopy. Applications to various biological problems will be discussed.
Prerequisite: Introductory level biochemistry and physical chemistry including quantum mechanics and statistical mechanics; or permission of instructor.

The Classics

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Department of the Classics

Richard F. Thomas, Professor of Greek and Latin (Chair)
William R. Allan, Assistant Professor of the Classics
Kathleen M. Coleman, Professor of Latin (on leave spring term)
John Duffy, Dumbarton Oaks Professor of Byzantine Philology and Literature, Associate of Eliot House (Director of Graduate Studies) (on leave 2002-03)
Albert Henrichs, Eliot Professor of Greek Literature
Judson Herrman, Lecturer on the Classics
Christopher P. Jones, George Martin Lane Professor of the Classics and of History
Ivy Livingston, Associate of Dudley House, Assistant Professor of the Classics (on leave spring term)
Nino Luraghi, Assistant Professor of the Classics (on leave 2002-2003)
David Gordon Mitten, James Loeb Professor of Classical Art and Archaeology
Gregory Nagy, Francis Jones Professor of Classical Greek Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature (Director of the Harvard Center for Hellenic Studies)
Gloria Ferrari Pinney, Professor of Classical Archaeology and Art (on leave fall term)
Eric W. Robinson, Assistant Professor of the Classics and of History (on leave 2001-02)
Panagiotis Roilos, Assistant Professor of Modern Greek Studies
Andreola Rossi, Assistant Professor of the Classics
Mark Schiefsky, Assistant Professor of the Classics (Director of Undergraduate Studies)
Charles P. Segal, Walter C. Klein Professor of the Classics (on leave 2001-02)
Gisela Striker, Professor of Classical Philosophy (on leave spring term)
R. J. Tarrant, Harvard College Professor and Pope Professor of the Latin Language and Literature (on leave fall term)
Calvert Watkins, Victor S. Thomas Professor of Linguistics and the Classics
Jan Ziolkowski, Arthur Kingsley Porter Professor of Medieval Latin

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of the Classics

Shaye J.D. Cohen, Nathan Littauer Professor of Hebrew Literature and Philosophy
Ioli Kalavrezou, Dumbarton Oaks Professor of Byzantine Art (on leave spring term)
John E. Murdoch, Professor of the History of Science
Rabun Taylor, Assistant Professor of History of Art and Architecture (on leave fall term)
Raphael Graham Woolf, Assistant Professor of Philosophy (on leave 2002-03)

Information about requirements for undergraduate and graduate degrees, honors, prizes, and scholarships may be obtained at the office of the Department, Boylston Hall 204. Graduate students in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences may enroll in certain foreign language courses for the grade of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Students should consult with course heads or the department’s website (www.fas.harvard.edu/~classics) to determine if a course is offered on that basis.

Classics

Primarily for Undergraduates

*Classics 93r. Advanced Tutorial for Credit
Catalog Number: 0511
Mark Schiefsky and assistants
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Tutorial instruction for course credit open to candidates for honors who are qualified to do special reading projects in Greek and/or Latin.
Note: May be counted for concentration.

*Classics 97r. Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 5175
Mark Schiefsky and assistants
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Weekly meetings of small groups of students with a tutor for the detailed reading and translation of selected texts; in addition, monthly colloquia, on the various disciplines within the field of Classics.
Note: May be counted for concentration.

*Classics 98r. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 6100
Mark Schiefsky and assistants
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Tu., 1–4. Spring: Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: Spring: 15, 16, 17 Tutorial instruction for course credit (in addition to ordinary tutorial instruction) is open to concentrators in their junior year whose applications for such instruction have been approved by the Director of Undergraduate Studies.

Note: May be counted for concentration.

Classics 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 2350
Mark Schiefsky and assistants
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Tutorial instruction for course credit (in addition to ordinary tutorial instruction) is open only to candidates for honors writing a thesis in their senior year whose applications for such instruction have been approved by the Director of Undergraduate Studies.

Note: May be counted for concentration. Divisible only with permission of the Director of Undergraduate Studies.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Classics 100. Ancient Cosmology and Mechanics
Catalog Number: 6518
Mark Schiefsky
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
A study of the origins of cosmological thought in ancient Greece, the cosmology of Aristotle, and challenges to the Aristotelian system in both the sublunar and celestial realms. Special consideration will be given to the interaction of cosmological thought and the exact sciences, particularly mechanics and astronomy.

Prerequisite: Previous work in science or mathematics helpful but not required.

Classics 158. Ancient Greek World: Homer to Alexander
Catalog Number: 3134
An examination of the political, social, and cultural history of ancient Greece from the Bronze Age to the conquests of Alexander (c. 1200–323 BCE). Topics include: the rise of the polis; Athenian democracy and democratic culture; gender and society; the Peloponnesian War; and Macedonian hegemony. Emphasis on primary sources and reading a broad range of texts in translation, including Herodotus, Thucydides, Xenophon, and Plutarch.

Classics 163. Virgil and His Reception
Catalog Number: 8346
Richard F. Thomas
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
Study of the Virgil tradition from antiquity through the 20th century. Lectures and discussion on the Eclogues, Georgics, and Aeneid, and on a variety of points of reception: post-Virgilian epic (Ovid, Lucan, Statius), the ancient and medieval commentary tradition (Servius and Donatus), Christian reception; impact on European vernacular traditions (Dido romance to Dante, Ariosto, Tasso, Spenser and Milton); humanistic response (Maffeo Vegio to Petrarch); translation as hermeneutics (Gavin Douglas to Dryden and beyond); Virgilian reception in art and music.
Note: May be counted as a language course for Classics concentrators.

Classics 167. Classics and Literary Theory
Catalog Number: 4340
William R. Allan
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Many scholars apply contemporary theory to the study of the classical world, especially to the study of its literature. This course presents the main theoretical approaches and discusses various aspects of their deployment in recent classical scholarship. Critical movements covered include structuralism, feminism, psychoanalysis, Marxism, new historicism, deconstruction, intertextuality, and narratology.

[Classics 190. Approaches to Classical and Indo-European Poetics]
Catalog Number: 0712
Calvert Watkins
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Basic principles of poetics, and of linguistic approaches to archaic forms of literature in early Indo-European societies. Close readings of selected texts in Greek, Latin, and other languages.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Open without prerequisite to students of the Classics, and also to students of other ancient or medieval Indo-European languages.

Greek

Students who have studied classical Greek previously should register at the Department of the Classics, Boylston Hall 204, to take the Harvard placement test in Greek during Freshman Week. Classical Archaeology 241, Narrative in Ancient Greek Art
Catalog Number: 4461
Gloria Ferrari Pinney
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
In the history of ancient art, major issues concerning the structure of visual narrative and their relationship to the structure of texts were exposed in a landmark study by Carl Robert in 1881. With few, albeit important exceptions, discussions of this important subject since then have largely remained within the parameters set by Robert. This seminar will re-examine that tradition of scholarly inquiry and move on to explore what theories of narrative that have shaped literary and art historical studies may contribute to the interpretation of ancient Greek modes of visual narrative.

Classical Archaeology 255 (formerly Classical Archaeology 244), Art and Archaeology of the Etruscans
Catalog Number: 2785

Faculty of the Department of Comparative Literature

Jan Ziolkowski, Arthur Kingsley Porter Professor of Medieval Latin (Chair)
Svetlana Boym, Professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures and of Comparative Literature (on leave spring term)
Joaquim-Francisco Coelho, Nancy Clark Smith Professor of the Language and Literature of Portugal and Professor of Comparative Literature
James Engell, Gurney Professor of English Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature (Director of Graduate Studies)
Luis M. Girón Negrón, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and Romance Languages and Literatures (on leave spring term)
John T. Hamilton, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and Literature
Barbara E. Johnson, Fredric Wertham Professor of Law and Psychiatry in Society (on leave 2001-02)
Walter Kaiser, Francis Lee Higginson Professor of English Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature, Emeritus (on leave 2001-02)
Despina Kakoudaki, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and of Literature
James L. Kugel, Harry Starr Professor of Classical and Modern Jewish and Hebrew Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature
Gregory Nagy, Francis Jones Professor of Classical Greek Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature
Stephen Owen, James Bryant Conant University Professor (on leave 2002-2003)
Judith Ryan, Harvard College Professor and Robert K. and Dale J. Weary Professor of German and Comparative Literature (on leave fall term)
Marc Shell, Irving Babbitt Professor of Comparative Literature and Professor of English
Susan R. Suleiman, C. Douglas Dillon Professor of the Civilization of France and Professor of Comparative Literature
William Mills Todd III, Harvard College Professor, Harry Tuchman Levin Professor of Literature, and Professor of Comparative Literature
Ruth R. Wisse, Martin Peretz Professor of Yiddish Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature (on leave spring term)

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of Comparative Literature
Sacvan Bercovitch, Powell M. Cabot Research Professor of American Literature (on leave fall term)
George G. Grabowicz, Dmytro Cyzevs’kyj Professor of Ukrainian Literature
Karl S. Guthke, Kuno Francke Professor of German Art and Culture
Robert Kiely, Harvard College Professor and the Donald P. and Katherine B. Loker Professor of English (on leave spring term)
Sandra Naddaff, Senior Lecturer on Literature
Maria Tatar, Harvard College Professor and John L. Loeb Professor of Germanic Languages and Literatures
Alfred Thomas, John L. Loeb Associate Professor of the Humanities, John L Loeb Associate Professor of the Humanities

This field is organized to facilitate the systematic study of subjects and problems common to the various literatures. Programs leading to the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. may, with the approval of the Department, be undertaken by properly qualified graduate students. Though undergraduates may not concentrate in Comparative Literature, their attention is called to the Literature Concentration, to History and Literature, to the Classics and allied fields, and to options in the concentration in English and American Literature and Language. The courses listed below are designed to supplement the offerings of other departments in ancient and modern languages and related fields, including the Literature and Arts courses in the Core Curriculum.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Comparative Literature 102x. How to Think Money]
Catalog Number: 8734
Marc Shell
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to aesthetic and economic form in literature, painting, music, and cinema. Theoretical perspectives from Plato, Kant, Hegel, Marx, Heidegger, Simmel, Burke, Derrida, Baudrillard. Attention to issues of symbolic mediation, theme and structure. Works include Shakespeare’s Merchant of Venice, Metsys’ Moneychanger and His Wife, Poe’s “Wall Street,” Bresson’s Money, Wagner’s Ring of the Nibelung, Charles Ives’ Marches.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
[Comparative Literature 103r. Literature and Politics: The Case of Zionism]
Catalog Number: 6773
Ruth R. Wisse
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Comparative Literature 111. From Type to Self in the Middle Ages
Catalog Number: 9245
Luis M. Girón Negrón
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Examines self-representation and the emergence of the individual in selected first-person narratives and poems from medieval/early modern Europe. Examples drawn from spiritual autobiographies (Augustine, Margery Kempe, Teresa of Avila), letter collections (Heloise and Abelard), maqama literature, troubadour lyric, Hispano-Jewish poetry (Solomon ibn Gabirol, Judah Halevi), pilgrimage narratives, medieval allegories, Dante, Spanish colonial historiography, and the picaresque novel.
Note: All readings in English translation.

[Comparative Literature 112. Religion and Literature in the Middle Ages]
Catalog Number: 6579
Luis M. Girón Negrón
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to religion as a cultural context for literary expression in the Middle Ages. Selected case studies on the following themes: poetry, prophecy and mysticism; Scriptural interpretation and allegorical fiction; dreams and visions of the other-world; Jews, Christians and Muslims; magic and astrology; miracle stories and medieval society; the philosophical tradition; ritual and theater, pilgrimage narratives; and saints and heroes as literary types.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. All readings in English translation.

[Comparative Literature 151. The Faust Legend in Literature]
Catalog Number: 6217
Karl S. Guthke
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Important works in the Faust tradition, from the Faustbuch (1587) to the 20th century, with emphasis on Marlowe, Calderón, Lessing, Goethe, Byron, Berlioz, and Mann.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. No reading knowledge of Spanish, French, or German required.

Comparative Literature 156. The Literature of Destruction
Catalog Number: 2746
Ruth R. Wisse
How does art, which strives for perfection, confront the attempt to desecrate and obliterate a people? How does culture influence responses to the destruction of European Jewry—what English calls the “Holocaust?” This course addresses these questions through study of works in various languages and genres, including diaries of the Warsaw and Vilna ghettos, memoirs, novels, plays, and poems. All readings in translation.

Comparative Literature 158. Turning the Century: Culture, Technology, and Representation, 1870-1910
Catalog Number: 9311
Despina Kakoudaki
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10 and occasional film screenings to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
This interdisciplinary class explores the rise of a culture of novelty in the period from 1870 to 1910. Focus on the emergence of new visual media such as photography and film, new ideas about the body and sexuality, and a new relationship to public space and consumer culture.

Comparative Literature 159. The Peasant in Literature: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 9742
George G. Grabowicz
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The perception of the peasant as topic, as ideal, and as the Other in 19th- and 20th-century literature. Examines the paradigms and strategies of Romantic idealization, realism and verismo, naturalism, impressionism and symbolism, as well as ideological stances (populism, Marxism, socialist realism, anti-fascism) and psychological attitudes (from self-identification to demonization). Authors treated include George Sand, Shevchenko, Turgenev, Hardy, Tolstoy, Zola, Reymond, Verga, Kociubynskyj, Silone, Platonov, Solzhenitsyn, and Kosinski.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. All texts can be read in English.

Comparative Literature 160. Literary Forgeries and Mystifications
Catalog Number: 3614
George G. Grabowicz
Half course (spring term). Tu., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15
Examines literary forgeries and mystifications (from Ossian and the Igor Tale to Ern Malley and the Book of Vles) with special focus on their “national” dimension, i.e., their role in modern identity formation and political mythmaking. Also considers the psychology and esthetics of simulation and mystification and their reflection in selected works of Gide, Borges, Nabokov, Pavic and others.
Note: All readings in English.

Comparative Literature 163. From Kafka to Kundera: Questions of Identity in Central European Modernist Fiction
Catalog Number: 7586
Alfred Thomas
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
Explores interrelated issues of ethnicity, gender, and sexuality in key works by German, Polish,

Note: All readings in English.

[Comparative Literature 164. The 20th-Century Post-Realist Novel in Eastern Europe: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 7762
George G. Grabowicz
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Psychological, mythic, “catastrophist,” and comic tendencies in the Eastern and Central European novel between the two World Wars (1918–1939). Focus on Kafka, Capek, Bulgakov, Schulz, Witkiewicz, Gombrowicz, and Nabokov.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. All texts can be read in English translation.

Comparative Literature 165. The Holocaust and Problems of Representation
Catalog Number: 0577 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Susan R. Suleiman
Half course (spring term). Th., 3–5:30; and additional film screenings to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
Can the story of the Holocaust be told? Is there such a thing as “the story” of the Holocaust? Who is authorized to tell it, and how? Do aesthetic categories apply to Holocaust art? Are some representations unacceptable? If so, why? We will explore these and other questions raised by a wide range of works (oral and written testimonies, novels, essays, comic strips, documentary and feature films, poetry, monuments) produced from 1945 to the present in Europe, Israel, and the United States. Works by Levi, Wiesel, Lanzmann, Ophuls, Appelfeld, Fink, Spiegelman, Spielberg, Delbo, and others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Readers of Yiddish may take this course as Yiddish 200.

Comparative Literature 166. The Comic Tradition in Jewish Culture
Catalog Number: 3418
Ruth R. Wisse
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Studies some of the genres, subjects, theories and uses of comedy in Modern Jewish culture. Examines the joke, parody, satire, film and stage comedy, and stand-up humor. Asks what are the functions of humor? What are the methods of humor? Does humor have a national dimension? Are Jews predisposed to comedy, and if so, why?

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Readers of Yiddish may take this course as Yiddish 200.

[Comparative Literature 167. Contemporary Fiction: The Novel After Theory]
Catalog Number: 1808
Judith Ryan
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines a series of novels from 1980 to the present that build consciously on recent literary and cultural theory. Also explores the relation of fictional narrative to history, social problems, and ideology. Authors treated include: Helen Darville, Marguerite Duras, David Malouf, Christoph Ransmayr, Marilyne Robinson, Patrick Süsskind, Graham Swift, and Christa Wolf. Theorists include: Barthes, Bhabha, Baudrillard, Derrida, Hassan, Lacan, and White.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Comparative Literature 168. Literature and Film]
Catalog Number: 8121
Svetlana Boym
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Focuses on literary and cinematic techniques of representation and the ways in which different media reflect and inform modern cultural myths. Special attention to representation of history and memory in East and West European film and to the tradition of cinematic experimentation from the silent era to the present. Works by Vertov, Eisenstein, Gogol, Trauberg, Nabokov, Kubrik, Jarmusch, Cortázar, Antonioni, Kundera, Vajda, Tarkovsky, Varda, Sarraute, and others.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Comparative Literature 182. Comparative Cultures of Money]
Catalog Number: 0539
Marc Shell
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Language and money as means of representation and exchange. Special attention to presumptions about politics, imitation, and the visual arts. Readings include texts by modern theorists as well as Aristotle, Balzac, Del Mar, Goethe, Heidegger, Hess, Martineau, Pascal, Shakespeare, Thoreau, and Ueda.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Primarily for Graduates

[Comparative Literature 207. Theory and Methods in Comparative Oral Traditions: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 7426
Gregory Nagy
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Knowledge of Greek not required. Qualified undergraduates welcome.

Comparative Literature 208. Experience and Expression: Seminar
Catalog Number: 0767
John T. Hamilton
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Addresses the issue of subjective immediacy and the expropriating power of language within the German and French tradition: Rousseau, Goethe, Hölderlin, Hegel, Nietzsche, Mallarmé, Rimbaud, Rilke, Bergson, Dilthey, Heidegger, Lacan and Celan.
Comparative Literature 210. Comparative Themes in the Literatures of Medieval Spain: Seminar

Catalog Number: 3298 Enrollment: Limited to 15.

Luis M. Girón Negrón

_Half course (spring term)._ W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9

Examines Jewish-Christian-Muslim interaction as a Hispano-Medieval paradigm of cultural creativity. Examples drawn from the Spanish epic, the _muwashshahahat_, Hispano-Jewish poetry, the short story tradition, _maqama_ literature, the _adab_ tradition, medieval didactica, historical chronicles, polemical writings, the Sephardic _romancero_, _cancionero_ poetry, _La Celestina_, and Spanish mystical literature.

Note: Spanish, Latin, Arabic, and Hebrew materials will be read in English translation but students are encouraged to work with the originals.

[Comparative Literature 211. Mysticism and Literature: Seminar]

Catalog Number: 3867

Luis M. Girón Negrón

_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._

Examines trends, issues, and debates in the comparative study of mystical literature. Close readings of primary works by Jewish, Christian, and Muslim authors from the Middle Ages through the 16th century. Topics include poetry and mysticism; allegory, symbolism, and Scripture; body and gender; apophasis vs. cataphasis; exemplarity and autobiographism; language and experience. Also examines creative engagement of premodern mystical literature in selected works by modern authors (Borges, T.S. Eliot, Goytisolo) and literary theorists (DeCerteau.)

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

Comparative Literature 215. Melopoeia: On German Music and Letters: Seminar

Catalog Number: 9138

John T. Hamilton

_Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17*

Examines music theories in German literature and philosophy (Schlegel to Adorno). Topics include: Romantic Universalpoesie, the syntax of melody, the tone-poem, secularization and the rise of chromatization, Kulturpolitik; etc.

[Comparative Literature 260. Literature and Exile: Seminar]

Catalog Number: 3691

Svetlana Boym

_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._

Explores the intimate connection between literature and exile through fiction, poetry, autobiographical and critical writings of writer-expatriates. Topics to be considered include exile as a metaphor and as an experience, nostalgia and irony, imagined homelands and national canons, bilingualism and transnational identity. Readings from Nabokov, Kundera, Sarraute, Cortázar, Rushdie, Brodsky.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Open to qualified undergraduates.
Comparative Literature 261. Memory and Modernity: Seminar

Catalog Number: 6923 Enrollment: Limited to 15.

Svetlana Boym

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Explores modern art of memory in literary, philosophical, and critical texts. Topics to be considered: nostalgia and search for newness, collective and individual memory, conspiracy theories and ethics of remembering, modern “memory sites” — metropolis, museum, monument, home. Special attention to contemporary East-European reflection on art, memory, and nation. Readings from Baudelaire, Benjamin, Nietzsche, Proust, Nabokov, Tsvetaeva, Kundera, Kis, Levi, Cortázar, Borges, Brodsky, Lyotard, and others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. All texts available in English, but reading texts in the original is encouraged. Primarily for graduate students; qualified undergraduates welcome.

Comparative Literature 262. Aesthetics and Freedom

Catalog Number: 5308

Svetlana Boym

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Examines philosophical, political, and aesthetic conceptions of freedom from French and American revolutions to postcommunism. Topics: aesthetic education and politics, democratic individualism and the myth of America, love and experience of modernity, avantgarde revolution and writers’ trials, technology and ethics.

Note: Open to graduate students and qualified undergraduates. The discussions in class will be based mostly on the English translations. However, the use of the texts in the original languages (Russian, French, and German) is encouraged for the final paper.

Comparative Literature 265. Vision in Motion: Science and Technology in Early Film

Catalog Number: 6060

Despina Kakoudaki

Half course (spring term). M., 4–6; Film Screenings: F., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 9

This class explores the emergence of the moving image and its relationship to science, narrative, technological innovation, and representation. We will examine pre-cinematic experiments in photography and other media, film techniques and technologies, and the work of major early filmmakers and studios.

Comparative Literature 269. Paralysis: Seminar

Catalog Number: 8517

Marc Shell

Half course (fall term). Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18

How does paralysis inform aesthetics? Part One focuses on speech paralysis (Hamlet), hysterical paralysis (Broken Glass), and paralyzed rulers (FDR, Claudius). Part Two considers movement/stillness in painting (Kahlo, Masaccio) and cinema (Rear Window, Breathing Lessons) and examines first-person polio narratives. Texts also include history of medicine and film/literary theory.

Note: Open to undergraduates by special permission.
Comparative Literature 275. Theory of Narrative: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 3105 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
William Mills Todd III
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Studies of narrative (fictional, psychoanalytic, historical, sacred) as verbal structure, representation, rhetoric, and social phenomenon. Readings by Jakobson, Barthes, Bakhtin, Iser, Lukács, Foucault, and others. Analysis of the theoretical readings with reference to Russian and European narratives.
Note: Open to advanced undergraduates and graduates. Recommended for potential teaching fellows for Literature and Arts A-60.

[Comparative Literature 280. Literary Theory and Criticism in the Middle Ages: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 2215
Jan Ziolkowski
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the place of theory and criticism in the curriculum (grammar, rhetoric, and dialectic). Topics include allegory and allegoresis; nature of medieval glosses and commentaries; continuity of Platonic and Aristotelian traditions; medieval sign theory. Readings include works by Augustine, Fulgentius, Bede, Bernard Silvestris, Matthew of Vendôme, Geoffrey of Vinsauf, Snorri Sturluson, Dante, and Boccaccio.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Comparative Literature 283. Language War: Seminar
Catalog Number: 9342
Marc Shell
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Considers language difference as a cause of war. Areas for study include ancient Gilead and Rome as well as Quebec, Nigeria, Hispaniola, the Balkans, Britain, and Israel. Literary problems include translation, heteroglossia, accent, and multilingualism. Texts by Aeschylus, Shakespeare, Goethe, Celan, and Beckett; theoretical works in sociolinguistics, politics, and rhetoric.
Note: Open to undergraduates by special permission.

Comparative Literature 285. Comparative Romantic Theory: Seminar
Catalog Number: 0752
James Engell
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Intensive readings in Anglo-American and Continental theory of the Romantic period with relevant 20th-century commentary (e.g., Coleridge, Schelling, Keats, de Man, Todorov, and McFarland on allegory and symbol). Topics include language theory, irony, influence and originality, expression and reception, literary forms (genre), gender, the recent self-conscious nature of romantic studies, and aesthetics.
Prerequisite: Some prior knowledge of Romantic literature. Reading knowledge of German desirable but not required.
*Comparative Literature 287r. Selected Topics in Poetics and Rhetoric: Seminar
Catalog Number: 7999
Gregory Nagy
Half course (fall term). Tu., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15
Points of departure: Aristotle’s Poetics and Rhetoric.
Note: Knowledge of Greek not required. Qualified undergraduates welcome.

*Comparative Literature 299ar (formerly Comparative Literature 299a). Literary Theory: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 2431
Stephen Owen
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An introduction to some perennial problems in literary studies (mimesis, authorship, form) and to some of the ways in which these problems have been discussed in literary theory since the 1960’s.
Note: Required of first-year graduate students in Comparative Literature; others may be admitted by permission of instructor.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Comparative Literature 396. Preparation for the General Examinations
Catalog Number: 4570

Comparative Literature 397. Direction of Doctoral Dissertations
Catalog Number: 0320

Comparative Literature 399. Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 2893
Jan Ziolkowski 7275, Sacvan Bercovitch 7638 (on leave fall term), Svetlana Boym 1926 (on leave spring term), Joaquim-Francisco Coelho 7715, James Engell 8076, Luis M. Girón Negrón
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Note: Candidates for the doctoral degree in Comparative Literature may pursue advanced studies under the individual supervision of these instructors. Permission to register for this course should be obtained from the instructor whose guidance is sought and from the Chairman of the Department.

Computer Science

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences Offering Instruction in Computer Science

Roger W. Brockett, An Wang Professor of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science (on leave fall term)
James L. Frankel
Steven J. Gortler, Associate Professor of Computer Science on the Gordon McKay Endowment (Director of Undergraduate Studies)
Barbara J. Grosz, Higgins Professor of Natural Sciences
Marco Iansiti, Professor of Business Administration (Business School)
H. T. Kung, William H. Gates Professor of Computer Science and Electrical Engineering (on leave spring term)
Henry H. Leitner, Senior Lecturer on Computer Science
Harry R. Lewis, Gordon McKay Professor of Computer Science and Dean of Harvard College
Michael D. Mitzenmacher, Assistant Professor of Computer Science on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Robert Muller, Visiting Associate Professor of Computer Science
Venkatesh Narayanamurti, John A. and Elizabeth S. Armstrong Professor of Engineering and Applied Sciences and Professor of Physics (Dean of the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences)
Anthony G. Oettinger, Gordon McKay Professor of Applied Mathematics and Professor of Information Resources Policy
David C. Parkes, Assistant Professor of Computer Science on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Avrom J. Pfeffer, Assistant Professor of Computer Science on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Michael O. Rabin, Thomas J. Watson, Sr. Professor of Computer Science
Norman Ramsey, Assistant Professor of Computer Science on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Margo I. Seltzer, Gordon McKay Professor of Computer Science (on leave fall term)
Stuart M. Shieber, Harvard College Professor and Gordon McKay Professor of Computer Science (on leave spring term)
Christopher A. Small, Lecturer on Computer Science
Keith Arnold Smith, Lecturer on Computer Science
Michael D. Smith, Gordon McKay Professor of Computer Science and Electrical Engineering
Salil P. Vadhan, Assistant Professor of Computer Science on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Leslie G. Valiant, T. Jefferson Coolidge Professor of Computer Science and Applied Mathematics
James H. Waldo, Lecturer on Computer Science
Gu-Yeon Wei, Assistant Professor of Electrical Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment

The Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences offers undergraduate and graduate courses in Applied Mathematics, Applied Physics, Computer Science, Earth and Planetary Sciences, and Engineering Sciences. Recommended curricula may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a. Division faculty also offer several courses in the section entitled General Education Electives.

Primarily for Undergraduates

For information concerning concentration in Computer Science please consult the Director of Undergraduate Studies or the Academic Office, Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences, Pierce Hall 110a. The Applied Mathematics and Engineering Sciences sections of the catalog should be consulted for additional courses relevant to computer science. In addition, attention is called to the following courses in related fields: General Education 156, Linguistics 112a, 112b, Philosophy 144, Physics 123, Statistics 110, 111, 171.

Computer Science 50. Introduction to Computer Science I
Catalog Number: 4949
Robert Muller
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Introduction to the intellectual enterprises of computer science. Algorithms: their design, specification, and analysis. Software development: problem decomposition, abstraction, data structures, implementation, debugging, testing. Architecture of computers: low-level data representation and instruction processing. Computer systems: programming languages, compilers, operating systems. Computers in the real world: networks, security and cryptography, artiﬁcial intelligence, social issues. Laboratory exercises include extensive programming in the C language and experimenting with and analyzing software systems.
Note: No previous computer experience required.

Computer Science 51. Introduction to Computer Science II
Catalog Number: 3411
Henry H. Leitner
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Abstract models for computational processes and their concrete realizations. Functional, imperative, object-oriented and event-driven styles of programming. The structure, interpretation and compilation of programming languages. State-space search, finite-state processes, formal logic, and syntactic and semantic formalisms as examples of useful abstractions. The engineering of complex software through procedural and data abstractions. Laboratory exercises using LISP, C++, and Java.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 50 or equivalent.

Computer Science 91r. Supervised Reading and Research

Catalog Number: 0361

Steven J. Gortler

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

In this course a student may undertake supervised individual study of advanced topics in computer science beyond those covered in regular courses, or may participate in a computer science research project. Students writing theses may enroll in this course while conducting their thesis research and writing. A student wishing to enroll in Computer Science 91r must be accepted by a faculty member who will supervise the course work and will specify the syllabus or project description. A form available in the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a, must be filled out with a description of the course work and the basis for its evaluation. This form must be signed by the student and the faculty supervisor and filed in the Academic Office by the date on which study cards are due. A written report of the work carried out in the course is ordinarily required by the beginning of the reading period.

Note: Ordinarily, at most two terms of Computer Science 91r may be taken for academic credit. May not be taken Pass/Fail. Students wishing more information about the range of suitable projects or faculty supervisors should consult the Director of Undergraduate Studies.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Computer Science 120. Introduction to Cryptography

Catalog Number: 5911

Salil P. Vadhan

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6

Algorithms to guarantee privacy and authenticity of data during communication and computation. Emphasis on rigorous proofs of security based on precise definitions and assumptions. Topics may include one-way functions, private-key and public-key encryption, digital signatures, pseudorandom generators, higher-level protocols such as electronic cash, and the role of cryptography in network and systems security.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 121 or Computer Science 124.

Computer Science 121. Introduction to Formal Systems and Computation

Catalog Number: 0669

Harry R. Lewis

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 13

General introduction to formal systems and the theory of computation. Elementary treatment of automata, formal languages, computability, uncomputability, computational complexity, NP-completeness, and mathematical logic.
Computer Science 124. Data Structures and Algorithms
Catalog Number: 5207
Michael D. Mitzenmacher

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Design and analysis of efficient algorithms and data structures. Algorithm design methods, graph algorithms, approximation algorithms, and randomized algorithms are covered.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 51; some exposure to discrete applied mathematics, such as Applied Mathematics 106 or 107 or Computer Science 121 or Statistics 110, is helpful.

Computer Science 141. Computing Hardware
Catalog Number: 4357
Michael D. Smith

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 9, and laboratory hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
Introduction to the design, structure, and operation of digital computers; logic circuits and digital electronics; computer arithmetic; computer architecture; and machine language programming. Consideration of the design interactions between hardware and software systems.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 50.

Computer Science 143. Computer Networks
Catalog Number: 6401
H. T. Kung

Half course (fall term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Architecture, design, and performance of computer networks. Topics include: the Internet protocols, local area networks, performance analysis, queueing theory, congestion control, multicast, quality of service, and network security. Programming exercises on protocol implementation.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 51.

Computer Science 144r (formerly Computer Science 144). Networks Design Projects
Catalog Number: 5415
H. T. Kung and Marco Iansiti (Business School)

Half course (spring term). W., F., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
Cooperative design and development of a business model based on advanced business networking concepts in one of the three areas: optical networking, wireless networking, and inter-enterprise software applications. Students will work in 2- or 3-person teams. Student assignments will include weekly homework sets, a project proposal, and project reports and presentations. At the end of the class, all teams will defend their approaches and results in front of the class and invited guests.
Note: Enrollment is Limited. Preference will be given to upper class undergraduates or graduate students in computer science or in business. Offered jointly with the Business School as 4560.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 143 or equivalent experience.

[Computer Science 146. Computer Architecture]
Catalog Number: 6520

----------

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Review of the fundamental structures in modern processor design. Topics include computer organization, instruction set design, memory system design, pipelining, and other techniques to exploit parallelism. Emphasis on a quantitative evaluation of design alternatives and an understanding of timing issues.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 141.

Computer Science 148. Introduction to VLSI Design

Catalog Number: 1772 Enrollment: Limited to 16.

Gu-Yeon Wei

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

Presentation of concepts and techniques for the design and fabrication of VLSI integrated circuits. Topics include: basic semiconductor theory; pn junctions; MOS transistors; integrated circuit fabrication technology; VLSI layout; digital MOS circuit design; memory and processor design; and testing of VLSI circuits. CAD tools for design and simulation are extensively used for homework assignments and for a large project assignment. High quality projects may be fabricated at an external VLSI foundry.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 50 or Physics 15b, and Computer Science 141, or permission of instructor.

Computer Science 152. Principles of Programming Languages

Catalog Number: 6841

Norman Ramsey

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

Intellectual tools needed to design, evaluate, and choose programming languages. Historical influence of theory, software engineering, and implementation technique on language design. Case studies, reinforced by programming exercises. Emphasizes advanced languages, abstraction mechanisms. Includes functional, object-oriented, and logic paradigms. Focuses on ideas and techniques most relevant to practitioners, but covers theoretical topics crucial for intellectual rigor: specification based on abstract syntax, lambda calculus, type systems, and dynamic semantics. Grounding sufficient to read professional literature.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 121. Students must have excellent programming skills. Must be comfortable with recursion and with basic mathematical ideas and notations.

[Computer Science 153. Principles of Programming Language Compilation]

Catalog Number: 2842

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

The underlying theory of the implementation of interpreters and compilers for programming languages, associated algorithms, and pragmatic issues. Theoretical emphasis on the relation to programming language theory and practical emphasis on applications outside of programming language implementation proper. Topics include lexical analysis, parsing algorithms, type checking and inference, code generation, run-time issues, optimization.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 121 and 152.
Computer Science 161. Operating Systems
Catalog Number: 4347
Margo I. Seltzer
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Note: Open to students who achieved an honor grade (B- or better) in Computer Science 51 and who have experience developing large software systems.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 51.

[Computer Science 165. Introduction to Database Systems]
Catalog Number: 4712
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Design principles for modern distributed database systems. Topics include: extended E/R, relational and object-oriented data models; query processing, persistence, concurrency control, back-up and recovery; database connectivity; Java and XML languages; Web information organization, indexing and retrieval; search engines architecture and algorithms.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 161 or permission of instructor.

Computer Science 175. Computer Graphics
Catalog Number: 3771
Steven J. Gortler
Half course (fall term). W., F., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
The computational aspects of computer graphics. Two major themes are image rendering (viewing transformations, clipping, visible-surface processing, raster algorithms, reflection models, lighting models, surface shading, antialiasing, ray tracing, radiosity, and volume rendering) and scene modeling (modeling transformations, curves and surfaces, texture mapping, data-amplification techniques, constructive solid geometry, scalar- and vector-field data, and animation). Ancillary topics include color compression, image compression, image compositing, graphical user interfaces, and special machine architectures for computer graphics.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 51, Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b.

Computer Science 181. Intelligent Machines: Perception, Learning, and Uncertainty
Catalog Number: 6454
Avrom J. Pfeffer
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8 decision processes and reinforcement learning.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 51 and Computer Science 121. Statistics 110 is recommended.

Computer Science 182. Intelligent Machines: Reasoning, Actions, and Plans

Catalog Number: 0134

Wheeler Ruml

Half course (fall term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Introduction to AI focused on approaches to problems of reasoning about action. Search and game-playing. Knowledge representation. Partial-order planning: representations of actions; techniques for handling goal interactions. Resource-limited planning; situated agents. Discussion of relevant work in philosophy and decision theory; applications to vision, language, robotics.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 51; Computer Science 121 (may be taken concurrently).

Primarily for Graduates

[Computer Science 220r. Cryptography: Trust and Adversity]

Catalog Number: 1637

Michael O. Rabin

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Computer Science 221. Computational Complexity]

Catalog Number: 5812

Leslie G. Valiant

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

A quantitative theory of the resources needed for computing and the impediments to efficient computation. The models of computation considered include ones that are finite or infinite, deterministic, probabilistic, quantum or nondeterministic, discrete or algebraic, sequential or parallel.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 121 or equivalent.

[Computer Science 222. Algorithms at the Ends of the Wire]

Catalog Number: 2493

Michael D. Mitzenmacher

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Covers topics related to what is done with information before and after it is sent across a network. Themes include compression, cryptography, coding, and information retrieval related to the World Wide Web. Theoretical aspects are emphasized, although current practice and recent advances are also a focus. Requires a major final project.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 124.

Computer Science 223. Probabilistic Analysis and Algorithms
Catalog Number: 4740

Michael D. Mitzenmacher

_Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged._

The course will focus on how Markov chains and random processes are used to analyze algorithms and network behavior. Reading current research in the area will be required. Topics may include heavy-tailed distributions, load balancing, stochastic bin-packing, and models of the Web.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 124. Preferably additional probability, such as in Computer Science 224r, Computer Science 226r, Statistics 110, or Mathematics 191.

Computer Science 225. Pseudorandomness
Catalog Number: 4869

Salil P. Vadhan

_Half course (spring term). M., F., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7_

Efficiently generating objects that “look random” despite being constructed using little or no randomness. Connections and applications to computational complexity, cryptography, and combinatorics. Pseudorandom generators, randomness extractors, expander graphs, error-correcting codes, hash functions.

Prerequisite: Exposure to randomized algorithms (as in Computer Science 124 or Computer Science 224r), computational complexity (as in Computer Science 121), and algebra (as in Applied Mathematics 106, Mathematics 123, Computer Science 224r or Computer Science 226r).

Computer Science 226r. Efficient Algorithms
Catalog Number: 1749

Michael O. Rabin

_Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14_

A survey of important computer algorithms for numerical and data manipulation problems and their applications in actual computing situations. Topics include combinatorial algorithms, string matching, FFT and its applications, algebraic computations, randomized algorithms in algebra number theory and geometry, maximal flows, error correcting codes, public key cryptography, protocols for distributed systems, and parallel algorithms.

Computer Science 228. Computational Learning Theory
Catalog Number: 0364

Leslie G. Valiant

_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._

Possibilities of and limitations to performing learning by computational agents. Topics include computational models, polynomial time learnability, learning from examples and learning from queries to oracles. Computational limitations. Statistical limitations. Applications to Boolean functions, automata and geometric functions. Learning algorithms for models of neural computation.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 121 or equivalent.

Computer Science 244r (formerly Computer Science 244). Advanced Networks Design Projects

Catalog Number: 3018

H. T. Kung and Marco Iansiti (Business School)

_Half course (spring term). W., F., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9_

The contents and course requirements are similar to those of Computer Science 144r, with the exception that students enrolled in Computer Science 244r are expected to do substantial implementation of a subsystem related to their business plan. In addition, demonstration and documentation of the implementation are required.

Note: Enrollment is limited. Preference will be given to upper class undergraduates or graduate students in computer science or in business who are proficient in computer programming or in business software. Offered jointly with the Business School as 4560.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 143 or equivalent experience.

Computer Science 252r. Advanced Topics in Programming Languages

Catalog Number: 1986

*Norman Ramsey*_

_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._

Advanced functional programming. Lazy evaluation, monads, monad comprehensions, the monadic approach to imperative features. Folds and unfolds. Functional reactive programming for graphics, robotics. Combinators for parsing and prettyprinting. Purely functional data structures. Type systems: polymorphism and overloading, type and constructor classes, higher-order kinds, polytypic programming. Implementation: heap profiling, match compilation.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 152 or permission of the instructor.

Computer Science 253r (formerly Computer Science 253). Advanced Topics in Programming Language Compilation

Catalog Number: 2901

Norman Ramsey

_Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16_

Modern language features such as garbage collection and exception handling, as well as source-level debugging, can be implemented only by cooperation of compilers and run-time systems. Topics include how these services are implemented, at what costs. Focus on best research results and possible new problems.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 153 or equivalent.

Computer Science 254r. Programming Methodologies

Catalog Number: 2767

_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._

Investigates program analysis, verification, and refinement; programming paradigms, including parallel and distributed; program development and maintenance environments. This year students will critique an experimental world-wide programming environment the instructors are developing: see www.deas.harvard.edu/courses/cs254r/2001.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 51 and 121, or equivalent.

Computer Science 261. Research Topics in Operating Systems

Catalog Number: 6706
Christopher A. Small and Keith Arnold Smith

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 18
A quantitative approach to operating system design and evaluation. Discussion of recent research including extensible operating system architectures, distributed systems, and performance analysis. Overview of research techniques and methodology.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 161, or equivalent.

Computer Science 262. Introduction to Distributed Computing

Catalog Number: 7949
James H. Waldo

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 18
Examination of the special problems associated with distributive computing, especially those associated with partial failure and intrinsic limitations on global knowledge. The course will emphasize the specification and implementation of high level protocols that allow computational entities to collaborate in the face of these problems. Causal ordering, event and RPC based systems, and security problems in distributed systems will be discussed.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 161 or permission of instructor.

[Computer Science 265r (formerly Computer Science 265). Database Systems]

Catalog Number: 4104
Margo I. Seltzer

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A research-oriented introduction to Database Management systems. First third covers database design, implementation, and use. Topics include: network, relational, and object oriented database models, system architectures, transaction processing, system implementation, and SQL. Remaining two-thirds address research literature surrounding database systems, including an historical perspective, the emergence of relational and object-oriented systems, concurrency control, and distributed systems. Students will be expected to undertake a final research project.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 51.

Computer Science 275. Advanced Computer Graphics

Catalog Number: 5495
Steven J. Gortler

Half course (fall term). W., F., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
The contents and course requirements are similar to those of Computer Science 175, with the exception that students enrolled in Computer Science 275 are required to solve more difficult problem sets.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 51, Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b.

Computer Science 276r. Computer Graphics, Special Topics

Catalog Number: 8097
Steven J. Gortler
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Seminar examining in detail some specific aspect of computer graphics. Specific topics which change from year to year may include: image based rendering, photo-realistic rendering, geometric representations, representations of motion and animations, computer graphics hardware. Students will make one oral presentation, and create a software implementation of one of the covered concepts.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 175 or 275 and permission of instructor.

Computer Science 279. Topics in Computer-Human Interfaces, Information Retrieval and Visualization

Catalog Number: 2407
Stuart M. Shieber
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Seminar providing background and current research in specific topics drawn from one or more of computer-human interfaces, information, retrieval, and information visualization. Intensive lab component emphasizes small group design and implementation of systems in these areas.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 51 and experience developing large software systems as evidenced by successful completion of a systems course requiring a large project.

Computer Science 281r. Artificial Intelligence: Reasoning and Planning Systems

Catalog Number: 0707
Avrom J. Pfeffer
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

In-depth introduction to formalisms for knowledge representation and techniques for reasoning and planning. Topics: formal logic-based representations; probabilistic reasoning; nonmonotonic logics; truth-maintenance systems; qualitative reasoning; inheritance hierarchies; computational approaches to reasoning about actions and time, including actions of multiple agents, nonlinear planning, plan recognition; reasoning about knowledge, belief, and action.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 182, or permission of instructor.

Computer Science 282. Probabilistic Reasoning

Catalog Number: 3158
Avrom J. Pfeffer
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
In-depth study of principles and techniques for probabilistic reasoning and decision-theoretic planning. Topics include: Bayesian networks and Markov networks; exact and approximate probabilistic inference algorithms; learning Bayesian networks from data; temporal probability models; integrating logic and probability; influence diagrams; Markov decision processes; reinforcement learning.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 181 or permission of instructor.

Computer Science 283. Computer Vision
Catalog Number: 4475
Roger W. Brockett
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Vision as an ill-posed inverse problem: two-dimensional signal processing; image enhancement and restoration; feature analysis; image segmentation and analysis; structure from motion, texture, and shading; binocular stereo; pattern classification; and applications.

Computer Science 285. Multi-agent Planning Systems
Catalog Number: 1060
Barbara J. Grosz
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Theories and techniques for multi-agent planning, including formal models of rational agents, collaborative plans, and social systems; computational approaches to distributed planning and problem solving, negotiation, and decision theory for planning; collaborative systems design.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 182 or permission of instructor.

Computer Science 286r. Topics at the Interface between Computer Science and Economics
Catalog Number: 1099 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Preference given to graduate students or upper-class concentrators.
David C. Parkes
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Interplay between computation and incentives within open decentralized computational systems. Mechanisms and market design, negotiation, social-choice, information-economics and privacy. Readings from theoretical CS, AI, operations research, and economics. Spring, 2002: Computational Mechanism Design.
Note: Seminar style.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21b, Applied Mathematics 21b, or equivalent; Computer Science 121, 124, and 181 or 182, or equivalents; or permission of instructor.

[Computer Science 287r. Natural Language Processing]
Catalog Number: 3306
Stuart M. Shieber
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Principles and techniques of natural language processing, including grammar formalisms, syntactic analysis, semantic interpretation, and associated algorithms.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Computer Science 121 and 152.

[Computer Science 288. Computational Models of Discourse]
Catalog Number: 1392
Barbara J. Grosz
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Computational theories of discourse (text and dialogue) structure and processing. Topics include: anaphora, focusing, plans and speech acts, plan recognition algorithms, models of collaborative planning, intonation. Discussion of dialogue and text understanding systems. Application to the design of human-computer interface systems.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 182 or 287r or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

Catalog Number: 4592

Venkatesh Narayanamurti

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Supervision of experimental or theoretical research on acceptable computer science problems and supervision of reading on topics not covered by regular courses of instruction.

Note: Open to graduate students and A.B./S.M. candidates only. Students must arrange such work with a member of the Division. This course is ordinarily taken with the approval of the Committee on Higher Degrees in certain cases when a letter grade is required. Applicants should file a project sheet before study cards are filed. Project sheets may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a.

Courses Related to Ethnic Studies

The following are courses related to themes and issues of ethnicity and race, offered by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences in 2001-2002. Courses appear in 4 categories, the first lists undergraduate core courses, the second lists courses with a primary focus on ethnicity in the United States, the third covers courses related to ethnicity and the United States, and the fourth covers topics on ethnicity outside the United States. Several courses are listed in more than one category. These lists serve as a guide for learning more about diversity in American cultures and other societies. The more complete, descriptive Ethnic Studies Guidebook will be available in Septemberl. "Please consult the Ethnic Studies websitehttp://www.fas.harvard.edu/~cesh/intro.html#esc for more details." The Faculty Advisory Committee, an interfaculty committee, advises students interested in pursuing Ethnic Studies on their course selection, mentors available, and resources in and around Harvard.

Core Courses in Ethnic Studies

[Foreign Cultures 12. Sources of Indian Civilization]
[Foreign Cultures 46. Caribbean Societies: Socioeconomic Change and Cultural Adaptations]
[Foreign Cultures 48. The Cultural Revolution]
[Foreign Cultures 70. Understanding Islam and Contemporary Muslim Societies]
[Foreign Cultures 74. Cultures of Southern Europe]
[Foreign Cultures 80. The Cultural Identities of Modern Korea]
[Foreign Cultures 82. Modern Arabic Narratives: Self, Society, and Culture]
[Historical Study A-12. International Conflict and Cooperation in the Modern World]
[Historical Study A-53. The Chinese Revolutionary Tradition]
[Historical Study A-74. Contemporary China: The People’s Republic and Taiwan in the Modern World]
[Historical Study A-77. The Emergence of Modern China, ca. 1600-2000]
[Historical Study A-81. Chinese Emigration in Modern Times]
[Historical Study B-52. Slavery and Slave Trade in Africa and the Americas]
[Historical Study B-61. The Warren Court and the Pursuit of Justice, 1953–1969]
[Historical Study B-64. The Cuban Revolution, 1956–1971: A Self-Debate]
[Literature and Arts A-58. Ethnicity, Modernity, and Modernism in 20th-Century Literature, Art, and Culture]
[Social Analysis 54. American Society and Public Policy]
[Social Analysis 66. Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States]
[Social Analysis 68. Race, Class, and Poverty in Urban America]

Courses with a Primary Focus on Ethnicity in the United States
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

[Afro-American Studies 123z. American Democracy]
[Afro-American Studies 135z. James Baldwin and Lorraine Hansberry]

Afro-American Studies 143. African-Americans and a New Racial Divide

[Afro-American Studies 191. The Civil Rights Movement: Seminar]

[*Afro-American Studies 196. Sociological Perspectives on Racial Inequality in America: Seminar]

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Dramatics
Robert Kiely, Harvard College Professor and the Donald P. and Katherine B. Loker Professor of English (Chair) (on leave spring term)
Robert Brustein, Artistic Director of the American Repertory Theatre, Director of the Loeb Drama Center; Professor of English (on leave 2002-03)
Marjorie Garber, William R. Kenan, Jr. Professor of English
Jorie Graham, Boylston Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory
Harry R. Lewis, Gordon McKay Professor of Computer Science and Dean of Harvard College
John C. Megan, Director Office for the Arts at Harvard (ex officio)
Gregory Nagy, Francis Jones Professor of Classical Greek Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature
Robert J. Orchard, Director of the Loeb Drama Center and Executive Director of the American Repertory Theatre (ex officio)
Peter Sacks, Professor of English and American Literature and Language
Elaine Scarry, Walter M. Cabot Professor of Aesthetics and the General Theory of Value
Susan R. Suleiman, C. Douglas Dillon Professor of the Civilization of France and Professor of Comparative Literature
Ruth R. Wisse, Martin Peretz Professor of Yiddish Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature (on leave spring term)

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in Dramatic Arts

Elizabeth Weil Bergmann, Lecturer on Dramatic Arts
Thomas Derrah, Lecturer on Dramatic Arts
Jeremy Geidt, Lecturer on Dramatic Arts
Claire Mallardi, Lecturer on Dramatic Arts, Lecturer on Dramatic Arts (Artistic Director Emerita, Radcliffe College)
Marcus Stern, Lecturer on Dramatic Arts
Scott Zigler, Lecturer on Dramatic Arts

Primarily for Undergraduates

Dramatic Arts 1. Introduction to Theatre
Catalog Number: 0845
Scott Zigler
Half course (fall term). M., 1:30–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
An introduction to and overview of the major collaborative elements of the theatre: playwriting, directing, designing, acting. Also a discussion of the current state of the theatre in America, giving special attention to productions at the Loeb and in the Boston area. (Students will be required to attend at least five different productions.) Students will do creative and collaborative work throughout the term, and members of the A.R.T. staff will give guest lectures in their areas of expertise.

Dramatic Arts 11. Beginning Acting
Catalog Number: 3321 Enrollment: Limited by audition.
Thomas Derrah
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
An exploration of the basic techniques of acting, beginning with exercises that flex the imagination and heighten observation; the course will then move towards work on rhythm, an actor’s instincts, focus, concentration, and character. The texts of Anton Chekhov will be used as a point of reference for the work. The latter part of the course will concentrate on selected scene study from Chekhov’s major plays.

Dramatic Arts 12. Acting Shakespeare
Catalog Number: 6659 Enrollment: Limited by audition.
Jeremy Geidt
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Investigation of the texts of Shakespeare as theatre, developing an American approach to verse speaking and character analysis. Scenes are rehearsed to interpret the verse and prose by the light of modern experience. Explores the imagination of the playwright in order to develop the imagination of the student.

Dramatic Arts 14. The Art of Movement Design
Catalog Number: 2983 Enrollment: Limited by interview.
Elizabeth Weil Bergmann
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
What makes movement art? Through a combination of readings, lectures, videos and dance improvisation experiences, this course investigates how physical energy and movement design choices develop into kinesthetic, dramatic, and artistic experiences for both the performer and the audience. Focusing on time, weight, space and flow, movement phrases will be structured into an understandable, organic whole.
Note: No previous dance experience is necessary.

Dramatic Arts 15. Movement for Actors and Directors
Catalog Number: 4908
Claire Mallardi
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
Emphasis on the integration of verbal and non-verbal forms of communication focusing on movement and gesture as means to enhance, inform, and illuminate text. The goal is to achieve the fullest range and clarity of physical and emotional expression of the body as it moves in relation to the surrounding space. A physical experiential approach will be practiced through studies that pertain to the actor’s presence on stage, concentrating on the structure, organization, and control of time, space, energy, and sound.
Note: This course may be repeated with instructor and advisor approval.

Dramatic Arts 18ar. Advanced Acting: 20th-Century Texts
Catalog Number: 8011 Enrollment: Limited by interview.
Marcus Stern
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
A course of advanced acting techniques using 20th-century dramatic texts for scene work. Text analysis and the resulting character intentions and tactics are carefully examined. The goal of the course is to provide the actor with concrete skills that produce tangible results in rehearsal and on stage.
Note: This course may be repeated with instructor and advisor approval.
Prerequisite: Auditions consist of a prepared 2-minute monologue from any period presented at the class’s first meeting.

Dramatic Arts 18br. Intermediate Acting: Contemporary Texts
Catalog Number: 5397 Enrollment: Limited by interview and audition.
Scott Zigler
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An intermediate acting class exploring approaches to contemporary dramatic literature. The class will investigate methods of performance that make the material accessible and engaging for both actor and audience. The class will focus on analyzing texts through intensive scene-work, exploring dynamic and playable actions as well as approaches to comedy and style.
Note: This course may be repeated with instructor and advisor approval.
Prerequisite: Auditions consist of a prepared 2-minute monologue from any period presented at the class’s first meeting.
Dramatic Arts 19. Playwriting and Dramatic Technique
Catalog Number: 8045 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Gideon Michael Lester
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
An investigation of dramatic technique for students with some prior experience of playwriting. The seminar focuses on the structural principles of dramatic composition, examining paradigms from Aristotle to Gertrude Stein, and develops a formal methodology for playwriting. Through a series of exercises and draft scenes, students gain an understanding of theatrical craft, invaluable to playwrights and dramaturgs, and complete a major piece of dramatic writing.
Note: Admission based on samples of writing submitted to Course Instructor.

Dramatic Arts 22r. Beginning and Intermediate Directing
Catalog Number: 8160 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Marcus Stern
Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
A directing class for all levels of director and actor, from beginning to advanced. Course examines the directorial tools of text analysis, staging, design, and working with actors through constant scene work. The focus is on understanding texts and explicating your response to those texts on stage. This course is also useful for actors investigating all aspects of theater.
Note: This course may be repeated with instructor and advisor approval.
Prerequisite: Enrollment contingent on short interviews to be conducted on the first day of class.

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences

James L. Davis, Associate of the Harvard College Observatory
Ralph Mitchell, Gordon McKay Professor of Applied Biology
Marcus Van Baalen, Lecturer on Earth and Planetary Sciences

The following courses related to Earth and Planetary Sciences are offered in other departments:

Biology 107. Evolution of Plant Life in Geologic Time

Biology 118. Biological Oceanography

Engineering Science 162. Hydrology Engineering Science 166. Air Pollution Modeling and Engineering

Primarily for Undergraduates

Earth and Planetary Sciences 5. Introduction to Environmental Science: Atmosphere, Ocean, and Biosphere
Catalog Number: 2207
Michael B. McElroy
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
An introduction to the scientific basis for current concerns regarding possible changes in the global environment. Issues addressed include climate; depletion of stratospheric ozone; regional air pollution; acid rain; disturbance of biogeochemical cycles for life-essential elements C, N, P, and S.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 6. Introduction to Environmental Science: The Solid Earth
Catalog Number: 2694
Marcus Van Baalen and members of the Department
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1:00; laboratories and section require one afternoon per week. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
An introduction to geologic processes, with emphasis on environmental problems and hazards. Topics include Earth history, Earth materials, plate tectonics, and natural disasters: earthquakes; volcanoes; landslides; and floods. Introduction to scientific uncertainty, methods of risk assessment and policy tradeoffs. Radon, asbestos and other hazardous materials including nuclear waste. Short- and long-term impact of human activity on the geological environment e.g. ground water contamination, the lifetime of dams and land subsidence. The development of scientific topics will form the bases for discussion of methods of risk reduction through policy and legislation.
Note: EPS 6 may not be counted for a degree in addition to EPS 7.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 7. Introduction to Geological Sciences
Catalog Number: 0918
Adam M. Dziewonski and Marcus Van Baalen
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10; three hours of laboratory work each week and two day-long field trips on separate weekends required. EXAM GROUP: 3
An introduction to Earth science designed for concentrators in geological, environmental, and geophysical sciences. Origin of the earth, its age and its evolution with an emphasis on the processes that shaped our planet. The theory of plate tectonics is used as a broad framework to explain the occurrence and distribution of earthquakes, volcanoes and mountains, and to explore the history of the earth’s surface. Labs and the weekend field trip familiarize students with rock types, geological features, and maps, and expose them to how geologists infer processes from the rock record.
Note: Also appropriate for non-EPS concentrators who desire a comprehensive introduction to Earth science.
Catalog Number: 0166
Paul F. Hoffman
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10; two hours of laboratory per week and two one-day field trips. EXAM GROUP: 3
This course examines the major stages and critical events in the history of the earth with emphasis on the interactions between global tectonics, ocean-atmosphere processes (climate), and biological evolution. We will consider all time scales, from the formation of the earth and other planets, to catastrophic events that drove mass extinctions, to the most recent period of human interaction with the environment. Lectures will focus not only on descriptions of critical intervals, but also on what evidence exists to support these descriptions. Laboratories introduce methods of investigation and analysis of the geological record.
Note: This is one of three required introductory courses for EPS concentrators, along with EPS 5 and EPS 7.
Prerequisite: Secondary-school courses in science (physics, chemistry, biology) and calculus.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 30. Environmental Microbiology
Catalog Number: 4935
Ralph Mitchell
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Microbial processes in natural habitats, including biogeochemical cycles and metal transformations. Evolution of microorganisms and the development of survival strategies are discussed. Includes discussions of microbial processes in specific habitats including fresh waters, marine, and soil. Emphasis is placed on the effects of environmental deterioration and the responses of the microbial community.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: An introductory biology course, either at the high school or college level.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 74. Field Geology
Catalog Number: 7239
Paul F. Hoffman
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3
Methods of observation and documentation of the Earth’s rock record. Approximately four weeks of field observation are followed by the preparation of a detailed geologic report.
Note: Students must notify EPS Head Tutor and instructors of intention to enroll by May 1 of the preceding spring term.
Prerequisite: EPS 7, 8, 50 or 171, are recommended, or permission of instructor.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1462
Richard J. O’Connell and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Intended for junior or senior concentrators in Earth and Planetary Sciences; open to sophomore concentrators only under exceptional circumstances. Permission of the faculty member under whom the student wants to work and of the Head Tutor is required for enrollment. May be counted for concentration only with the special permission of the Head Tutor.
Earth and Planetary Sciences 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 7120
Richard J. O’Connell and members of the Department
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Note: Senior honors candidates must take at least one term of this course (fall or spring) if writing a thesis. Signature of the Head Tutor required for enrollment.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Earth and Planetary Sciences 106. Introduction to Planetary Physics]
Catalog Number: 1021
Jeremy Bloxham
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An examination of the fundamental physical processes governing the structure and evolution of planets, and the observations used to constrain models of these processes. Concentrated on the study of Earth. Topics include gravity, rotation, and solar system dynamics; heat transfer and convection; magnetic field generation; seismology and structure of Earth’s interior.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Physics 11 or 15, and Applied Mathematics 21 or Mathematics 21, or equivalents.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 107. Environmental Geochemistry
Catalog Number: 1242
Ann Pearson and Daniel P. Schrag
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
This course offers an overview of low-temperature geochemistry through the treatment of a selection of geochemical issues of environmental significance. Each unit will place geochemical topics in the context of a broader geological perspective with particular emphasis on chemical principles. Students from all concentrations are welcome.
Note: Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: A course in college-level chemistry or permission from the instructor.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 108. Environmental Geomechanics
Catalog Number: 6095
James R. Rice
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Principles of solid and fluid mechanics are developed to understand processes in environmental geology and geophysics. Topics: Geomorphology and sedimentation. Hydrology, groundwater flows, solute transport, contaminant remediation. Poroelasticity, aquifer dynamics, consolidation and subsidence. Rock and soil strength; safety of dams, levees and landfills; landslides, debris flows. Faulting and earthquake waves, site response, liquefaction. Water waves, tsunamis, open channel flows, hydraulic jumps; erosion and sediment transport.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Students who wish to have coverage of the same material at a more advanced level should take the course Engineering Sciences 265.
Prerequisite: Mathematics or Applied Mathematics 21 and a calculus-based introduction to physics. Also suggested: Earth and Planetary Sciences 6 or 7.
Catalog Number: 2218
John H. Shaw
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The course provides an overview of the earth’s energy and material resources. Following an introduction to hydrocarbons (oil, natural gas, and coal), nuclear fuels, and other economically important ores, the course will emphasize methods used to exploit these resources and the environmental impacts of these operations. Topics include: Coal and acid rain; petroleum, photochemical smog, and oil spills; nuclear power and radioactive hazards; alternative energies (solar, hydroelectric, tidal, geothermal power); metals and mining. Labs will emphasize geologic and geophysical methods for discovering and exploiting resources, including satellite remote sensing and seismic reflection techniques, and environmental remediation approaches.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: EPS 6, 7, or 8, or permission of the instructor.

[Earth and Planetary Sciences 131. Introduction to Physical Oceanography]
Catalog Number: 2249
Allan R. Robinson
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Elements of the physics and dynamics of the world’s oceans. The observational basis and the fundamental concepts and models required for describing and understanding the range of phenomena that occur on many time and space scales. Water masses, circulation, currents, eddies, waves, microstructure, and turbulence. The implication of physical oceanography for interdisciplinary research, including climate and biogeochemical cycles and ecosystems.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21 or Applied Mathematics 21, Physics 11 or 15, or permission of instructor.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 132. Introduction to Meteorology
Catalog Number: 8495
Brian F. Farrell
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Physical concepts necessary to understand atmospheric structure and motion. Phenomena studied include the formation of clouds and precipitation, solar and terrestrial radiation, dynamical balance of the large-scale wind, and the origin of cyclones. Concepts developed for understanding today’s atmosphere are applied to understanding the record of past climate change and the prospects for climate change in the future.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21 or Applied Mathematics 21, Physics 11 or 15, or permission of instructor.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 133. Introduction to Atmospheric Chemistry
Catalog Number: 7731
Daniel J. Jacob
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
A fundamental introduction to the physical and chemical processes determining the composition of the atmosphere and its implications for climate, ecosystems, and human welfare. Origin of the

Prerequisite: Physics 1, Chemistry 10 or 7, and Mathematics 1.

---

Earth and Planetary Sciences 140. Geochemical Thermodynamics

Catalog Number: 1960
Stein B. Jacobsen

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 10 or equivalent; Mathematics 21a or Applied Mathematics 21a (may be taken concurrently).

---

Earth and Planetary Sciences 141. Isotope and Trace Element Geochemistry and Geochronology

Catalog Number: 7724
Stein B. Jacobsen

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 10 or equivalent; EPS 6 or 7 or equivalent (recommended).

---

Catalog Number: 4726
Stein B. Jacobsen

Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–2:30, plus three hours per week of laboratory. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

An introduction to rocks and minerals—the materials of the solid Earth and other solar system bodies. Fundamental principles of mineral structures, phase equilibrium, and the processes of formation of igneous, metamorphic, and sedimentary rocks. Construction and interpretation of phase diagrams, models for melt generation and crystallization, and the metamorphic facies concept and thermal models of metamorphism. Mineralogy, composition, and origin of meteorites and lunar rock samples. Applications to understanding the origin and evolution of planetary crusts and mantles. Laboratory emphasizes sample identification, optical mineralogy, x-ray diffraction, electron microprobe and mass spectrometer methods.

Prerequisite: EBS 6 or 7 or Science A-24, and Chemistry 5 or Chemistry 10, or permission of instructor.

Catalog Number: 1854
Richard J. O’Connell
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Overview of geophysical and geological observations and phenomena related to large-scale tectonic processes. Plate tectonics; marine magnetic and paleomagnetic measurements; heat flow and thermal evolution of oceanic plates; earthquakes and volcanoes at plate boundaries. The rigid and nonrigid behavior of lithospheric plates; rates of crustal deformation; earthquakes within continents; mountain building and the support and evolution of mountain belts.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: One basic earth science course (e.g., EPS 7 or Science A-24) or permission of instructor. Recommended: Applied Mathematics or Mathematics 21, Physics 11a or 15a.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 166. Introduction to Seismology
Catalog Number: 1540
Adam M. Dziewonski
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Causes, occurrence, and properties of earthquakes. Earthquakes and tectonics, seismic risk, volcanic eruptions. Propagation of seismic waves, physical properties of the Earth’s crust, core, and mantle. Seismographs and interpretation of recordings of earthquakes. Some aspects of the required mathematical methods (e.g., Fourier transform) are explained.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a and 21b or Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b (may be taken concurrently).

Catalog Number: 5143
Adam M. Dziewonski
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Geophysical methods used to prospect for oil and minerals and to address environmental problems such as ground water level, radioactive waste storage, estimation of seismic risk. Theory, instrumentation and interpretation of seismic, gravity, electrical and electromagnetic methods.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a and 21b or Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b. Some of the required mathematical tools are explained during the course.
Catalog Number: 0319
John H. Shaw
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30; Labs: to be arranged; 2 hours/week and one 3 day field trip. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An introduction to deformation of Earth materials, including mountain building and plate tectonics, faulting and earthquakes, folding, and ductile deformation. Forces acting on rocks and resultant strains will be examined for a variety of pressure and temperature conditions. Rock fracture and faulting will be studied through numerical approaches, analog experiments, geologic maps, and cross sections. Ductile deformation mechanisms will be examined through microscopic investigation of rock fabrics. Labs will introduce modern applications of structural geology to the energy and environmental industries and for assessing earthquake hazards by using balanced cross sections, seismic reflection data, and satellite imagery.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: EPS 6, 7, or 8, or permission of the instructor.

Catalog Number: 6992
Paul F. Hoffman
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Formation and evolution of sedimentary basins on continental crust (including passive margins, fore-arc and back-arc basins, rift systems and strike-slip basins, foreland and cratonic basins). Case studies of several examples of each basin type will be examined, with emphasis on stratigraphic architecture and relation to crustal deformation.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: EPS7 or EPS8 or permission of the instructor.

[Earth and Planetary Sciences 181. Invertebrate Paleontology]
Catalog Number: 5162
Andrew H. Knoll and Charles R. Marshall
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Principles of paleontology and a survey of the major invertebrate taxa. An emphasis on the nature and completeness of the fossil record, taphonomy, systematics, functional and theoretical morphology. Discussion of the importance of fossils for biostratigraphy, paleoecology, and evolutionary theory. Hierarchical views of evolutionary processes: micro- and macroevolution, background and mass extinctions.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Either Science B-16, Biological Sciences 51 (formerly Biological Sciences 2), or permission of instructor.

Primarily for Graduates

Earth and Planetary Sciences 200. Atmospheric Chemistry and Physics

Catalog Number: 2675
Daniel J. Jacob

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

A comprehensive treatment of the chemistry and physics of the atmosphere. Introduction to thermodynamics, kinetics and photochemistry in the atmosphere, with applications to stratospheric and tropospheric chemistry and pollution. Includes fundamentals of radiative transfer and simple models of the influence of trace gases on the earth’s climate.

Note: Students specializing in this area are expected to take EPS 200 and 236. These courses may serve as an introduction to atmospheric and oceanic processes for other students with strong preparation.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105b (may be taken concurrently), Physics 11 or 15, and Chemistry 10, or more advanced courses; or permission of the instructors.

---

Earth and Planetary Sciences 201. Physics of the Earth’s Interior

Catalog Number: 4004
Richard J. O’Connell

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Comprehensive review of the physics of Earth’s interior. Deals primarily with the solid behavior of the Earth. Topics include: continuum mechanics; elastic and viscous materials; physics of solids; thermodynamics; solid body rotational dynamics; and potential theory. Applications include: seismic waves and the structure and state of the Earth’s interior; elastic and viscous deformation of the mantle and lithosphere; gravity field; Earth rotation and dynamics; mantle convection and heat transport.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Expected to be omitted in 2003–04.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a and 105b, Physics 15 or equivalent. Preparation should be discussed with the instructor.

---

Earth and Planetary Sciences 202. Introduction to the Dynamics of Atmospheres and Oceans

Catalog Number: 2624
Allan R. Robinson

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Conceptual, dynamical and observational bases of the geophysical fluid dynamics of the atmosphere and the ocean. Waves, instabilities and turbulence in notating stratified fluids. Potential vorticity, quasigeostrophic dynamics, weather and eddies. The general circulations of the atmosphere, the ocean and the coupled air-sea climate system.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105b, Physics 11 or 15, or equivalent.

Catalog Number: 4426
Adam M. Dziewonski

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Techniques of data analysis and reduction in the Earth sciences. Topics: statistical parameter estimation; Backus-Gilbert linear inference; generalized inversion; stochastic inversion; Bayesian inference and confidence set inference; Fourier series and transforms, discrete Fourier transforms; digital filter design; multichannel filtration.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a,b.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 206. Space Geodesy for Earth Scientists
Catalog Number: 8218
James L. Davis

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
Space geodesy for the study of the solid Earth, the atmosphere, and the ocean. The determination of geophysical signals from space geodetic observables. Topics include the Global Positioning System, very long baseline interferometry, satellite-laser ranging, the TOPEX/POSEIDON altimeter, interferometric SAR, and several future space missions.

Note: Given in alternate years.

*Earth and Planetary Sciences 207r. Geochemical Oceanography
Catalog Number: 1602
Daniel P. Schrag

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Topics in low-temperature geochemistry, oceanography, and climatology will be discussed. Students will read and present journal articles on relevant topics, and will rotate responsibility for leading discussions.

Note: Given in alternate years.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 221. Topics in Environmental Microbiology
Catalog Number: 7183
Ralph Mitchell

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Prerequisite: An introductory biology course.

[Earth and Planetary Sciences 231. Physical and Dynamical Oceanography]
Catalog Number: 6492
Allan R. Robinson

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Theory and observation of the general ocean circulation and its variabilities; the fields of temperature, salinity, and density of the ocean; relationship to intermediate and small scale transient and turbulent processes. Topics in interdisciplinary dynamics of the sea.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105b or permission of instructor; should ordinarily be taken after EPS 202.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 232. Dynamic Meteorology

Catalog Number: 5344

Brian F. Farrell

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

The atmosphere understood as a fluid dynamical system. Observations of atmospheric motions on a wide range of scales and the relation of these motions to weather and climate. Applications of the equations governing atmospheric dynamics and thermodynamics to specific phenomena including cyclogenesis, stationary waves, and the formation of fronts.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105b or permission of instructor.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 236. Atmospheric Physics

Catalog Number: 7250

Steven C. Wofsy

Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

A comprehensive treatment of the chemical cycles of gases and aerosols containing carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, oxygen, and sulfur on the earth. Biological and geochemical mechanisms regulating global processes will be discussed in the framework of observations of the earth system. Global atmospheric change in response to human and natural influences and the origin and evolution of atmospheric gases will be examined.

Note: Students specializing in this area are expected to take EPS 200 and 236. These courses may serve as an introduction to atmospheric and oceanic processes for other students with strong preparation.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105b (may be taken concurrently), Physics 11 or 15, and Chemistry 10, or more advanced courses; or permission of the instructors.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 238. Spectroscopy and Radiative Transfer of Atmospheres

Catalog Number: 1891

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Absorption, emission, and scattering, emphasizing Earth’s atmosphere. Atmospheric spectroscopic properties for various measurement geometries. Quantitative spectroscopy and atmospheric structure are reviewed. Radiative transfer modeling and simulation and interpretation of atmospheric spectra from microwave through ultraviolet.

Prerequisite: Ability to program in a high-level computer language (may be learned in parallel with the permission of the instructor).

[Earth and Planetary Sciences 240. Geochemical Kinetics]

Catalog Number: 0187

Stein B. Jacobsen

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Applied Mathematics 105a,b are recommended. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: EPS 140, Mathematics 21a,b or Applied Mathematics 21a, b.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 241. Isotope Geochemistry and the Evolution of the Earth’s Interior

Catalog Number: 1680

Stein B. Jacobsen

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Cosmic abundances, meteorites, bulk compositions of the Earth’s crust, mantle, and core. Application of radiogenic and stable isotopes to study the process of formation and evolution of the Earth’s crust, mantle and core. Geochemical cycles of elements in the solid earth, residence times, element partition rules and mixing processes.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

[Earth and Planetary Sciences 242. Biogeochemistry of Light Stable Isotopes]

Catalog Number: 8808 Enrollment: Limited to 10.

Daniel P. Schrag

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Introduction to the theory and methodology of stable isotope biogeochemistry. Topics include isotope ratio mass spectrometry, biological fractionation of carbon and nitrogen isotopes, distribution of isotopes in terrestrial and marine ecosystems, applications to climate reconstruction, and multiple stable isotope techniques. Laboratory sessions provide an introduction to analytical methods and include an independent research project.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

Catalog Number: 2908

Jeremy Bloxham and Richard J. O’Connell

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

The course will address the physics and chemistry of the core-mantle boundary region. Topics will include the cooling of the core by the mantle and the thermal and chemical evolution of the core: core-mantle interactions, including the exchange of angular momentum between the core and the nature of D”, including constraints on topography on the core-mantle boundary, anisotropy, and low velocity zones.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. This course will be given simultaneously with a research seminar in the Department of Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences at MIT and will involve participants from both institutions.
[Earth and Planetary Sciences 263. Earthquake Source Processes]
Catalog Number: 0542
James R. Rice
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: EPS 166 or equivalent and further advanced study at the 200 level in seismology or solid mechanics.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 264r. Topics in Planetary Magnetism
Catalog Number: 1429
Jeremy Bloxham
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
Theoretical and observational aspects of planetary magnetism, focused on Earth’s magnetic field. Topics: observations of Earth’s and other planets’ magnetic fields and field mapping at core boundary; determination of core radius and fluid flow within core; core structure and dynamics; core energetics; rotation and convection; core magnetohydrodynamics and magnetic field generation; kinematic and dynamic dynamo theory.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a,b, Physics 153 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 265r. Topics in Geodynamics
Catalog Number: 0816
Richard J. O’Connell
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Topics in the dynamics of processes in the Earth’s interior and the physical properties of the Earth’s interior, including: thermal convection and flow in the mantle, heat transport, rheology of the mantle, plate motions, plate deformation, physical properties of rocks and minerals.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 266r. Topics in Seismology: Earth Structure
Catalog Number: 2895
Adam M. Dziewonski
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Topics in seismology related to investigation of the elastic and anelastic structure of the deep interior of the Earth using normal modes, surface waves, and body waves. Theory, observation, and interpretation. Emphasis on 3-D seismic tomography. Topics vary from year to year.
Prerequisite: EPS 166, Applied Mathematics 105a,b, or equivalent.

Catalog Number: 4091
Adam M. Dziewonski and Göran Ekström
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Applied math 105a, b or EPS 166 or equivalent preparation.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 268r, Topics in Seismology: Earthquakes
Catalog Number: 3021
Göran Ekström

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Topics in seismology related to the earthquake source process. Focuses on observational and computational methods for determining earthquake parameters from seismic data. Kinematic and dynamic models of the earthquake source and their parameterization; modeling of seismic waveforms; inverse methods for parameter estimation. Topics vary from year to year.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: EPS 166, or equivalent.

---

Catalog Number: 8230
John H. Shaw

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Methods of interpreting complex geologic structures imaged in 2 and 3-dimensional seismic reflection data. Emphasis is placed on defining regional structural styles in extensional basins, fold-and-thrust belts, and strike-slip systems. Methods of integrated surface geology, well logs, and remote sensing data into structural interpretation will be described. Students will work on independent projects analyzing seismic grids and 3D volumes.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: EPS 71 or equivalent.

---

Catalog Number: 2515
Paul F. Hoffman

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Critical discussion of recent articles in any aspect of earth and planetary science. Articles from current serials and monographs will be selected on the basis of general interest and potential importance. Instructor will select articles and provide contextual information. Students will be expected to read and participate in discussion of 3-4 articles per week. One goal of the course is to foster breadth; another is to cultivate the habit of reading the current literature.

Prerequisite: Two of EPS 5, EPS 7, EPS 8, or permission of the instructor.
Earth and Planetary Sciences 272r. Topics in Structural Geology
Catalog Number: 1546
John H. Shaw
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13
Seminar course investigating recent advances in structural geology and exploration geophysics with applications in earthquake science and the petroleum industry. Specific topics vary from year to year.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.
Prerequisite: EPS 171 or equivalent. Intended for graduate and advanced undergraduate students involved in structural geology search.

Catalog Number: 2474
Paul F. Hoffman and Daniel P. Schrag
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Theory and observations pertaining to the snowball earth hypothesis, including climate models, paleomagnetic constraints, sedimentological phenomena, geochemical perturbations, isotopic anomalies, and biological implications. Snowball events in Earth history and their spatial and temporal variability. Strengths and weaknesses of existing explanations, alternative hypotheses, and testable predictions. Evolution of the hypothesis and reactions to it, as an example of how scientists respond to radical ideas.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: One basic earth science course (e.g., EPS5, EPS6, EPS7, EPS8, Science A-24, Science A-30, Science A-37, Science B-16, Science B-34) or permission of the instructors.

Earth and Planetary Sciences 285r. Analytical Paleontology
Catalog Number: 2132
Charles R. Marshall
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A general treatment of different approaches to designing and testing quantitative models in paleobiology. Topics include, but will not be restricted to: determining times of origin and extinction; dissecting diversity dynamics; assessing the absolute completeness of the fossil record; stratigraphy and phylogeny reconstruction.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Patrick D. Hanan, Victor S. Thomas Research Professor of Chinese Literature

Courses listed under the Department of East Asian Languages and Civilizations begin with department tutorials and then are grouped by area: China, Japan, Korea, Manchu, Mongolia, Tibet, and Vietnam. Each area is divided into language, history, and literature courses, then “Graduate Courses of Reading and Research,” and concludes with cross-listings from other departments. Please note that courses under each heading are categorized as either “For Undergraduates and Graduates” or “Primarily for Graduates.”

In May 1990, the Faculty voted to merge the two undergraduate concentrations of East Asian Languages and Civilizations and of East Asian Studies into a single concentration under the Department of East Asian Languages and Civilizations. During the transitional year of 1990–91, there were two separate concentrations, but all sophomores entered the merged program. As of 1991–92, the name of the concentration was changed to East Asian Studies. All sophomores and juniors are part of the merged program, and there is a single administration under the Department of East Asian Languages and Civilizations.

The concentration draws upon faculty working on East Asian topics from the Department of East Asian Languages and Civilizations and from other departments. It offers both a humanities track, in which the history, literature, philosophy, and religion of premodern and modern times are studied, and a social science track, stressing approaches to modern East Asia drawn from the social science disciplines. For further information about the merger and requirements, contact the main office of Asian Studies located at 9 Kirkland Place.

Graduate students in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences may enroll in certain foreign language courses for the grade of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Students should consult with course heads to determine if a course is offered on that basis.

East Asian Studies

Primarily for Undergraduates

*East Asian Studies 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 0961
David McCann and members of the Department.
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open to students who have given evidence of ability to do independent reading and research. May be taken on an individual basis or by small groups of students interested in working on the same topic. Permission of the EAS Head Tutor required.

*East Asian Studies 97r. Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 0306
Michael James Puett (fall term), Helen Hardacre (spring term) and members of the department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Tu., 1–2:30; Tu., 5:30–7:30 p.m.; W., 4–6; Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 16, 17
Note: Required of sophomore concentrators.

*East Asian Studies 98r. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 0342
David McCann and members of the Department.
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Required of junior concentrators. Divided into sections specializing in China, Japan, Korea, and Vietnam.

*East Asian Studies 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 0384
David McCann and members of the Department.
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Thesis guidance under faculty direction.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

East Asian Studies 120. Visual Culture in 20th Century China: Popular Genres and the Ideal of Popular Art
Catalog Number: 6415
Felicity Anne Lufkin
Half course (spring term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
This course will look at three popular, commercially successful visual genres, all of which have figured in ongoing debates over the nature and potential of popular art in 20th century China—woodcut-printed “New Year pictures,” mechanically-produced “calendar pictures,” and the comic-like “serial picture books”—as well as the self-consciously modern New Print Movement. The course will trace the debates that connected these art forms from the first half of the century through the first decades of the P.R.C.

East Asian Studies 180. Kingship and State Formation in Premodern East Asia
Catalog Number: 6656
Joan R. Piggott
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This seminar will focus on kingship and state formation in premodern East Asia. Starting from discussions of kingship and state formation in terms used by political anthropologists, we will move on to case studies set in early China, Korea, and Japan. We will consider archaeological artifacts, primary sources, and how historians work with same. Seminar members will do research on problems of kingship and state formation in a context of their choice.
Prerequisite: Previous course work in premodern East Asian historical studies required.

Primarily for Graduates

East Asian Studies 211. Historical Theory and Methods
Catalog Number: 3088
Michael James Puett
Half course (fall term). F., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An exploration of theories and methods for historical research in East Asian history. We will discuss approaches to social, cultural, intellectual, and political history, analyzing both significant works in each of these fields as well as applications to the study of Chinese, Japanese, and Korean materials.

East Asian Buddhist Studies

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[East Asian Buddhist Studies 114. The Mahāyāna in East Asia: Bodhisattvas and Their Cults in Medieval and Early Modern East Asian Buddhism]
Catalog Number: 9159 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Robert M. Gimello
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An exploration of the character of East Asian Mahāyāna Buddhism as revealed not only in the systematic exposition of its doctrines, but also, and especially, in its cultic practices, beliefs, and iconography. Taking the bodhisattva as both the fullest embodiment of Mahāyāna’s ideals and the chief focus of its piety, this course will trace the transformations wrought in the cults and images of the great bodhisattvas—most particularly Manjusri—from the 2nd through the 12th century in the course of Buddhism’s encounter principally with Chinese but also with Korean and Japanese civilization.

Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly by the Divinity School as 3560.

[East Asian Buddhist Studies 115. Buddhist Meditation Traditions]
Catalog Number: 6958
Robert M. Gimello

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Focusing particularly on Buddhism in East Asia, and relying chiefly on English translations of primary canonical and paracanonical sources, this course will examine a variety of specific meditation curricula while also posing theoretical questions about the relationship between meditation and Buddhist doctrine, the value of meditation in the moral lives of Buddhist individuals and communities, the influence of meditation upon Buddhist art, the connection between meditation and Buddhist ritual, etc.

Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly by the Divinity School as 3561.

East Asian Buddhist Studies 116a. Buddhism in East Asia: I-VII Century
Catalog Number: 9937
Robert M. Gimello

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and one additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

A survey of the history of Buddhist thought and practice in East Asia from its advent in Han China to the emergence of distinctly East Asian traditions of Buddhist thought and practice in the early Tang, with attention also to the early transmission of Buddhism to Korea, Japan, and Vietnam.

Offered jointly with Divinity School as 3521.

East Asian Buddhist Studies 116b. Buddhism in East Asia: VIII-XVI Century
Catalog Number: 9214
Robert M. Gimello

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and one additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

A survey of the history of Buddhist thought and practice in mid-Tang through Ming China, with attention also to developments during the same period in Korea, Vietnam, and Japan.

Offered by the Divinity School as 3526.

[East Asian Buddhist Studies 120. Buddhist Apologetics in East Asia]
Catalog Number: 0692
Robert M. Gimello

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

A treatment of the process by which Buddhism in China, Korea, and Japan came to define itself either over and against other religious and intellectual traditions like Confucianism, Daoism, and Shintō or in ecumenical relation to them. Historical examples of Buddhism’s response to other traditions will be considered in light of modern theories of inter-religious dialogue.

Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3524.

Primarily for Graduates
East Asian Buddhist Studies 210r. Topics in East Asian Buddhism
Catalog Number: 7624
Robert M. Gimello
Half course (fall term). W., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
Examination of various themes and issues in the history of medieval and early modern Chinese, Korean, and/or Japanese Buddhism. The subject this year will be the formation and early history of Huayan Buddhism.
Prerequisite: A reading knowledge of classical Chinese is required.

[East Asian Buddhist Studies 212. Later Huayan Buddhism]
Catalog Number: 7986
Robert M. Gimello
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A study of the intellectual history of Huayan (Korean: Hwaom, Japanese: Kegon) Buddhism focusing in Song China, Koryo Korea, and late Heian/Kamakura Japan. Special attention will be given to the relation between Huayan and Chan (Son/Zen). Reading knowledge of classical Chinese is required.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly by the Divinity School as 3862.

East Asian Buddhist Studies 214. Buddhism Under the Liao
Catalog Number: 3844
Robert M. Gimello
Half course (spring term). W., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
A study of the institutional, intellectual, and cultic history of Buddhism, especially esoteric Buddhism, under the Khitan or Liao dynasty (907-1125).
Prerequisite: A reading knowledge of classical Chinese is required.

[Chinese 183. Being Chinese: Contemporary Cultural Debates]
Catalog Number: 5179
Xiaofei Tian Owen
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This course is designed for both undergraduate and graduate students and intends to explore a series of heated contemporary cultural debates in China that are all concerned about the “Chinese identity” and the notion of “greater cultural China” in the age of globalization. Readings for this course draw on essays, critical writings, and movie reviews published in current Chinese literary and cultural journals as well as on Chinese Internet. In relation to the readings the students will also watch some relevant Chinese movies made in the 1980s-1990s.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Class conducted in Chinese.
Prerequisite: Four years of Mandarin or equivalent (with instructor’s permission).

Chinese 187. Art and Violence in the Cultural Revolution
Catalog Number: 1253
Xiaofei Tian Owen
Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
This course examines the profound cultural implications of the Cultural Revolution (1966-1976) and its deep impact on the Chinese culture by starting to ask how art did violence to people and how violence was turned into an art. Readings will range from political essays to the much neglected fiction and poetry produced during this period, the famous “Eight Revolutionary Peking Operas,” memoirs of their personal experiences during this period by writers and scholars, and films.
Note: Conducted entirely in Chinese.
Prerequisite: At least three years of Mandarin or equivalent (with instructor’s permission).

  Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11; Tu., 7–10 p.m. weekly film screening. EXAM GROUP: 13
  How do Chinese films between the two fin-de-siècles create the spectacle of “China” at home and abroad? Course topics include: the cinematic histories of China, Taiwan, and Hong Kong; the origins of early Chinese cinema and the larger context of 1930s Shanghai urban culture; film’s relationship to literary and pop culture discourses (music, soap opera, fanzines); aesthetic responses to historical crises (Taiwan’s 228 Incident, the Cultural Revolution, 1997 Hong Kong handover), “spectacular” violence and the martial arts genre.

Note: Lectures and readings in English, plus weekly film screenings. No prior background in subject matter required.

Chinese Literature 132. Chinatowns
Catalog Number: 8316
Eileen Cheng-yin Chow
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

What happens at the crossroads of space and ethnicity? This seminar explores the myriad ways in which “Chinatown” has circulated as ‘memory, fantasy, narrative, myth’ in the dominant cultural imagination in the last century and a half, and how the lived realities of overseas Chinese communities, Asian American history, and changing conceptions of ‘Chineseness’ have productively engaged with these real and phantom Chinatowns. Though the emphasis of the seminar will be on cultural and theoretical issues rather than on a socio-historical study of the “Chinatown” phenomenon, participants are encouraged to pursue multi-disciplinary approaches to the subject, such as studies in urban history, architecture, ethnography, economics, or creative projects for their final projects.

Chinese Literature 150. Diaspora and Transnationalism
Catalog Number: 1470
Eileen Cheng-yin Chow
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

In this course we look at the way in which historical and cultural notions of nations, diasporas, and homes intersect with new economic and social arrangements that have created transnational flows of people across the globe. Readings focus on debates around nationalism, transnationalism, and cultural identity, and their relation to memory, knowledge, and narrative; the question of translated sexualities; hybrid/minority cultural formations; and the role modern mass media has played in creating transnational publics. Theoretical perspectives from Anderson, Appadurai, Bhabha, Chow, Clifford, Gilroy, Hall, Radhakrishnan, Ong, Spivak; creative texts include those by Edwige Danticat, Jhumpa Lahiri, Michael Ondaatje, Ruth Ozeki, Salman Rushdie, and selected films.

[Chinese Literature 153. Epic Poetry, Narrative Verse, and Prosimetric Literature]
Catalog Number: 1105
Wilt Lukas Idema
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

The Chinese tradition of poetry is overwhelmingly lyrical in nature. This does not mean, however, that narrative poetry and epic dimensions are absent. Moreover, Chinese literature developed as an extremely rich body of chantable literature. Works in these genres tell their stories in an alternation of prose of verse. In this course we will look at the most important genres (bianwen, zhugongdiao, cihua, tanci, baojuan) and discuss some works in detail.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.
[Chinese Literature 157. Women’s Writing in Imperial China]
Catalog Number: 8022
Wilt Lukas Idema
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
In this course we will consider what kind of women in imperial times wrote what kind of literature, and the changes in these patterns over the centuries. We will not only deal with poetry by women, but also look at other genres, such as drama and verse narrative.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Chinese Literature 158. Passion and Duty in Chinese Drama]
Catalog Number: 8085
Wilt Lukas Idema
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Traditional and modern Chinese literature have a rich dramatic tradition. Following a general introduction to the theater in China in its historical development, we will read (in translation) representative plays from the major dramatic genres from the 13th to the 20th century. In the discussion of these plays, drawing upon existing scholarship and criticism, we will emphasize the ways in which the conflict between passion (love, revenge) and duty (filial piety, loyalty to the state) is dealt with in each case.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

[Chinese Literature 159. Filial Piety in Chinese Literature]
Catalog Number: 1790
Wilt Lukas Idema
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Filial piety is a central value in traditional Chinese culture. Perhaps because it is an unavoidable duty and not a matter of choice, it does not play the important role in Chinese literature one might expect. In this course we will look at the various ways in which filial piety has been constructed in Chinese literature, starting from the Xioajing (Classic of Filial Piety) and Ershisi xiao (Twenty-four Examples of Filial Piety) and proceeding through traditional fiction and drama to the attacks on filial piety during the May Fourth period at the beginning of the 20th century.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Chinese Literature 160. Heroes and Anti-heroes in Chinese Literature: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 9930
Wai-yee Li
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course traces the protean transformations of heroes in Chinese literature. Marginality, dissent, and alternatives define a counter-tradition endemic to the literary representation of heroes. The entwined genealogies of heroes and anti-heroes demonstrate how conflicting value systems shape literary works. Early historical writings create heroic types by examining ideas of power and authority, success and failure. The ironic displacement and folk transformations of historical heroes bring us to the origins of Chinese fiction. We will concentrate on how liminal types, such as the knight-errant, the trickster, the frustrated scholar, the aesthete, the marginal woman, and the social outcast become dominant figures in Chinese fiction.

Prerequisite: Advanced command of modern Chinese.

[Chinese Literature 225. Visual Evidence]
Catalog Number: 7222
Eileen Cheng-yin Chow
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Through a broad reading of literary texts and investigations into visual practices (theatre, pictorial press, advertising, early cinema), this course explores the interactions of social context, technology, and culture in late Qing and Republican China, and asks what role material media plays in changing epistemological formations, and in the definition of the “modern” in Chinese literature. Topics: cultures of leisure and play yòuxì: theoretical and methodological issues related to the field; cultural vs. historical modes of reading and perception; canon formation and popular fiction; and what constitutes “the archive” for popular cultural studies.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Advanced command of modern Chinese; ability to read classical Chinese.

meng, drawing on commentary traditions and modern interpretations. We will explore how Honglou meng sums up and rethinks aspects of the Chinese tradition, paying special attention to various contexts of Ming-Qing literary and cultural history.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Catalog Number: 3773
Wai-ye Li
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
We will study Zuozhuan and Shiji and ponder early Chinese conceptions of history by examining rhetorical and narrative modes. The focus will be problems of interpretation, that is, how these texts represent the possibilities and limits of historical knowledge, the roles and functions of interpreters, and the evolution and disintegration of interpretive structures.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of classical Chinese is required.

[Chinese Literature 228. Asian Modernities: An Introduction to Critical and Cultural Theories]
Catalog Number: 7357
Eileen Cheng-yin Chow
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course looks at the place of theory and criticism in the study of ‘Asia’ in the academy today.
We will engage in topics such as the construction of ‘literature’, literary traditions, and national cultures in a comparative context; articulations of internationalism and cosmopolitanism as counter-discourses; recent debates on nationalism and modernity, cultural studies, gender studies, translation and travel, and the proliferation of ‘post-’ studies (postmodern, post-colonial, post-ethnic) as they pertain to our research and writing.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Graduate seminar; qualified undergraduates may enroll with permission of instructor. Knowledge of one Asian literary or cultural tradition helpful.

[Chinese Literature 230. The Vernacular Short Story (huaben xiaoshuo); Historical and Critical Approaches]
Catalog Number: 6268
Wilt Lukas Idema
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This course will deal with the development of the vernacular short story, focusing on Feng Menglong’s Sanyan (1620-1627), a compilation of 120 stories old and new. We will also have a look at the vernacular narratives of the Tang as found in Dunhuang and follow the development of the genre throughout the 17th and 18th centuries.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

[Chinese Literature 231. Late-Ming Literature and Culture]
Catalog Number: 2770
Wai-ye Li
Half course (fall term). M., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
The seminar will survey a range of writings from the second half of the sixteenth century until the fall of the Ming dynasty, including prose (ancient style prose and “informal essays”), poetry, drama, and fiction. We will examine various aspects of late-Ming literary-aesthetic sensibility (and question how such a category may be justified in the first place).

Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of classical and pre-modern vernacular Chinese required.

Chinese Literature 232. Early Qing literature and Culture
Catalog Number: 8447
Wai-yee Li
Half course (spring term). M., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
In this seminar we will study representative works in early Qing literature, covering a range of genres, including prose, poetry, fiction, and drama. The focus will be on the memory and representation of the fall of the Ming dynasty in early Qing literature. We will also explore how this preoccupation merges and co-exists with other trends and developments in this period.

Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of classical and pre-modern vernacular Chinese required.

[Chinese Literature 251. Readings in Liaozhai Zhiyi]
Catalog Number: 6657
Wilt Lukas Idema
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines stories from Pu Song Ling’s masterwork, focusing on development of the text. We will compare the author’s handwritten copy to later manuscripts and the earliest printed versions, and examine annotated editions and adaptations.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

[Chinese Literature 255. Readings in Yuan Drama]
Catalog Number: 3239
Wilt Lukas Idema
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The course will focus on plays that portray poets during a critical moment in their career. Various stages in the development of the zaju text will be covered. The differences between the various editions will be discussed in relation to the changing needs of the uses of the texts.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a 1.5-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Covers the theory of individual and group behavior. Topics include consumer theory, producer theory, behavior under uncertainty, externalities, monopolistic distortions, game theory, oligopolistic behavior, and asymmetric information.

Note: Enrollment is restricted to students in the economics and business economics Ph.D. programs.

Prerequisite: Economics 2030 or equivalent; can be taken concurrently.

Economics 2010b. Economic Theory
Catalog Number: 8659
Laurent E. Calvet and Michael A. Schwarz
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a 1.5-hour weekly section to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Topics include general equilibrium, the core, externalities and public goods, moral hazard, social choice theory, signaling, and mechanism design.

Prerequisite: Economics 2010a.
Economics 2010c. Economic Theory
Catalog Number: 2041
Benjamin M. Friedman, David I. Laibson, and N. Gregory Mankiw
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4, 5
A basic course in graduate macroeconomics, including models of business fluctuations, theories of consumption, investment, money demand, and analysis of monetary and fiscal policy.
Note: Enrollment is normally limited to students in the economics Ph.D. program, doctoral candidates in a few other designated programs, and well-qualified undergraduates.
Prerequisite: Economics 2030 or the equivalent; can be taken concurrently.

Economics 2010d. Economic Theory
Catalog Number: 4431
Alberto F. Alesina and Robert J. Barro
Half course (spring term). M., W., 12–1:30. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6
Topics include economic growth, theory of economic policy, fiscal policy, and macroeconomic theory for the open economy.
Prerequisite: Economics 2010c.

*Economics 2020a. Microeconomic Theory I
Catalog Number: 0339 Enrollment: Limited to 102.
Jerry R. Green, Christopher N. Avery (Kennedy School) and Nolan H. Miller (Kennedy School)
Half course (fall term). M., W., 8:30–10, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
The theory of microeconomic behavior. Consumption, production, uncertainty, markets, general equilibrium. Applications to policy analysis, business decisions, industrial organization, finance, the legal system. Emphasizes the use of economic theory in analyzing and understanding practical problems. This is a comprehensive course in economic theory designed for doctoral students in all parts of the university.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as API-111 and the Business School as 4401.
Prerequisite: Two years of calculus and one course in probability theory. Thorough background in microeconomic theory at the intermediate level. Undergraduates with the appropriate background are welcome.

*Economics 2020b. Microeconomic Theory II
Catalog Number: 4058
Christopher N. Avery (Kennedy School) and Nolan H. Miller (Kennedy School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., 8:30–10, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 1, 2
A continuation of Economics 2020a. Topics include game theory, economics of information, incentive theory, and welfare economics.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as API-112 and the Business School as 4402.
Prerequisite: Economics 2010a or 2020a.

Economics 2025. Advanced Price Theory
Catalog Number: 2921
Martin L. Weitzman
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
First part: classical microeconomic theory at an advanced mathematical and conceptual level centered on the unifying concept of convexity. Second part: optimal control theory applied to growth, capital, national income accounting, sustainability, and depletion.
Prerequisite: Price theory at the level of what is covered in Economics 2010 or 2020.

Economics 2030. Mathematics and Optimization Theory for Economists
Catalog Number: 4976
Laurent E. Calvet
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Covers all basic aspects of mathematics and optimization theory useful to Ph.D.-level economics. Topics include real analysis, functions of several variables, convex programming, duality theory, linear and non-linear programming, calculus of variations, and the maximum principle of optimal control theory. While each topic is treated rigorously, the emphasis is on economic applications.

Economics 2040. Experimental Economics
Catalog Number: 8485 Enrollment: Limited to 48.
Alvin E. Roth
Half course (fall term). F., 9–12. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3, 4
An introduction to experimental economics, its methods, and some of the major subject areas that have been addressed by laboratory experiments. Effort is made to concentrate on a series of experiments, in order to see how experiments build on one another and allow researchers with different theoretical dispositions to narrow the range of potential disagreement.
Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4257.

[Economics 2050. General Equilibrium Theory]
Catalog Number: 2279
Laurent E. Calvet
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Develops the foundations of general equilibrium with an emphasis on financial markets. Topics include regularity and generic structure of equilibria, incomplete markets, default, informational efficiency and dynamic asset pricing.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Economics 2052. Game Theory
Catalog Number: 3690
Drew Fudenberg
Half course (spring term). M., 4–6:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
Topics include noncooperative game theory, equilibrium analysis of incomplete information, dynamic and repeated games, economic applications, and introduction to non-equilibrium dynamics.
Prerequisite: Economics 2010a or permission of the instructor.
[Economics 2055. Negotiation and Dispute Resolution: Interdisciplinary Research Seminar]

Catalog Number: 3700
Jerry R. Green, Iris Bohnet (Kennedy School), Robert H. Mnookin (Law School), and James K. Sebenius (Business School)

Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Concerned with topics relating to bargaining, negotiation, and dispute resolution. Special emphasis on the effect of laws and the legal system. Uses the perspective of psychology and economics to study the barriers to negotiated resolution of conflict.

Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as STM-277Y. Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructors.

Economics 2056. Market Design
Catalog Number: 3634
Alvin E. Roth

Half course (spring term). F., 9–12. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3, 4
Deals with the theory and practice of market design, with prominent examples drawn from auctions and labor markets.

Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 2150.

Economics 2060. Contract Theory
Catalog Number: 1404
Philippe Aghion and Oliver S. Hart

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Recent developments in contract theory. Includes hidden action and hidden information models, dynamic agency issues, incomplete contracts, and applications of contract theory to theories of the firm and corporate financial structure.

*Economics 2075hf. Political Economy Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 7645
Stephen A. Marglin

Half course (throughout the year). W., 10–12. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4

Economics 2076. Keynes and the 20th Century
Catalog Number: 4351
Stephen A. Marglin

Half course (fall term). Tu., 10–12. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Examines the impact of Keynes on economics and the economy, with special emphasis on alternative readings of the General Theory. Considers both the standard interpretation of Keynes as a theorist of the short run, which allowed the assimilation of Keynesian economics into the mainstream of American economics, and an alternative reading of Keynes as offering a vision of capitalism fundamentally at odds with the vision of neoclassical economics. Attention is paid both to theory and to the historical context in which the theory developed.

Economics 2086r (formerly Economics 3086r). The Theory Workshop
Catalog Number: 6378
Econometrics and Quantitative Methods

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Economics 1123. Applied Econometrics
Catalog Number: 0813
Michael P. Murray (Bates College) (fall term) and Samuel B. Thompson (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
An introduction to multiple regression techniques with focus on economic applications. Discusses extensions to discrete response, panel data, and time series models, as well as issues such as omitted variables, missing data, sample selection, randomized and natural experiments, and instrumental variables. Aims to provide students with an understanding of and ability to apply econometric and statistical methods using computer packages.
Note: Students may take either Economics 1123 or Statistics 139 for credit. Statistics 139 will not count as econometrics requirement. Also, Economics 1123 may not be taken for credit if taken after Economics 1126, but credit will be given for both courses if Economics 1123 is taken first.
Prerequisite: Statistics 100.

Economics 1126. Quantitative Methods in Economics
Catalog Number: 4076
Gary Chamberlain
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Reviews the elements of probability that are central to the statistical methods developed. This leads to the conditional expectation function. The role of multiple regression in drawing inferences from a sample about this population concept is developed. Empirical articles are discussed to illustrate this methodology. A key question is the extent to which the conditional expectation function can be given a causal interpretation. Empirical attempts by economists to isolate exogenous variation are discussed. Related methodology includes the use of longitudinal data and instrumental variables to control for selection bias.
Note: Economics 1123 may not be taken for credit if taken after Economics 1126, but credit will be given for both courses if Economics 1123 is taken first.
Prerequisite: Statistics 100 or preferably 110; Mathematics 20.

Cross-listed Courses

Statistics 100. Introduction to Quantitative Methods

Primarily for Graduates
Economics 2110 (formerly Economics 2110a). Introductory Probability and Statistics for Economists
Catalog Number: 7213
Samuel B. Thompson
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10, and a 1.5-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11
Introduction to probability and statistics. Emphasis on general methods applicable to both econometrics and economic theory. Topics include probability spaces, random variables, limit laws, estimation, hypothesis testing, and Bayesian methods.
Prerequisite: Economics 2030 and Statistics 100 or equivalent.

Economics 2120. Introduction to Applied Econometrics
Catalog Number: 2352
Dale W. Jorgenson and Jinyong Hahn (Brown University) (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Tu., Th., 2:30–4; Spring: Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and a 1.5-hour weekly section to be arranged each term. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 16, 17; Spring: 15, 16
Introduction to methods employed in applied econometrics, including linear regression, instrumental variables, generalized method of moments, and maximum likelihood. Includes detailed discussion of papers in applied econometrics and computer exercises using standard econometric packages.
Prerequisite: Economics 2110 or equivalent.

Economics 2131. Applied Econometrics
Catalog Number: 2211
Dale W. Jorgenson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Advanced methods in applied econometrics, including nonlinear regression, panel data, and stationary and non-stationary time series. Includes detailed discussion of empirical applications. Students will complete a short research project in applied econometrics.
Prerequisite: Economics 2120 or equivalent.

Economics 2140 (formerly Economics 2140b). Econometric Methods
Catalog Number: 7210
Gary Chamberlain
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Statistical decision theory with applications to portfolio choice, panel data topics, selection bias, demand and supply, qualitative choice, and quantile regression.
Prerequisite: Economics 2120 or equivalent.

Economics 2142 (formerly Economics 2140d). Time Series Analysis
Catalog Number: 4414
James H. Stock
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
A survey of modern time series econometrics. Topics include univariate models, vector autoregressions, linear and nonlinear filtering, frequency domain methods, unit roots, structural breaks, empirical process theory asymptotics, forecasting, and applications to macroeconomics and finance.

[Economics 2144 (formerly Economics 2140e). Advanced Applied Econometrics]
Catalog Number: 7686
Ariel Pakes and Jack R. Porter
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the theory and application of recently developed econometric techniques used in advanced applied work. Simulation techniques as well as semiparametric and nonparametric tools will be studied in a variety of empirical contexts.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Economics 2162. The Econometrics Workshop
Catalog Number: 2372
Dale W. Jorgenson, Gary Chamberlain, Jinyong Hahn (Brown University), James H. Stock (Kennedy School), and Samuel B. Thompson
Full course. Th., 4:30–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
Current research topics in theory and applications of econometrics.

Comparative Systems; Economic History; Development

Economics 1315, Economic Development in East Asia
Catalog Number: 1920
Dwight H. Perkins
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Covers the modern development and economic history of East and Southeast Asia. Topics include the role of government policy and the state, the transition from economies based on central planning to economies relying on market forces, the origins and nature of the Asian financial crisis, the role of natural resources or the lack thereof, differing approaches to income distribution and social welfare, and other issues connected with industrialization and agricultural development in the region.
Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10.

Economics 1340, Globalization and History
Catalog Number: 4025
Jeffrey G. Williamson
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14 more poor people migrate? Who votes for protection? Who votes for migration restriction?

Note: Economics concentrators may not take this course pass/fail.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10 or permission of the instructor.

[Economics 1357. Historical Perspectives on American Economic Ascendancy]

Catalog Number: 7554 Enrollment: Limited to no more than 70.

Claudia Goldin

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Explores the sources and origins of America’s economic ascendancy beginning with the founding of the nation. Addresses whether the U.S. is currently losing economic leadership or whether other nations are converging on it. Explores how the U.S. achieved economic supremacy, emphasizing natural resources, legal institutions, migration of labor and capital from the Old World, education, and invention. Addresses domestic problems encountered along the way, such as inequality, regional divisions, slavery, and economic vicissitudes such as the Great Depression. Evaluates the solutions tried, such as larger and more powerful government, including the growth of social insurance programs, and labor unions.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Economics concentrators may not take this course pass/fail.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10 or permission of the instructor.

Economics 1360. Politics, Society, and Economic Development

Catalog Number: 6066 Enrollment: Limited to 30.

Dwight H. Perkins

Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Explores selected topics in the relationship between economic development in developing countries and the kinds of political and social institutions that influence development. Focuses on the appropriate role for the state in the management of the economy under varying political and social systems. Topics include the effectiveness of industrial policy in different institutional settings, the economics and politics of bilateral and multilateral foreign aid, how ethnic diversity affects ownership patterns in the economy, the causes and cures for corruption, and other similar issues.

Note: Requires a major research paper as well as a final exam.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10 or permission of the instructor.

Economics 1395. Institutions, Incentives, and Development

Catalog Number: 3562

Ashok S. Rai

Half course (spring term). M., W., 2:30–4, and a section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Provides an analytic framework for understanding how institutions influence development. Special attention is paid to the problems of moral hazard, adverse selection, and limited enforcement. Topics include corruption, microcredit, environmental degradation, agricultural tenancy, medieval trade, village insurance, and poverty reduction schemes.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a. Mathematics 20 or equivalent is recommended.
Economics 1399. Economic Development
Catalog Number: 4051
Beatriz Armendariz de Aghion
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14

Survey course designed to guide students in applying economic analysis to questions related to developing countries. Covers broad issues such as the meaning of development, economic growth, income distribution, poverty and hunger, health, population growth, migration flows, capital flows, stabilization and adjustment, trade flows, agriculture, land reform, rural credit, and the problem of corruption. Considers topics such as the problem of health and hunger in Africa, stabilization and adjustment in Latin America, industrialization in East Asia, agriculture in China, and land reform in India.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a (or 1011a) and 1010b (or 1011b.)

Cross-listed Courses

Social Analysis 60. Wealth and Poverty in the World Economy

Economics 2300. The Political Economy of Socialism and Transition
Catalog Number: 6585
Janos Kornai
Half course (spring term). F., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Students of government, sociology, Russian and Chinese studies, and advanced undergraduates are welcome.

Economics 2325. World Development
Catalog Number: 8510
Jeffrey G. Williamson
Half course (spring term). M., W., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4

Uses economic history to explore development the world round over the past two centuries, from the British industrial revolution to the contemporary Third World. Takes examples from Europe, Latin America, Asia, and North America.
Note: Satisfies the graduate distribution requirement.

Economics 2327. History and Theory of Development
Catalog Number: 8092
Jeffrey D. Sachs
Half course (fall term). M., W., 11:30–1, and a section on F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4, 5

Provides an overview of the subject of economic development from theoretical, historical, and policy perspectives. Main aim is to allow students to analyze policy debates surrounding economic growth and development from a broad theoretical and historical base. Considers alternate theories of modern economic growth within a dynamic context. Treats the problem of economic growth in historical perspective, addressing several critical junctures of modern economic history. Emphasizes current policy debates in economic development.

Note: Satisfies the graduate distribution requirement. Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as PED-101I.

[Economics 2330. The Development of the American Economy]
Catalog Number: 0123
Claudia Goldin

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Covers selected topics in American economic history with an emphasis on the causes and consequences of economic growth in the 19th and 20th centuries. Also explores the historical roots of current economic issues, such as the productivity slowdown, technological change, inequality, social insurance programs, regulation, race, immigration, unions, education, and macroeconomic fluctuations.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Satisfies the graduate distribution requirement.

[Economics 2334. The Industrial Revolution]
Catalog Number: 0124

----------

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Selected topics in European economic history with an emphasis on the causes and consequences of modern economic growth in Britain, France, Germany, and Russia in the 18th, 19th, and early 20th centuries. Topics include agrarian change and impact, industrial technical change and impact, physical capital accumulation and finance, divisions of labor, human capital accumulation, international trade and finance, British late 19th-century retardation, World War I, and the Great Depression.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Advanced undergraduates welcome with permission of instructor. Satisfies the graduate distribution requirement.

Economics 2339. The Economic History Workshop
Catalog Number: 8183
Jeffrey G. Williamson

Full course. F., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Intended for students writing dissertations related to economic history themes and/or methodology and for others with interests in economic history. Discusses research papers presented by scholars at Harvard and elsewhere.

Economics 2385. Microfinance: Theory and Practice
Catalog Number: 8527
Beatriz Armendariz de Aghion

Half course (fall term). M., W., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 4, 5

Covers theories behind poverty alleviation via loan provision to credit constrained individuals; focuses on the analytics behind the success of microfinance institutions at circumventing adverse selection and moral hazard; overviews empirical literature on impact; integrates case studies and policy debates. Intended to help potential entrepreneurs understand how microfinance enterprises operate in practice.

Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as PED-326.

Prerequisite: Good background in advanced microeconomics and econometrics. Qualified undergraduates welcome.

Economics 2390a. The Structural Transformation in Historical Perspective
Catalog Number: 4216
Dwight H. Perkins and Jeffrey G. Williamson
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Reviews historical patterns of the structural transformation in Europe, Latin America, East Asia, and Africa. Focus is on the role of policy in development, the balance between agriculture and industry, the role of international trade and finance, and the need for changing institutions as economies mature or as they make the transition from one economic system to another.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Serves as the introduction at the graduate level to the field of Economic Development; also satisfies the graduate distribution requirement.

Economics 2390b. Development Economics I: Microeconomic Issues
Catalog Number: 2990
Michael Robert Kremer
Half course (fall term). M., W., 10:30–12. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4
Topics include agricultural issues such as peasant behavior, land tenancy, interlinked markets; credit and insurance market problems and institutions; health, nutrition, and productivity; gender bias; education; and technology adoption.

Economics 2390c. Developmental Economics II: Macroeconomic Issues
Catalog Number: 0388
Philippe Aghion
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Topics include innovation-based growth, innovations and capital accumulation, scale effects and convergence, exhaustible resources, learning-by-doing, growth and market structure, general purpose technologies, dynamics of wage inequality, and technical change and institutional change.

Economics 2390d. The Economic Growth and Development Workshop
Catalog Number: 1926

For Undergraduates and Graduates
Economics 1410. Public Sector Economics
Catalog Number: 6136
David M. Cutler, Mihir A. Desai (Business School), Martin Feldstein, Caroline M. Hoxby, and Judith Li
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 4
An economic analysis of government policy in market economies. Examines efficiency and equity arguments for government intervention, economic theories of government decision making, and empirical evidence on government programs. Special emphasis on social insurance and health care.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as API-125.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a or permission of instructor.

Economics 1420. American Economic Policy
Catalog Number: 8110
Martin Feldstein and Jeffrey B. Liebman (Kennedy School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 3
Analyzes major issues in American economic policy including taxation, Social Security, welfare reform, budget policy, monetary and fiscal policy, and exchange rate management. Current economic issues and policy options discussed in detail and in the context of current academic thinking.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as API-126.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a, or permission of instructor.

Economics 1422. Issues in Canadian Economic Policy
Catalog Number: 3284
Angelo Melino (University of Toronto)
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Topics include Canada’s recent macroeconomic performance, labor market outcomes, income inequality, productivity, fiscal trends, the brain drain, the Canadian dollar, inflation targeting, and North American Monetary Union.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010b or 1011b.

[Economics 1430. Macroeconomics and Politics]
Catalog Number: 5549
Alberto F. Alesina
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Topics on the interplay between political processes and macroeconomics, including monetary policy and central-bank independence, political business cycle theory, macroeconomic determinants of voter behavior, the economic consequences of divided government, determinants of fiscal policy, hyperinflation and monetary stabilization, political economy of long-term growth, and theory of economic and monetary union.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10.
Economics 1480. Moral Perspectives on Economic Growth
Catalog Number: 3441 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Benjamin M. Friedman
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Considers economic growth and policies that either promote or impede economic growth, from a social and moral perspective. The central question is whether rising living standards promote openness of opportunity, social mobility, tolerance of diversity, commitment to democracy, and other related characteristics of free societies. Approaches include economic, historical, and literary analyses.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a (or 1011a) and 1010b (or 1011b).

Economics 1485. Growth and Institutions
Catalog Number: 8019
Philippe Aghion
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
This course analyzes the interplay between economic institutions and macroeconomic volatility and growth; it builds to a large extent on the recent history of high-tech sectors in industrialized countries, on the transition experience in post-socialist economies, and on the recent currency crisis episodes in Asia and Latin America.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as APl-124.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a (or 1011a) and 1010b (or 1011b), and Mathematics 20.

Cross-listed Courses

Quantitative Reasoning 24. Health Economics
Primarily for Graduates

[Economics 2410a. Macroeconomics of the Labor Market]
Catalog Number: 3488
Christopher L. Foote
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Studies business cycle dynamics with an emphasis on the labor market. Begins with an analysis of the canonical real business cycle model and discusses problems of identifying fundamental shocks, the amplification of these shocks, and generating realistic levels of persistence in output movements. Then discusses approaches to each of these three areas, paying particular attention to recent work using disaggregated employment data. The goal is to allow students to become fully acquainted with modern business cycle research and to appreciate research opportunities involving disaggregated labor market data.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Economics 2010c and 2010d.

Economics 2410e. Economic Growth
Catalog Number: 0681
Robert J. Barro and Francesco Caselli
Half course (spring term). Th., 6–8:30 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 18
The course is organized around the question: “why are some countries so poor and some so rich?” Examines, among other things, the roles of factor accumulation, differences in productivity, technology adoption and technology diffusion, institutions and politics, culture and social capital. Emphasizes both empirical and theoretical methods.

Economics 2410g, Political Economics
Catalog Number: 6758
Alberto F. Alesina and Andrei Shleifer

Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Discusses several research areas in political economy, including the origins of the state, comparative political systems, theories of economic reform, fiscal problems in democracies, rule of law, privatization, regulation, and elections and the economy.

Economics 2410h, Dynamic Programming and Consumption
Catalog Number: 1851
David I. Laibson

Half course (spring term). F., 1:30–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9
First half of course introduces dynamic programming, including both discrete and continuous-time methods. Considers applications to search, investment, option valuation, and consumption. Discusses computational methods for generating numerical solutions. Second half surveys recent empirical and theoretical research in consumption. Topics may include consumption of durables, incomplete markets, habit formation, precautionary saving, asset allocation, credit markets, savings adequacy, savings policy and savings incentives, psychological models of saving, calibration of lifecycle consumption models, and empirical methods.

Economics 2420, Monetary and Fiscal Policy Seminar
Catalog Number: 5946
Benjamin M. Friedman, Alberto F. Alesina, Robert J. Barro, John Y. Campbell, Francesco Caselli, Christopher L. Foote, David I. Laibson, N. Gregory Mankiw, Jeremy C. Stein, and James H. Stock

Full course. M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Economics 2450a, Public Economics and Fiscal Policy I
Catalog Number: 1339
David M. Cutler

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Surveys theoretical and empirical analyses of taxation and government expenditures. Topics include tax incidence, optimal tax theory, public goods and externalities, empirical analysis of responses to taxation, and health economics.

Economics 2450b, Public Economics and Fiscal Policy II
Catalog Number: 6478
Martin Feldstein, David M. Cutler, and Caroline M. Hoxby

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 4, 5
Surveys theoretical and empirical analyses of taxation and government expenditures. Special topics include taxes and corporate finance, social insurance and fiscal policy.

Economics 2460 (formerly Economics 2910). The Health Economics Workshop
Catalog Number: 7617
David M. Cutler, Joseph P. Newhouse (Kennedy School, Medical School, Public Health), and William C. Hsiao (Public Health)
Half course (spring term). W., 4:30–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Focuses on theory, econometric models, and public policy of health care. Frontier work in health economics presented and discussed by instructors and outside speakers. Topics include public and private investments in health, hospital and physician behavioral models, markets and competition in health care, and regulation and financing health services.
Note: May be taken for credit only by dissertation students presenting research.

Economics 2480. The Public Economics and Fiscal Policy Workshop

This seminar considers a range of issues relating to national security, including bioterrorism, the market for nuclear weapons, the defense industry, the dependence on imported oil, intelligence, sanctions, etc. Speakers will be experts with experience in this field rather than economists. Seminar participants will be economics department faculty and selected graduate students.

International Economics

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Economics 1530. International Monetary Economics
Catalog Number: 2269
Richard N. Cooper
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
The theory of exchange rate determination, capital markets, and macroeconomic policy in the open economy. Applications to such issues as the history of international monetary regimes, international policy coordination, the debt crisis, and the formation of currency unions.
Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10.

Economics 1535. International Trade and Investment
Catalog Number: 2557 Enrollment: Limited to 50.
Marc J. Melitz
Half course (fall term). M., W., 2:30–4, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Analyzes the causes and consequences of international trade and investment. Focuses on the interplay of economic theory and empirical descriptions of foreign trade and direct investment patterns.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a.

[Economics 1542. International Trade Policy]
Catalog Number: 2613
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Provides an introduction to the theory, history and empirical evaluation of international trade policy. Begins by reviewing the theory of trade and trade policy in both competitive and non-competitive environments. Discusses the determinants and impact of 19th- and 20th-century trade policies. Concludes with an evaluation of major current trade policy debates.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a, or permission of instructor.

[Economics 1545. International Financial and Macroeconomic Policy]
Catalog Number: 5166 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Kenneth Rogoff
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Advanced theoretical and empirical analysis of contemporary international macroeconomic policy issues, including speculative attacks on exchange rates and sovereign debt. First part of course develops theoretical and empirical foundations, whereas last part looks at a number of policy issues related to redesigning the international financial architecture.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010b or 1011b.

Economics 1550. Economics of International Financial Policy
Catalog Number: 5112
Jeffrey A. Frankel (Kennedy School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and a section on F., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Deals with international monetary economics, or the macroeconomics of open economies. Topics include the foreign exchange market, devaluation, and trade elasticities; simultaneous determination of the trade balance, GDP, the balance of payments, money flows, and price levels; increasingly integrated financial markets; monetary and fiscal policy; international macroeconomic interdependence and policy coordination; supply relationships and nominal anchors for monetary policy; and the determination of exchange rates.
Note: Offered jointly by the Kennedy School as ITF-220.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a (or 1011a) and 1010b (or 1011b).

Primarily for Graduates
Economics 2530a. International Trade
Catalog Number: 4537
Elhanan Helpman
Half course (fall term). M., W., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 1, 2
Provides a broad overview of theory and evidence concerning international trade, direct foreign investment and trade policy. In addition to traditional approaches to comparative advantage, the course discusses in detail scale economies, imperfect competition, and product differentiation. These approaches are then expanded to deal with trade dynamics and economic growth. Trade policies are discussed in all these environments. Finally, the formation of trade policies is discussed as part of a political process in which special interest groups play a major role.
Note: Strongly recommended as preparation for Economics 2530b.

Economics 2530b. International Finance
Catalog Number: 7144
Oved Yosha (Tel-Aviv University)
Half course (spring term). M., W., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4
Financial aspects of growth and income determination in open economies. Specific topics include financial risk in the international setting, money and exchange rate regimes, income determination and macroeconomic policy, history of international monetary arrangements, and current issues in international monetary reform.
Prerequisite: Economics 2530a provides extremely useful background for topics in this course.

Economics 2535. Advanced Topics in International Trade
Catalog Number: 6410
Marc J. Melitz
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Covers advanced theoretical and empirical topics concerning the determinants of world trade patterns.
Prerequisite: Economics 2530a or permission of instructor.

Economics 2536. Advanced Topics in International Finance
Catalog Number: 1718
----------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Covers advanced theoretical and empirical topics in open economy macroeconomics and international finance.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Economics 2537. International Trade Policy: Issues and Analysis
Catalog Number: 1699
Dani Rodrik (Kennedy School)
Half course (fall term). M., W., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4
Aims to develop expertise with economic models used for the analysis of international trade policy issues. Readings and discussions focus on theoretical and empirical work relating to trade and income distribution, trade and growth, industrial policy and development, political economy of trade, and the WTO and the international trade regime.
Note: Students are expected to make presentations and write a research paper. Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as ITF-345.

Prerequisite: Graduate level microeconomics and econometrics.

Economics 2540. The International Economics Workshop
Catalog Number: 4008
Richard N. Cooper, Jeffrey A. Frankel (Kennedy School), Elhanan Helpman, Marc J. Melitz, Dani Rodrik (Kennedy School), and Andres Velasco (Kennedy School)

Full course. W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9

Research papers in all aspects of international economics, including theory, econometrics, and policy.

Industrial Organization and Regulation; Environmental Economics

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Economics 1600. Industrial Organization
Catalog Number: 2584
Richard E. Caves

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 9, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2

The nature of modern firms and markets. The main features of industrial structure and their relationship to market performance. Impact on the behavior of business enterprise in pricing, advertising, research and development, and profits.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10.

Economics 1630. Economics and the Arts
Catalog Number: 4884
Richard E. Caves

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged.

Examines the economic rationales for government intervention into business decisions. Considers both traditional regulation and recent progress towards deregulation of public utilities, such as telecommunications firms or electric utilities. Also considers the enforcement of antitrust policies. The course will provide an overview of the institutions through which government policies are implemented and will consider evidence on the impact of regulatory and antitrust policy.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10.
domestic and international public policy.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10.

Economics 1640. Topics in Industrial Organization: Theory and Applications

Catalog Number: 7875
Julie Holland Mortimer

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10-11:30, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Advanced theoretical and empirical analysis of contemporary topics in industrial organization. Uses economic theory to analyze important issues facing firms, and examines the practical challenges of empirical applications of theory. Topics include horizontal relationships and mergers, vertical integration and control through contractual arrangements, price discrimination, information and search costs, innovation and intellectual property rights, and network externalities. Each topic combines theoretical analysis with a study of actual firm behavior.

Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a.

Economics 1661. Environmental and Resource Economics and Policy

Catalog Number: 2115
Robert N. Stavins (Kennedy School)

Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–2:30, and a 1.5-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

Provides a survey, from the perspective of economics, of policy issues associated with natural resource use and environmental protection. Combines lectures on conceptual and methodological topics with case discussions of actual resource and environmental controversies. Topics include principles of environmental and resource economics, nonrenewable resources (minerals and energy), renewable resources (water, forests, land, fisheries, and wildlife), air pollution (stationary and mobile sources, acid rain, and global climate change), water pollution (point and nonpoint sources), waste management, and sustainable development and political aspects of environmental policy.

Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as ENR-201.

Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10 or permission of instructor.

Economics 1690. Environmental and Natural Resource Economics

Catalog Number: 2939
Martin L. Weitzman

Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30, and a weekly section on F., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

A survey of the conceptual, analytical, and theoretical foundations of environmental and natural resource economics. Public goods and externalities, common property, alternative policies for controlling pollution. Dynamic analysis of the extraction and exploitation of renewable (e.g., fisheries) and nonrenewable (e.g., minerals) natural resources. Theoretical aspects of cost-benefit analysis, environmental accounting, sustainable development, and biodiversity preservation.

Note: This is a mathematically rigorous course that provides the basic analytic framework for students seriously interested in environmental economics. Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as ENR-321.

Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a, and Mathematics 20, or equivalent.
Primarily for Graduates

Economics 2610, Industrial Organization I
Catalog Number: 3766

Catalog Number: 1921
Rafael La Porta
Half course (fall term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Introduction to financial decisions in an international context. Topics include the market for foreign exchange, international valuation methods, options, futures, swaps, risk management, global financing, corporate governance, privatization, country risk, banking and currency crisis.
Prerequisite: Economics 1723 or 1745.

Economics 1760. Topics in Financial Economics

Catalog Number: 4594
Jeremy C. Stein
Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–2:30, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Theory and empirical evidence on selected questions in financial economics, with an emphasis on current research. Topics include behavioral finance and market efficiency, capital allocation by financial markets and inside firms, and banking and monetary policy.
Prerequisite: Economics 1723 or 1745.

Primarily For Graduates

Economics 2710. Financial Econometrics

Catalog Number: 9013
Angelo Melino (University of Toronto)
Half course (spring term). Tu., 10–12. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
A look at empirical topics and techniques in finance, including an introduction to estimation and inference with discrete-sampling of continuous-time processes.
Prerequisite: Economics 2120.

Economics 2723 (formerly Economics 2423). Asset Pricing I

Catalog Number: 2847
John Y. Campbell and Tuomo O. Vuolteenaho
An introduction to financial economics emphasizing discrete-time models and empirical applications. First half of course reviews basic asset pricing theory. Second half discusses empirical topics including predictability of stock and bond returns, the equity premium puzzle, and intertemporal equilibrium models.

Prerequisite: Economics 2010a or 2020a, or permission of instructor.

Economics 2725 (formerly Economics 2425). Corporate Finance
Catalog Number: 1427
Jeremy C. Stein

Half course (spring term). M., W., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 1, 2
Theory and empirical evidence of capital structure, dividends, investment policy, managerial incentives, and takeovers. Topics include market efficiency, agency problems, and ownership.

Prerequisite: Economics 2060.

Economics 2727 (formerly Economics 2427). Topics in Empirical Corporate Finance
Catalog Number: 1427
Jeremy C. Stein

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Half course (spring term). Th., 2:30–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
Examines empirical research in corporate finance. Covers empirical research methodology, financial institutions, and financial policy. Major emphasis is on how to do well-executed and persuasive research in corporate finance.

Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4814. Structured to minimize overlap with Economics 2725. Seminar format; students write referee reports and a research paper.

Economics 2728 (formerly Economics 2428). Behavioral Finance
Catalog Number: 8633
Andrei Shleifer

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Deals with theoretical and empirical approaches to the study of financial markets using psychological or behavioral ideas. Topics include limited arbitrage, predictability of security returns, closed end funds, the equity premium, and trading volume.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Economics 2723.

Economics 2730 (formerly Economics 2430). Asset Pricing II
Catalog Number: 2235
Luis Manuel Viceira (Business School), George Carl Chacko (Business School), and Randolph B. Cohen (Business School)

Half course (spring term). F., 3–6. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Emphasis of course is both theoretical and empirical. First part of course uses continuous-time methods to develop models of the term structure of interest rates, return volatility, contingent claims valuation, and optimal consumption and portfolio choice. Covers estimation methods for continuous-time models in finance. Second part develops intertemporal general equilibrium models of asset returns and discusses recent research on cross-sectional patterns in stock returns.

Note: Offered jointly with the Business School as 4244.
Prerequisite: Graduate-level microeconomics, macroeconomics, and econometrics; Economics 2723 or equivalent.

Economics 2740. Risksharing in Macroeconomics
Catalog Number: 8717
John Y. Campbell
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Considers how financial markets and government policy can be used to share risks efficiently across economic agents. Topics include portfolio choice theory for long-term investors, international risksharing and the home bias puzzle, intergenerational risksharing and social security, nominal versus inflation-indexed assets, and proposals to create new financial markets.
Prerequisite: Economics 2010c and 2010d.

Economics 2770hf. The Financial Economics Workshop
Catalog Number: 1379
Jeremy C. Stein, Laurent E. Calvet, John Y. Campbell, Rafael La Porta, Andrei Shleifer, and Tuomo O. Vuolteenaho
Half course (throughout the year). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9

Labor, Human Resources, and Income Distribution; Urban Economics

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Economics 1800. The Economics of Cities
Catalog Number: 2159
Edward L. Glaeser
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Addresses the central questions of why cities exist, what roles will cities continue to play in the economy, and what determines the rise and fall of cities. Special attention is paid to cities and information, and social problems in cities.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Social Analysis 10 and Statistics 100.

Economics 1812. The U.S. Labor Market
Catalog Number: 0421
James L. Medoff
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Presents the tools employed in research on the operation of the labor market and then uses them to discuss issues such as the determinants of earnings differentials, the impact of various firm characteristics on labor-market outcomes, discrimination, and unemployment.
Prerequisite: Economics 1010a (or 1011a) and Economics 1010b (or 1011b).

Economics 1813. The Indebted Society
Catalog Number: 6957
James L. Medoff
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
First charts trends in personal, corporate, and government indebtedness in the U.S., then discusses the impact of each change on societal well-being. Finally, asks about public policy concerning the various forms of U.S. debt.

Prerequisite: Economics 1010a (or 1011a) and Economics 1010b (or 1011b).

[Economics 1815. Social Problems of the American Economy]
Catalog Number: 3130
Lawrence F. Katz

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines selected social and economic problems of the U.S. and evaluates market and governmental solutions. Topics include discrimination, income and wage inequality, welfare reform, antipoverty strategy (including education and training programs), homelessness, crime, and charitable behavior.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. A research paper is required.

[Economics 1818. Economics of Discontinuous Change]
Catalog Number: 3029
Richard B. Freeman

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15
Explores discontinuous changes in the economic position of groups and countries and presents mathematical and computer simulation models designed to illuminate these changes. Examples include growth/decline of trade unions, segregation of groups, development of linkages on the internet, changes in corporate work culture, growth of social pathologies in neighborhoods, and Malthusian concerns about the environment. Models include nonlinear simulations, neural networks, finite automata, evolutionary stable strategies, causal conjunctures, agent-based simulations, and genetic algorithms.

Note: The course requires a research paper. Students should have some mathematical background, but there is no prerequisite.

[Economics 1822. Economics of Education]
Catalog Number: 1004
Caroline M. Hoxby

Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30, and a one-hour weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Explores why people attain different levels of education, why schools are or are not efficient, how education should be financed to achieve both equity and efficiency goals, what explains rising tuition in higher education, and whether education is an engine of macroeconomic growth. Examines education using labor economics (human capital investment, the market for teachers), public economics (financing K-12 education, public colleges), industrial organization (the structure of the education industry, agency problems in public education), and macroeconomics (growth theory).

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. The application of theory, discussion of research, and option of a research paper make this a good course for students considering honors theses in economics.

Prerequisite: Economics 1010a or 1011a, or permission of the instructor.
Primarily for Graduates

Economics 2800a, Social and Urban Economics
Catalog Number: 3319
Edward L. Glaeser
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
First half of course focuses on traditional urban economics topics: the economics of agglomeration, local public finance, and real estate. Second half looks at social economics topics including ghettos and discrimination, crime and violence, the positive theory of law enforcement, religion, and the economics of the family.
Prerequisite: PhD-level courses in economic theory and econometrics or permission of instructor.

Economics 2810a, Labor Market Analysis
Catalog Number: 4862
Caroline M. Hoxby
Half course (fall term). M., W., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4
Introduces theoretical and empirical research related to labor markets, wages, education, and employment. Wage determination includes equalizing differences, self-selection, human capital, education, training, job mobility, matching, agency, insurance, and tournament models. Labor supply includes allocation of time, taxes, unemployment insurance, and life-cycle models. Labor demand includes the minimum wage, dynamic adjustment models, and the impact of technological change on wages. Teaches current empirical methods in applied microeconomics.

Economics 2810b, Labor Economics and Labor Market Institutions
Catalog Number: 3206
Richard B. Freeman
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Focuses on the operation of the labor market and impact of labor market institutions on labor market outcomes. Topics include labor econometrics, theories of wage determination, empirical analysis of wage differentials and changes in the wage structure, models of trade union behavior and research on the impact of unions, institutional change in the labor market, unemployment, labor market segmentation and discrimination, and the labor market in an open economy.

Economics 2812, The Labor Economics Workshop
Catalog Number: 0230
Caroline M. Hoxby, Richard B. Freeman, and Lawrence F. Katz
Full course. W., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
Focuses on research concerning the operation of labor markets.

Economics 2813, Labor and Work Life Forum
Catalog Number: 1415
Richard B. Freeman and Paul C. Weiler (Law School)
Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Research and discussion with trade union leaders and management concerning labor issues.
Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

*Economics 3000. Research Paper

Half course (throughout the year). Fall: W., at 1; Spring: M., W., at 1. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 6
Participants discuss recent research in development economics and present their own work in progress. Open to doctoral students in economics who have passed their oral examinations.

*Economics 3410dhf. Research in Macroeconomics
Catalog Number: 2126
N. Gregory Mankiw 1118 (on leave spring term), Alberto F. Alesina 2074 (on leave 2002-03), Robert J. Barro 1612, Francesco Caselli 1489, Christopher L. Foote 2333, and David I. Laibson 1241
Half course (throughout the year). Tu., 12–1:30.
Participants discuss recent research in macroeconomics and present their own work in progress. Open to doctoral students in economics who have passed their oral examinations.

*Economics 3450chf. Research in Public Economics and Fiscal Policy
Catalog Number: 3436
David M. Cutler 2954, Caroline M. Hoxby 1235 (on leave 2002-03), Lawrence F. Katz 1480 (on leave 2001-02), and Judith Li 2144
Half course (throughout the year). Th., 1:30–3.
Participants discuss recent research in public economics and fiscal policy and present their own work in progress. Open to doctoral students in economics who have passed their oral examinations.

*Economics 3460chf. Research in Health Economics
Catalog Number: 5309
David M. Cutler 2954 and Joseph P. Newhouse (Kennedy School, Medical School, Public Health) 2425
Half course (throughout the year). Tu., 8–9:30.
Participants discuss recent research in health economics. Course may also include presentation of original research by participants. Open to doctoral students only.

*Economics 3530hf. Research in International Economics
Catalog Number: 5777
Richard N. Cooper 7211, Elhanan Helpman 2334, and Marc J. Melitz 3499
Half course (throughout the year). W., at 12.
Participants discuss recent research in international economics and present their own work in progress. Open to doctoral students in economics who have passed their oral examinations.

*Economics 3650hf. Research in Industrial Organization
Catalog Number: 3318
Ariel Pakes 1774 (on leave fall term), Richard E. Caves 1414, Markus M. Möbius 3441, and Julie Holland Mortimer 3993
Half course (throughout the year). W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Participants present their own research in progress in an informal setting. Open to doctoral students in economics who have passed their general examinations and are in the early stages of their dissertations.
*Economics 3660hf. The Law, Economics, and Organizations Workshop
Catalog Number: 4325
Oliver S. Hart 3462, Lucian Arye Bebchuk (Law School) 2042, and Louis E. Kaplow (Law School) 3223
Half course (throughout the year). Hours to be arranged.
The presentation of work in progress in the field of law, economics, and organizations.
Presentations to be made by members of the various Harvard faculties, outside speakers, and graduate students. Open to all faculty and students with an interest in law, economics, and organizations.

*Economics 3723hf (formerly *Economics 3423hf). Research in Financial Economics
Catalog Number: 4107
Jeremy C. Stein 3752, Laurent E. Calvet 1495, John Y. Campbell 1230, Rafael La Porta 1466, Andrei Shleifer 2772, Tuomo O. Vuolteenaho 3494, and Luis Manuel Viceira (Business School) 3183
Half course (throughout the year). F., 12–1:30.
Participants discuss recent research in financial economics and present their own work in progress. Open to doctoral students in economics who have passed their oral examinations.

*Economics 3810chf. Research in Labor Economics
Catalog Number: 4066
Caroline M. Hoxby 1235 (on leave 2002–03), Richard B. Freeman 4127, and Lawrence F. Katz 1480 (on leave 2001–02)
Half course (throughout the year). Th., 1:30–3.
Participants discuss recent research in labor economics and present their own work in progress. Open to doctoral students in economics who have passed their oral examinations.

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences Offering Instruction in Engineering Sciences
Frederick H. Abernathy, Gordon McKay Professor of Mechanical Engineering and Abbott and James Lawrence Professor of Engineering
Donald G. M. Anderson, Gordon McKay Professor of Applied Mathematics
Michael J. Aziz, Gordon McKay Professor of Materials Science
Ana P. Barros, Associate Professor of Environmental Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Michael S. Brandstein, Associate Professor of Electrical Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Michael P. Brenner, Gordon McKay Professor of Applied Mathematics and Applied Physics
Roger W. Brockett, An Wang Professor of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science (on leave fall term)
David A. Edwards, Gordon McKay Professor of the Practice of Biomedical Engineering
Brian F. Farrell, Robert P. Burden Professor of Meteorology
Joseph J. Harrington, Gordon McKay Professor of Environmental Engineering (FAS), Professor of Environmental Health Engineering (Public Health)
Paul Horowitz, Professor of Physics and of Electrical Engineering
Robert D. Howe, Gordon McKay Professor of Engineering
John W. Hutchinson, Abbott and James Lawrence Professor of Engineering (Co-Director of Undergraduate Studies)
Daniel J. Jacob, Gordon McKay Professor of Atmospheric Chemistry and Environmental Engineering
R. Victor Jones, Robert L. Wallace Professor of Applied Physics
Aleksandar Kavcic, Assistant Professor of Electrical Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment (Co-Director of Undergraduate Studies)
Navin Khaneja, Assistant Professor of Electrical Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment
H. T. Kung, William H. Gates Professor of Computer Science and Electrical Engineering (on leave spring term)
Scot T. Martin, Associate Professor of Environmental Chemistry on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Ralph Mitchell, Gordon McKay Professor of Applied Biology
Venkatesh Narayanamurti, John A. and Elizabeth S. Armstrong Professor of Engineering and Applied Sciences and Professor of Physics (Dean of the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences)
Alfred A. Pandiscio, Senior Lecturer on Electronics on the Gordon McKay Endowment
James R. Rice, Mallinckrodt Professor of Engineering Sciences and Geophysics
Peter P. Rogers, Gordon McKay Professor of Environmental Engineering (on leave spring term)
Irvin C. Schick, Lecturer on Engineering Sciences
Garrett B. Stanley, Assistant Professor of Biomedical Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Howard A. Stone, Harvard College Professor and Gordon McKay Professor of Chemical Engineering and Applied Mechanics
Joost J. Vlassak, Assistant Professor of Materials Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Gu-Yeon Wei, Assistant Professor of Electrical Engineering on the Gordon McKay Endowment
Steven C. Wofsy, Abbott Lawrence Rotch Professor of Atmospheric and Environmental Science, Associate of the Harvard Forest

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in Engineering Sciences

Yu-Chi Ho, T. Jefferson Coolidge Research Professor of Applied Mathematics and Gordon McKay Research Professor of Engineering
The Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences offers undergraduate and graduate courses in Applied Mathematics, Applied Physics, Computer Science, Earth and Planetary Sciences, and Engineering Sciences. Recommended curricula may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a. Division faculty also offer several courses in the section entitled General Education Electives.

For information concerning concentration in Engineering Sciences, please consult the Co-Directors of Undergraduate Studies or the Academic Office, Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences, Pierce Hall 110a.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Engineering Sciences 6. Environmental Engineering Science
Catalog Number: 2969
Peter P. Rogers, Ana P. Barros, Scot T. Martin, and members of the faculty.
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
An introduction to environmental engineering sciences emphasizing solving problems from human use and control of the environment. Cases from aquatic, terrestrial, and atmospheric environments will be discussed. In each setting the basic scientific principles underlying the control will be emphasized. Occasional field trips and laboratories will be required.
Prerequisite: Mathematics at the level of Mathematics 1b, and chemistry at the level of Chemistry 5, and an introductory biology course at high school or college level.

Engineering Sciences 50. Introduction to Electrical Engineering
Catalog Number: 4499
R. Victor Jones, Alfred A. Pandiscio, and Woodward Yang
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Intended for freshmen and sophomore level students. Introduces basic electrical engineering concepts including voltage, current, charge, resistance, capacitance, inductance, Kirchoff’s Current Law, and Kirchoff’s Voltage Law. In addition, a survey of practical digital and analog electronics (such as computers, television, telephones, CDROMs, video games, modems and satellite communications) will be presented to illustrate more advanced topics in electrical engineering and computer science including signal processing, semiconductor circuits, communications and computer architecture. The course assumes only a basic knowledge of high school physics, linear algebra and elementary calculus.
Note: Ordinarily cannot be taken for credit after Engineering Sciences 154 or Computer Science 141 or Physics 123.

Engineering Sciences 51. Computer-Aided Design
Catalog Number: 0322
Robert D. Howe
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
A first course in the design and construction of mechanical and electromechanical devices. Computational structures and algorithms for the representation and manipulation of geometrical data. Introduction to materials selections as applied to structural designs, including stress-strain analysis, thermal stresses, analysis, etc. Design of two-dimensional mechanisms; related rates, mechanical advantage. Computer controlled machine tools and their control languages; the speed and precision of machine tool operations. Designing to minimize vibration, wear, and noise; designing for reliability and longevity. Emphasis on laboratory work and individual design projects carried out using numerically controlled machine tools.

Note: An introductory engineering design course open to freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. May not be taken concurrently with other engineering design courses.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 1b (may be taken concurrently); high school physics; experience with some programming language.

Engineering Sciences 91r, Supervised Reading and Research

Catalog Number: 1113

John W. Hutchinson and Aleksandar Kavcic

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Guided reading and research.

Note: Normally open to candidates accepted for work on a specific topic by a member of the teaching staff of the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences. Normally may not be taken for more than two terms; may be counted for concentration in Engineering Sciences if taken for graded credit. Applicants should file a project sheet before study cards are filed. Project sheets may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a.

Engineering Sciences 96, Engineering Design Projects

Catalog Number: 8461 Enrollment: Limited to 25.

Frederick H. Abernathy and Alfred A. Pandiscio

Half course (spring term). Th., 4–5:30 and two additional hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 18

Group project selected to provide experience in the processes and practice of engineering design. It is the central activity of a design seminar which, ordinarily, is taken in the spring term of the junior year.

Note: Preference given to S.B. candidates.

Cross-listed Courses

[Earth and Planetary Sciences 30, Environmental Microbiology]*

Freshman Seminar 6, Human Modification of Freshwater Systems

Freshman Seminar 58, Microorganisms in the Biosphere

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Engineering Sciences 100, Engineering Design Projects

Catalog Number: 4268

Robert D. Howe

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18

Individual design projects selected to provide experience in the processes and practice of engineering design. Requires proficiency in electronic circuit construction as well as mechanical materials fabrication techniques.

Note: Ordinarily taken in the senior year. This one semester version of *Engineering Sciences 100hf is open only to students in special circumstances. Enrolled students are required to file a proposed project form with the Academic Office early in the term. Project forms are available in Pierce Hall 110a. Project approval rests with the faculty Engineering Design Review Board.

Prerequisite: *Engineering Sciences 96.

Engineering Sciences 100hf, Engineering Design Projects

Catalog Number: 7535
Robert D. Howe
Half course (throughout the year). Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
Individual design projects selected to provide experience in the processes and practice of engineering design. Requires proficiency in electronic circuit construction as well as mechanical fabrication techniques.

Note: Ordinarily taken in the senior year. Enrolled students are required to file a proposed project form with the Academic Office early in the term. Project forms are available in Pierce Hall 110a. Project approval rests with the faculty Engineering Design Review Board.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 96.

Engineering Sciences 101, Applied Statistics

Catalog Number: 3350
Joseph J. Harrington
Half course (fall term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7
Survey course for students in the applied sciences. Probability, statistical inference, estimation and stochastic processes introduced through the solution of several problems in applied science (e.g., environmental sciences, decision analysis, chemical kinetics, fluid and solid mechanics, and oceanography). Generation, manipulation and display of data bases, parameter estimation, choice among models, multivariate analyses, and robustness. Computer exercises will be required.

Note: No previous knowledge of statistics or probability is presumed.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 102, Introduction to Operations Research

Catalog Number: 2844
Navin Khaneja
Half course (spring term). M., W., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
Introduction to analytical and numerical methods for optimization of deterministic and stochastic systems; survey of linear and nonlinear programming, game theory, decision analysis, Markov chains, queuing theory and simulation. Examples taken from a variety of fields. A conceptual introduction to materials covered in depth in Engineering Sciences 201, 202, 205, and 210. Segments of the weekly problem sets can be done on PCs, if desired.

Note: Students who have no background in probability should be prepared to do some extra work. Some PC experience useful but not necessary.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b and some knowledge of probability and statistics at the level of Statistics 110 or Engineering Sciences 101.

Engineering Sciences 120, Introduction to the Mechanics of Solids

Catalog Number: 1493
James R. Rice
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Prerequisite: Physics 11a or 15a, and Applied Mathematics 21a or Mathematics 21a (previously) and Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b (previously or concurrently).

Engineering Sciences 123. Introduction to Fluid Mechanics
Catalog Number: 8323
Ana P. Barros
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and laboratory. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a,b or Mathematics 21a,b; Engineering Sciences 120 and Applied Mathematics 105a or 105b recommended.

Engineering Sciences 125. Mechanical Systems
Catalog Number: 7274
Frederick H. Abernathy
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
Modeling and analysis of mechanical and electromechanical systems. Topics include resonance, damping, frequency response, Laplace transform methods, Lagrange’s equations, multiple degree-of-freedom systems, and rigid body rotations. Computer exercises on simulation of linear and nonlinear dynamic systems. Laboratory: experiments on vibration, stabilization, and complex dynamical system using modern electronic instrumentation and data reduction systems. Computer simulations of a few systems will become laboratory exercises.
Note: May not be taken for credit in addition to Physics 151.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a,b or Mathematics 21a,b or Mathematics 22a,b; Physics 11a or 15a.

Engineering Sciences 128. Computational Solid and Structural Mechanics
Catalog Number: 0359
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Continuation of Engineering Sciences 120 in which continuum mechanics principles are developed at an intermediate level and implemented by computer, using the finite-element method, to solve problems of stressing, deformation, and motion of solid materials and structures. New concepts include plane stress and strain fields and introductions to wave propagation, vibrations, plate and shell structures, fracture mechanics, and creep and plasticity under general stress states. In computational work students develop simple finite-element analyses for beam structures and two-dimensional stress systems, using the general-purpose program ABAQUS, and do a project addressing a significant problem arising in mechanical, structural or materials engineering, biomechanics, or earth science.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 120.

Engineering Sciences 143. Biomedical Transport Phenomena as the Seed of a Biomedical Startup

Catalog Number: 4194

David A. Edwards and Howard A. Stone

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5

Introduces students to biomedical problems in the area of cell, tissue, and blood transport, with an emphasis on translation of these ideas to biomedical applications. Students organize in “startup” groups founded around a technical discovery. Seminars and workshops co-organized by the DEAS Technology and Entrepreneurship Center present problems in the biomedical transport area and assist startup teams in the development of business plans and patent applications.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 123 or Engineering Sciences 144.

[Engineering Sciences 144. Introduction to Technology Development in the Biomedical Engineering Industry]

Catalog Number: 3580

David A. Edwards

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Introduces students to discovery and pre-clinical and clinical development in the genomics, drug delivery, and medical device industries. Overviews biological systems including the immune and circulatory systems, and the lungs, heart and brain. Describes classes of drugs including small molecules and proteins, and the chemistry and engineering involved in drug delivery systems such as polymeric microspheres, gene vectors, pulmonary inhalers, and transdermal patches. Lectures or additional meetings will include speakers from the biotech community (senior officers of biotech companies and leading scientists). Students participate in the class through group projects in which they will research industries, technologies, preclinical and clinical developments, and markets.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: An understanding of organic chemistry is strongly recommended. Exceptions will be made with approval of the instructor.

Engineering Sciences 145. Introduction to Systems Analysis with Physiological Applications

Catalog Number: 8197

Garrett B. Stanley and guest lecturers

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

A survey of systems theory with applications from bioengineering and physiology. Analysis: differential equations; linear and nonlinear systems; stability; the complementary nature of time and frequency domain methods; feedback; and biological oscillations. Applications: nerve function, muscle dynamics, and cardiovascular regulation. Laboratory: neural models; feedback control systems; properties of frog muscle; and cardiovascular function.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 148. Neural Signal Processing
Catalog Number: 0495
Garrett B. Stanley and guest lecturers

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and an additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Examines the generation, transmission, and processing of signals in single nerve cells and in neural ensembles, with emphasis on physical principles and contemporary mathematical models. Develops relevant analytical techniques, including: systems theory; filtering; Fourier analysis; stochastic processes; estimation; and network theory. Special attention is given to the physiology of the mammalian visual system.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a or Mathematics 21a and physics at the level of Physics 15b. Engineering Sciences 145 is ideal preparation; Biological Sciences 80 may compensate for lesser preparation in mathematics or physics.

Engineering Sciences 151. Electromagnetic Communication with Wireless Applications
Catalog Number: 5742
Aleksandar Kavcic

Half course (spring term). M., W., 2:30–4, and additional laboratory sections to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

A study of basic physics and signal processing that make wireless electromagnetic communications possible. Topics include: electromagnetic properties of matter, Maxwell’s equations, electromagnetic wave propagation through free space and along waveguides, transmission line analysis, characteristics of receiving and transmitting antennas, antenna arrays, stochastic characterization of wireless channels, temporal and spatial filtering, wireless cellular systems, multiaccess methods (TDMA, FDMA, CDMA).

Prerequisite: Familiarity with basic electromagnetics (Physics 15b), circuit analysis (Engineering Sciences 154 or 50), and Fourier analysis (Engineering Sciences 156, 125, or Applied Mathematics 105a).

Engineering Sciences 154. Electronic Devices and Circuits
Catalog Number: 6319
R. Victor Jones

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, plus labs to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

An introduction to physical models of the operation of semiconductor devices and an examination of the design and operation of important circuits that utilize these devices. Topics include operational amplifier circuits; the physics of semiconductors; models of bipolar and unipolar transistors; basic diode and transistor circuits; linear and nonlinear analysis of electronic circuits; computer simulation of electronic circuits with SPICE; analysis of analog circuit designs; digital integrated circuits and logic-families. Additional laboratories illustrate techniques for measurement and design of real electronic circuits.

Prerequisite: Introduction to electronic circuits as in Engineering Sciences 50, differential equations and Fourier series as in Applied Mathematics 21b and electricity and magnetism as in Physics 11b or 15b.

Engineering Sciences 156. Signals and Systems
Catalog Number: 6284
Michael S. Brandstein
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b.

Engineering Sciences 157. Computer Speech Generation and Recognition
Catalog Number: 1724
Michael S. Brandstein
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 156 or permission of instructor.

Engineering Sciences 158. Digital Communications
Catalog Number: 7721
Aleksandar Kavcic
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines the fundamental theories behind modern digital communication systems. Topics include: fundamental limits on communications, channel coding theorem, channel capacity theorem; baseband communications, orthogonal signal bases, matched filter receiver; digital representations of analog signals, sampling; waveform coding; baseband waveform coding; baseband waveform shaping, pulse amplitude modulation and intersymbol interference channels; digital modulation techniques; elements of error-control coding/decoding, viterbi decoding/detection; elements of spread-spectrum communications.
Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 156 and a course in probability theory and/or statistics.

[Engineering Sciences 159. Introduction to Robotics]
Catalog Number: 3126
Robert D. Howe
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to computer-controlled robotic manipulators. Topics include coordinate frames and transformations, kinematic structure and solutions, statics and dynamics of serial chain manipulators, control and programming, robot design, and actuation and sensing devices. Laboratory exercises provide experience with industrial robot programming and robot simulation.
and control.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 50, and either Engineering Sciences 125 or 156.

[Engineering Sciences 162. Hydrology]
Catalog Number: 4163
Ana P. Barros
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduces hydrological principles focusing on precipitation, evapotranspiration, infiltration, groundwater, and runoff production mechanisms. Emphasis is placed on water budgets, and the linkages between land-use, land-form, soils, and vegetation and hydrological processes on regional and local scales. Hydrological data collection and standard analysis are presented. Hydrologic planning, restoration, and engineering design methods and technologies are treated in detail.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Students who desire to take the course for graduate credit should enroll in Engineering Sciences 262.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b, or equivalent. Knowledge of statistics and probability is desirable.

Engineering Sciences 165. Introduction to Environmental Engineering
Catalog Number: 4274
Peter P. Rogers
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Introduces engineering technologies for control of the environment and relates them to underlying scientific principles. Efficient design of environmental management facilities and systems. Cases from aquatic, terrestrial, and atmospheric environments discussed.

Note: For undergraduates or graduates without background in environmental engineering.

Prerequisite: Exposure to the material in Engineering Sciences 101 and Chemistry 7 is recommended; Applied Mathematics 21a or 21b, or equivalent mathematical background is required.

Engineering Sciences 167. Environmental Assessment
Catalog Number: 6885
Peter P. Rogers
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the methods and approaches to environmental impact assessment currently being used and new approaches which rely on improved scaling and index development. Geographical Information Systems (GIS) will be used extensively. Models of impact and indices for air, water, and land impacts will be examined using data from Asia and North America. Cost-of-remediation and environmental elasticity indicators will be examined and their use in engineering design and regulation of the environment will be assessed.

Prerequisite: Familiarity with the material of Earth and Planetary Sciences 5 and Social Analysis 10.

Engineering Sciences 168. Aquatic Chemistry
Catalog Number: 5874
Scot T. Martin
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Applications of organic, inorganic, and physical chemistry to describe and quantify processes occurring in natural waters. Thermodynamics and kinetics of aqueous solutions, acid-base chemical transformations, role of dissolved carbon dioxide, gas-water exchange, complexation of aqueous metal ions, precipitation and dissolution, oxidation and reduction, electrical aspects of solid-solution interfaces, particle aggregation, trace metal cycling, and photochemistry.
Prerequisite: Chemistry 5 and 7 or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 181. Thermodynamics
Catalog Number: 3889
Michael J. Aziz
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Introduction to engineering thermodynamics with emphasis on elements of classical thermodynamics. Kinetic theory and statistical mechanics briefly discussed to provide a molecular interpretation of thermodynamic properties such as entropy. Topics: zeroth law and temperature. Properties of single-component gases, liquids, and solids; steam tables. Equations of state for ideal and simple nonideal substances. First law, heat and heat transfer, work, internal energy, enthalpy. Second law, entropy, free energy. Third law. Heat engines and important engineering applications such as refrigerators, power cycles, air conditioning. Properties and simple models of solutions. Phase and chemical equilibrium in multicomponent systems; chemical potential. Laboratory included.
Prerequisite: Physics 11 or 15 and Mathematics 21; chemistry at the level of a good secondary school course, or Chemistry 5.

Engineering Sciences 190. Introduction to Materials Science
Catalog Number: 6973
Joost J. Vlassak
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 181 or equivalent, Physics 11 or 15, and Applied Mathematics 21a,b or Mathematics 21a,b.

Cross-listed Courses

Earth and Planetary Sciences 108. Environmental Geomechanics

Primarily for Graduates

Additional courses of interest to graduate students in Decision, Control, and Communication include: Economics 2010a, 2010b, 2010c, 2120, 2140; Statistics 110, 171.

Engineering Sciences 201. Decision Theory
Catalog Number: 2362
Irvin C. Schick
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 4:30–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a,b or Mathematics 21a,b, and Statistics 110 or equivalents.

Engineering Sciences 202. Estimation and Control of Dynamic Systems
Catalog Number: 5080
Navin Khaneja

Half course (fall term). M., W., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
Prerequisite: Good background in linear differential equations, matrix algebra, and introductory probability. Applied Mathematics 21a,b or Mathematics 21a,b, and Statistics 110 or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 203. Stochastic Control
Catalog Number: 6982
Roger W. Brockett

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a,b or equivalent. Some prior exposure to probability; Engineering Sciences 202 desirable but not essential.

[Engineering Sciences 205. Performance Optimization of Complex Systems]
Catalog Number: 1569

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Complex human made systems abound in modern civilization ranging from the Internet to the electric power grid of the US. The design and analysis of such systems all require modeling, analysis, optimization, and computerized learning. This course will tackle the study of such systems from a unified viewpoint. It is an expanded version of Engineering Sciences 205 of past years and incorporates parts of Engineering Sciences 102, 201, and 202, and Economics 2052.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a,b, or Mathematics 21a,b, and Statistics 110 (or equivalents).
Engineering Sciences 209. Nonlinear Control Systems
Catalog Number: 1194
Roger W. Brockett
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17
The study of nonlinear input-output systems and the qualitative behavior of dynamical systems. Topics include controllability, observability, uniqueness of models, decomposition theory, asymptotic stability, periodic solutions, and strange attractors. Local and global methods of differential geometry and Lie theory developed and used as needed.

Engineering Sciences 210. Mathematical Programming
Catalog Number: 5499
Donald G. M. Anderson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Introduction to basic optimization techniques. Linear programming: the simplex method and related algorithms, duality theory, interior-point methods. Unconstrained optimization, Kuhn-Tucker theory, nonlinear programming.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a and 21b, or Mathematics 21a and 21b; Applied Mathematics 120, or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 213. Advanced Biomedical Transport Phenomena as the Seed of a Biomedical Startup
Catalog Number: 1083
David A. Edwards and Howard A. Stone
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
Students are expected to meet all of the requirements of Engineering Sciences 143 and in addition are required to write a term paper with significant analytical and engineering emphasis in the area of biomedical transport and possibly industrial translation.
Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 123 or *Engineering Sciences 144.

[Engineering Sciences 214. Advanced Introduction to Technology Development in the Biomedical Engineering Industry]
Catalog Number: 2663
David A. Edwards
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Students are expected to meet all of the requirements of Engineering Sciences 144 and in addition are required to write a term paper with significant analytical and engineering emphasis in the area of technology development in biomedical engineering.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: An understanding of organic chemistry is strongly recommended. Exceptions will be made with approval of the instructor.

Engineering Sciences 215. Advanced Introduction to Systems Analysis with Physiological Applications
Catalog Number: 5493
Garrett B. Stanley and guest lecturers
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Students are expected to meet all of the requirements of Engineering Sciences 145 and in addition are required to write a term paper with significant analytic emphasis. Informal discussion groups will be formed to extend material beyond the lectures.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 218. Advanced Neural Signal Processing
Catalog Number: 7709
Garrett B. Stanley and guest lecturers
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and an additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Students are expected to meet all of the requirements of Engineering Sciences 148 and in addition are required to write a term paper with significant analytic emphasis.
Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21a or Mathematics 21a and physics at the level of Physics 15b. Engineering Sciences 145 is ideal preparation; Biological Sciences 80 may compensate for lesser preparation in mathematics or physics.

[Engineering Sciences 219r. Special Topics in Biomedical Engineering: Orthopedic Biomechanics]
Catalog Number: 0696
--------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introductory course in biomechanics as applied to orthopedic science. Review of anatomy, kinematics, and solid mechanics for the musculoskeletal system. Emphasis on the mechanics of joints (movement, force transmission), bone, and soft tissues (e.g., cartilage, ligament, muscle). Examples from emerging technologies including imaging, cellular mechanics, and tissue engineering.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b or Applied Mathematics 21a,b; Physics 11a or 15a; Engineering Sciences 120 or equivalent introductory solid mechanics course.

Engineering Sciences 220. Fluid Dynamics
Catalog Number: 2759
Howard A. Stone
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Vector and tensor calculus. Conservation laws; kinematics and constitutive equations. Exact solutions of the Navier-Stokes equations. Lubrication theory and flows at low Reynolds numbers. Potential flows and boundary layer theory. Introduction to turbulent flows and free-surface flows.
Prerequisite: Familiarity with classical mechanics, partial differential equations, and vector and tensor calculus. An undergraduate course in fluid dynamics is strongly recommended.

Engineering Sciences 225r. Special Topics in Fluid Dynamics
Catalog Number: 3982
Michael P. Brenner
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Spring 2002: Study of a wide range of problems in classical physics through G.I. Taylor’s original papers, supplemented by recent research articles and other articles of great historical interest. Topics include: homogeneous turbulence, instabilities, the strength of solids, swimming microorganisms, the buckling of elastic plates, chemical dispersion, electrohydrodynamics, and rheology.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 220 or permission of the instructor.

Engineering Sciences 240. Solid Mechanics

Catalog Number: 2984

John W. Hutchinson

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11

Foundations of continuum mechanics and development of elasticity theory: conservation laws; concepts of stress and strain; theory of constitutive response; mechanical behavior of materials. Vectorial, dyadic, and tensorial form of equations. Elementary elasticity solutions for waves and vibrations; stresses due to rotation, temperature change, dislocations, and surface loading; bending and torsion; buckling instabilities. Plate theory.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a,b or equivalent; introduction to solid mechanics at the level of Engineering Sciences 120, or Earth and Planetary Sciences 166, or Applied Physics 293.

[Engineering Sciences 241. Advanced Elasticity]

Catalog Number: 6711

John W. Hutchinson and James R. Rice

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Continuation of Engineering Sciences 240.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 240 and Applied Mathematics 201 or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 242r. Solid Mechanics: Advanced Seminar

Catalog Number: 5379

John W. Hutchinson

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 240.

[Engineering Sciences 246. Plasticity and Finite Deformation]

Catalog Number: 4271

Joost J. Vlassak

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Phenomenological theories for strain hardening materials; flow and deformation theories. Variational principles and other general theorems. Mechanisms of plastic deformation, physical theories for strain hardening materials, polycrystals. Ideal plasticity. Boundary value problems, plastic collapse, buckling of structures. Finite strain measures of stress and strain, localization instabilities.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 240, or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 247. Fracture Mechanics

Catalog Number: 7152

Joost J. Vlassak

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 240 or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 257. Advanced Computer Speech Generation and Recognition

Catalog Number: 5006

Michael S. Brandstein

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

The contents and course requirements are similar to Engineering Sciences 157, with the exception that students enrolled in Engineering Sciences 257 are required to prepare a more substantial project analyzing a specific problem or methodology of speech processing.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 156 or permission of instructor.

Engineering Sciences 258. Advanced Digital Communications

Catalog Number: 8645

Aleksandar Kavcic

Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

The contents and course requirements are similar to those of Engineering Sciences 158, with the exception that students enrolled in Engineering Sciences 258 are required to prepare a term project analyzing current research in a specific area of digital communications.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 156 and a course in probability theory and/or statistics.

[Engineering Sciences 259. Advanced Introduction to Robotics]

Catalog Number: 3671

Robert D. Howe

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

The contents and course requirements are similar to those of Engineering Sciences 159, with the exception that students enrolled in Engineering Sciences 259 are required to prepare a term project analyzing current research in a specific problem area within Robotics.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 50 and either Engineering Sciences 125 or 156.

Engineering Sciences 260. Engineering Systems for Environmental Control

Catalog Number: 1180

Joseph J. Harrington

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Provision of urban water; engineering aspects of collection and disposal of spent water and solid wastes; significant interchanges between gaseous, liquid, and solid phases of the environment; geographic interchanges; time-dependent developments. Data collection and processing for monitoring and control; maintenance and operation of pollution control systems.

Prerequisite: Engineering Sciences 123 or permission of instructor.

[Engineering Sciences 261. Design of Water Resource Systems]
Catalog Number: 3919
Peter P. Rogers

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Functional design of management systems for collection, storage, conveyance, treatment, and distribution of water. Uses techniques of operations research to develop methods for planning integrated systems of dams, reservoirs, canals, pipe networks, pumps, and treatment plants. Applications in water supply, irrigation hydropower, environmental protection, and conservation of wildlife.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b or Mathematics 21b or equivalent.

[Engineering Sciences 262 (formerly Engineering Sciences 262r). Advanced Hydrology ]
Catalog Number: 5658
Ana P. Barros

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The contents and course requirements are similar to those in Engineering Sciences 162, with the exception that students are required to conduct extra reading and complete extra assignments.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 21b, or equivalent. Knowledge of statistics and probability is desirable.

Engineering Sciences 265. Advanced Environmental Geomechanics
Catalog Number: 1469
James R. Rice

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30 and one additional session to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Meets together with Earth and Planetary Sciences 108, but provides advanced coverage of topics chosen from: seepage flows, solute transport, constitutive response, poroelasticity, failure mechanics, granular flows, seismic effects, open channel flows, turbulence, and sediment transport.

Note: Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Applied Mathematics 105a,b or equivalent, and study at an undergraduate level in solid or fluid mechanics, comparable to Engineering Sciences 120 and 123.

[Engineering Sciences 266r. Special Topics in Hydrometeorology]
Catalog Number: 4367
Ana P. Barros

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The overall focus of the course is on observing, modeling and forecasting of precipitation.
Global and local observation networks and instruments. Statistical and physically-based models and parameterizations. Emphasis also placed on understanding the space-time scaling behavior of precipitation processes, use of remote-sensing data, and data-fusion and data-assimilation techniques.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Engineering Sciences 267r. Special Topics in Environmental Hydrology]

Catalog Number: 9896
Ana P. Barros
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Examines a number of topics fundamental to the understanding of water pathways in the environment including land-atmosphere-biosphere interactions, surface-groundwater interactions, transport phenomena, sediment mobility and landscape evolution, and flood and drought hazards. Special attention given to connecting spatial and temporal scales, and to establishing a scientific basis for the development, restoration and sustainability of landscapes and water resource systems.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Engineering Sciences 268. Environmental Chemical Kinetics

Catalog Number: 8711
Scot T. Martin
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Quantifying the time rate of change of chemical species in environmental systems. Common laboratory techniques to measure rate constants. Linear free energy relationships and structural contributions to estimate unknown rate constants. Formulating a coupled chemical system and application of the six principal approximations to obtain analytical solutions. Numerical analysis of complex systems. Concepts are taught by reference to topical problems of current interest in environmental systems. Literature assignments and discussion are part of the course.

Prerequisite: Physical Chemistry (e.g., Chemistry 60 or Engineering Sciences 168) and Applied Mathematics 21a,b or Mathematics 21a,b or equivalent.

Engineering Sciences 269. Fluvial Geomorphology and Landscape Evolution

Catalog Number: 2160
Rafael L. Bras
Half course (spring term). F., 1:30–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9

Natural landscapes and drainage basins result from the interaction of geologic, tectonic, biological, aeolian and fluvial processes, leading to well organized drainage systems. This seminar will study the nature of this self organization and present models to represent the landscape evolution over long time periods.

Prerequisite: Required background: basic calculus, differential equations, and basic probability and statistics. Additional desired background: hydrology, geology, fluid mechanics, computer skills.

Engineering Sciences 299r. Special Topics in Engineering Sciences

Catalog Number: 6710
Venkatesh Narayanamurti
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Supervision of experimental or theoretical research on acceptable applied science problems and supervision of reading on topics not covered by regular courses of instruction.
Note: Open to graduate students and A.B./S.M. candidates only. Students must arrange such work with a member of the Division. This course is ordinarily taken with the approval of the Committee on Higher Degrees in certain cases when a letter grade is required. Applicants should file a project sheet before study cards are filed. Project sheets may be obtained from the Academic Office, Pierce Hall 110a.

Cross-listed Courses

Earth and Planetary Sciences 202. Introduction to the Dynamics of Atmospheres and Oceans
Additional courses of interest to graduate students in Environmental Science and Engineering might include courses offered at the Harvard School of Public Health.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Reading courses are odd-numbered; research courses are even-numbered.

English and American Literature and Language

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Department of English and American Literature and Language

Lawrence Buell, Harvard College Professor and the John P. Marquand Professor of English (Chair) (on leave spring term)
Robert Kiely, Harvard College Professor and the Donald P. and Katherine B. Loker Professor of English (Acting Chair, spring term) (on leave spring term)
Homi K. Bhabha, Anne F. Rothenberg Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave fall term)
Robert Brustein, Artistic Director of the American Repertory Theatre, Director of the Loeb Drama Center; Professor of English (on leave 2002-03)
Leo Damrosch, Harvard College Professor and the Ernest Bernbaum Professor of Literature (on leave fall term)
Daniel G. Donoghue, Professor of English and American Literature and Language
James Engell, Gurney Professor of English Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature
Lynn Mary Festa, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language
Philip J. Fisher, Felice Crowl Reid Professor of English and American Literature
Marjorie Garber, William R. Kenan, Jr. Professor of English
Henry Louis Gates, Jr., W.E.B. Du Bois Professor of the Humanities
Jorie Graham, Boylston Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory
Erik Irving Gray, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language
Stephen J. Greenblatt, John Cogan University Professor (on leave spring term)
Joseph C. Harris, Professor of English and Folklore
Seamus Heaney, Ralph Waldo Emerson Poet in Residence
Yunte Huang, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave spring term)
Oren Jeremy Izenberg, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave 2002-03)
Barbara E. Johnson, Fredric Wertham Professor of Law and Psychiatry in Society (on leave 2001-02)
Walter Kaiser, Francis Lee Higginson Professor of English Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature, Emeritus (on leave 2001-02)
Adrienne Kennedy, Visiting Lecturer on English and American Literature and Language
Jamaica Kincaid, Visiting Lecturer on Afro-American Studies and on English and American Literature and Language
Barbara K. Lewalski, William R. Kenan, Jr., Professor of History and Literature and of English Literature (Director of Graduate Studies)
Douglas Mao, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave 2002-03)
Jesse E. Matz, John L. Loeb Associate Professor of the Humanities (on leave 2002-03)
Kyoko Mori, Briggs-Copeland Lecturer on English and American Literature and Language (on leave 2002-03) Elisa New, Professor of English and American Literature and Language (Director of Undergraduate Studies) (on leave spring term)
John Parker, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language

John M. Picker, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language

Douglas A. Powell, Briggs-Copeland Lecturer on English and American Literature and Language

Patricia E. Powell, Briggs-Copeland Lecturer on English and American Literature and Language

Leah Price, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave spring term)

Ann Wierda Rowland, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language

Peter Sacks, Professor of English and American Literature and Language

Elaine Scarry, Walter M. Cabot Professor of Aesthetics and the General Theory of Value

Sharmila Sen, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave fall term)

Marc Shell, Irving Babbitt Professor of Comparative Literature and Professor of English

Michael Shinagel, Senior Lecturer on English

Werner Sollors, Henry B. and Anne M. Cabot Professor of English Literature and Professor of Afro-American Studies

John Stauffer, Associate Professor of English and American Literature and Language and of History and Literature

Roger E. Stoddard, Senior Lecturer on English

Helen Vendler, Arthur Kingsley Porter University Professor (on leave spring term)

Brad Watson, Associate of Adams House, Briggs-Copeland Lecturer on English and American Literature and Language

Nicholas Watson, Professor of English and American Literature and Language

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of English and American Literature

Sacvan Bercovitch, Powell M. Cabot Research Professor of American Literature (on leave fall term)

English 10a and 10b, both required of concentrators, are often chosen as entry points to the study of English at Harvard. 10ax or 10bx may be taken as alternatives. Students are invited, however, to begin at any other point that might seem better suited to their interests and level of preparation: a Freshman Seminar taught by faculty members from the English Department; English 97, the Sophomore Seminar that is required of concentrators; English 13, 17, 20, 34, or a 100 level course, all of which are taught in lecture or seminar-like format according to enrollment size; or, space permitting and with instructor consent, a 90 level Undergraduate Seminar or a Creative Writing workshop.

I. Creative Writing

Primarily for Undergraduates

Without approval of the department no student may take more than one full course in Creative Writing in any one year. A Creative Writing course may be repeated for credit provided the student has the permission of the instructor and the Director of Undergraduate Studies of the Department.

English Cap. Advanced Poetry Workshop
Catalog Number: 6523 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Jorie Graham
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: W., 1–4; Spring: Th., 12–3. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 6, 7, 8; Spring: 14, 15, 16
Open by application to undergraduates and graduates alike. Please submit a portfolio including a letter of interest, ten poems, and a list of classes (taken at Harvard or elsewhere) that seem to have bearing on your enterprise. Class will last 3 hours and discussions will include the study of poetic practice in conjunction with the discussion of student work.

English Cpr. Poetry Writing I
Catalog Number: 3053 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Douglas A. Powell
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: M., 1–3; Spring: M., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 6, 7; Spring: 6, 7, 8
A concentrated workshop in poetry writing for those who wish to improve as poets while broadening their knowledge of contemporary American poetry.
Note: Admission based on previously submitted samples of writing.

English Cpw. Poetry Workshop
Catalog Number: 4606 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Jorie Graham and Peter Sacks (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: W., 1–4; Spring: W., 1–4 (Graham); or W., 1–3 (Sacks). EXAM GROUP: Fall: 13, 14; Spring: 6, 7, 8
Open by application to undergraduates and graduates alike. Please submit a portfolio including five poems, a letter explaining your interest in the class, and a list of relevant classes taken at Harvard or elsewhere. Class discussions will include the study of literary texts alongside work written by students.

English Cqr. Poetry Writing II
Catalog Number: 2644 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Douglas A. Powell
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Tu., 1–3; Spring: Tu., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 15, 16; Spring: 15, 16, 17
See *English Cpr above.

English Crr. Fiction Writing
Catalog Number: 1893 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Brad Watson
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Tu., 2–4; Spring: M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 16, 17; Spring: 7, 8
Discussion of students’ work in a workshop format.
Note: Admission based on previously submitted samples of writing.
English Csr. Fiction Writing I
Catalog Number: 2601 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Patricia E. Powell
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An introduction to the techniques and forms of fiction. Classroom discussion of student manuscripts.
Note: Admission based on previously submitted samples of writing.

English Ctr. Advanced Fiction Writing
Catalog Number: 7175
Brad Watson
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Discussion of students’ work in a workshop format.
Note: Admission based on previously submitted samples of writing. Generally for students who have taken fiction workshops before.

English Cyr. Fiction Writing
Catalog Number: 7765 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Patricia E. Powell
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An advanced workshop for students who have had experience writing fiction. Student work will be discussed in class in a workshop format.
Note: Admission based on previously submitted samples of writing.

English Cyr. Nonfiction Writing
Catalog Number: 8545 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Kyoko Mori
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
These workshops will provide a professional atmosphere in which apprentice writers may study their craft, by practicing it themselves, by critiquing the works-in-progress of their peers, and by studying the work of established writers in the genre. Class participants should expect to spend substantial out-of-class time on each of these pursuits. The workshop period itself takes the form of a round-table discussion, primarily of student writing, but also of the assigned readings and craft topics. By the end of our studies, workshop participants should have grasped the terms and techniques associated with various nonfictional fields (memoir, nature writing, and so on), and should be confident reading their own work and the work of others critically and with an eye to revision.
Note: Freshmen admitted only with evidence of unusual qualification. All applicants should submit a brief sample of their writing during the first week of the term.

English Czr. Advanced Nonfiction Writing
Catalog Number: 5347 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Kyoko Mori
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
See English Cyr.

English Yzr. Play Writing
Catalog Number: 4466 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Adrienne Kennedy
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Each student is required to complete a one act play. The first weeks are spent exploring imagery, language and the imagination through exercises. We also read selected playwrights...Chekhov, Beckett, Pinter and others.

II. Literature

Primarily for Undergraduates

Introductory Lecture Courses (two lectures, one discussion section weekly)

English 10a. Major British Writers I
Catalog Number: 8327
Stephen J. Greenblatt
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10 and an additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
An introduction to the study of British literature from the Middle Ages through the 18th century. Emphasis on lyric and narrative poetry; four plays are also read.
Note: Two lectures and one section meeting per week. Required of English concentrators. Open to freshmen. Counts as Literature and Arts A credit.

English 10ax. Major British Writers I
Catalog Number: 8342
John Parker
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12 and an additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 14
Same scope as 10a, satisfies same concentration requirement, but not Core Literature and Arts A requirement.
Note: Two lectures and one section meeting per week. Required of English concentrators. Open to freshmen.

English 10b. Major British Writers II
Catalog Number: 0550
Leo Damrosch
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 10, and an additional hour to be arranged. EXAM
GROUP: 3
An introduction to the study of British literature from the early 19th century to the present. Emphasis on lyric poetry and the novel; two modern plays are also read.
Note: Two lectures and one section meeting per week. Required of English concentrators. Open to freshmen. Counts as Literature and Arts A credit.

English 10bx, Major British Writers II
Catalog Number: 4653
Erik Irving Gray and Douglas Mao

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 10 and an additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

Same scope as 10b, satisfies same concentration requirement, but not Core Literature and Arts A requirement.

Note: Two lectures and one section meeting per week. Required of English concentrators. Open to freshmen.

English 13. The English Bible
Catalog Number: 6532
Robert Kiely

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14

An introduction to the Hebrew Bible and New Testament with special attention to narrative modes, figures of the human and divine, ethical problems, and sacred mysteries.

English 17. American Literature to 1860
Catalog Number: 3883
Elisa New

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

An introduction to the study of American literature, 1620-1860, from Anne Bradstreet and Benjamin Franklin to Frederick Douglass and Walt Whitman. Readings include the canonical texts of the American literary renaissance by Emerson, Whitman, Thoreau, Hawthorne, and Melville, as well as major writings “mainstream” and “marginal” from a variety of genres, including Native American myths, captivity and slave narratives, sermons, autobiographies, and short stories.

English 20. The English Novel
Catalog Number: 7142
Lynn Mary Festa

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13

A survey of the English novel from its origins to the early twentieth century, with an emphasis on different critical accounts of its “rise” and form. Novels by Defoe, Behn, Richardson, Austen, Brontë, Dickens, Eliot, Conrad, Woolf.

English 34. Elements of Rhetoric
Catalog Number: 3820
James Engell

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13

Classical rhetorical theory, as originating with Aristotle, in contemporary applications. The nature of rhetoric in modern culture; practical examples drawn from American history and literature 1765 to present; written exercises and (class size permitting) attention to public speaking; briefly treats the history and educational importance of rhetoric in the West; stresses theory and practice as inseparable; non-concentrators encouraged.

Undergraduate Seminars

These introductions to the specialized study of literature are restricted to undergraduates and have enrollments limited to 15. Preference is given to English concentrators.

[English 90ai (formerly English 168). Anglophone India]

Catalog Number: 1896
Sharmila Sen
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Where is India and how can it be contained or conjured on paper, canvas, celluloid, or concrete? While traversing a few centuries and a vast subcontinent, we shall focus on key moments, reading selected travel narratives, plays, novels, letters, political speeches (and considering even films, lithographs, and the built environment). Some of the authors to be read include Dryden, Macaulay, Canning, Kipling, Forster, Desai, Rushdie, Sidhwa, Kureishi, and Lahiri.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[English 90cf. Caribbean Fictions]

Catalog Number: 8964
Sharmila Sen
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The Caribbean is a place for tourists, a paradise; it is an area of contemporary poverty, a realm of natural disasters; it is the promise of sugared profit and the site of unspeakable taboo acts; it is Caliban’s fate. And perhaps it is none of these things. We shall focus on some of the current questions in Caribbean fictions, paying attention to the genealogies of such concerns and debates. Readings include works by Behn, Rhys, Naipaul, Lamming, Harris, Phillips, Condé, Cliff, and Powell among others.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

English 90cg. A Fascination with Purity: The Gawain Poet

Catalog Number: 2243
Nicholas Watson
Half course (fall term). W., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6
This course studies four poems probably written by the author of the fourteenth-century romance Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, which also include Pearl, Cleanness, and Patience. The poems all treat purity as an aesthetic and a moral goal. How do these goals relate to each other? Is poetry, like human living, necessarily impure? Exploring the Gawain-poet’s sophisticated meditations on such questions, we will also consider their wider significance for thinking about literature.

English 90cy. The Medieval Lyric

Catalog Number: 7477
Daniel G. Donoghue
The lyric is a genre often overlooked in surveys of Medieval literature, but as a group medieval lyrics present a diverse array of styles, influences, and subject matter. Much of the reading will come from Middle English, supplemented by Latin, Arabic, Hebrew, Old English, Provençal and other early vernacular poems in translation. Attention will be given, where possible, to the historical and manuscript contexts.

English 90dy. Necessary Lies: Visions, Novelty, and Fiction in Late-Medieval Literature

Catalog Number: 4894

Nicholas Watson

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

If the transcendent cannot be known or named, is lying the only way to talk about it? This course investigates how various genres of visionary writing view the world and their own claims to be true: ghost stories, journeys through this world and the next, demonic apparitions, divine revelations, literary fictions. Texts include Chaucer’s House of Fame, The Book of Margery Kempe, Mandeville’s Travels, The Ghost of Guido, and John Morigny’s newly discovered Liber visionum.

English 90in. Literature and Science in the 19th Century

Catalog Number: 4923

John M. Picker

Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

From the unstoppable force of Frankenstein’s monster to the “unsinkable” Titanic, the literary imagination over the 19th century found in science and technology not only new sources of inspiration but also new reasons for dread. We examine the ways science challenged literature and the notion of artistic truth at the same time that it offered new directions for artistic exploration. Topics: technology and/of the body, Darwinism and the Victorian crisis of faith, the interrelation of science and imperialism, the cultural impact of new communications. technologies, and the emergence of science fiction as a literary genre. Authors: Mary Shelley, Dickens, Darwin, Stevenson, Hardy, Stoker, and Wells.

18th-century travel writings, from fictional adventures and scientific voyages to philosophical utopias and fantastical “true histories.” Topics include: empire and domesticity; tourism and national identity; narrative continuity and the picaresque; natural history and scientific imperialism. Writings by Behn, Defoe, Swift, Boswell, Smollett, Sterne, Cook’s Voyages, and Raynal’s History of the Two Indies.

English 90ui. The Indian Novel in English
Catalog Number: 4187
Sharmila Sen
Half course (fall term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
The Indian novel in English has been castigated for Babu English, for elite preoccupations, and for purveying spicy postcolonial chic. It also appears with dizzying frequency in bookstore windows, on syllabi, and at the top of literary prize lists. While charting the evolution of the Indian English novel from nineteenth-century “false starts” to the late twentieth-century boom period, we shall read such authors as Ali, Chatterjee, Chaudhuri, Desai, Ghosh, Narayan, Roy, Rushdie, and Syal.

[English 90uj. Jewish Writers of the European and American Diaspora]
Catalog Number: 5242
Sacvan Bercovitch
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course centers on the meaning of Jewishness through a particular literary form: stories by Jews. The story is a major mode of community-formation, and a major theme of the Jewish Story is Diaspora, grounded in a long and varied history. This will be our focus (with a backward glance towards scriptural tradition) in exploring Jewish writers in Europe and America from Sholem Aleikhem and Kafka through Bellow and Ozick.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[English 90un. Gender and Nation in 19th-Century British Literature]
Catalog Number: 8823
Ann Wierda Rowland
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course investigates the entanglement of gender and nation in 19th-century British poetry and fiction, paying particular attention to literature’s role in the production and representation of both. Authors will include Coleridge, Byron, Scott, Charlotte Brontë, Tennyson, Eliot and Stoker.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

English 90wd. Dickens and George Eliot
Catalog Number: 5789
Leah Price
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Country and city, realism and melodrama, anonymity and notoriety, modernity and nostalgia, the structure of narrative and the shape of society. For the sake of variety - and pacing - the longer fiction (The Mill on the Floss, David Copperfield, Middlemarch and Bleak House) will be interspersed with speeches, essays, reviews, letters, ghost stories and newspaper articles by and about these two very different novelists.

Prerequisite: Satisfactory completion of one semester of English 98r, completion of an undergraduate seminar (90-level) taken junior year, and Honors Committee approval of proposed thesis topic.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

English 101. The History and Structure of the English Language
Catalog Number: 1987
Daniel G. Donoghue
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
A survey of the changes in English phonology, morphology, syntax, spelling, and vocabulary, from the earliest times to the present. Along the way we also explore such topics as attitudes toward language, the impact of political and economic changes, literacy, attitudes toward grammar, the rise of American English, language and social class, and language and gender.
Note: No previous knowledge of linguistics, Anglo Saxon, or Middle English is required.

English 102. Early Bible Translations
Catalog Number: 2303
Daniel G. Donoghue
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Large portions of the Latin Bible were translated into Old English in the centuries before 1066. Some efforts, like that of Aelfric (10th century), were cautious and painstakingly literal because of the anxiety associated with any departure from the Latin text. Others, however, moved with great interpretative freedom, especially those that exploited the conventions of Old English poetry, so that Moses, for example, leads his people across a desert that looks much like the forests of northern Europe, and Satan is a rebel warrior chieftan (somewhat resembling Milton’s Satan).

English 103f. Anglo-Saxon Language and Culture: Before Love
Catalog Number: 8069
Daniel G. Donoghue
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12
What we call “courtly love” started off as a literary convention in the high Middle Ages, one which has since influenced western culture in profound ways. But how was love imagined and conducted in the earlier Middle Ages? How was it represented in literature? Readings will explore a variety of emotional attachments between people, not only heterosexual relations. Translations from Old English poetry will form the basis of weekly discussions, supplemented by secondary readings.

English 115b. Chaucer: The Canterbury Tales

Catalog Number: 2945
Nicholas Watson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 3. EXAM GROUP: 17

A study of the most famous work of English literature before Shakespeare, both as a work of art and as a product of its place (London) and time (the 1390’s).

[English 124d. Shakespearean Tragedy]

Catalog Number: 7041
Lawrence Buell
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Intensive reading of the full range of Shakespeare’s tragedies from early experiments through masterworks like Hamlet, Lear, Othello, and beyond, with some attention also to their classical and medieval prototypes and to their modern reception/imitation as well as to their unique achievements as expressions of their moment. We shall also consider such broad and critical issues as “What is tragedy?”, “What differentiates texts written for performance?”, and “Why has Shakespeare’s work, particularly the tragedies, been so influential?”
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

English 124g (formerly English 90fg). Shakespearean Genres

Catalog Number: 6690
John Parker
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 3. EXAM GROUP: 17

Over the course of the semester we’ll read a broad selection of Shakespeare’s plays, taken from every point in his career and from each major genre in which he worked: comedy (A Midsummer Night’s Dream, Twelfth Night, Much Ado about Nothing), tragedy (Romeo and Juliet, Othello, Hamlet, Antony and Cleopatra), history (Richard II, Henry IV, Henry V) and “romance” (The Winter’s Tale, The Tempest, Cymbeline).

English 125b. Renaissance Drama: Literature, Economics, and Religion

Catalog Number: 9652
John Parker
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

To examine how in Shakespeare’s lifetime a secular, commercial aesthetic grew out of and replaced drama’s earlier role as an illustration of Christian truths. We’ll explore the relationship of religious conviction to financial settlements of all sorts: the final pay-back of a just God’s revenge, the moral status of debt, the economic contract regulating guilt, punishment and forgiveness. Readings drawn from Shakespeare, Jonson, Marlowe, the York Mystery cycle, plus Everyman and Mankind.
English 130. 17th-Century Poetry and Prose
Catalog Number: 4789
Barbara K. Lewalski
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
Primary focus on the major poets Donne, Jonson, Herbert and Marvell, with attention also to other writers, men and women, the genres they practiced and their cultural milieu.

English 141. The 18th-Century Novel
Catalog Number: 8683
Leah Price
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
The rise of the novel, seen through eighteenth-century fiction by Defoe, Richardson, Fielding, Sterne, Radcliffe, and Jane Austen, plus films (Tom Jones, Sense and Sensibility, Dangerous Liaisons), paintings, engravings, magazine articles, and excerpts from literary and social theory. Issues include genre (what differentiates novels from epics, romances, newspapers, correspondences, biography, pornography?), modernity (what was novel about the novel?), gender, reading, and pleasure.
Note: Counts as pre-1800 credit.

English 147n. Women and the Novel to Jane Austen
Catalog Number: 1659
Lynn Mary Festa
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
A study of the early novel, focusing on the roles of women—as heroines, readers, and writers—in the formation of the genre. Novels by Behn, Haywood, Burney, Edgeworth and Austen. Additional background readings on the legal, medical, intellectual and moral status of women in the long 18th century.

English 149. Gothic
Catalog Number: 7198
Ann Wierda Rowland
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 15
Readings in the Gothic traditions of British and American literature. Examines how Gothic texts challenge traditional accounts of subjectivity and individual agency, domesticity and property, familial and national history. Establishes conventions of the genre with 18th and 19th-century novels, before addressing 20th-century adaptations of the gothic in literature and film. Readings include Lewis, Shelley, Brontë, Poe, James, Stoker, Faulkner, DuMaurier, King, and Carter. Films include Psycho, The Shining, and Blair Witch Project.

English 150. British Romantic Poetry
Catalog Number: 5274
Ann Wierda Rowland
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12
Readings in the poetry of Smith, Blake, Burns, Scott, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Hemans, Shelley, and Keats.

English 165b. Conrad and V.S. Naipaul: Genealogies of the Global Imagination
Catalog Number: 1668
Homi K. Bhabha
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
The novels of Conrad and Naipaul have a particular relevance to contemporary discourses on global culture. For both writers, the experience of Empire was as much an ethical and aesthetic project as it was an economic or political venture. Our study will focus on their reflections on the problematic project of joining diverse cultures and distant territories in a global network and on the role of figurative language and fictional forms in imagining community and communication on a global scale.

[English 166. The Novel (and other Narratives) since World War II ]

The course will focus on several recurring questions: mimesis (Plato, Auerbach, Derrida, Said), figure (Aristotle, Jakobson, Lacan), post-colonialism (du Bellay, Lévi-Strauss, Fanon, Spivak), language (Aquinas, Mallarmé, Saussure, Gates), authorship (Woolf, Foucault, Barthes, Gilbert & Gubar), media and the means of representation (Lessing, Freud, Benjamin, Moulthrop). By juxtaposing older texts with twentieth-century texts, we will analyse historical differences along with recurring questions.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

English 182b. Orality and Literacy: From Beowulf to Dylan (and beyond)
Catalog Number: 9169
Joseph C. Harris
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Theories of oral literature and oral mentality; the oral/literate interface; cultures of “vocality”; media and their messages (Ong, Lord, McLuhan, etc.). Genres such as epic, ballad, spirituals, blues, and country. Special attention to Harry Smith’s Anthology of American Folk Music; the folk revival of the 1960s; the “No Depression” revival of the 1990s; and the African-American tradition leading to contemporary rap. Additional material by Greil Marcus, Henry Louis Gates, Jr., and the Coen brothers.

English 184. Fundamentals of Lyric Poetry
Catalog Number: 8147
Peter Sacks
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Basic elements of lyric poetry, both formal and thematic. Questions of lineation, prosody, stanzaic identity, free verse, syntax, matters of place, temporality, self-revision. Representations of poetic vocation, work, desire, history, nature, etc. Readings primarily from The Norton Anthology of Poetry.

[English 185b. Race and Allegory]
Catalog Number: 0337
Barbara E. Johnson
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Allegory has been described as a “dark conceit” that hides its meaning beneath a “veil”. Yet “black” and “white” often function in Western allegorical texts as if they immediately connote “evil” and “good.” The contradiction between the “darkness” that is rhetorically privileged and the “blackness” that is often condemned cannot fail to have an impact on the development of explicit racial discourses and literary movements. We will study works by Du Bois, Harper, Larsen, Freud, Hurston, Césaire, Fanon, Baraka, and the film Suture.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Catalog Number: 9078

Yunte Huang

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7

A rethinking of the multicultural, polyvocal nature of American literature against the palimpsestic backdrop of American history. We envision the Pacific as the new geopolitical center of the world in the 21st century and see the US as a Pacific nation. We explore works that imagine the Pacific in the past 150 years or so, works that represent both canonical American and Asian American literature (Melville, Twain, Adams, Pound, Kingston, Cha, Mukhurjee, Hagedorn).

English 189. The Novella

Catalog Number: 4246

John M. Picker

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13

In their concentration of focus, their commitment to ambiguity, and the techniques they use to complicate perspective and emphasize selectivity, novellas become miniature testing grounds for many of the governing concerns of fiction of our time. Readings in primarily 19th- and 20th-century British and American texts with some Continental works as well.

English 190. Major Critical Approaches

Catalog Number: 0283

James Engell

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Major critical approaches from Aristotle’s Poetics to recent theories; efforts to analyze and define the functions of literature; social, ethical, historical, and aesthetic issues; classical heritage, Romantic theory, modernism; poststructuralism, including deconstruction and cultural critiques.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Graduate section offered.

*English 209. Necessary Truths: Religious Ideology and Vernacular Politics in Late Medieval England
Catalog Number: 6160
Nicholas Watson
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
A study of the intense debate over what the unlearned must know to be saved, and its impact on the rise of vernacular Christian writing. Focuses on Piers Plowman, and several shorter texts.

*English 224c. Problems in Shakespearean Interpretation: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 2216
Marjorie Garber
Half course (spring term). Tu., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15
Issues and contexts in the contemporary theory and criticism of Shakespeare. A detailed consideration of several major plays. Special attention to questions opened by new historicism, materialism, deconstruction, psychoanalysis, feminism and gender studies, cultural studies, and other ways of reading and interpreting.

Catalog Number: 1277
Barbara K. Lewalski
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Milton’s works, poetry and prose, examined in relation to various texts—literary, subliterary, political—which refract the experience and culture of the revolutionary era in England. Contemporary texts include the poetry of Vaughan, Herrick, the Cavaliers, and Marvell, as well as histories, sermons, political tracts, letters, and biography.

*Douglas Mao
*Half course (fall term). Th., at 12, Th., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15
Currently one of literary study’s hottest terrains, the Thirties crackle with unrest, catastrophe, and extraordinary innovations in form. A range of authors from proletarian to highbrow, including Auden, Woolf, Eliot, Yeats, Faulkner, Stevens, Williams.

*English 290b (formerly *English 90lp). Literature and the Philosophy of Mind: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 7350
*Oren Jeremy Izenberg
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
We will consider the mind’s artifacts (principally lyric poems) alongside recent philosophical and scientific accounts of the mind itself. Topics will include: private and universal languages, the rationality of emotions, collective identity, intelligence (artificial and real), “other minds.”

*English 291b. Language Disorders and the Literary Tradition: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 7688
Marc Shell
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
What is a language disorder? Who defines it? Is it a disability? We study stuttering (Moses, Billy Budd), accent (Pygmalion), perseveration (Shakespeare), semi-lingualism (Power of Silence), mixed languages (Finnegans Wake), speechlessness (Johnny’s Got His Gun), dyslexia (Yeats), and American Sign Language as well as theoretical texts.

*English 292. Issues in the Study of American Literature: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 1618
Werner Sollors
Half course (spring term). W., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6
Comparative readings in literature of the United States in an international context, discussions of critical and theoretical work, and an examination of pioneering and more recent literary history.

*English 293. Solitary Reading and the Theory of the Novel: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 4166
Philip J. Fisher
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
A phenomenological study of novels and paintings: reading and seeing as aesthetic modes; segmented and prolonged attention; solitary and social experiences of works of art; intimacy and non-reciprocal superimposition, enchantment, occupied consciousness.
Note: Open to qualified undergraduates.

*English 294z. On Beauty: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 7277
Elaine Scarry
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Philosophic and literary accounts of beauty from Greek through modern, including Plato, Aquinas, Dante, Castiglione, Addison, Kant, Keats, Rilke. The central descriptions of beauty; the major arguments against it (e.g., the view that it disables critical judgment, hence is politically suspect); and an examination of four objects taken to be sites of beauty (God, gardens, persons, and poems).

*English 296. Descriptive and Analytical Bibliography: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 7102
Roger E. Stoddard
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
By close examination of early printed books and manuscripts from Houghton Library collections, students learn how to identify, interpret, and describe physical bibliographical evidence as it is employed in historical research and textual studies.

English 298. Literary Theory in the Life of Literature: Graduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 3464
Homi K. Bhabha
Half course (spring term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
Interactions between concepts central to literary theory - genre and ‘textuality’, writing and ‘difference’, ethics and interpretation, narrative and cultural translation - and literature embodying such concerns. Barthes, Habermas, Derrida, Lacan; Carey, Forster, Ghosh, Morrison, Rushdie, others.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Environmental Science and Public Policy

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Degrees in Environmental Science and Public Policy

James J. McCarthy, Alexander Agassiz Professor of Biological Oceanography in the Museum of Comparative Zoology (Chair, Head Tutor) on leave fall term
William C. Clark, Sidney Harman Professor of International Science, Public Policy, and Human Development (Kennedy School)
Göran Ekström, Professor of Geology and Geophysics
Richard T. T. Forman, Professor of Advanced Environmental Studies in the Field of Landscape Ecology (Design School)
Jerry R. Green, John Leverett Professor and David A. Wells Professor of Political Economy (on leave spring term)
John P. Holdren, Teresa and John Heinz Professor of Environmental Policy (Kennedy School)
Sheila S. Jasanoff, Professor of Science and Public Policy (Kennedy School, Public Health)
Michael B. McElroy, Gilbert Butler Professor of Environmental Studies
Daniel P. Schrag, Associate of Pforzheimer House, Professor of Earth and Planetary Sciences (on leave spring term)
Robert N. Stavins, Albert Pratt Professor of Business and Government (Kennedy School)

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in Environmental Science and Public Policy

Stephen T. Curwood, Visiting Lecturer on Environmental Science and Public Policy
Henry Ehrenreich, Clowes Research Professor of Science
Paul R. Epstein
James S. Hoyte, Lecturer on Environmental Science and Public Policy

The concentration in Environmental Science and Public Policy is administered by the Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences. It is overseen by a Standing Committee functioning as a Board of Tutors including representatives from other departments of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and from other schools as appropriate to ensure the requisite breadth of the program.

The concentration is designed to provide a multidisciplinary introduction to current problems of the environment. It is founded on the premise that the ability to form rational judgments concerning many of the complex challenges confronting society today involving the environment requires both an understanding of the underlying scientific and technical issues and an appreciation for the relevant economic, political, legal, historical, and ethical dimensions. It offers students an opportunity to specialize in a specific area of either natural or social science relating to the environment. All students have to satisfy a core of requirements in biology, chemistry, earth and planetary sciences, economics, government, and mathematics.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Environmental Science and Public Policy 10. Science, Policy and Environmental Management
Catalog Number: 6383
David Cash and William C. Clark (Kennedy School)
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

This course provides an introductory survey of topics at the nexus of environmental and natural resource science and policy. Using multiple disciplinary lenses (e.g., political science, economics, anthropology, science studies, biology, chemistry, physics, earth and planetary sciences, etc.), this course will examine a variety of domestic and international issues (e.g., energy, pollution, ecosystem resources, global environmental change and sustainability.) Students will investigate a range of methodologies, conceptual frameworks, and scientific and policy tools, and apply them to a series of in-depth case analyses to understand and assess legal, institutional, economic, scientific, and cultural dimensions of human-environment interactions.

Environmental Science and Public Policy 78. Environmental Politics
Catalog Number: 3613
Myanna H. Lahsen

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
An introduction to the history, organization, goals and ideals of environmental protection in America. Course examines the political implications of shifts in emphasis from nature protection to pollution control to sustainability over the 20th century. Of central interest is the relationship between scientific knowledge, uncertainty, and legal or political action. Theoretical approaches from law, political science, and science studies are combined with investigations of major episodes and controversies in environmental policymaking.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School as [ENR-207].

Environmental Science and Public Policy 90. Junior Seminars

Enrollment in these seminars is limited, with preference given to Environmental Science and Public Policy concentrators in their junior year. One junior seminar fulfills the junior seminar requirement for Environmental Science and Public Policy concentrators.

Environmental Science and Public Policy 90a. Public Communication and the Science and Politics of Global Climate Change
Catalog Number: 2189
Michael B. McElroy and Stephen T. Curwood

Half course (fall term). Tu., 1:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
The Kyoto Protocol of 1997 set binding limits on greenhouse gas emissions, though many nations, including the United States, have yet to ratify this accord. Meanwhile, the scientific evidence of human-induced climate change continues to emerge amid some controversy, with indications that global warming and other potentially catastrophic climate changes may already be underway. What is this scientific evidence, and how is it being communicated to the public and policy makers? How should the United States respond to international efforts to mitigate climate change? Led by a scientist and a journalist, the seminar will explore scientific, diplomatic, and public communication methods driving the global climate change debate.

Environmental Science and Public Policy 90c. Ecology and Land-Use Planning
Catalog Number: 3792
Richard T. T. Forman (Design School)

Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–5:15, with intensive field study, including a required one-week field study, plus a one-day field study. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
Investigation of how local and regional human activities such as housing, agriculture, water supply, and natural resource use can be arranged in the landscape so that environmental processes are not disrupted and ecosystems are maintained for the long term. The focus is on learning and applying spatial and ecological principles to land-use planning with the intention of regional biodiversity conservation, maintenance of water quality, and addressing other environmental issues.
*Environmental Science and Public Policy 90d. Status of Environmental Justice as a Public Policy Issue
Catalog Number: 5824
James S. Hoyte
Half course (fall term). Tu., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
Examines the influences of race, socioeconomic status, and interest group politics in the formulation and implementation of U.S. federal and state environmental policy. Topics include the civil rights struggle and the environmental justice movement, role of race in environmental policymaking, residential and occupational exposure patterns of environmental pollution, racial diversity in the environmental movement, socioeconomic factors shaping the research agenda for environmental affairs, facilities siting and community impacts, and lead contamination as an environmental justice issue.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School of Government as ENR-205.

*Environmental Science and Public Policy 90e (formerly *Environmental Science and Public Policy 90ehf). Conservation Biology
Catalog Number: 6879
Manuel Lerdau
Half course (spring term). M., 2:30–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
Conservation biology strives to describe, understand, and preserve populations, communities, and ecosystems by applying ecological principles within the context of human activities. Much of the effort of conservation biologists has been dedicated toward saving rare species. There is growing recognition, however, that one of the major challenges facing conservation biologists comes from species that are able to establish and colonize areas to which they are not native. This course will explore these invasive species from the perspectives of their biologies, their impacts on communities and ecosystems, and their relationships with human activities such as suburbanization, deforestation, and economic globalization.
Note: There will be local field trips within New England.

*Environmental Science and Public Policy 90f. Global Change and Human Health
Catalog Number: 4434
Paul R. Epstein and James J. McCarthy
Half course (spring term). W., 2:30–5. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
Global consequences of increasing human population and our consumption of natural resources include extensive changes in many natural ecosystems and in the composition of Earth’s atmosphere. In the last decade, geographic ranges of certain well known infectious diseases have expanded and new diseases have become threats to human health. This seminar will explore hypothesized linkages between changes in ecosystems, climate, and the epidemiology of certain infectious diseases.

*Environmental Science and Public Policy 90h. Alternative Energy Potential
Catalog Number: 2284
Henry Ehrenreich
Half course (spring term). W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Examines alternative energy options such as photovoltaic and wind within the environmental context of conventional fossil and nuclear based sources. Begins with an elementary exposition of needed energy and thermodynamic concepts, which assumes no previous exposure to physics, and a brief historical survey of energy use in relation to economic and social needs. Emphasizes the potential and problems of alternative energy sources through lectures, readings, class presentations, and discussions.

[*Environmental Science and Public Policy 90i. Population and The Human Condition]
Catalog Number: 9228
John P. Holdren (Kennedy School) and Daniel P. Schrag
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
How does the human population—its size, growth rate, age composition, and geographic distribution—influence problems of resources, environment, and development and the prospects for solving them? How many people can the world support? Population variables interact with economic and technological ones in generating pressures on resources and environment, and all these variables and their interactions are shaped by social and political as well as economic forces. This seminar explores what is known, supposed, and (diversely) contended about the relation between population and the human condition—past and future—bringing to bear historical data, scenarios of future possibilities, and a variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[*Environmental Science and Public Policy 90k. Environment and National Security]
Catalog Number: 4242
Michael B. McElroy and Stephen T. Curwood
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar will explore environmental issues affecting the national security of the United States. We begin with a review of the report “A National Security Strategy for a New Century” submitted by the White House to Congress in December 1999. Topics to be discussed in the seminar include climate change, pollution of air and water, shortages in supply of fresh water, short-falls in food production and depletion of natural resources with particular emphasis on trends currently underway in poor and developing countries. National security interests of the United States are particularly sensitive to developments in the Middle East, Russia, China, South Asia, East Asia and the Central Asian Republics but are not confined to these regions. As we shall discuss, environmental stress anywhere can have unanticipated consequences far removed from its source. We live in a global society: problems of human health or economic security or environmental security cannot be easily limited by restrictions imposed at national borders.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*Environmental Science and Public Policy 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1705
James J. McCarthy and members of the Committee
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Supervised reading and research on topics not covered by regular courses of instruction. Students must complete a registration form, including permission from their faculty sponsor, with the concentration office before course enrollment. A final paper describing the research/reading completed during the term is due in duplicate to the Head Tutor on the first day of reading period.
Note: Intended for junior and senior concentrators in Environmental Science and Public Policy; open to sophomore concentrators only under exceptional circumstances. Permission of the Head Tutor is required for enrollment. May be counted for concentration only with the special permission of the Head Tutor.

*Environmental Science and Public Policy 99r. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 5666
James J. McCarthy and members of the Committee
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Senior honors candidates must take at least one term of this course (fall or spring) while writing a thesis. If taken for two terms, only one term can be counted toward meeting concentration requirements. Signature of the Head Tutor required for enrollment.

European Studies

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on European Studies

Peter A. Hall, Harvard College Professor and Frank G. Thomson Professor of Government (Chair)
Suzanne Berger, Associate of the Center for European Studies
David Blackbourn, Coolidge Professor of History
Peter J. Burgard, Professor of German

Torben Iversen, Professor of Government
Charles S. Maier, Krupp Foundation Professor of European Studies
Andrew Moravcsik, Professor of Government
Susan Pedersen, Professor of History
Paul Pierson, Professor of Government
Louise M. Richardson
George Ross, Associate of the Center for European Studies
Cindy Skach, Assistant Professor of Government
Theda Skocpol, Victor S. Thomas Professor of Government and of Sociology (on leave spring term)
Tony Smith, Associate in the Center for European Studies
Roman Szporluk, Mykhailo S. Hrushevs’kyi Professor of Ukrainian History (on leave fall term)

The Standing Committee on European Studies is the formal oversight body for the Minda de Gunzberg Center for European Studies. It is comprised of those permanent faculty members who have their offices in the Center and selected other representatives of FAS and of other universities in the Boston area who remain active in the study and teaching of modern Europe.

For over thirty years, the Center for European Studies has offered an interdisciplinary program designed to enhance the knowledge and understanding of political, social, economic, and cultural developments in modern Europe. Its members’ intellectual approaches encompass history, political economy and political theory and diverse approaches to cultural studies. Its geographical purview includes all the regions of Europe as well as the institutional structures within individual countries and the European Union. The Center funds undergraduate thesis travel, dissertation fellowships, and offers several post-doctoral fellowships. Its quarters in Busch Hall provide office space for faculty, visiting scholars, and doctoral students working in close affiliation with resident faculty members. At the same time, the Center supports several study groups, some organized by country, others by topic, that maintain a full schedule of seminars and presentations by visiting scholars and speakers from the world of public affairs. In 1989, CES was chosen by the Federal Republic of Germany to receive significant support for a ten-year program for the study of Germany and Europe, which currently continues under the Center’s own funding. It also participates in an interdisciplinary program for the study of modern France and together with representatives from the Law School, the John F. Kennedy School of Government, and the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs, is a constituent partner in the European Union Center at Harvard University. The Center has always sought to cooperate with other Boston area universities, and MIT representatives and students have had an institutional connection from its outset.

For Undergraduates Only

Expository Writing 20 fulfills the basic requirement in Expository Writing, a requirement for all undergraduates in their first year of residence. No Expository Writing courses have midterm or final examinations.

Expository Writing 10. Introduction to Expository Writing
Catalog Number: 6344 Enrollment: Limited to 10 students per section.

Members of the Department

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

A rigorous, intensive elective that helps students prepare for the demands of college writing. In small classes, students work closely with instructors on developing and organizing ideas; analyzing sources; and writing clear, lively essays. Students read essays, articles, and short stories and receive a great deal of individual attention.

Note: A limited enrollment elective. After taking Expository Writing 10, a student must pass Expository Writing 20 to meet the College’s Expository Writing requirement.

Expository Writing 20. Expository Writing
Catalog Number: 5518 Enrollment: Limited to 15 students per section.

Members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Aims to improve each student’s ability to discover and reason about evidence through the medium of essays. Since writing requires an intellectual occasion and familiarity with some subject, each section focuses on a particular theme or topic, as described in the Guide to Expository Courses and Registration (available from the Expository Writing office). All sections give students experience in formulating questions; analyzing both primary and secondary sources, and properly acknowledging them; supporting assertions with strong and detailed evidence; and shaping clear, lively essays. All sections emphasize revision.
Expository Writing 52, Style and Styles in Prose
Catalog Number: 0674
Gordon C. Harvey and staff
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 16
For students who have completed Expository Writing 20 and wish to continue thinking about the art of writing and about the style of their own prose. Readings include pieces by distinctive stylists past and present: Bacon, Browne, Johnson, Emerson, Dickinson, Twaine, Lawrence, Woolf, Orwell, Baldwin, Didion, Gass and others—including contemporary journalists and professors. Class discussions consider the technique of particular sentences and passages, and ponder fundamental but sometimes ambiguous concepts like clarity, voice, vividness, cliché, rhythm, “academic” style. Students attend regular one-on-one conferences on their own writing.
Note: Graduate students may be admitted by permission of the instructor, but this is not a course on academic composition or on English grammar.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

*Folklore and Mythology 103. Oral Literature
Catalog Number: 5039 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Stephen A. Mitchell
Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Surveys major forms of folklore (e.g., myths, legends, epics) and the theoretical approaches used in their study (e.g., performance studies, structuralism, cultural studies). Focuses on issues of orality and literacy, performance, transmission, and interpretation. Analyzes how folklore shapes national, regional, and ethnic identities, as well as daily life and the identities of sub-groups (e.g., sports teams, workers, members of a religion), and considers the function of folklore within the communities that perform and use it.
Note: Required of all concentrators.

[Folklore and Mythology 104. Theory and Methodology of Folklore and Mythology]
Catalog Number: 3311 Enrollment: Limited to 12; as part of tutorial program, limited to concentrators.
Joseph C. Harris
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to the development of folklore and mythology as fields of study, with particular attention to the methodological approaches suited to their areas of enquiry. Surveys the study of folklore and mythology in the 19th and early 20th centuries, but focuses on theoretical contributions to the study of folklore, mythology, and oral literature in recent decades.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Expected to be omitted in 2003–04.

[Folklore and Mythology 105. Fieldwork and Ethnography in Folklore]
Catalog Number: 3789 Enrollment: Limited to 12; as part of tutorial program, preference given to concentrators.
Deborah D. Foster
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Interpretation of culture: issues and problems of ethnography. Examines problems of cultural interpretation that arise in the context of fieldwork. Both ethnographic and theoretical readings serve as the material for class discussion and the foundation for experimental ethnographic projects.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Required of all concentrators.

[Folklore and Mythology 107a. Witchcraft from Paganism to the Early Modern Era]
Catalog Number: 0526
Stephen A. Mitchell
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Reviews witchcraft in pagan, medieval and early modern Europe (ca.400-1700). Examines pagan survivals in post-Conversion Europe; the collaborative construction of “witchcraft” through Church doctrine, demonological writings, and non-elite belief systems; the place of the “Devil’s Pact” and heretical beliefs; and the witch-hunts of the 16th and 17th centuries.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Folklore and Mythology 107b. Witchcraft from “The Burning Times” to the Present]

Catalog Number: 3584

Stephen A. Mitchell

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Considers witchcraft from the Reformation to the present. Examines the persecutions of the early modern era (emphasizing the late 17th-century); the effects of the Enlightenment; the role of “cunning folk”; the portrayal of witches in film, fiction and folklore; the historical roots of goddess worship and other forms of neo-paganism; witchcraft as a spiritual path (e.g., Wicca); and the character of the reaction against neo-paganism.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Folklore and Mythology 107a is highly recommended. In the event of a lottery, those who have taken the first term will be given preference.

Folklore and Mythology 114. Embodied Expression/Expressive Body: Dance as a Medium of Cultural and Personal Meaning

Catalog Number: 7982 Enrollment: Limited to 16.

Deborah D. Foster

Half course (fall term). M., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9

This course will examine the ways in which the dancing body is both a site of personal experience and a sign of cultural meaning. By observing dance performances (live and on film), participating in dance workshops, and reading ethnographic and theoretical texts, we will attempt to come to understand the emergent meaning of dance performances, from the perspective of both dancer and observer.
Folklore and Mythology 115. The African Oral Narrative Tradition
Catalog Number: 5663
Deborah D. Foster

Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Introduction to African oral narratives, focusing on the nature of orality and performance. Examines the way in which symbol and metaphor work in oral art forms; considers methods of analysis of oral narrative, including structuralism, semiotics, and performance theory; investigates the function of the creative and destructive trickster figure; and explores the oral residue in African novels and plays.

Catalog Number: 1807
Sylvia Rieger
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., sections at 10 or 12. EXAM GROUP: 3

Using a broad array of literary and non-literary texts, we will look at the changes that have shaped Berlin since 1989. Topics of discussion include politics in the unified capital, architectural metamorphoses, east-west German relations, minorities, film portrayals of Berlin, and the theater and music scene. Materials drawn from Internet and hyper-multimedia resources. Strong class participation expected and encouraged in the form of group projects.

Note: Conducted in German. Pass/Fail option not available.

Prerequisite: An honor grade in German C, German D, Foreign Cultures 23, or permission of the instructor.

German 65. Wirtschaftsdeutsch

Catalog Number: 2678
Charles P. Lutcavage
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5

An advanced language course that focuses on communication and writing skills for a business environment. Attention to specialized vocabulary as well as cultural and political issues (e.g., German unification and the European Union) relevant to conducting business in the German-speaking world. Writing practice includes business correspondence and job applications. Articles from the German-language press together with videos and the Internet provide an up-to-date look at the contemporary economic and business scene in Germany, Austria, and the rest of Europe.

Note: Conducted in German. Pass/Fail option not available. Not open to auditors.

Government 10. Introduction to Political Thought
Catalog Number: 8836
Sharon R. Krause

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 11 and a section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

An introduction to some of the central questions and debates in the history of political thought. What is the purpose of politics? What is the nature of the best regime? What is the meaning of justice? What justifies the authority of government? What are “rights” and how are they related to political liberty and to political obligation? How is freedom related to equality? Finally, what is the nature of liberal democracy, the political regime that prevails in the United States today? What are its foundations, purposes, strengths, and potential dangers? Readings include Plato, Aristotle, Machiavelli, Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, Marx, and J.S. Mill.

Government 20. Introduction to Comparative Politics
Catalog Number: 6166
Eva Bellin and Steven R. Levitsky

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11 and a section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13

Explores important questions and concepts in contemporary comparative politics. Themes will include the dynamics of democracy and democratization, the historical evolution of citizenship, the power of ethnicity, the possibility of revolution, the importance of institutions, the cultural foundation of politics, and the pairing of market reform with political liberalization. Cases will be drawn from different regions and historical periods to give students a grounding in the tools of comparative analysis.

Government 30. Introduction to American Government
Catalog Number: 0263
Paul E. Peterson

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

An introduction to American government and politics, emphasizing how citizens and institutions (the Congress, executive, courts, political parties, interest groups, public opinion, and the electorate) interact in the formation of public policies, and how this interaction has changed over time. The political process studied primarily through examination of several historical and contemporary cases, in areas such as civil rights, foreign policy, economic regulation, and electoral behavior.

Cross-listed Courses

Historical Study A-12. International Conflict and Cooperation in the Modern World
Government 90. Junior Seminars

These half courses are limited to 16 participants with preference given to government concentrators in their junior years. Students who have elected the honors program may take two junior seminars (90), two junior tutorials (98) or one of each. Enrollment in both 90 and 98 is determined by a lottery based on student preferences. Undergraduate non-concentrators may enroll in junior seminars and tutorials on a space available basis. All students wishing to enroll in Government 90 or 98 must participate in the lottery.

Government 90a. Contemporary British Politics

Catalog Number: 6263
James E. Alt

Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Focuses on changes in economy, society, and politics in the transition from empire to small country. Topics include the evolving party system, electoral behavior, and a range of policy questions involving economic management, the welfare state, the European Community, race relations, Northern Ireland.

Government 90au. Political Economy

Catalog Number: 8213
Torben Iversen

Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Examines modern theories of political economy and their applications to macro problems in advanced industrialized democracies. Why do some governments and countries generate better economic performance than others? Why are some economies more egalitarian than others? How do politicians manipulate the economy for partisan gain, and how are politicians constrained by institutions and the global economy? These are some of the questions that we will seek to answer using the most promising theories in political science and economics.

Government 90ax. Crucial Events in Chinese Elite Politics

Catalog Number: 7481
Roderick MacFarquhar

Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

A critical reexamination of major events in the politics of the People’s Republic and of the hitherto accepted Western analyses of them, using the new data made available in the PRC in recent years. The objective is to outline new hypotheses where necessary and more importantly, to explore what need there might be for new ways of studying Chinese politics.

Government 90bh. Comparative Justice: Constitutional Courts in the Modern World

Catalog Number: 6812
Cindy Skach

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

More than ever, constitutional courts are mediating and deciding questions of justice in modern democracies. Analyzing a variety of countries, including the US, Germany, and Bosnia-Herzegovina, this seminar places the trend toward judicial review in historical and comparative perspective. It asks: Should judicial review be the main mechanism for balancing individual rights, group rights, and the collective will? How do constitutional courts shape multicultural societies? Do activist constitutional courts hinder, or help, the democratic process?

Government 90ca. Shakespeare’s Politics
Catalog Number: 3168
Mary P. Nichols (Fordham University)
Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Study of Shakespeare as a political theorist by examining his comedies, tragedies, histories, and romances. What do his plays show about the grounds of authority, justifications for rule, the relation between law and discretion, the goals and manner of statesmanship, the relation between the sexes, authority within families, monarchy and freedom, the cause of tragedy, and its relation to more liberal political settings?

Government 90cl. Human Rights in World Politics
Catalog Number: 4536
Andrew Moravcsik
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An examination of the history, politics, and law of international human rights protection. The seminar analyses the emergence, expansion, and enforcement of international norms concerning national guarantees of human rights.

[Government 90dd. Education Politics and Policy]
Catalog Number: 3796
Paul E. Peterson
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Analysis of political forces shaping elementary and secondary education governance and policy. Major contemporary issues to be discussed. Students expected to write term papers.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 90de. Media and Politics
Catalog Number: 5660
William G. Mayer (Northeastern University) (spring term only)
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3.
A broad overview of the role that the mass media play in American politics. Among the topics to be examined are: how the media affect our image of the world; major theories that attempt to explain the content and bias of media reporting; the impact of the media on public opinion and governance; and politics and the Internet.

[Government 90dx. Political Participation and Public Policy in the U.S.]
Catalog Number: 1784
Andrea L. Campbell
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the role of mass political participation in the policy-making process. Discussion of what normative theory says that role should be, how the public actually behaves, and how representatives respond. Considers whether differences in participation rates by race, ethnicity, gender, age, and class lead to unequal policy treatment. Case studies will include welfare, social security, health care, agricultural subsidies, and tax policy.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 90eb. Interest Group Politics
Catalog Number: 1900
John Mark Hansen
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
This course takes up various claims about interest groups and their role in American politics and considers ways to evaluate them systematically and rigorously. Topics include (1) the organizational politics of interest groups--their formation, their maintenance and their attractions to members; (2) the influence of interest groups on national policymakers--their attempts to lobby Congress and the bureaucracy; and (3) the place of interest groups in the conduct of American democracy.

[Government 90el. International Financial Institutions]
Catalog Number: 5667
Devesh Kapur
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the evolving role of the Bretton Woods Institutions (IMF and World Bank) and (to a lesser degree), the regional development banks. Topics include the governance and purposes of these institutions; the factors that shape their programs and policies; and the economic, social, and political consequences of their programs.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 90eo (formerly Government 1785). Globalization and American Foreign Economic Policy
Catalog Number: 9955
Michael J. Hiscox
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines the foreign economic policies of the United States in the context of increasing global economic integration. Topics include: globalization—benefits and costs, winners and losers; lessons from history; determinants of trade policy; political economy of multinational corporations; and reforming the international financial architecture.

Government 90fm. Money and Congress
Catalog Number: 1088
Scott Ashworth
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines the relationships between Congressional elections, campaign contributions, and policy outcomes. The first part focuses on what money buys for candidates: does spending “buy” votes? If so, how effective is spending? Then course turns to what the contributors get. Are they ideologically motivated, or are they out to get favors for themselves? How important are contributors in the policy formation process?

Prerequisite: Some background in statistics helpful, but not required.
Government 90gn. Cultural Politics: Religion and State in Modern Democracies
Catalog Number: 2868
Eva Bellin
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Studies contemporary responses to the classic dilemma of church-state separation in modern democracies. Focuses on such flashpoints as the politics of veiling in France, blasphemy in England, personal status in Israel, education and prayer in the US, free speech in Iran. Analyzes the political and ideological underpinnings of diverse approaches from official secularism and the “non-establishment” of religion to “equal protection” and the state in the service of faith.

[Government 90gs. Civil Society in Asia]
Catalog Number: 7546
Susan J. Pharr
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar looks at the concept of civil society in the Asian context, with particular emphasis on East Asia. The seminar first examines how the concept originally evolved in Western societies, looking at the debates over civil society in Western and Eastern Europe. It then explores how the term applies in the Asian context. It looks at how the Internet, globalization, religion, ethnic conflict, market reforms, corruption, international NGOs, the IMF, and other forces, internal and external, are affecting civil societies in Asia, and the relation between developments in civil society and democratization. It also looks at the evolution of international civil society and Asia’s place in it.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 90hh. International Migration and the Political Economy of Development
Catalog Number: 9044
Devesh Kapur
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines the economic, political and social consequences of international migration and diasporas, particularly on developing countries. Is the phenomenon of greater import in the current (and future) context than it has historically been and if so, why? When are diasporas likely to be more influential and how does this influence shape well-being in their country of origin? What are the implications of looser concepts of citizenship? Country examples include China, India, Mexico and Turkey.

Government 90ia. Sino-U.S. Relations in an Era of Rising Chinese Power
Catalog Number: 9006
Alastair Iain Johnston
Half course (spring term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
The course will assess theoretical arguments and empirical evidence concerning the implications of Chinese economic and military modernization for conflict and cooperation between China and the US. Some issues to be examined include global arms control, trade, the environment, and regional security.

Government 90jf. Leaders, Politicians, and Visionaries
Catalog Number: 3754
Catherine R. Shapiro
_Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16_
What is the role of leadership in U.S. politics? Why have particular individuals—Thomas Jefferson, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Joseph McCarthy, Martin Luther King—had tremendous impact on the ways we think and behave politically? Can one learn effective leadership skills? Can one learn to be charismatic? What is the relationship between leaders and followers? How do leaders handle adversity? Students consider classic readings on leadership, along with analyses of specific U.S. leaders, and conduct independent research.

Government 90jp, The Struggle for Palestine/Israel
Catalog Number: 1254
_Eva Bellin_
_Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8_
Studies the century-long struggle over Palestine/Israel from a local perspective. Considers competing historical and moral claims to the land, the creation of political “facts” and dispossession, the influence of regional politics, the role of local political organizations from Hamas to Gush Emunim, the challenge of state-building in the Palestine Authority, the debate over post-Zionism in Israel, and the possibilities for reconciliation between Palestinians and Israelis.

Government 90js.
Catalog Number: 4399
_Allison Katherine Stanger (Middlebury College)_
_Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17_
An examination of the conduct, impact, and evolution of American foreign policy since 1945. Topics will include the cold war and containment, US intervention in the developing world, American international economic policy, the role of public opinion and transnational relationships in US policy decisions, and the impact on globalization on policy agendas, processes, and outcomes.

Government 90lt. Civil Society and the Public Sphere
Catalog Number: 8018
_Dana Richard Villa (University of California, Santa Barbara)_
_Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8_
Addresses two of the most influential—and contested—concepts in recent political thought. To what extent is the sphere of associational life (membership in churches, unions, clubs, etc.) supportive or even identical with the public sphere (the realm of politics, citizenship, and the common good)? To what extent should these spheres be viewed as distinct or in tension? Readings from Hegel, Marx, Tocqueville, Mill, Arendt, Habermas, Sennett, Fraser, Gellner, Walzer, Rosenblum and Putnam.

Government 90nd. Liberalism and Democracy in Montesquieu, Rousseau, and Tocqueville
Catalog Number: 4516
_Sharon R. Krause_
_Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8_
Explores the regimes of liberalism and democracy through the writings of three thinkers who regarded the tenets and practices associated with modern liberalism to be in some measure at odds with the tenets and practices of democracy. Montesquieu was a liberal suspicious of democracy; Rousseau was a democrat scornful of key features of liberalism; and Tocqueville, committed to both, sought to reconcile them even as he articulated the fragility of such a reconciliation. We investigate the relationship between liberalism and democracy, assess the merits and dangers of both, and consider the nature of their union in contemporary American public life. Readings drawn from major works of Montesquieu, Rousseau, and Tocqueville.

Government 90oc. Race and Ethnic Conflict in America
Catalog Number: 6312
Patrick D. Joyce
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines historical and contemporary cases of overt intergroup conflict (i.e. protest and riots) in order to understand the nation’s tradition of contentious race and ethnic relations. The main thrust will be to investigate the role of political institutions in shaping and mediating conflict.

Government 90om. International Organization
Catalog Number: 4851
Judith G. Kelley
Half course (fall term). Tu., 7–9 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 18
Examines the changing role of both political economy and security institutions in the international system. Discusses theory about the effect of international organizations on cooperation and governance. Then applies these theoretical tools to practical issues. Particular attention to international organizations and current topics such as human rights, security and economic cooperation. Analyzes present developments such as NATO enlargement, European integration, EU enlargement and UN reform.

Government 90q. U.S. – Latin American Relations
Catalog Number: 5153
Jorge I. Domínguez
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A study of political and economic relations between the United States and Latin American countries, and of the international relations of Latin America since 1945. Attention also given to foreign policy decision making in the United States and Latin America, and to alternative approaches to the study of international relations and foreign policy.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 90qa. Community in America
Catalog Number: 4941
Robert D. Putnam
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Has the social fabric of America’s communities and the civic engagement of its citizens changed over the last generation? Why? Does it matter? What lessons might we find in American history? These questions will be at the focus of this seminar.
Government 90qm. International Relations Theory
Catalog Number: 9031
Bear F. Braumoeller
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Critical evaluation of modern theories of international relations, with an emphasis on the consistency and logic of theoretical argument as well as the relevance of evidence brought to bear on the question at hand. Subject matter covers, in part, systemic theories, conflict and cooperation, international institutions, domestic institutions and foreign policy, and individual decision processes, with applications in international security, international political economy, and human rights.

Government 90rf. Economics and Democracy
Catalog Number: 5194
Michael S. Lewis-Beck (University of Iowa)
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
General topics include economic conditions and election outcomes; the political business cycle; economic development and democratic performance; the political impact of globalization; the political economy of third-party dissent; economic and public policy issues.

Government 90sp. Future of War
Catalog Number: 6012
Stephen Peter Rosen
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
The course will examine the character and implications of political and technological factors that could affect the future conduct of war.

Government 90tg. American Political Ideologies
Catalog Number: 3611
Jennifer L. Hochschild
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Analyzes the development and change of American political ideologies, starting with the Puritans and considering the Revolution and constitution-writing, Jacksonian democracy, the Gilded Age, gender-based and race-based social movements, Progressivism, and contemporary liberal and conservative ideologies.

Government 90ua. Conflict Resolution
Catalog Number: 2853
Andrew Harriman Kydd
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
The post Cold War world is characterized by continuing international and civil conflicts. Some take place along ethnic lines, some along religious lines, some reflect a total breakdown of the state. Some conflicts persist, while others are seemingly resolved. This course will cover the main approaches to conflict resolution and study some of the salient cases. Topics covered include: theories of conflict and conflict resolution, negotiation, the role of external powers, mediation, and peacekeeping.
Government 90we. Law and Politics of Affirmative Action
Catalog Number: 9950
Keith J. Bybee
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines the origins and development of affirmative action in education and employment. Particular emphasis placed on the political theories courts have used to justify and critique racial preferences.

Government 90wh. Philosophy and Citizenship
Catalog Number: 7797
Dana Richard Villa (University of California, Santa Barbara)
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Ever since the trial and condemnation of Socrates, philosophy and citizenship have been viewed as fundamentally opposed ways of life. Is the kind of open-ended, radical questioning characteristic of the philosopher compatible with allegiance to a particular (and inevitably parochial) moral-political community? Is it possible to be a philosophical citizen, as Socrates proposed? We will consider these and other questions through readings from Thucydides, Plato, Machiavelli, Rousseau, Mill, Nietzsche, Weber, Arendt, Strauss and Walzer.

Tutorials

*Government 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 2444
Russell Muirhead (fall term) and Sharon R. Krause (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Supervised reading leading to a term paper in a topic or topics not covered by regular courses of instruction.
Note: Limited to juniors and seniors. Does not count for concentration. Offered at the discretion of the individual instructors. Written proposal and signature of Head Tutor required.

*Government 97a. Tutorial-Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 3023
Keith J. Bybee and Harvey C. Mansfield
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Issues in American politics used to investigate the fundamental political questions that confront any society. Readings in classics of American politics and of liberal political theory; great speeches; important Supreme Court cases.
Note: Fall enrollment required of sophomores.

*Government 97b. Tutorial-Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 4403
Stanley Hoffmann and Cindy Skach
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This sophomore tutorial will examine a number of episodes in world history, from the Greek city states to the present, in order to study the interrelationships between domestic and international politics, as well as the ideas of relevant political philosophers.
*Note: Spring enrollment required of sophomores.

*Government 98r. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 7179
Russell Muirhead (fall term), Sharon R. Krause (spring term) and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 5, 6
*Note: Ordinarily taken as two half courses by juniors who have elected the honors program, but open to all junior Government concentrators. Students may take two junior tutorials (Government 98), two junior seminars (Government 90), or one of each. Enrollment determined by a lottery based on student preferences. Students planning on being off campus during part or all of junior year should see the Head Tutor about permission to take junior tutorials or seminars before or after their absence. Undergraduate nonconcentrators may enroll in junior tutorials or seminars if space is available. All students wishing to enroll in Government 90 or 98 must participate in the lottery.

*Government 99r. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 3652
Russell Muirhead (fall term), Sharon R. Krause (spring term) and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
*Note: Taken as two half courses by those who have elected the honors program and in order to write their senior theses.
*Prerequisite: Two half courses of Government 98 or 90, in any combination.

Political Methodology and Formal Theory

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Government 1000. Quantitative Methods for Political Science I
Catalog Number: 3990
Jasjeet Singh Sekhon
Half course (fall term). Th., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 18
Introduction to major quantitative techniques used in political science. Covers exploratory data analysis, as well as descriptive and causal statistical inference of many types. The course emphasizes probability theory, regression analysis and other statistical techniques, and uses new techniques of stochastic simulation to get answers easily and to interpret statistical results in a manner very close to the political substance of the problem at hand.
*Note: Frequently taken by undergraduates needing quantitative techniques for thesis research and by graduate students satisfying department requirements. This course also serves as the first in a series of three quantitative courses offered by the department. Qualified undergraduates are welcome.

Government 1001. Introduction to Quantitative Methods in Political Science
Catalog Number: 0881
Jasjeet Singh Sekhon
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 3. EXAM GROUP: 8
This course is specifically designed for undergraduates who wish to use quantitative research methods in their own work. Topics will include descriptive and summary statistics, probability, sampling and statistical inference including estimation and tests of hypotheses. The course emphasizes multiple regression. Applications will focus on two substantive research questions: “Who really won the 2000 Presidential Election”? and “How do citizens evaluate elected officials”? or “Is it really the economy, stupid”?

Prerequisite: High school algebra.

[Government 1003. Designing Political Science Research]
Catalog Number: 2742
Lisa L. Martin and Gary King
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Teaches how to design social science research. Explains how to recognize research questions that are most likely to be answerable and productive. Analyzes how to develop successful strategies for answering research questions, including deciding what evidence to gather, how to organize and analyze it, and how you would know if you were right or wrong. This course is for those planning to go to graduate school or law school, or considering writing senior theses, or who are curious about how to do political science rather than merely debate its findings.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 1005. The Practice of Research in Political Science
Catalog Number: 4607
John Mark Hansen
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 12 and a section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5
This is a first course in the methods of research as practiced across a broad range of the social sciences. It is meant to enable you to be critical in your evaluations of claims about politics, society, and the economy, whether the claims are others’ or your own. You will learn first, how to identify and evaluate factual claims for accuracy and relevance, and second, how to construct and test causal claims. The course will use data that address a broad range of topics in political science and the other social sciences.

Note: Open to undergraduates only.

Cross-listed Courses

The courses listed below do not satisfy the political theory field requirement in Government.

[Social Analysis 46. Thinking about Politics: A Rational Choice Approach]

Primarily for Graduates

Catalog Number: 8941
Gary King
Half course (spring term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course introduces the theories of inference underlying most statistical methods. It covers how new approaches to research methods, data analysis, and statistical theory are developed. With this foundation, we introduce (and “reinvent”) a wide variety of known statistical solutions to a wide range of social science data problems. We also show how it is easy to conceive original approaches and new statistical estimators when required. The specific models introduced will be chosen based on students’ research topics. In past years they have included models for event counts, ecological inference, time-series cross sectional analysis, compositional data, causal inference, and others.

Note: Government 1000 or the equivalent is a prerequisite. More information is available at Gary King’s website.

Government 2002. Topics in Quantitative Methods

Catalog Number: 8168
Jasjeet Singh Sekhon
Half course (fall term). Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
The class explores various topics in quantitative methods. Particular attention is given to time-series and time-series cross sectional analysis. Additional topics will also be covered in part depending on the interests of the participants. Additional topics may include generalized linear models, latent variable models, and limited-dependent and qualitative variable methods.
Note: Qualified undergraduates welcome.

Government 2004. Qualitative Analysis: Analytic Frameworks for Explaining and Predicting Decisions and Actions in Domestic and Foreign Affairs

Catalog Number: 5002
Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Graham T. Allison, Jr. (Kennedy School)
Half course (fall term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Exploration and practice in qualitative methods of analysis. Begins with examination of philosophical and conceptual assumptions embodied in alternative models for explaining and predicting decisions and actions in both domestic and foreign affairs. Examines theories of rational choice, cognition and perception, organizational behavior, bureaucratic politics, intergovernmental relations, and multilevel game theory. Each student will prepare a research paper. Grades will be based on the paper and on class participation.
Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School of Government as ISP-305. Meets at the Kennedy School.

Government 2005. Game Theory

Catalog Number: 1719
Scott Ashworth
Half course (fall term). W., 12–2 with a section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6
An introduction to game theory and its applications to political science. Applications will include majority voting, bargaining, collective action, reputation, signaling and the implementation of social choice rules.

Catalog Number: 5487
Scott Ashworth
Half course (spring term). M., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6
The course introduces social choice, implementation, mechanism design, monotone comparative statics, and rational learning. Applications will be drawn from all four subfields.

Note: Government 2005 (formerly 2050) or equivalent recommended.

Government 2008 (formerly Government 2141). History, Institutions, and Political Analysis
Catalog Number: 6266
Paul Pierson and Theda Skocpol
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
A recent trend in political science has been the turn to history, as analysts ask what the investigation of earlier events and processes can tell us about the nature of contemporary politics. Course examines this body of research to clarify the pitfalls and possibilities of studying politics as a process which takes place over time. Among the themes to be explored are: ideas of path dependence and critical junctures in political development; techniques for studying the significance of timing and sequence in politics; and role of actors’ time horizons—which may be long or short—in shaping political processes. Places considerable emphasis on recent theories of institutional origins, development and change, because institutions are perhaps the principal instruments through which previous politics shape current politics. Readings will include a wide range of empirical and theoretical writings drawn from all the subfields of political science.

Government 2009. Methods of Political Analysis
Catalog Number: 1080
Peter A. Hall and Andrew Moravcsik
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course explores the issues of research design vital to doctoral students planning to undertake empirical research in political science, including issues associated with conceptualization, measurement, comparison, selection of cases, and establishing causal relationships, as well as some of the deeper dilemmas of understanding a complex, multicausal world. Each week we read some articles on these issues and examples of efforts to resolve them with a view to building up good instincts for research strategy.

Note: Open to all doctoral students including those beyond their second year.

Government 2010. Strategies of Political Inquiry
Catalog Number: 7421
Gary King, Robert D. Putnam, and Sidney Verba
Half course (fall term). Th., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15
If you could learn only one thing in graduate school, it should be how to do scholarly research—assess scholarly literatures, identify interesting questions, formulate research designs, learn methodological tools, and write up results for publication. We discuss each for both quantitative and qualitative studies.

Note: Primarily for graduate students; also taken by undergraduates preparing for senior thesis research.

Government 2015. Introduction to Computational Modeling for Social Scientists
Catalog Number: 9088
Lars-Erik Cederman
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This seminar provides an introduction to Java programming using a package called RePast. Basic agent-based models will be covered.

Prerequisite: Programming experience desirable but not required.

---

Government 2016. Applied Computational Modeling

Catalog Number: 7465
Lars-Erik Cederman
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

This seminar covers advanced programming techniques allowing the participants to apply computational techniques to substantive areas of their own choosing.

Prerequisite: Government 2015, “Introduction to Computational Modeling for Social Scientists”, or by agreement.

Political Thought and Its History

---

For Undergraduates and Graduates

---

Government 1060. The History of Ancient and Medieval Political Philosophy

Catalog Number: 4978
Harvey C. Mansfield
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Political philosophy from Plato to Thomas Aquinas, with special attention to the question of natural right.

---

Government 1061. The History of Modern Political Philosophy

Catalog Number: 5035
Mary P. Nichols (Fordham University)
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Political philosophy from Machiavelli to Neitzsche, with emphasis on its contribution to modern liberalism.

---

Government 1065. Continental Political Thought

Catalog Number: 6288
Dana Richard Villa (University of California, Santa Barbara)
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14

Examines the response of leading theorists to the promise and pathologies of the modern age. We will consider the political implications of the decline of authority, community, and the public sphere; the problem of institutionalizing freedom in the modern nation state; and the fate of moral and political agency in a bureaucratized world. Special attention paid to political and cultural criticisms of liberal democracy. Readings from Hegel, Marx, Nietzsche, Weber, Schmitt, the Frankfurt School, and Hannah Arendt.

[Government 1080. American Political Thought]

Catalog Number: 8049
Russell Muirhead
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
American political thought, with a focus on the period 1760-1865. Topics include religion, empire and revolution, natural rights, federalism, race, pluralism, and national identity. Readings drawn mainly from primary sources, including the writings of Franklin, Madison, Hamilton, Adams, Webster, Calhoun, Anthony, Stanton, Douglas, and Lincoln. Course will also consider contemporary interpretations of the American political tradition and public philosophy.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 1085. Dilemmas in Feminism

Catalog Number: 7730
Melissa Sharon Lane (Cambridge University)
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3

Examines a number of cases over which feminists have been and are bitterly divided, such as divorce laws, birth control, pornography, rights, and surrogate motherhood. By considering the radically opposed positions taken by various feminist thinkers on these cases, the course elucidates fundamental issues in feminist thought such as the meaning of autonomy and choice, and the relation of the personal to the political.

Cross-listed Courses

Note: These courses do not satisfy the political theory field requirement in Government.

Reading and discussion of rival accounts of the basic concepts of political thinking.

[Government 2034. Markets, Morals, and Law]

Catalog Number: 4652
Michael J. Sandel
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Are there some things that money cannot or should not buy? If so, what moral limits, if any, should the law impose on market exchanges? The seminar will examine a range of morally contested contracts and exchanges—from surrogacy, organ sales, and prostitution to usury and interest, vote-selling, life insurance, wage labor, and pollution permits—and consider the philosophical questions they raise. Course readings will be drawn from political theory, moral philosophy, and selected law cases.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with, and meets at, the Law School. Open to GSAS students with permission of the instructor.

Government 2065. Associations
Catalog Number: 3387
Nancy Lipton Rosenblum

Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This seminar focuses on freedom for associational life, with readings drawn from the history of political thought, contemporary philosophy, and law. The question “should government impose public norms of justice on the internal lives of groups?” will focus on cultural groups, religious associations, and political parties.

Government 2075. Nietzsche and Arendt
Catalog Number: 5814
Dana Richard Villa (University of California, Santa Barbara)

Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Examines the development of Nietzsche’s philosophical and political views, as well as their unexpected influence on the political thinking of Hannah Arendt. Readings include "Beyond Good and Evil," "The Genealogy of Morals," and "The Human Condition."

Government 2080. Topics in Political Philosophy: The Political Philosophy of Spinoza
Catalog Number: 6828
Harvey C. Mansfield

Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9

Government 2085. Nationalism
Catalog Number: 5097
Glyn Morgan

Half course (fall term). W., 7–9 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 9
Questions addressed include: is nationalism a defensible political ideology? what is liberal nationalism? can rational choice theory explain nationalism? does nationalism make sense in an era of globalization and multiculturalism.

Comparative Government

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Government 1100. Political Economy of Development]
Catalog Number: 7687
Devesh Kapur

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Comparative analysis of political economy of development drawing on case studies from Africa, Asia, the Middle East, and Latin America.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 1102. Democratization and Economic Reform
Catalog Number: 6232
Yoshiko M. Herrera

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12

A comparative investigation of market-oriented economic reforms and transitions to democracy in Latin America, Eastern Europe, and East Asia. Considers the bases of democracy and economic prosperity, and analyzes the consolidation of political institutions under conditions of economic crisis, as well as the possibilities for economic reform under conditions of weak political institutions. Class sessions will be divided between lectures and discussions.

Catalog Number: 5508
Grzegorz Ekiert

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Reviews the contemporary literature on collective action, protest, and social movements. Focuses primarily on political factors facilitating protest, repertoires of contention, the role of cultural factors and the construction of identities through collective action, and methods of studying collective action. Cases will be drawn from different regions and historical periods.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Government 1145 (formerly Government 90rb). Comparative Constitutional Engineering
Catalog Number: 4678
Cindy Skach

Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

This course critically examines when, and how, institutional design affects the performance and stability of democracy. Topics include the manipulation of party systems via electoral systems; incentive structures in the presidential, parliamentary, and semi-presidential constitutional types; the “problems” of divided government, minority government and divided minority government; the increasingly important role of constitutional courts; and the challenge of engineering in deeply divided societies. Examples are drawn from a variety of world regions and historical periods.

[Government 1173. The Politics of Western Europe]
Catalog Number: 0105
Cindy Skach

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

A critical introduction to domestic institutions and policy styles in Western Europe since 1945. Britain, France, Germany, and Italy will be examined in the context of more comparative themes. Topics discussed will include: political parties, interest groups, and changing patterns of interest articulation and representation; constitutional types and executive-legislative behavior; the politics of federalism and regionalism; the evolving conceptions of the state, sovereignty and citizenship; and the “Europeanization” of domestic politics.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Catalog Number: 9130 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Robert H. Bates
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 1, and Tu., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 15, 16
Students will attend lectures with Social Analysis 52 and also meet for a 1 1/2 hour seminar.
Reading and discussion will focus on the political economy of development in Africa, viewed from an historical perspective.

Government 1207. Comparative Politics of the Middle East
Catalog Number: 5232
Eva Bellin
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Introduction to the politics of the region through the study of regimes in Saudi Arabia, Syria, Egypt, Lebanon, Turkey, and Israel. Themes include the historical legacy of colonialism, the logic of authoritarian survival, the role of religion in politics, the perils and profits of rent, the challenge of ethnic pluralism, the politics of gender, and the prospects for democratization in the region.

[Government 1208. The Politics of Islamic Resurgence]
Catalog Number: 0907
Eva Bellin
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Studies the impact of Islamic resurgence on both international and intranational politics. Explores competing explanations for Islamic resurgence (cultural, economic, and political), Islamic movements in comparative perspective (with cases selected cross-regionally from Iran and Egypt to Indonesia and France), the ideological content of Islamic revival (and debates over its potential conflict with Western notions of democracy, human rights, and gender equality), the successes and failures of Islamic revolution, the politics of cultural change, and Islam as supranational movement.

[Government 1295. Comparative Politics in Latin America]
Catalog Number: 4241
Steven R. Levitsky
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30, and a section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Examines the dynamics of political and economic change in 20th-century Latin America, exploring the causes and consequences of the phenomena we have conceptualized as populism, import substituting industrialization (ISI), bureaucratic authoritarianism, democracy, and neoliberalism. Examines Latin American politics from the collapse of oligarchic rule and the emergence of populism and ISI in the 1930s and 1940s to the widespread collapse of democracy and establishment of military regimes in the 1960s and 1970s, to the contemporary processes of democratization and economic liberalization. The course compares different theoretical approaches in an effort to explain both these general processes of change and important differences across Latin American countries.

Analyzes how the concept of identity is currently being used in the social sciences, particularly history and political science. Examines classic works on racial, ethnic, class, status, gender, religious, regional, transnational, and national identity in history and political science. Focus will be on defining identity more precisely and, in particular, exploring and evaluating new techniques for measuring identity.

[Government 2148. Civil Society, West and East]
Catalog Number: 4675
Susan J. Pharr and Grzegorz Ekiert
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar explores the rise of civil society in states worldwide. It examines the debates over what civil society is, the notion of “public space,” and the idea of “civic engagement,” and looks at the complex relationship between civil society and the state, on the one hand, and markets, on the other. After tracing the emergence of civil society in Western Europe, the seminar looks at the forms civil society is taking in other settings, from Eastern Europe to the Asia-Pacific. It examines how a wide range of factors, from wars to the internet to the rise of international NGOs, affects the nature and quality of civic life, and democratic transitions, in different countries.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Reviews the emerging patterns of conflict in post-Cold War global politics, focusing on the relations among the major powers, the roles of economic, military, and “soft” power, weapons proliferation, and ethnic conflicts. An effort will be made to evaluate to what extent post-Cold War global politics can be explained by such theories as neo-realism, the end of history, economic integration, transnationalism, and the clash of civilizations.
Note: Open to qualified undergraduates.

*Government 2790. Central Issues of American Foreign Policy
Catalog Number: 3567
Graham T. Allison, Jr. (Kennedy School) and Robert D. Blackwill
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Examination of central issues of American foreign policy today. What developments pose principal challenges and opportunities for U.S. policy? What are priority U.S. national interests? In foreign policymaking, how are national, domestic, and bureaucratic interests and perspectives adjudicated and amalgamated? Course examines a dozen issues at the top of the current international agenda—from “loose nukes” in Russia, potential confrontation with China over Taiwan, and peacekeeping in Rwanda to trade disputes with Japan and the IMF reform—and analyzes the international environment, identifies specific policy options, considers pros and cons, and reflects on processes for choice and action. Course seeks to combine operational assignments and conceptual/theoretical writings that help clarify choices. Students learn both about current issues and how to analyze issues and present them in option memos.

Note: Offered jointly with the Kennedy School of Government as ISP-202. Meets at the Kennedy School.

The PhD in Health Policy, awarded by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, draws upon the resources of five faculties: The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the School of Public Health, the Medical School, and the John F. Kennedy School of Government, and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. This degree is intended primarily for students seeking teaching careers in institutes of higher learning and/or research careers in policy.

Students in the PhD Program in Health Policy choose a concentration and meet specific curriculum requirements in one of seven disciplines: decision sciences, economics, ethics, evaluative science and statistics, management, medical sociology, or political analysis. In addition to choosing a concentration, students specialize in one of four areas of policy interest: environmental health, health care services, mental health, or public health.

Decision Sciences (Professor Milton C. Weinstein, Chair). Decision Sciences are the collection of quantitative techniques that are used for decision making at the individual and collective level.
They include decision analysis, cost-benefit and cost-effectiveness analysis, decision modeling, and behavioral decision theory. The concentration in decision sciences prepares students for research careers that involve the application of these methods to health problems.

Economics (Professor Joseph P. Newhouse, Chair). The concentration in economics focuses on the economic behavior of individuals; providers; insurers; and federal, state, and local governments as their actions affect health and medical care. In addition to examining the literature on health economics, the training emphasizes microeconomic theory; econometrics; public finance; industrial organization; labor economics; and interactions with other disciplines, including clinical medicine. This concentration prepares students for research and teaching careers as health economists.

Ethics (Professor Allan M. Brandt, Chair). The ethics concentration integrates quantitative and qualitative approaches to the analysis of ethical issues in health policy and clinical practice. Students in this track will focus on developing skills in a range of disciplines, with the goal of evaluating, through empirically-based research, how moral, ethical, and socio-cultural values shape health policies as well as clinical practices.

Management (Professor Gary P. Pisano, chair). The management concentration emphasizes the organizational, managerial, and strategic issues facing health care providers, payers, and other players in the health care market. Students will learn how theories and concepts from fields such as technology and operations management, organizational behavior, organizational economics, and competitive strategy can be applied to health care organizations. Areas of research include: the design and improvement of health care delivery processes, approaches for improving health care quality and productivity, development and adoption of new medical technologies, financial incentives in health care, new role of patients as consumers of health care, appropriate ownership and organizational structure of hospitals and other health care providers, and management of professional health care staff. Students will be required to take MBA, economic theory, and quantitative methods courses, as well as the Management and Markets course, at the Harvard Business School. We expect students completing this track to find jobs in academic and research institutions which have an interest in the impact of management on health care.

Medical Sociology (Professor Paul D. Cleary, Chair). In this track, students will learn about and contribute to knowledge in several research areas that are extremely important to health policy, including the study of professions and professional behavior; the structure of health care organizations and systems; the impact of organizational and professional change on the structure of medical work; organizational improvement programs and their evaluations; evaluation of intervention programs; the diffusion of innovations across providers and organizations; and the behavior of patients and consumers—including consumer evaluations of health care quality and patient perspectives on the process and outcomes of care.

Political Analysis (Professor Robert J. Blendon, Chair). This concentration is intended for students who wish to do research on political behavior and its effect in the health field. Students will study theories of public opinion formation, voting behavior, legislative behavior, interest group influence, and political strategy as well as examine the role of both political institutions and the media on influencing health policy outcomes. The research methodologies most utilized in this track include survey research methods and quantitative statistical methods appropriate for large-scale databases. Graduates of this concentration will likely teach and do research on the politics of health care and will be involved with government, professional, and consumer groups on research projects related to the politics of public policy in the health field.

Evaluative Science and Statistics (Professor Barbara J. McNeil and Professor Stephen Soumerai, co-chairs). Training in this concentration in health services and policy evaluation will enable students to evaluate the effects of a wide range of health services and policies (e.g., insurance, health care quality improvement, and cost-containment) on behaviors, access, processes and quality of care, health outcomes or costs. Students in this concentration will develop proficiency in experimental and quasi-experimental research design, statistics, other methodological approaches (e.g., epidemiology, program evaluation, qualitative methods and survey design) and relevant social sciences. Previous students in this track have used innovative methodological and statistical approaches to study, for example: the effects of drug coverage on access to essential medications in Medicare; the effects of employment on population health; international differences in outcomes of medical care for acute myocardial infarction; the health effects of HMO reductions and subsequent government increases in maternity lengths of stay; and effects of regulatory changes in legal drinking ages on health and mortality.

Applications: The application deadline is December 15th for admission in the following fall. To request admissions material, applicants should contact the Harvard University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, Byerly Hall, 8 Garden Street, Cambridge, MA 02138—(617) 495-5315 — or visit the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences web page (www.gsas.harvard.edu/admissions) to apply on-line or to request an application. Directed Study for Undergraduates

The Department makes available, so far as its resources permit, opportunity for individual instruction in fields of special interest in which a regular course is not offered.
*History 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1458
Joyce Elizabeth Chaplin and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open only to juniors and seniors. Students wishing to enroll must petition the Head Tutor for approval, stating the proposed project, and must have the consent of the proposed instructor. Ordinarily, students are required to have taken some course work as background for their project. May not count for either concentration or distribution in History.

Tutorials in History

*History 97. Sophomore Tutorial
Catalog Number: 4469
Lisa M. McGirr, Jane E. Mangan, and Laurel Thatcher Ulrich
Half course (fall term). Tu., through Th., 10-12, or 2-4. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Introduction to the ways in which historians recreate the past. Students will read prototypes of historical genres and write their own histories in alternating sessions. Discussion sections and small tutorials.
Note: Required of, and limited to, all History concentrators in the fall term of their sophomore year.

*History 98a. Honors Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 3556
James Hankins and William E. Gienapp
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Methods of historical research and writing.
Note: Required of, and ordinarily limited to, honors juniors concentrating in History.
Prerequisite: Admission to the honors program in History.

*History 98b. Honors Field Tutorial
Catalog Number: 6063
Patrice M. Dabrowski
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Guided research and writing of a junior paper.
Note: Required of, and limited to, honors juniors concentrating in History.
Prerequisite: Admission to the honors program in History.

*History 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 5803
Joyce Elizabeth Chaplin and members of the Department
Full course. W., 6–9 p.m.
Note: Required of, and ordinarily limited to, honors seniors concentrating in History. Research and writing the senior honors essay in History. Permission must be obtained in the Tutorial Office. Either half year may be taken as a half course with the consent of the Head Tutor. A student wishing to drop History 99 with credit at midyear must get the consent of the Head Tutor and submit a substantial paper on which final credit can be based. A student who remains in the course in the second half year, but fails to submit an honors thesis when due, must, if desiring credit for the full course, submit a more substantial paper, ordinarily due not later than the day before the spring term Reading Period begins.
Prerequisite: History 98 and recommendation of the 98 tutor.

History 90. Historiography Seminars

These half-courses are limited to 15 participants. All History concentrators are required to take the History 90 in their field, ordinarily in the spring of their sophomore year. Other undergraduates may be admitted into History 90 at the discretion of the instructor. History 90 is closed to graduate students.

History 90a. Major Themes in Medieval History
Catalog Number: 0708
Thomas N. Bisson
Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Designed in collaboration with students to introduce research topics while complementing other courses. Themes typically include power and society, work, sanctity, gender, learning, theology, crusading, and personality. Stress on views and confusions of modern historians.
Prerequisite: History 10a or History 1101 advisable.

Catalog Number: 1833

History 90c. Major Themes in Modern European History
Catalog Number: 5303
Charles S. Maier
Discusses major themes in Modern European history.

History 90d. Major Themes in Western Intellectual History
Catalog Number: 4955
James T. Kloppenberg
Half course (spring term). F., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Major questions of substance and approach in the study of Western intellectual history will be explored through some secondary and many primary readings grouped around the following themes: the definition of the Enlightenment; a question in intellectual biography; and theories of education from Locke to Dewey.

History 90e. Major Themes in American Historical Writing
Catalog Number: 4577
Joyce Elizabeth Chaplin and Susan O’Donovan
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An examination of critical themes in American historical writing from the late 19th century to the present. Students will read selections from classics in American historiography and will examine debates among historians on some of the most important issues in U.S. history. Among the themes explored will be the frontier; the origins of the American Revolution; labor in the ante-bellum period; and the legacies of the Cold War.

*History 90f. International Relations
Catalog Number: 4422
Akira Iriye
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Major themes in modern international history.

*History 90g. Comparative History: Major Themes in the Historiography of Colonialism, Imperialism, and Post-Colonialism
Catalog Number: 0119
Hue-Tam Ho Tai
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
A general introduction to theories of imperialism, nationalism, and postcolonialism. Case studies include examples from the African and Asian contexts. Will combine the study of theories with an examination of particular anti-colonial and anti-imperialist movements.

*History 90h. Major Problems of Latin American History: Culture, Class, and Politics
Catalog Number: 4232
John Womack, Jr.
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
An introduction to the history of the ways in which people in “Latin America” have conceptualized and lived culture, class, and politics.

*History 90i (formerly History 90x). Major Themes in Ancient History
Catalog Number: 4922
Nino Luraghi
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An overview of some of the major issues in Greco-Roman history, with special attention given to the methodologies of the ancient historian.

Introductory Courses

The transformation of the Earth, its societies, and human values over the past 100 years.
Examines interactions among, and parallel developments within, major global societies. The course deals thematically and chronologically with three broad themes. “Peoples and Environments” examines the human species in its natural and man-made environments; its migration; and its diseases, old and new. “States and Societies” surveys the transition from the old land-based empires to national states and their conflicts; the social and political impact of the two world wars and world economic depression; nationalist, social-democratic, and authoritarian political projects; overseas empires and decolonization; the search for economic development; consequences of the Cold War, its end, and of “globalization.” “Culture and Values” examines the endurance, rise, or fall of systems of belief, religious and secular, across the century.

Eugene Wang, Assistant Professor of History of Art and Architecture (on leave 2001-02)
Courses in the History of Art and Architecture undergraduate curriculum are structured as a three-tier system, consisting of a sequence of entry-level courses, field-specific introductory courses, and upper-level courses. For the concentrator, these are supplemented by tutorials. Passage through the sequence from entry level to more advanced classes is encouraged—particularly for prospective concentrators.

Three entry-level courses are offered, HAA 10, HAA 11, and Literature and Arts B-10, each of which would serve as a point of entry into the courses and concentration of History of Art and Architecture. History of Art and Architecture 12-89 constitute field-specific introductions to the major subfields of art history and their associated methodologies. These introductory courses are intended both for students in the concentration and for non-concentrators with an interest in a particular subject within History of Art and Architecture. History of Art and Architecture 100-199, upper-level courses, tend to focus upon a particular problem or set of materials within a subfield.

Primarily for Undergraduates

History of Art and Architecture 10, The Western Tradition: Art Since the Renaissance
Catalog Number: 4988
Henri Zerner

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14

Concentrating on painting but with reference to other media, the course will examine art between the beginning of Modern Times around 1400 until the present. It will be team taught and organized around specific topics each occupying one week. It will be organized chronologically but will not attempt to cover the material but to highlight important issues, debates, innovations, specific works or artists.

Cherie A. Wendelken and members of the Faculty

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14

Examines great monuments in world architecture and the unique aesthetic, cultural, and historical issues that frame them. Faculty members will each lecture on a building or complex in their area of expertise. These will include St. Peter’s, Guggenheim Museum, Chartres Cathedral, Taj Mahal, Paris Opera, Pompidou Center, Hagia Sophia, temples at Khajuraho, Hôtel de Soubise, and palaces at Katsura, Versailles, and Nineveh. Sections will focus on key questions in the analysis and interpretation of architecture.

[History of Art and Architecture 12x. Introduction to Islamic Architecture (650-1650)]

Catalog Number: 4040

Gülru Necipoğlu-Kafadar

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

An introduction to the major monuments of medieval and early modern architecture in the Islamic world stretching from Spain in the west to the borders of China in the east. Architectural monuments will be examined in their cultural, political, socio-economic, and aesthetic contexts. A highly selective survey, emphasizing the methodological concerns of the field through a focused study of building programs in such monuments as the Dome of the Rock in Jerusalem; the Great Mosques of Damascus, Samarra, Cordoba, Marrakesh, Isfahan, Samarqand, Cairo, Istanbul, Delhi and Agra; and other building types including madrasas, shrines, mausoleums, caravansarays, palaces, and gardens.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[History of Art and Architecture 12y. Introduction to Islamic Art: Visual and Portable Arts in Context]

Catalog Number: 3235

David J. Roxburgh

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Introduces key examples of the arts of the book, calligraphy, and portable arts (e.g. ceramics, metalwork, textiles, ivory) made between 650 and 1650 in the Islamic world, from the rise of Islam through to the pre-modern “Gunpowder Empires.” Objects are examined in light of their cultural, political, socio-economic, and aesthetic contexts. Themes include production and patronage; systems of object content and use; intermedial correspondences; and cross-cultural relationships of content and form. The selected materials are studied through a range of methodologies.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.
[History of Art and Architecture 13h. Foundations of Early Civilization: An Introduction to the Art of Ancient Mesopotamia]
Catalog Number: 7382
Irene J. Winter
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Survey of the art and archaeology of ancient Mesopotamia from Uruk through the Neo-Assyrian periods, charting the relationship between the arts and society from the earliest city-states to the beginnings of empire. Includes a survey of archaeological data as well as those art-historical approaches available for analysis of ancient monuments.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 13k. Introduction to Roman Art and Architecture
Catalog Number: 1426
Rabun Taylor
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
At its height, the Roman Empire extended from Scotland to Syria, and from the North Sea to the Sahara. This course examines the art and architecture produced in lands under Roman rule during a one thousand year period, from Rome’s beginnings as an Etruscan-influenced city in the 7th century BCE to the Christianizing of Rome in the 4th century CE.

[History of Art and Architecture 14. Introduction to Early Medieval Art]
Catalog Number: 2049
Jeffrey F. Hamburger
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Western art and architecture, from the Age of the Invasions through the 13th century, with greater emphasis on significant themes, contexts, and approaches than on chronological coverage.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 15d. Introduction to Italian Renaissance Painting and Sculpture ca. 1260–1600
Catalog Number: 1682
John Shearman
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
An introduction to the major personalities and events in four Italian styles: Gothic, Renaissance, High Renaissance, and Mannerist. The approach assumes that we are concerned essentially with history—with one branch of a large family of historical studies. The works of art are thus studied in the context of whatever human, social, political, technological, or economic circumstances are most appropriate. The course is a highly selective survey. The lectures vary widely in method and focus, a secondary intention being to illustrate the concerns of art history as a discipline.

History of Art and Architecture 17z. Introduction to the History of Photography
Catalog Number: 3515
Robin E. Kelsey
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12
An introduction to the history of photography from its origins to the present, with an emphasis on the role of the medium in the development of modern modes of experience and pictorial... intelligence. The course considers photography in relation to, among other things, science, entertainment, social order, tourism, publicity, and history.

[History of Art and Architecture 18d. Introduction to the Art and Architecture of India]
Catalog Number: 6967
Pramod Chandra
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Gives a general idea of ancient Indian architecture, sculpture, and painting through carefully selected monuments and themes. Visual analysis and the importance of artistic evidence in the understanding of the sketchy historical record of the country are emphasized.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[History of Art and Architecture 18g. Introduction to the Art and Architecture of Japan]
Catalog Number: 2470
Cherie A. Wendelken
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A survey of Japanese art and architecture from prehistoric times to the 20th century. The major achievements of each period are examined in the context of cultural history, with emphasis on the relationship between the arts and place-making.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 19x. Introduction to African American Art History
Catalog Number: 2396
Gwendolyn DuBois Shaw
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 15
This course examines over two hundred years of artistic production by peoples of African descent living in the United States. While focusing primarily on the fine arts, a variety of media and methodologies will be examined: from 19th-century landscape painting to contemporary avant garde installations; from the material culture of slavery to the vernacular art of the current era.

History of Art and Architecture 40. Court and Cloister in the Later Middle Ages
Catalog Number: 0734
Jeffrey F. Hamburger
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
Courtly culture and patronage, primarily in Paris, Prague, and Burgundy, with an emphasis on issues of artistic exchange, dynastic commemoration, princely piety, the development of secular genres, and the emergence of the court artist.

History of Art and Architecture 70. Introduction to Modern Art and Visual Culture, 1700–1990s
Catalog Number: 4593
Ewa Lajer-Burcharth
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
What is modernity, and what is the place of visual representation within modern culture? What conceptions of individuality, originality, and desire are at work in the idea of “the artist” in the modern period? Central to the course will be examination of the place of the body and of sexuality in different stylistic regimes—in rococo, Neo-classicism, Impressionism, Abstraction, and beyond; as well as changing conceptions of “identity” in relation to national, imperial, and post-colonial contexts. The course will examine the whole range of modern media, from painting, sculpture, prints, and photography to video, installation, and performance art.

History of Art and Architecture 124z. Architecture and Dynastic Legitimacy: The Early Modern Islamic Empires (1450-1650)
Catalog Number: 4604
Gülru Necipoğlu-Kafadar
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 15
In the 16th century, three great regional empires partitioned among themselves the central zone of Islam from the Balkans to Bengal. The Mediterranean-based Ottomans, the Safavids in Iran, and the Mughals in India formed separate cultural domains with distinct architectural idioms. The formation of these autonomous architectural modes is traced from their common origins in the 15th-century Timurid heritage. The building types each empire emphasized are studied as an index of differing imperial ideologies and theories of dynastic legitimacy. Variations in the architectural practices of the Mediterranean, Iran, and India are stressed, together with differing modes of architectural decoration.

History of Art and Architecture 126x. Early Islamic Painting and the Portable Arts: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 2064 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Eva R. Hoffman (Tufts University)
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
An exploration of the visual arts in Muslim lands from Spain to Central Asia between the seventh and the thirteenth centuries, with special attention to issues and strategies involved in the study of small scale portable arts in such media as ceramics, metal work, ivory, textiles and the arts of the book. Topics include patronage, cultural interchange, inter-media exchange between small and large scale monuments, the circulation of works between public and private, secular and religious spheres.

History of Art and Architecture 137. Cross-Cultural Aesthetics: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 0302 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Irene J. Winter
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
An inquiry into aesthetic theory as it was developed in Western Europe in the 18th and 19th centuries, and how that approach may be used to examine the art of non-European traditions. After a set of common readings and discussion, students will be asked to select a particular tradition for research, and examine the utility of such concepts as “beauty” cross-culturally. Class presentation and paper.

[History of Art and Architecture 140r. Byzantine Art]
Catalog Number: 3687 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Ioli Kalavrezou
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The course will focus on what is considered the “classical” in Byzantine art. The question of a Macedonian renaissance and its consequences will be given special emphasis.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 143m. The Art of the Court of Constantinople
Catalog Number: 4412
Ioli Kalavrezou
Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Concentrates on art and architecture created for the court of Constantinople from the 9th to the 12th century. Focuses on objects and monuments, exploring their role in political, religious, and personal events.

History of Art and Architecture 146. The Illuminated Manuscript
Catalog Number: 0161 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Jeffrey F. Hamburger
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Selected topics and issues in the history of the illuminated manuscript in the Latin West, including sessions in the Houghton Library.

History of Art and Architecture 165x. Sets and Settings of Baroque Theater
Catalog Number: 2054 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Alice G. Jarrard
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Explores the sets and the architectural settings for spectacle in seventeenth and eighteenth-century Europe. Taking reconstructions of the Vitruvian theater as the starting point for an examination of dynastic, public, and ecclesiastical theater in Italy, England, France, and Spain, the course emphasizes the spatial and visual dimensions of settings for dramatic and operatic performance. What is the nature of “theatrical” architecture? Issues of spectatorship, perspective, and technology will be emphasized.

[History of Art and Architecture 170. Artists and Architects: Collaborations, Overlaps, Confrontations: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 6145 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Neil Levine
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the multifaceted relationships between architecture and art from the 1960s on. Works and writings by Donald Judd, Frank Gehry, Yves Klein, Robert Venturi, Claes Oldenburg, Daniel Liebeskind, Ed Ruscha, Gordon Matta-Clark, and Frank Stella will be among those studied.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[History of Art and Architecture 171t. Degas: Beyond Impressionism]
Catalog Number: 7454 Enrollment: Limited to 50.
James Cuno
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examination of the character and meaning of Degas’ idiosyncratic body of work in light of recent revisionist histories of Impressionism. Special emphasis will be placed on works in the collection of the Fogg Art Museum.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 171z. American Landscapes, 1860-1900
Catalog Number: 2109 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Robin E. Kelsey
Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
This course considers four decades of New World landscapes in various media, with an emphasis on photography and painting. Topics include industrialization, nationalism, geological and biological processes, the frontier, recreation, and disenchantment. Special emphasis on the work of photographers Timothy O’Sullivan, Carleton Watkins, George Barnard, and Eadweard Muybridge, and the painters Albert Bierstadt, Winslow Homer, Ralph Blakelock, Martin Johnson Heade, and George Inness.

History of Art and Architecture 172. Impressionism
Catalog Number: 0808
James Cuno
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
This course will examine the development of the “New Painting” in Paris from Manet’s Déjeuner sur l’herbe of 1863 to the late paintings of Monet and Degas in the first decades of the 20th century. In addition to their formal and technical achievements, we will explore the social circumstances in which they worked and the extent of their influence on painting elsewhere in Europe and in North America. Of particular interest will be the rapid development of a bourgeois urban and commercial culture in Paris during the second half of the 19th century.

History of Art and Architecture 173y. Difference from Within: Contemporary Women Artists
Catalog Number: 7251 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Ewa Lajer-Burcharth
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the works of important European and American women artists from the 1950s to the present, including Lee Krasner, Eva Hesse, Hannah Wilkie, Judy Chicago, Rebecca Horn, Mary Kelly, Adrian Piper, Cindy Sherman, and Janine Antoni, among others. Explores the ways of thinking about their art as a representation of difference understood as historically contingent cultural values rather than a natural or innate quality. Seeks less to pit male vs. female artist than to open up a discussion of the woman artist herself as a locus of difference(s) and of the diversity and difference among women’s aesthetic productions.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 174x. Architecture and Urbanism in the Nineteenth Century: Seminar
Catalog Number: 1182 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Neil Levine
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Will focus on major issues in historiography, theory, criticism, and practice in the period between the French Revolution and the rise of Modernism. Works studied will be chosen from Europe, the United States, and the European colonial empire.

History of Art and Architecture 175z. The Architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright
Catalog Number: 3270 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Neil Levine
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Examines the buildings, writings, and ideas of the 20th century’s most celebrated architect through selected projects and themes.
Prerequisite: HAA 11 or equivalent.

History of Art and Architecture 177z. Max Beckmann: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 7808 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Neil Levine
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
The career of Max Beckmann (1884-1950), probably the greatest German painter of the 20th century, spanned academic beginnings, expressionist torment during and after the First World War, sober realism in the 1920s, and grand mythological compositions of his final decades. To assess this singular achievement and its place in the history of modernism, we shall pay close attention to the artist’s writings (in translation) and make particular use of Harvard’s outstanding collection of his works.

History of Art and Architecture 181y. Early Indian Sculpture
Catalog Number: 3518 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Pramod Chandra
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines Indian sculpture, mostly Buddhist in subject, during the three centuries before the Christian era. The approach is primarily visual and an attempt is made to understand the patterns of development and the light shed on contemporary religion.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 184x. Painting of India
Catalog Number: 7460 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Pramod Chandra
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The course examines some important styles, notably ancient wall painting as preserved at Ajanta, western Indian Manuscript painting, the Mughal School patronized by the emperor Akbar and its origins, and 17th-century painting from selected states of Rajasthan. Patronage, and the relationship of painting to literature, music, religion, and political, social, and cultural conditions will also be studied.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 189x. Constructions of Tradition in Modern Japan: Architecture and Art 1868-1968
Catalog Number: 1264 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Both rejection and re-examination of the past were part of the remaking of Japan as a modern nation. This seminar examines the interpretation of premodern history, myth, literature, and art by modern architects and artists working in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Constructions of tradition were part of movements to create national style, revive folk culture, defend the relevance of modernism, and preserve historic cities.

History of Art and Architecture 196. Contemporary Art in Africa
Catalog Number: 8120 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Suzanne P. Blier
Half course (fall term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Major art movements in 20th-century Africa as well as critical issues which have framed related discussions will be treated. Painting, sculpture, photography, graphic arts, architecture, and performance traditions will be explored with an eye toward both their unique African contexts and the relationship of these traditions to contemporary art movements in a more global perspective.

Primarily for Graduates

History of Art and Architecture 206. Science and the Practice of Art History
Catalog Number: 6180 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
John Shearman and Henry William Lie
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
To equip the historian with critical and informed approaches to the range, uses, ambiguities, instruments, and computer applications of scientific, diagnostic investigation of art and architecture, potentially in all media and periods. In short: better to know what we are looking at. In collaboration with specialists in the Straus Center.

History of Art and Architecture 225. Critical Issues in Islamic Art and Architecture
Catalog Number: 2819 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Gülru Necipoglu-Kafadar
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
A critical examination of major issues and methodological problems that have shaped the field since its construction in the 19th century. Themes include the Orientalist discourse on Islamic art and the Islamic city, uses of the classical heritage, aniconism, the arabesque, calligraphy, collecting and exhibiting Islamic art.

History of Art and Architecture 235x. Art of the Royal Tombs of Ur
Catalog Number: 4082 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Irene J. Winter
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Early Dynastic grave goods from Mesopotamia (2600 BCE) will be studied as art, as artifacts of technical mastery, gender and other social roles, and funerary ritual. Course to coincide with exhibition at the Fogg Art Museum, May, 2002.
History of Art and Architecture 240r. Byzantine Art
Catalog Number: 4109 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Ioli Kalavrezou
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
This course will run in conjunction with the preparation for the exhibition “Presenting Byzantine Women.” The students will organize and prepare the presentation of the objects and the final write up of the catalogue.

Catalog Number: 6908 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Jeffrey F. Hamburger
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
The place of sight in the perception, reception, and study of medieval art, with attention to medieval and modern theories of vision and visuality.

History of Art and Architecture 251r. Italian Art of the Renaissance: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6632 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
John Shearman
Half course (fall term). M., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Focuses on a limited aspect of Renaissance Art in Italy, but always examines a substantial body of material. Topic is different each year, to be determined in consultation with prospective students.

History of Art and Architecture 270r. Topics in 19th-Century Art
Catalog Number: 7958 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Henri Zerner
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
The seminar in 2002 will be centered on the work of Théodore Géricault and his place in the art of the Empire and the Restoration.

History of Art and Architecture 271x. Rethinking the Origins of Modernity: The “New” 18th Century
Catalog Number: 1598 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Ewa Lajer-Burcharth
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Discusses the origins of modernity in art, architecture, and visual culture, with emphasis on new methodologies. Among the issues addressed: the public vs. the private sphere; interiors, intimacy, and interiority; high and low culture; the notion of the self; artistic identity; sexuality, sexual difference, and gender; the emergent discourse of race.

[History of Art and Architecture 278y. Modern Art and Subjectivity, 18th Century to the Present]
Catalog Number: 2544 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Ewa Lajer-Burcharth
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores the relation between art and the self in its different, modern configurations. How does art contribute to the formation of subjectivity? What is the place of the visual image within broader cultural discourse of the self in the modern period? How are artists represented in their own works?

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Art and Architecture 278z. Photography and Anxiety
Catalog Number: 7816 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Robin E. Kelsey
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Anxiety pervades many of the most thoughtful answers we have to the question: what is photography? This course examines this anxiety in hopes of obtaining a deeper understanding of the medium and its historical discomforts.

History of Art and Architecture 287x. Methods and Resources for the Study of Chinese Painting and Calligraphy
Catalog Number: 6171 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Qianshen Bai (Boston University)
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Designed to familiarize students with traditional Chinese bibliography, major references, attain skills in reading inscriptions and colophons in cursive script, deciphering seals, and searching for classical poems and essays. Fieldtrips to view private collections.

Charis Thompson, Assistant Professor of the History of Science (on leave 2002-03)
Maria J. Trumpler, Lecturer on the History of Science

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of the History of Science

I. Bernard Cohen, Victor S. Thomas Professor of the History of Science, Emeritus
Donald Fleming, Jonathan Trumbull Research Professor of American History
Owen Gingerich, Research Professor of Astronomy and of the History of Science
Stephen J. Gould, Alexander Agassiz Professor of Zoology in the Museum of Comparative Zoology and Professor of Geology
Erwin N. Hiebert, Professor of the History of Science, Emeritus
Gerald Holton, Mallinckrodt Professor of Physics and Professor of the History of Science, Emeritus
Barbara Gutmann Rosenkrantz, Professor of the History of Science, Emerita
A. I. Sabra, Research Professor of the History of Arabic Science

The Department of the History of Science oversees the undergraduate concentration in History and Science and provides the degree of A.M. and Ph.D. to properly qualified graduate students. The Department also offers instruction in the history of science to students in other fields.

Distribution Fields (DF) for History of Science graduate students are designated after the course description.

Primarily for Undergraduates

*History of Science 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1238
Stephanie Kenen and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Programs of directed reading and research to be conducted by a person approved by the Department.

*History of Science 97a. Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 4719
Stephanie H. Kenen, Carl William Pearson and members of the Department
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Sophomore tutorial introduces students to basic problems and methods in the history of science. Students are expected to develop skills in analyzing original sources and in oral and written presentation. Organized into small sections with occasional lectures to the entire class. The first term examines the period from ancient Greece to the Scientific Revolution. Specific topics vary from year to year. Several short papers assigned.
Note: Required for undergraduate concentration in History and Science.

*History of Science 97b. Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 5235
Stephanie H. Kenen, Eric D. Kupferberg and members of the Department
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The second term of sophomore tutorial examines the period from the Scientific Revolution to the mid-20th century. Specific topics vary from year to year. Course culminates in a closely supervised research paper.
Note: Required for undergraduate concentration in History and Science.

*History of Science 98r. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 1120
David Barnes, Barrington Edwards, and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
One half year of the junior tutorial is a seminar organized around a special topic. The other half year is a research-oriented tutorial taken in small groups. A substantial amount of writing is required in both terms.
Note: Ordinarily taken by juniors in both terms.

*History of Science 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 6619
Stephanie H. Kenen and members of the Department
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Note: Ordinarily taken by seniors as a full course. Either half year may be taken as a half course, if special permission is obtained. Students are expected to complete a thesis or submit a research paper or other approved project in order to receive course credit.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[History of Science 103. Chinese Medical History: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 1056 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Bridie Andrews

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

This course will challenge the concept of a static and traditional “Chinese medicine” by reading translations of texts from different periods and different medical genres (e.g. classical theory, women’s medicine, case study literature, material medica), in the light of recent historical scholarship. The course will also review the history of Chinese medicine in the 20th century, and in particular, its adoption in the West. (DF: M2)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 106. History of Ancient Science

Catalog Number: 3958

John E. Murdoch

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

Examination of selected key aspects and issues in the development of ancient science together with an investigation of the treatment of these issues from various historiographic points of view. Emphasis upon the kinds of problems historians of ancient, especially Greek, thought have deemed most relevant for treatment and the types of approaches made to these problems. (DF:E1)

History of Science 107. History of Medieval Science

Catalog Number: 5071

John E. Murdoch

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

A study of the scope and nature of scientific thought in the Latin Middle Ages, with emphasis upon the relation of that thought to other aspects of medieval culture, in particular, religion, philosophy, and the universities. (DF:E2)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 112. Medicine and Society in Medieval and Renaissance Europe

Catalog Number: 8576

Katharine Park

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

A survey of medical theory, organization and practice in the context of other forms of contemporary healing, notably religious and magical. Topics include changing conceptions of health and illness, the evolution of medical explanation, the gendering of healing and the body, the professionalization of medicine, the rise of hospitals and related institutions, and responses to “new” diseases such as syphilis and plague. (DF: E2)

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03.

History of Science 113. Imaging Techniques in Early Modern Science: Conference Course

Catalog Number: 2253 Enrollment: Limited to 15.

Mario Biagioli

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

In recent years, historians and sociologists have examined the role of visual representations and imaging techniques in modern science. Course looks at the emergence of these practices during the Scientific Revolution. By looking at the development of instruments such as the telescope and the microscope and at the printed representation of visual evidence in astronomy, anatomy, and natural history, we analyze the scientific and cultural dimensions of the debates about the epistemological status of visual evidence and of its mechanical reproductions. (DF:E3)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 121. History and Philosophy of Experimentation
Catalog Number: 5851 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Maria J. Trumpler

Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Combines historical, sociological and philosophical approaches to examining the role of experimentation in the production of scientific knowledge, with an emphasis on examples from the life sciences. Topics will include: historical development of structures of experimentation, the relationship between experiment and theory, representations of experimental results, social aspects of group experimentation, and the pedagogical use of experiments. (DF:M3)

History of Science 123v. Histories and Philosophies of the Energy Principle
Catalog Number: 4273
Olivier Darrigol

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
History and philosophy of the energy principle as approached by its founders, by late 19th-century philosopher-historian-physicists and by historians of science. Topics include long-term roots of the principle, scientific contexts (metaphysics, molecular physics, machines, physiology, theology,...), multiple discovery, controversy, social construction and the epistemological status of the energy principle. (DF:M3)

Note: Part of class time will be devoted to discussion of selected readings.

[History of Science 130. Modern Biology]
Catalog Number: 0179
Everett I. Mendelsohn

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Covering the period 1750 to the present; movement from natural history to experimental biology; relations between the field and the laboratory; role of observations, representations, experimental practices, instruments and theories; relationship between biology and the physical-chemical sciences, between organisms, machines and molecules; scientific practices and social implications of the new biology. (DF:M2)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 138. Conservation, Ecology, and Environment: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 2390
Everett I. Mendelsohn

Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An examination of the science and politics of conservation, ecology, and environment, and their cultural location, using some comparative materials from Europe, Russia and Africa. Particular attention to public organizations, government policy, and scientific knowledge and practice. (DF:M2)
History of Science 140. Disease and Society

Catalog Number: 4471

Charles E. Rosenberg

Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

A consideration of changing conceptions of disease during the past two centuries. We will discuss general intellectual trends as well as relevant cultural and institutional variables by focusing in good measure on case studies of particular ills, ranging from cholera to sickle cell anemia to anorexia and alcoholism. (DF:M2)

[History of Science 141. On Drugs: The History of the International Trade in Drugs and Materia Medica: Conference Course ]

Catalog Number: 0252

Bridie Andrews and Peter Buck

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

This course will explore the effects of the drugs trade on international relations from pepper in the Middle Ages to cocaine in the recent past. Emphasis is on the specifics of particular historical cases, with examples to be covered varying according to the interests of participants in the course. Possible topics include: the history of uses of cloves, and its importance in the early European imperialism; discovery of American ginseng and its relevance to US-China relations; the history of the trade in mercury; rhubarb, purgative from the East; Coffee and the European Enlightenment. (DF:M1,M2).

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 143. History of Germs

Catalog Number: 4541

Eric D. Kupferberg

*Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4 *

The scientific and cultural history of pathogenic and productive microbes, from the 17th century through the Bacteriological Revolution to the present day. Emphasis on responses to epidemic and endemic diseases of humans and animals; the role of microbial life in the production of wine, cheese, soil fertility, and industrial fermentations; the growing prestige of biomedical science and biotechnology in the 19th and 20th centuries; and the role of social conflict and cultural norms in shaping fears of contagion. (DF:M1,M2)

[History of Science 144. Medicine, Degeneration, and Eugenics]

Catalog Number: 3148

Stephanie H. Kenen

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

In the later 19th and early 20th centuries, eugenic thinking paralleled fears of degeneration in the widespread preoccupation with the decline of civilization. This course will look at the role of scientific and especially medical “experts” in promoting both the problem of and the remedy for this perceived decline. Emphasis will be on changing ideas of “otherness” as symbol and cause of degeneration, and on proposed programs for regeneration (sports, war, selective breeding). Primary focus on the United States and Europe. (DF: M1)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

*History of Science 147. Sex, Gender, and Modern Medicine: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 4221 Enrollment: Limited to 18.
Stephanie H. Kenen
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This course will examine historical issues concerning the relationships among sex, gender, and modern medicine. We will look at sex as a subject of scientific study, as well as gender as an analytic category. We will ask questions of how modern western medical traditions have viewed male and female bodies and defined their health and illnesses accordingly, and how western medicine has defined and policed the erotic relationships between the sexes. Emphasis on 19th- and 20th-century US. (DF:M1,M2)

*History of Science 151. Cultural History of Medicine
Catalog Number: 3189 Enrollment: Limited to 18.
Stephanie H. Kenen
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course will examine recent approaches to the history of medicine and the body. Topics will include: the use of visual representations in medicine (Illustrations, x-rays, MRIs); the literary genre of the case study (“doctors’ stories”); the so-called “social construction” of illness (especially psychiatric illnesses and diseases of women); the intersection between medical expertise and sexual culture (sexology and social control); medicine and human experimentation (from Tuskegee to clinical trials); commodification of the body (organ transplants, cosmetic surgery). (DF:M2)

[History of Science 152. Filming Science]
Catalog Number: 1658
Peter L. Galison and Robb Moss
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examination of the theory and practice of capturing scientific practice on film. Topics will include fictional, documentary, informational, and instructional films and raise problems emerging from film theory, visual anthropology and science studies. Each student will make and edit short film(s) about laboratory, field or theoretical scientific work (DF:M1,M2)
Note: Expected to be given in 2002-03. Seminar opened to graduate and undergraduate students with permission of instructors.

History of Science 153. Science and Race
Catalog Number: 3681
Charis Thompson
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
This class will explore sciences of race, or the way that science has been used to designate, as well as deny the reality of, racial categories. It will also consider science and race, looking at Tuskegee, Nazi science, genetic studies of radiation exposure in Japan, AIDS in Africa, indigenous people and genetics, and DECODE in Iceland. The final section will look at the patterns of and reasons for the racial distribution of scientists over time. (DF:M1)

[History of Science 154 (formerly History of Science 154v). Gender and Science]
Catalog Number: 4957
Charis Thompson
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

This course covers: (1) Women in Science (recovering in the historical record and promoting women and minorities in science). (2) Feminist Epistemology and Science (the gendering of science itself, and the special roles of experience, identity, connectivity, and embodiment in feminist epistemology). (3) The Body, Sexuality, Queer Theory and Science (the sciences of gendered, especially female, bodies and psychologies, masculinity studies; the sciences of sexuality). (4) Gender and Science in Transnational Perspective (science as providing a transnational language for, and hierarchy of, gendered, bodies). (5) Feminist Science and Technology Studies (science and technologies “for”, or of special interest to, women). (DF:M1)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 155v. Scientists and the Nuclear Age: Lecture
Catalog Number: 3592
Naomi Oreskes (University of California, San Diego)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Traces the historical development of the scientific knowledge and scientists who forged the nuclear age. Topics include the discovery of nuclear fission, the Manhattan Project, the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the H-bomb and nuclear proliferation in the Cold war, and the environmental legacy of radioactive waste. No prerequisites. (DF:M3)

History of Science 157v. Sociological Topics in the History of Science
Catalog Number: 2434
Steven Shapin (University of California, San Diego)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

An introduction to a series of sociological topics concerning the scientific role, the scientific community, and scientific knowledge that are of special interest to historians. What are the social conditions for the institutionalization of science and for the support of the scientific role? What are the possibilities for a historical sociology of scientific knowledge? What social pressures have historically been exerted on our overall understanding of science and its relations with society?

History of Science 159. Probability in Science and Society
Catalog Number: 0807
Sarah Jansen
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Explores the history of probability, one of the key concepts of modern science, from the Enlightenment to the present. Topics include reconceptualizations of the individual and the social as well as changing notions of truth and objectivity associated with the rise of probability thinking and practices. Examples from astronomy, anthropometry, eugenics, demography, taxonomy, criminology, ecology, genetics, epidemiology, modern physics, environmental and medical risk assessment, actuarial theory, and the detection of scientific frauds. (DF:M1, M2)

History of Science 161v (formerly *History of Science 161). The Scientific Revolution: Lecture Course
Catalog Number: 4946
Steven Fontijn Harris
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Examines 16th- and 17th-century transformations in astronomy (in the works of Copernicus, Kepler, Galileo, Newton), medicine (Vesalius, Harvey), cosmography (Mercator, Ortelius, Varenius), and natural philosophy (Bacon, Descartes, Newton, Kant), as well as in scientific practices (observation, experiment, mathematization) and modes of organization and communication (academies, journals, graphical representations). Placing these developments in their cultural contexts (religious, political, commercial) affords a critical perspective on received historiographical assumptions regarding the Scientific Revolution as the dramatic episode in the origin of modern science. (DF:E3)

History of Science 162v. Images of Nature: Graphical Representations and Scientific Practices in the Renaissance: Undergraduate Seminar
Catalog Number: 6261
Steven Fontijn Harris
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
The Renaissance produced not only naturalistic images of the highest artistic quality but also of unprecedented scientific content. Seminar situates novel scientific representations of nature in specific forms of practice: illustrations ‘drawn from nature’ (botanical illustrations, anatomical dissections, telescopic and microscopic images); cumulative representations resulting from cycles of systematic observation over time and space (portolans, terrestrial maps, celestial atlases); and images designed to enhance the credibility of reports of distant natural phenomena (virtual witnessing) (DF:E3)
Note: Graduate students are welcome to enroll.

History of Science 170v. The New Science of the Person: Experimental Psychology in the 20th Century: Lecture
Catalog Number: 9967
Jill Morawski (Wesleyan University)
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
This course surveys the development of experimental psychology in America including the formation of the specialties of developmental, personality, clinical and social psychology. The survey is guided by three themes: the innovations and refinements in experimental techniques, the underlying assumptions about human nature, and the political and cultural context of the experimental work. (DF:M2)

History of Science 175. Madness and Medicine: Themes in the History of Psychiatry
Catalog Number: 6245
Anne Harrington
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
An attempt to integrate the history of medical thought on the nature of madness and the madman with recent historiography on the social history of psychiatry and its institutions. Topics include the birth of the asylum, the challenge of “moral therapy,” madness and the brain, madness from the patient’s point of view, the “discovery of the unconscious,” schizophrenia, and the antipsychiatry movement. (DF:M2)
History of Science 176. Evolution and the Mind: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 6736 Enrollment: Limited to 15. Preference given to juniors and seniors.
Anne Harrington
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Explores tensions and themes in the historical attempt to reconcile the problem of mind and consciousness with evolutionary models of life since Darwin. Examples include the human mind as the Achilles heel of the naturalistic (post-Darwinian) world view, the case for the “emergence” of mind out of matter, the evolutionary argument for mind as epiphenomenon, cosmic Mind as the driving force behind evolution, the problem of the “savage mind,” madness as evolutionary regression. Particular attention to the social and ethical implications of all these debates. (DF:M2)

[History of Science 177. Stories Under the Skin: The Mind-Body Connection in Modern Medicine]
Catalog Number: 4338
Anne Harrington
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An historical probe into the logics and stakes of modern (19th-20th century) thinking and practices concerned with “mind–body” interactions. Topics include: hypnosis; hysteria; the rise of psychosomatic medicine; medical investigations of non-Western phenomena such as “chi” and meditative practices; concerns with human connection and disconnection as sources of healing and illness; the recent rise of psychoneuroimmunology. Analytic emphasis is on integrating questions about the nature of embodied experience over time with questions about the logic of our institutionalized efforts to “domesticate” that experience within the changing explanatory frames of Western medical science. (DF:M2)
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 178v. Minding of America: The Popularization of Psychology
Catalog Number: 3561
Jill Morawski (Wesleyan University)
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course examines how the science of psychology captured the imagination of Americans and eventually became indispensable to cultural understandings of human actions as well as to social policy. Considered are the formations and dissemination of psychological notions of behavior control, intelligence, the unconscious, gender differences, psycho-pathological types, and biologically-based behaviors. Analytic attention is given to models of the popularization of science and the cultural consequences of popularizing psychology. (DF:M2)

[History of Science 180. Science, Medicine and Imperialism]
Catalog Number: 3578
Bridie Andrews
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
It is a truism that science and medicine were crucial to the development of colonialism and, in particular, to the formal imperialism of the 19th century. Scientific and technological innovations facilitated the expansion of the small maritime trading nations of Europe into every continent, and created a world-wide flow of goods, capital and human labor on an unprecedented scale.
This course will examine the history of science in its imperial contexts through a thematic approach: individual topics will include the book and the printing press; exploration and the academy; cartography; tropical medicine; the diseases of empire; economic botany; trains and steamships, information flow and telegraphy; imperial womanhood; and anthropology and race. (DF: M1, M2)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 181. Science, Technology, and Modernity
Catalog Number: 6978
Robert M. Brain

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10.

Examination of the role of science and technology in the experience of modernity from 1800 to 1918. Themes include the myths of Faust and Frankenstein and the ideals of personal economic development, steam engines and railways, technological utopias and dystopias, telegraphy and the growth of empire, standardization and commodity culture, electric power systems, urban planning, the mechanization of the body, technology and the arts, and technological warfare. (DF:M1)

[History of Science 182. Gender in East Asia: Lecture]
Catalog Number: 1762
Bridie Andrews

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

This course looks at gendered technologies of East Asian history in such fields as agriculture, textile production, domestic labor, and family and cultural production and reproduction. The course will examine the tensions between cultural ideals of female chastity and seclusion and the realities of men’s and women’s lives through the technologies they used and created. (DF:M1)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[*History of Science 183. Social and Political Implications of Technology: Conference Course ]
Catalog Number: 8588 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Peter Buck

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Historical studies of how technology shapes society and politics. Interactions between social engineering and the management of technological change; specific technologies vs. expectations about technology in general as limiting the possibilities for social and political change. Examples drawn from war, transportation, communication, and production. (DF:M1)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 184. Technology in America: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 1617 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Peter Buck

Half course (spring term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Examines American society, politics, and culture as shaping and shaped by the technologies of war, work, transportation, and health. Emphasis on the 19th and 20th centuries. (DF:M1)
History of Science 185. Romanticism and the Sciences
Catalog Number: 3225
Robert M. Brain
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Examines the emergence of a Romantic tradition in the natural sciences out of the promises and anxieties of revolution at the end of the 18th century. Topics include the place of reflection, self-experiment, introspection, historicism, and aesthetic values in science. Considers the philosophical and empirical legacy of romantic science in national and international contexts. (DF:M1)

History of Science 186. The History of Technology
Catalog Number: 2147 Enrollment: Limited to 18.
Charis Thompson
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course surveys theories of technology and sociotechnical systems. Technologies of production, destruction, reproduction, and information in different eras are considered, and compared as to the ways they entrain humans, machines, politics, and the market. (DF:M3)

History of Science 191. Skepticism, Subjectivity, and Doubt
Catalog Number: 3638
Carl William Pearson
Half course (spring term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Historians of science and others have appealed recently to skepticism and relativism to counter the hegemony of science. However, skepticism (as well as relativism, subjectivity, etc.) has played an important role in western intellectual history, both as a response to science but also as integral to some scientific methodologies. This course examines how different historical contexts give rise to different skeptical modes and attempts to determine which are most useful to contemporary historians of science.

Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

*History of Science 206r. Ancient Science: Seminar
Catalog Number: 2410
John E. Murdoch
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4.
Topic for 2001-2002: Aristotle’s theory of science as found in his Posterior Analytics, its relation to the mathematics of the day, and other aspects of Aristotle’s philosophy of mathematics, notably in the final books of the Metaphysics. (DF:E1)

History of Science 207r. Medieval Science: Seminar
Catalog Number: 8468
John E. Murdoch

Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4.
Topic for 2001-2002: The problem of the possible eternity of the world in late antiquity and the Middle Ages, the confrontation with an Aristotelian natural philosophy which maintained the eternity of the world, and the eventual medieval resolution of this conflict. (DF:E2)

Note: Reading knowledge of Latin is not required.

History of Science 215. Science and Culture in Late Medieval and Renaissance Europe: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4568
Katharine Park

Half course (fall term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Topic for 2001-02: Sources for the study of medieval and Renaissance medicine, with particular attention to genre and cultural context. Intensive reading in texts relating to healing and medicine in Western Europe between about 1100 and 1500, with an emphasis on the learned tradition. Sources will include mnemonic poems, commentaries, practicae, consilia, questiones, recipe collections, plague tractates, administrative and judicial records, private letters, and treatises for aristocratic patrons. (DF: E2)

Note: Basic reading knowledge of Latin and one European vernacular required.

[History of Science 222. Research in the History and Philosophy of Physical Sciences]
Catalog Number: 4178
Peter L. Galison

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Graduate Seminar: Students will work on advancing their research topics with the aim of producing a publishable paper. Open to students working in the broad area of 19th- through early 21st- century physics, technology, chemistry as well as the relation between the science and architecture (DF:M3)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 229v. Historical Perspectives on the Geosciences: Seminar
Catalog Number: 3042
Naomi Oreskes (University of California, San Diego)

Half course (fall term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
History and historiography of the earth sciences, with an emphasis on how models of scientific knowledge are altered by considering knowledge generated “in the field.” Open to graduate students, and to advanced undergraduates with permission. (DF: M3)

History of Science 240. The Body in Sickness and in Health: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6821
Charles E. Rosenberg
Half course (fall term). Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
“Sickness” and “health,” notions of inappropriate and appropriate behavior, are determined by conceptions of the body and its proper management. Discussion will focus first upon secondary studies and subsequently upon students’ research. (DF:M2)

*History of Science 244. Research in the History of Medical Ethics: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6301
Allan M. Brandt
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Course provides a framework for the historical examination of debates concerning medical ethics, and seeks to identify social, cultural, political, and economic forces that have shaped value conflicts in clinical medicine and health policy. Students are expected to write a research paper utilizing primary and archival source materials. (DF:M2)
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 250. Sociologies of Science
Catalog Number: 6211
Everett I. Mendelsohn
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Twentieth century sociologies of science: traditions of Weber, Mannheim; studies of J. D. Bernal, Robert Merton, Edgar Zilsel, their disciples and critics; influence of European traditions, Elias, Marcuse, Habermas, Bourdieu; emergence of sociology of scientific knowledge, the Edinburgh School and historical sociology of science; themes include institutions, power and politics of knowledge, modes of knowledge production, pure vs. applied sciences, neutrality. (DF:M1)

History of Science 257v. Who is a Scientist? Biography and Authority: Seminar
Catalog Number: 3499
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An exploration of a range of relationships between the personal identity of scientific intellectuals and the authority of their knowledge. (DF:M1)

[History of Science 261. Fraud, Intellectual Property, Authorship and Responsibility in Science]
Catalog Number: 3446
Mario Biagioli
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the debates on authorship, responsibility, and credit in science in the wake of recent cases of fraud and misconduct. By bringing together perspectives from law, sociology of science, and literary theory, the seminar analyzes the similarities and differences between intellectual property and authorship in science and in other disciplines. (DF:E3)

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 262v. Constructing Quantum Mechanics

Catalog Number: 8733
Olivier Darrigol
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
History of quantum mechanics emphasizing the procedures that permitted its construction: physical and psychological analogy, spectral numerology, regionalization of classical concepts, reinterpretation, symbolic translation & the upsetting of ordinary intuitions and the interpretation of quantum mechanics. (DF:M3)
Note: Part of class time will be devoted to discussion of selected readings. Requires some knowledge in physics, especially in classical mechanics and electrodynamics.
Prerequisite: Requires some knowledge in physics, especially in classical mechanics and electrodynamics.

History of Science 263. Science and/as Literature

Catalog Number: 2704
Mario Biagioli
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This course considers relationships between science and literature: the literary structure of scientific arguments; the history of scientific genres (the experimental report, the scientific article, reports of fieldwork, and travel, etc); science fiction and representations of science in popular literature; and the relationship between literary plots and scientific arguments. (DF:M1)
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 270v. Making the "Social" Psychological: The History of Social Psychology: Seminar

Catalog Number: 8666
Jill Morawski (Wesleyan University)
Half course (spring term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Examines the 20th century project to explain social phenomena in psychological terms, beginning with William James. Topics include conceptions of the social self and social problems, experimental techniques, ethical and political matters, and reflexivity. (DF:M1)

History of Science 271v. History of Masculinity: Seminar

Catalog Number: 8379
Jill Morawski (Wesleyan University)
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Explores the 20th century emergence of the masculine as a human kind. Topics include scientific models of masculinity and gender “difference,” gender metaphor and analogy, science and masculinity, men’s studies movement, and reproductive science. (DF:M1)
Catalog Number: 8536
Anne Harrington
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Attempts, via a case study approach, to explore “embodiment”—human bodily experience—as part of the proper world of historical and cultural intellectual analysis. Can historical work be done “under the skin”? Theoretical readings will be drawn here from “body history”, anthropology, phenomenological psychology and medicine. A significant independent research project will be expected. (DF: M2)
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[*History of Science 278. In Search of Mind: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 0304
Anne Harrington
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A series of “expeditions” through the four “territories” of the mind: language, emotion, meaning-making, and memory. Reading broadly across disciplines and over a century of shifting focuses, we will aim in this seminar to construct new, less linear, ways of imagining the history of the mind sciences in our time. (DF:M2).
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*History of Science 290r. Selected Topics in History and Philosophy of Biology
Catalog Number: 8108
Everett I. Mendelsohn
(DF:M2)
Prerequisite: Ordinarily one half course at the advanced level in history or philosophy of biology.

*History of Science 295r. Critical History: Writing Between Humans and Non-Humans
Catalog Number: 8360 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Peter L. Galison and Mario Biagioli
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Theoretical issues in the construction of the history, philosophy and sociology of science. Graduate Seminar. (DF:M3)
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

History of Science 297r. Topics in the History of Medieval Latin Science
Catalog Number: 5050
John E. Murdoch
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. First Meeting Thurs., 01/30/02 at 4:00.
(DF:E2)
Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of Latin.

*History of Science 298r. The Establishment of Medieval Latin Scientific and Philosophical Texts: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4893
John E. Murdoch

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. First Meeting on Thurs. 01/30/02 at 5:00.
The problems and methods involved in preparing critical editions of texts from manuscript materials: principles of establishing the “accepted text,” manuscript tradition, and appropriate apparatus criticus when several manuscripts are employed, as well as the resolution of palaeographic problems. (DF:E2)

Note: First Meeting Time Th., Jan 30 @ 5pm.
Prerequisite: Knowledge of Latin, but no previous experience with palaeography required.

Philip A. Kuhn, Francis Lee Higginson Professor of History and of East Asian Languages and Civilizations
C. C. Lamberg-Karlovsky, Stephen Phillips Professor of Archaeology and Ethnology
David J. Roxburgh, Associate Professor of History of Art and Architecture (on leave 2001-02)
P. Oktor Skjaervo, Aga Khan Professor of Iranian Sinasi Tekin, Senior Lecturer on Turkish
Wheeler M. Thackston, Jr., Professor of the Practice of Persian and other Near Eastern Languages
Wei-Ming Tu, Harvard-Yenching Professor of Chinese History and Philosophy and of Confucian Studies
Michael Witzel, Wales Professor of Sanskrit
Nur Yalman, Professor of Social Anthropology and of Middle Eastern Studies

The Committee supervises the work of graduate students whose interest in Inner Asia is not confined to languages alone, or history alone, but encompasses linguistics, history, religion, art history, and general cultural study. Courses relating to Inner Asian Studies are given by members of the Committee and other faculty in the departments of Anthropology, East Asian Languages and Civilizations, History, History of Art and Architecture, Linguistics, Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations, and Sanskrit and Indian Studies, and by the Committee on the Study of Religion. Interested students should consult these sections of the catalog. The Committee has offices at Coolidge Hall 102, 1737 Cambridge St., Cambridge, MA, 02138; (617) 495-3777.

John H. Coatsworth, Monroe Gutman Professor of Latin American Affairs (Chair)
Thomas N. Bisson, Henry Charles Lea Professor of Medieval History
Joaquim-Francisco Coelho, Nancy Clark Smith Professor of the Language and Literature of Portugal and Professor of Comparative Literature
Jorge I. Domínguez, Harvard College Professor and Clarence Dillon Professor of International Affairs
Bradley S. Epps, Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures
William L. Fash, Bowditch Professor of Central American and Mexican Archaeology and Ethnology
Luis Fernández-Cifuentes, Robert S. and Ilse Friend Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures (on leave 2001-02)
Jeffry Frieden, Stanfield Professor of International Peace
Mary Gaylord, Sosland Family Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures
N. Michele Holbrook, Professor of Biology
Steven R. Levitsky, Assistant Professor of Government and of Social Studies (on leave fall term)
Jane E. Mangan, Assistant Professor of History
J. Lorand Matory, Professor of Anthropology and of Afro-American Studies (on leave spring term)
David H. P. Maybury-Lewis, Edward C. Henderson Professor of Anthropology (on leave fall term)
José Antonio Mazzotti, Assistant Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures (on leave spring term)
Doris Sommer, Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures (on leave 2001-02)
Kay B. Warren, Professor of Anthropology (on leave 2002-2003)
John Womack, Jr., Robert Woods Bliss Professor of Latin American History and Economics

The Committee on Latin American and Iberian Studies, established in 1960, forms part of the David Rockefeller Center for Latin American Studies. Its purpose is to coordinate the Center’s research and curricular programs that operate solely within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, including Harvard College and the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. The Committee presently includes twenty-three members representing nine academic disciplines appointed by the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Harvard/Radcliffe students have developed undergraduate programs focused on Latin America in Afro-American Studies, Anthropology, Biology, Environmental Studies, Government, History, History and Literature, Romance Languages and Literatures, Social Studies, and the Special Concentrations program. The Committee itself does not offer an undergraduate concentration or an advanced degree.

The David Rockefeller Center for Latin American Studies, founded in 1994, coordinates and supports research, teaching, and public programs on Latin America and related fields such as the Caribbean, the Iberian peninsula, and the Latin American diaspora in the United States throughout the University. It works to strengthen ties between Harvard and the countries of Latin America and to promote public understanding of the cultures, histories, and societies of this diverse region. The Center’s governing bodies and committees include faculty from many faculties, departments, and the professional schools; the Center’s annual Directory of Faculty and Professional Staff lists over 150 faculty members, librarians, curators, administrators, and visiting fellows and scholars with substantial Latin American or related interests.

The Center sponsors lectures, seminars, conferences, exhibitions, and other academic and cultural events; supports faculty research; advises students; funds summer research travel grants to graduate, professional, and undergraduate students; manages the competition for Title VI Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships for graduate and professional students; hosts visiting scholars and fellows; and administers the Robert F. Kennedy Visiting Professorship of Latin American Studies.

The Center publishes a monthly calendar from September to May; the DRCLAS Newsletter each semester; an annual Guide to Courses that lists over 150 courses on Latin America and related topics at Harvard each year; and the Directory of Faculty and Professional Staff mentioned above.

The office of the Committee is in 61 Kirkland Street, Cambridge, MA, 02138.

Linguistics

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Department of Linguistics

Jay H. Jasanoff, Diebold Professor of Indo-European Linguistics and Philology (Chair) (on leave spring term)

Michael S. Flier, Oleksandr Potebnja Professor of Ukrainian Philology, Associate of Adams House (Acting Chair, spring term)

C.-T. James Huang, Professor of Linguistics (Head Tutor, spring term) (on leave 2002-03)
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Salikoko Mufwene, Visiting Professor of Linguistics and Ethnic Studies (University of Chicago)
Lynn Nichols, Assistant Professor of Linguistics
Jonathan Nissenbaum, Lecturer on Linguistics, Associate of the Department of Linguistics
Bert Vaux, Associate Professor of Linguistics (Head Tutor) (on leave spring term)
Calvert Watkins, Victor S. Thomas Professor of Linguistics and the Classics
Jie Zhang, Lecturer on Linguistics, Teaching Fellow in the Core Curriculum, Teaching Fellow in East Asian Languages and Civilizations

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of Linguistics

Alfonso Caramazza, Professor of Psychology (on leave 2001-02)
Wesley M. Jacobsen, Professor of the Practice of the Japanese Language
P. Oktor Skjaervo, Aga Khan Professor of Iranian Studies

See also other course listings under the following departments of languages and literatures: Celtic, the Classics, East Asian, English, Germanic, Near Eastern, Romance, Sanskrit and Indian Studies, and Slavic; Social Analysis 34 (Core); and the linguistic offerings at MIT.

Primarily for Undergraduates

[Linguistics 80. Dialects of English]
Catalog Number: 4695
Bert Vaux
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Survey and analysis of the varieties of English currently spoken in the world. Forms of English to be discussed include: American dialects (Boston, New York, Southern, “Valley Girl,” etc.); British dialects (BBC, Liverpool, Scottish, etc.); Indian, Australian, Singaporean, and other colonial dialects; Yiddish English; English-based pidgins and creoles; men’s vs. women’s speech. Most of the dialects will be illustrated in the classroom by native speakers.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Linguistics 81. Language and Gender]
Catalog Number: 4668
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This course explores connections between language use, sex, and gender. Do sex and gender affect the ways we speak and the ways we interpret and evaluate speech? How do differences in people’s sociocultural positions, particularly their degree of power, affect how they use language, how others interpret what they say or write, and their relation to linguistic change? How does conversation structure the social worlds of men and women? How do linguistic practices support or challenge gender arrangements?
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Linguistics 86. Ebonics: Myths and Facts
Catalog Number: 0637
Salikoko Mufwene (University of Chicago)
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
An introduction to the study of Ebonics, or African-American English (including Gullah). Topics to be covered will include the status of Ebonics in relation to other American English vernaculars; its controversial position in the schools; its use in the media; its use as a marker of ethnic identity (e.g., in hip-hop culture); its origins; its relation to other creole languages and dialects; its influence on mainstream American language and culture; and its role as a basis of racial prejudice.

Linguistics 88. Language and Cognition
Catalog Number: 5126
Jonathan Nissenbaum
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4, 13
What does language tell us about the human brain? We will approach this question from various psycholinguistic and neurolinguistic perspectives: speech perception and perceptual illusions; language disorders; blind sight and split brain effects; brain imaging; neural networks and computer modeling of language. We will also touch on the problems of speech recognition and speech synthesis, focusing on the light that these topics shed on the nature of linguistic knowledge.

*Linguistics 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1100
Bert Vaux, Susumu Kuno, and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Spring: Tu., Th., 7–8:30 p.m.
Independent study with a faculty member. For students who wish to pursue a particular linguistic topic not covered in other course offerings.
Note: Students should consult the Head Tutor about having the course count towards the concentration.

*Linguistics 97r. Group Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 1791
Bert Vaux, Susumu Kuno, and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., Tu., W., or Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: Spring: 8, 9
Intensive study in a selected linguistic area such as phonology, syntax, historical linguistics, phonetics, morphology, semantics, psycholinguistics, acquisition, sociolinguistics, creole studies, or computational linguistics. Meets as two six-week small-group tutorials, in both the fall and spring terms.
Note: Required of concentrators.

*Linguistics 98a. Group Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 4222
Bert Vaux, Susumu Kuno, and members of the Department
Half course (fall term). M., Tu., W., or Th., 3–5.
Meets as two six-week small-group tutorials, both held in the fall term, each covering one of the areas of linguistics listed under Linguistics 97r.
Note: Required of concentrators.
*Linguistics 98b. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 7273
Bert Vaux (spring term), Susumu Kuno (spring term), and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Individual tutorial with a faculty member.
*Note: Required of concentrators.

*Linguistics 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 3082
Bert Vaux, Susumu Kuno, and members of the Department
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Individual tutorial with a faculty member for research and writing of the Linguistics honors thesis. Graded Satisfactory or Unsatisfactory. An honors student who expects not to complete the thesis should consult with the Head Tutor about completing other substantial work to receive credit for the course.
*Note: Required of honors concentrators.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Linguistics 110. Introduction to Linguistics
Catalog Number: 1498
Jie Zhang
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
An introduction to contemporary linguistic theory and methods of linguistic analysis: phonetic transcription, phonological, morphological, and syntactic analysis, and methods in comparative and historical linguistics. Some psycholinguistic aspects of language will also be examined. The discussion will draw on data from a wide variety of languages.

Linguistics 112a. Introduction to Syntactic Theory
Catalog Number: 7318
Lynn Nichols
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
An introduction to syntactic theory, analysis and argumentation in the model of generative grammar. Discusses analyses & hypotheses of grammatical structure forming the foundation of current syntactic theory. Emphasis on constituent structure analysis, motivation for transformations, constraints on rule application and conditions on representations. Survey of syntactic phenomena, including argument structure, movement and anaphora.

Linguistics 112b. Intermediate Syntax
Catalog Number: 4730
C.-T. James Huang
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Continuation of 112a. Fundamental principles and parameters of Government and Binding Theory.
Prerequisite: Linguistics 112a.
Linguistics 114. Introduction to Morphology
Catalog Number: 1289
Lynn Nichols
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12.
An introduction to the analysis of word structure. Topics include the place of word formation in relation to phonological and syntactic phenomena, the nature of the lexicon, current theories of morphology. Consideration of morphological issues in acquisition and processing. Emphasis on the analysis of morphological phenomena in a wide range of typologically diverse languages.

Linguistics 115. Introduction to Phonetics and Phonology
Catalog Number: 2791
Jie Zhang
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
Analysis of phonetic and phonological data from a wide variety of languages. The first part of the course focuses on phonetic phenomena; topics will include articulatory phonetics, acoustic phonetics, aerodynamic mechanisms for speech, production and transcription of the sounds of the world’s languages, and phonetic issues in speech synthesis. The second part of the course focuses on formal analysis of phonological patterns; topics will include underlying and surface representations, phonemes and allophones, contrast, neutralization, distinctive features, and rules and their ordering. Problem sets will place emphasis on practical skills.

[Linguistics 116. Semantics]
Catalog Number: 6115
----------
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introductory course on semantic interpretation in natural language. What does it mean to “know the meaning” of an utterance? This course will provide the formal tools to characterize truth-conditional meanings of sentences. Topics to be covered include the relation between form and meaning, ambiguity, reference, the role of context dependency, quantifier scope, and variable-binding.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Linguistics 117r. Linguistic Field Methods
Catalog Number: 8401
Lynn Nichols
Half course (spring term). Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
Instruction in the elicitation of phonological, morphological, and syntactic information from a native speaker of an unfamiliar language, toward developing a grammatical sketch of the language. Emphasis on methodology and problems of elicitation and grammatical description in the field. Participants work directly with the native speaker, both individually and as a group, with the assistance of the instructor.

Linguistics 118. Introduction to Discourse Analysis
Catalog Number: 8709
Susumu Kuno
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
An examination of various principles that govern communication between the speaker/writer and the hearer/reader. Topics include presupposition, point of view, discourse and sentence themes, discourse deletion, and reference and honorification. Data from English and Japanese.

Note: No previous knowledge of Japanese required.

Linguistics 120. Introduction to Historical Linguistics

Catalog Number: 8486
Jay H. Jasanoff
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3

Methods and goals of linguistic reconstruction. Topics include the regularity of sound change, types of linguistic change, the relationship between linguistic reconstruction and synchronic analysis, language contact and borrowing, and mechanisms of linguistic change, including recent theories.

Linguistics 122. Introduction to Indo-European

Catalog Number: 1336
Jay H. Jasanoff
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

An introduction to the historical study of the Indo-European languages, using the comparative method to arrive at a picture of the parent language of the family, Proto-Indo-European.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Linguistics 123. Indo-European Phonology and Morphology

Catalog Number: 9259
Jay H. Jasanoff
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Designed as a sequel to Linguistics 122. A detailed overview of Indo-European comparative grammar, with emphasis on recent developments and discoveries.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Linguistics 140. Understanding Creole Vernaculars and Cultures

Catalog Number: 7362
Salikoko Mufwene (University of Chicago)
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7

A survey of vernaculars that arose among slaves on 17th- and 18th-century plantations of especially the New World and the Indian Ocean as they appropriated colonial European languages as their vernaculars. We will focus especially on those that developed from English and French, though others will also be discussed. Topics include structural peculiarities of creoles; issues regarding their emergence, especially regarding the contribution of substrate languages (notably those brought from Black Africa) to their structures; what findings on their developments tell us about language evolution in general; whether or not they are separate languages.

Linguistics 152. Introduction to Syntactic Parsing

Catalog Number: 3166
Previous Courses of Instruction

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to recent investigations of sentence processing. Topics to be considered include the influence of lexical, syntactic, and discourse factors on sentence comprehension and production, the role of working memory in processing, the nature of syntactic deficits in patients with language disorders, and cross-linguistic differences in sentence processing.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Linguistics 112a.

[Linguistics 158r. From Indo-European to Old Irish]
Catalog Number: 3801
Calvert Watkins

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Essentials of Celtic historical and comparative grammar.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Some acquaintance with either Indo-European or Old Irish.

[Linguistics 168. Introduction to Germanic Linguistics]
Catalog Number: 7925
Jay H. Jasanoff

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A combined introduction to Gothic and the comparative grammar of the older Germanic languages.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Linguistics 171. Structure of Chinese
Catalog Number: 4346
C.-T. James Huang

Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Introduction to the syntactic structure of Mandarin Chinese: the basic structure of clauses and nominal constituents; words, compounds, and phrases; word order and variations; selected special topics (passives, resultatives, ba-construction, topic and relativized structures, questions, anaphora, pro drop); syntactic structure and semantic interpretation.

Prerequisite: Linguistics 112a in previous or current semester.

Linguistics 173. Linguistic Issues in the Teaching of Japanese
Catalog Number: 4208
Wesley M. Jacobsen

Half course (spring term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
An examination of selected phenomena in Japanese phonology, morphology, and syntax with special attention to difficulties encountered in the acquisition of Japanese by adult native English speakers.

Prerequisite: Japanese 101b or its equivalent. Familiarity with basic linguistics concepts desirable.

Linguistics 174. Tense and Aspect in Japanese
Catalog Number: 1856
Wesley M. Jacobsen

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Examination of phenomena of tense and aspect in Japanese, with special attention to verbal semantics and the interaction of temporal categories with modality and transitivity.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

Prerequisite: Knowledge of Japanese equivalent to Japanese 101b, or familiarity with the linguistic structure of a non-Indo-European language, or permission of instructor.

[Linguistics 175. Structure of Japanese]

Catalog Number: 6658

Susumu Kuno

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Examination of syntactic and semantic features of Japanese from the point of view of language typology and language universals.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. No previous knowledge of Japanese required.

Prerequisite: Linguistics 112a or equivalent.

[Linguistics 176. History of the Japanese Language]

Catalog Number: 4861

Wesley M. Jacobsen

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

An examination of evidence from the comparative method, internal reconstruction, and written documents for reconstructing prehistoric stages of the Japanese language and an overview of major developments in Japanese phonology and grammar from the Nara period through the present day.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Linguistics 110 or consent of instructor.

[Linguistics 178. Topics and Methods in Psycholinguistics]

Catalog Number: 1347

---

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

This course will discuss selected experimental research on questions of importance to theoretical linguistics, such as: How many “senses” do polysemous words have? How are these “senses” stored in the brain? Is the distinction between derivation and inflection psychologically real? How does language change come about? How do we understand language as rapidly as we do? The goal of the class is to develop a familiarity with commonly-used methods in psycholinguistics and to understand the applicability of these methods to linguistic research.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Linguistics 110 or consent of instructor.

Cross-listed Courses

[Classics 190. Approaches to Classical and Indo-European Poetics]

English 101. The History and Structure of the English Language

Greek 134. The Language of Homer

Latin 134. Archaic Latin
[Psychology 1302 (formerly Psychology 1500). Psychology of Language]

*Psychology 1357. Evolution of Language

[Semitic Philology 140. Introduction to the Comparative Study of Semitic Languages]

[Slavic 125. Modern Russian in Historical Perspective]

Slavic 126a. Structure of Modern Russian: Phonology and Morphology

[Slavic 126b. Structure of Modern Russian: Morphosyntax]

Yiddish 105. Yiddish Language and Linguistic Theory

Primarily for Graduates

Linguistics 202. Advanced Syntax

Catalog Number: 8175

Lynn Nichols

Half course (fall term). F., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

The third course in the syntax sequence, focusing on major issues in current syntactic theory. Topics include head movement, case and agreement, anaphora, constraints on movement and derivations.

Prerequisite: Linguistics 112b or permission of instructor.

Linguistics 204r. Topics in Syntax

Catalog Number: 6446

C.-T. James Huang

Half course (spring term). F., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

Examination of current issues of syntactic theory representing instructor’s and/or students’ research interest. This year the topic will be on issues surrounding the syntax-semantics interface, possibly including binding, long-distance anaphora, and the syntax and semantics of moved in-situ wh-questions.

Linguistics 205. The Syntax-Semantics Interface

Catalog Number: 0776

---------

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

This course will explore issues related to the architecture of the grammar, with emphasis on the structures that are interpreted at the semantic interface, and how they are derived.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Linguistics 112b or permission of the instructor.

Linguistics 206. Syntactic Structure and Argument Structure

Catalog Number: 9020

C.-T. James Huang

Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9

How do predicates differ with respect to their argument selection properties? How are lexical properties projected to syntactic structures? How do languages differ in syntactic structures and what explains the variations? We shall examine these and related issues in light of recent proposals, with emphasis on language variation and the role of functional categories.
Linguistics 215. Phonological Theory
Catalog Number: 5612
Jie Zhang
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Survey of phonological theory. The course will begin by looking at the properties of rule-based phonology (especially rule typology, principles of rule-ordering, and structure preservation), and work its way to Optimality Theory.

Linguistics 219r. Advanced Phonology
Catalog Number: 2154
Jie Zhang
Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
An in-depth examination of the role of phonetics in phonology. A variety of phonetically-driven phonological phenomena will be discussed from both a synchronic and diachronic perspective. Different approaches to phonetics in phonology: rich representation (à la Steriade, Kirchner, Boersma, Zhang), phonetics in history (à la Blevins and Garrett, Ohala, Hyman), and phonetics in learning (à la Hayes). Necessary phonetic background will be provided.

Linguistics 220ar. Advanced Indo-European
Catalog Number: 3428
Calvert Watkins
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Topics in the comparison of formulaic sequences, and other aspects of Indo-European poetics. Conducted as a seminar.

Linguistics 221r. Workshop in Indo-European
Catalog Number: 1008
Jay H. Jasanoff
Half course (fall term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
Conducted as a seminar. The topic for the year will be arranged in consultation with interested students.

[Linguistics 223. Comparative Anatolian]
Catalog Number: 2620
Jay H. Jasanoff and Calvert Watkins
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Comparative survey of the synchronic and diachronic grammar of the ancient Indo-European languages of Anatolia, with special attention to nominal and verbal morphology.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Linguistics 224. Historical and Comparative Linguistics]
Catalog Number: 2967
Jay H. Jasanoff
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to diachronic linguistics at the graduate level. Theory of language change: sound change and analogy, syntactic and semantic change, change in progress. The comparative method: proving genetic relationship, reconstruction, subgrouping.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Linguistics 225a. Introduction to Hittite
Catalog Number: 8206
Calvert Watkins
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 12
Grammar and reading of texts in cuneiform and in transliteration; essentials of the comparative grammar of the Indo-European languages of Anatolia.
Note: No previous knowledge of cuneiform presumed.

Linguistics 226r. Advanced Hittite
Catalog Number: 0858
Calvert Watkins
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Texts of various genres.
Note: Provisions will be made for any student who wishes to begin Hittite this semester.

Linguistics 241r. Practicum in Syntax and Phonology
Catalog Number: 4260
Susumu Kuno and members of the Department
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Presentation of reports on current research or assigned topics.
Note: Required of both second- and third-year graduate students concentrating in syntax or phonology.

[Linguistics 242r. Practicum in Historical Linguistics]
Catalog Number: 5569
Jay H. Jasanoff and Calvert Watkins
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Presentation of reports on current research or assigned topics.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Required of both second- and third-year graduate students concentrating in historical linguistics.

[Linguistics 247. Topics in Germanic Linguistics]
Catalog Number: 3693
Jay H. Jasanoff
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Investigaton of selected topics in Germanic historical linguistics.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Linguistics 250. Old Church Slavonic
Catalog Number: 8449
Michael S. Flier
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
History of the first Slavic literary language, its role in Slavic civilization; phonology, morphology, syntax, and vocabulary of Old Church Slavonic; reading from canonical texts.

Linguistics 252. Comparative Slavic Linguistics
Catalog Number: 3571
Michael S. Flier

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Introduction to the historical phonology and morphology of the Slavic languages with special attention to relative chronology and linguistic geography.
Prerequisite: Linguistics 250.

Linguistics 277r (formerly Linguistics 277). Topics in Japanese and Korean Syntax
Catalog Number: 2661
Susumu Kuno

Half course (fall term). M., 2–4.
Contrastive analysis of major syntactic constructions of Japanese and Korean.
Prerequisite: Linguistics 175 or equivalent.

Linguistics 291r (formerly Linguistics 291). Functional Approach to Syntax
Catalog Number: 5046
Susumu Kuno

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Discourse-oriented analysis of syntax based on the functional sentence perspective (theme and rheme) and on the “point of view” perspective (the speaker’s attitude toward participants in an event). Examines pronominalization, reflexivization, and various deletion and movement processes.

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Degrees in Literature

Barbara E. Johnson, Fredric Wertham Professor of Law and Psychiatry in Society (Chair) (on leave 2001-02)
Sandra Naddaff, Senior Lecturer on Literature (Acting Chair (fall term), Director of Studies)
Svetlana Boym, Professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures and of Comparative Literature (on leave spring term)
Julie A. Buckler, Harris K. Weston Associate Professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures (on leave fall term)
Eileen Cheng-yin Chow, Assistant Professor of Chinese Literary and Cultural Studies (on leave 2002-2003)
Tom Conley, Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures
James Engell, Gurney Professor of English Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature
Bradley S. Epps, Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures
Marjorie Garber, William R. Kenan, Jr. Professor of English
Luis M. Girón Negrón, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and Romance Languages and Literatures (on leave spring term)
John T. Hamilton, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and Literature
Oren Jeremy Izenberg, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave 2002-03)
Despina Kakoudaki, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and of Literature
James L. Kugel, Harry Starr Professor of Classical and Modern Jewish and Hebrew Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature
Gregory Nagy, Francis Jones Professor of Classical Greek Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature
Stephen Owen, James Bryant Conant University Professor (on leave 2002-2003)
John M. Picker, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language
Eric Rentschler, Professor of German
Judith Ryan, Harvard College Professor and Robert K. and Dale J. Weary Professor of German and Comparative Literature (on leave fall term)
Sharmila Sen, Assistant Professor of English and American Literature and Language (on leave fall term)
Marc Shell, Irving Babbitt Professor of Comparative Literature and Professor of English
Susan R. Suleiman, C. Douglas Dillon Professor of the Civilization of France and Professor of Comparative Literature
William Mills Todd III, Harvard College Professor, Harry Tuchman Levin Professor of Literature, and Professor of Comparative Literature
Justin Weir, Assistant Professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures (on leave spring term)

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Literature Concentration

Verena A. Conley, Visiting Professor of Literature

Lillian Paula Porten, Preceptor in Expository Writing

Primarily for Undergraduates

*Literature 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1074
Sandra Naddaff and members of the Committee and Tutorial Board
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A graded, supervised course of reading and research to be conducted by a person approved by the Committee.
Note: Permission of Director of Studies required.

*Literature 97a. Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 2776
Sandra Naddaff and members of the Committee and Tutorial Board
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Successful completion of one semester of Literature 97a is required of all concentrators in their sophomore year.

*Literature 97b. Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 4595
Sandra Naddaff and members of the Committee and Tutorial Board
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Successful completion of one semester of Literature 97b is required of all concentrators in their sophomore year.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

*Literature 98a. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 3119
Sandra Naddaff and members of the Committee and Tutorial Board
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Successful completion of one semester of Literature 98a is required of all concentrators in their junior year.

*Literature 98b. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 1528
Sandra Naddaff and members of the Committee and Tutorial Board
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Successful completion of one semester of Literature 98b is required of all concentrators in their junior year.

*Literature 99a. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 4857
Sandra Naddaff and members of the Committee and Tutorial Board
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Successful completion of one semester of Literature 99a is required of all concentrators in their senior year.

*Literature 99b. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 1290
Sandra Naddaff and members of the Committee and Tutorial Board
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Successful completion of one semester of Literature 99b is required of all concentrators in their senior year.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Literature 100. Narrative Forms]
Catalog Number: 5556 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Sandra Naddaff
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An examination and analysis of narrative techniques and strategies in a variety of texts ranging from simple to complex narrative forms. Texts from different narrative contexts and cultures will be considered and will include the 1001 Nights, The Odyssey, Don Quixote, Pamela, Madame Bovary, The Sound and The Fury, and Season of Migration to the North, as well as important works of narrative theory.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature 105. Introduction to the Theory of Sexuality
Catalog Number: 8139
Heather K. Love
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1., and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15
An introduction to several key concepts in the history and theory of sexuality. The course will be interdisciplinary in approach, with readings in queer theory, cultural studies, psychoanalysis, the social sciences, literature and the visual arts. We will also consider contemporary queer cultural production (film, zines, performance, etc.). Special attention to the relation between gender and sexuality; queer historiography; global sexualities; gay pride and gay shame; and transgender studies.

Literature 107. Introduction to the Study of Film
Catalog Number: 4249
Despina Kakoudaki
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 12 and a weekly film screening, Tu., 3-5. EXAM GROUP: 5
This class explores films that aim to assault or alter human vision through the self-conscious representation of spectacular moments. We will focus on film as a medium for astonishment, formulate a theoretical approach to understanding techniques of spectacle, trace relevant historical developments, and discuss contemporary theories of film art, genre and spectatorship. Films by D. W. Griffith, Luis Buñuel, Orson Welles, Federico Fellini, Akira Kurosawa, Stanley Kubrick, and others.

[Literature 109. On Translation]
Catalog Number: 0594 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Sandra Naddaff
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examination of theories of translation from various periods (Dryden, Schopenhauer, Benjamin, Borges, Asad, among others). Also looks closely at specific translated texts (e.g., various translations of Homer’s Odyssey, Burton’s Thousand Nights and a Night), and considers such topics as the notion of “unequal languages,” the problem of cultural translation, untranslatability, and translation as imitation and re-creation.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of one foreign language.

Literature 110. Furor Poeticus: Madness, Inspiration, Genius
Catalog Number: 7758
John T. Hamilton
Half course (fall term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
The course begins with the classical conception of mania as a divine source of prophecy, ecstasy, poetic creation and erotic desire; then traces its manifestations and elaboration in select literary, theoretical and critical works of the Western tradition. Readings from: Sophocles, Plato, Seneca, Ficino, Shaftesbury, Diderot, Goethe, Büchner, Hölderlin, Nerval, Lautréamont, Freud, Breton, Artaud, Foucault, Kristeva, and C. Wolf.

[Literature 122. Literature and Music]
Catalog Number: 2360 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Preference given to Literature concentrators.
Sandra Naddaff
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores the intersection of literary texts and genres with musical forms and themes in a number of different contexts. Topics include such issues as the adaptation of text into music; the thematization of music in narrative; the Broadway musical; and the musicality of poetry. Works include Romeo and Juliet, West Side Story, The Kreuzer Sonata, Ulysses, Jazz, and others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature 124. Space and Place in Postmodern Culture]
Catalog Number: 8228 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Preference given to Literature concentrators.

Verena A. Conley

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Focuses on the renewed awareness of space in contemporary literature, film and theory. Examines the reinvention of space and the loss of place in an era of simulation with the advent of teletechnologies and globalism. Studies space and place through fictional and theoretical texts (Augé, Baudrillard, de Certeau, Deleuze, Perec, Virilio) and film (Akerman, Godard, Scott, Wenders).

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature 125. Literature, Technology, and the Body]
Catalog Number: 5958 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Preference given to Literature concentrators.

Verena A. Conley

Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Focuses on the relation between literature, technology and the body. How does the evolution of technologies, seen as liberation or threat, alter representations of the body? How does it affect notions of gender? How does it rewrite the limit between humans and the machine? Questions will be addressed by means of literature (James, Villiers de l’Isle Adam, Woolfe, Cixous, Burroughs, Powers, Gibson), film (Potter, Scott, the Wachowski Brothers) and some theoretical texts (Heidegger, Haraway, Plant).

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature 128. Performing Texts]
Catalog Number: 3404 Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Julie A. Buckler

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

What is the relationship between dramatic text and work? How do plays create audiences? What does the ubiquitous dramatic site of “home” (domestic interiors, family estates) contribute to the performance of “authentic” identities? This course enlists performance theory in the illumination of the dramatic texts and theatrical contexts of Pushkin, Gogol, Ostrovsky, Chekhov, Ibsen, Wilde, Bulgakov, Shaw, Kharms, Beckett, Sartre, O’Neill, Williams, Miller, and Petrushevskaia. Particular attention to restagings (19th-century dramas revisioned by Meyerhold and Stanislavsky), cross-cultural appropriations (Western stagings of Chekhov), theories of drama and culture (Nietzsche, Wagner, Shaw, Brecht, Ivanov, Evreinov).

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Literature 129. Reading the 18th Century Through 20th-Century Eyes]
Catalog Number: 5600 Enrollment: Limited to 15.

Christie McDonald

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Why do we read texts from the French Enlightenment today and how? Analysis of works from the 18th century as well as novels, plays, media events, and films of the 20th century that revisit key questions: what is the present in its relationship to the past? what constitutes change? what is the relationship of the individual to the family, the state, and society? Topics of discussion will include textual rewritings of novels and confessions; re-publication of works by women and the question of the canon; the controversy around pornography and reproduction; imagining what might have been in rewriting history through literature, the media and opera. Readings include works by 1) Beaumarchais, Charrière, Graffigny, Diderot, Franklin, Kant, Rousseau, Sade; 2) Beauvoir, Blanchot, Boyd, Foucault, Klossowski, Kundera, Shine, Hoffman, Corigliano, Weiss. Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Literature 130. Reconfiguring the City
Catalog Number: 1034 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Preference given to Literature concentrators
Verena A. Conley

Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Examines the city as concept, representation and simulation through literature, film and theory. Focuses on some regimes of the city rather than a particular city. Investigates how the city becomes a manifestation of a general urban condition; how it is reconfigured through the media and digital networks and how notions of “third culture” relate to a culture of disappearance. Works studied include literature (Baudelaire, Calvino, Perec), film (Godard, Wenders, Koo), theory (Baudrillard, Benjamin, Jameson, Koolhaus, Latour).

Literature 131. Twentieth-Century Fictions of Sexuality
Catalog Number: 1674
Heather K. Love

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12 and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

This course explores the intersection between narrative form and representations of sexuality in twentieth-century texts. We will consider a range of aesthetic responses to the “invention of the homosexual” with special attention to questions of authenticity and artifice and to narrative techniques of indirection, secrecy, and suggestion. Readings and films by Freud, James, Wilde, Stein, Cather, Mann, Larsen, Hall, Barnes, Yourcenar, Baldwin, Moraga, Hollinghurst, Barthes, Sedgwick, Butler, Akerman, Wong Kar-Wai, and others.

Literature 140. Colonial and Post-Colonial Spaces: France and North Africa
Catalog Number: 9366
Verena A. Conley

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Focuses on transformations of colonial and postcolonial spaces in North Africa that include Morocco, Tunisia, and, especially, Algeria. Special attention will be given to shifting notions of cultural terrain, language, violence, revolution, in relation to community and identity. We will also examine the emergence of new cultural spaces in connection with urban immigration in France and Europe. Works studied include literature (Begag, Boudjedra, Charef, Djebbar, Kateb Yacine, Khatibi, Memmi) film (Djebbar, Isaac Julien, Kassovitz) and theory (de Certeau, Fanon, Said).

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

The Mathematics Department would like to welcome students into that course for which they are best qualified. Incoming students should take advantage of Harvard’s Mathematics Placement Test and of the science advising available in the Science Center the week before classes begin. Members of the Department will be available during this period to consult with students. Generally, students with a strong precalculus background and some calculus experience will begin their mathematics education here with a deeper study of calculus and related topics.

Placement in Mathematics Xa, 1a, 1b, 20 and 21 is based on the results of the Harvard Mathematics Placement Test, and/or the Advanced Placement Examinations.

One calculus sequence is Mathematics 1a, 1b, 21a, 21b. Mathematics 1a introduces the basic ideas and techniques of calculus while Mathematics 1b covers integration techniques, differential equations, sequences and series. Mathematics 21a covers multi-variable calculus while Mathematics 21b covers basic linear algebra with applications to differential equations. Students who do not place into (or beyond) Mathematics 1a can take Mathematics Xa, Xb, a two-semester sequence which integrates calculus and precalculus material and prepares students to enter Mathematics 1b.

There are a number of options available for students whose placement is to Mathematics 21. For example, Mathematics 19 can be taken either before or after Mathematics 21 (or Mathematics 20). Mathematics 19 covers modeling and differential equation topics for students interested in biological and other life science applications. Mathematics 20 covers selected topics from Mathematics 21a and 21b for students particularly interested in economic and social science applications.

Mathematics 23 is a theoretical version of Mathematics 21 which treats multivariable calculus and linear algebra in a rigorous, proof oriented way. Mathematics 25 and 55 are theory courses that should be elected only by those students who have a particular interest in, and commitment to, mathematics. They assume a solid understanding of one-variable calculus and a willingness to think rigorously and abstractly about mathematics, and to work extremely hard. Both courses study multivariable calculus and linear algebra plus many very deep related topics. Mathematics 25 differs from Mathematics 23 in that the work load in Mathematics 25 is significantly more than in Mathematics 23, but then Mathematics 25 covers more material. Mathematics 55 differs from Mathematics 25 in that the former assumes a very strong proof oriented mathematics background.

Placement in Mathematics 21b, 23a, 25a, and more advanced courses is based on material not covered in the placement examinations. Students who have had substantial preparation beyond the level of the Advanced Placement Examinations are urged to consult the Department concerning their proper placement in mathematics courses. Students should take this matter very seriously and solicit advice from faculty members in the Mathematics Department. The Department has also prepared a pamphlet with a detailed description of all its 100-level courses and their relationship to each other. This pamphlet gives sample lists of courses suitable for students with various interests. It is available at the Department Office. Many 100-level courses assume some familiarity with proofs. Courses that fulfill this prerequisite include Mathematics 23, 25, 55, 101, 102, 112, 121, 141. Of these, note that Mathematics 101 and 102 may be taken concurrently with Mathematics 1, 19, 20, or 21.

The Department does not grant formal degree credit without prior approval for taking a course that is listed as a prerequisite of one you have already taken. Our policy is that a student who takes and passes any calculus course is not normally permitted to then take a more elementary course for credit. A student who has passed Mathematics 21a, for example, will normally not be allowed to take Mathematics 1a, or 1b for credit. The Department is prepared to make exceptions for sufficient academic reasons; in each case, however, a student must obtain written permission from the Head Tutor in advance.

In the case of students accepting admission as sophomores, this policy is administered as follows: students counting one half course of advanced standing credit in mathematics are deemed to have passed Mathematics 1a, and students counting a full course of advanced standing credit in mathematics are deemed to have passed Mathematics 1a and 1b.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Mathematics Xa. Introduction to Functions and Calculus I
Catalog Number: 1981 Enrollment: Normally limited to 15 students per section.
Dale Winter, Mihaea Popa, and members of the Department
Half course (fall term).
Section meeting times:
- Section I: M., W., F., at 10;
- Section II: M., W., F., at 11;
- Section III: M. W. F., at 12 (with sufficient enrollment).
EXAM GROUP: 3
The study of functions and their rates of change. Fundamental ideas of calculus are introduced early and used to provide a framework for the study of mathematical modeling involving algebraic, exponential, and logarithmic functions. Thorough understanding of differential calculus promoted by yearlong reinforcement. Applications to biology and economics emphasized according to the interests of our students.
Note: Required first meeting: Thursday, September 13, 8:00 am, Science Center A. The sequence Xa, Xb gives solid preparation for Mathematics 1b. Both Mathematics Xa and Xb must be taken to fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Mathematics Xb. Introduction to Functions and Calculus II
Catalog Number: 3857 Enrollment: Normally limited to 15 students per section.
Dale Winter and members of the Department
Half course (spring term). Section I: M., W., F., at 10; Section II: M. W., F., at 11; Section III: M., W., F., at 12 (with sufficient enrollment); and a twice weekly lab session to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 3
Continued investigation of functions and differential calculus through modeling; an introduction to integration with applications; an introduction to differential equations. Solid preparation for Mathematics 1b.
Note: Both Math Xa and Xb must be taken together to fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Prerequisite: Mathematics Xa.

Mathematics 1a. Introduction to Calculus
Catalog Number: 8434 Enrollment: Normally limited to 30 students per section.
John F. Mackey and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Section I, M., W., F., at 9 (with sufficient enrollment); Section II, M., W., F., at 10; Section III, M., W., F., at 11; Section IV, M., W., F., at 12; Section V, Tu., Th., 10–11:30; Section VI, Tu., Th., 11:30–1. Spring: Section I, M., W., F., at 10; Section II, Tu.,Th. 10-11:30 (with sufficient enrollment) and a weekly problem session to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
The development of calculus by Newton and Leibniz ranks among the greatest achievements of the past millennium. This course will help you see why by introducing: how differential calculus treats rates of change; how integral calculus treats accumulation; and how the fundamental theorem of calculus links the two. These ideas will be applied to optimization, graphing, mechanisms, and problems from many other disciplines.
Note: Required first meeting in fall: Wednesday, September 12, 8:00 am, Science Center D.
Prerequisite: A solid background in precalculus.

Mathematics 1b. Calculus, Series and Differential Equations
Catalog Number: 1804 Enrollment: Normally limited to 30 students per section.
Robin Gottlieb, Daniel Alcock, Albert Chau, Stephen DeBacker, and Dmitry Tamarkin (fall term); Robin Gottlieb, Stephen DeBacker, James Propp, Dmitry Tamarkin (spring term) and members of the Department.
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Section I, M., W., F., at 9 (with sufficient enrollment); Section II, M., W., F., at 10; Section III, M., W., F., at 11; Section IV, M., W., F., at 12 (with sufficient enrollment in spring); Section V, Tu., Th., 10–11:30; Section VI, Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a weekly problem session to be arranged. Required exams: Hours to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: Fall: 2; Spring: 1
Galileo wrote that, “The book of the universe is written in the language of mathematics.” Great problems in the physical, biological, and social sciences all find their expression as differential equations. This course builds on basic calculus to study differential equations of the first and second order. We develop both qualitative methods for visualizing solutions as well as analytical methods for writing out solutions, including techniques that evolve from our study of integration, infinite series, power series, and Taylor series.
Note: Required first meeting for fall: Wednesday, September 12, 8:00 am, Science Center C. Required first meeting in spring: Wednesday, January 30, 8:00 am, Science Center B.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 1a, or Xa and Xb, or equivalent.
Mathematics 19. Mathematical Modeling
Catalog Number: 1256
Albert Chau
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 1, and a weekly problem session to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6
Considers the construction and analysis of mathematical models that arise in the environmental sciences, biology, the ecological sciences, and in earth and atmospheric sciences. Introduces mathematics that includes multivariable calculus, differential equations in one or more variables, vectors, matrices, and linear and non-linear dynamical systems. Taught via examples from current literature (both good and bad).
Note: Can be taken with or without Mathematics 21a,b. Students with interests in the social sciences and economics might consider Mathematics 20. This course can be taken before or after Mathematics 20.

Mathematics 20. Introduction to Linear Algebra and Multivariable Calculus
Catalog Number: 0906
Daniel Alcock and John F. Mackey (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: M., W., F., at 9, Spring: M., W., F., at 9, and a weekly problem session to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
Introduction to linear algebra, including vectors, matrices, and applications. Calculus of functions of several variables, including partial derivatives, constrained and unconstrained optimization, and applications.
Note: Covers the topics from Mathematics 21a,b which are most important in applications to economics, the social sciences, and some other fields. Should not ordinarily be taken in addition to Mathematics 21a,b. Examples drawn primarily from economics and the social sciences though Mathematics 20 may be useful to students in certain natural sciences.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 1b or equivalent, or an A or A- in Mathematics 1a, or a 5 on the AB or a 3 or higher on the BC Advanced Placement Examinations in Mathematics.

Mathematics 21a. Multivariable Calculus
Catalog Number: 6760 Enrollment: Normally limited to 30 students per section.
Clifford Taubes, Paul Bamberg, Christophe Cornut, Kalle Karu, Oliver Knill (fall term); Andrew Engelward, Christophe Cornut (spring term) and members of the Department.
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Section I, M., W., F., at 9 (with sufficient enrollment); Section II, M., W., F., at 10; Section III, M., W., F., at 11; Section IV, M., W., F., at 12; Section V, Tu., Th., 10–11:30; Section VI, Tu., Th., 11:30–1; and a weekly problem session to be arranged. Required exams: Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 1
To see how calculus applies in situations described by more than one variable, we study: Vectors, lines, planes, parametrization of curves and surfaces; partial derivatives, directional derivatives, and the gradient; Optimization and critical point analysis, including constrained optimization and the Method of Lagrange Multipliers; Integration over curves, surfaces, and solid regions using cartesian, polar, cylindrical, and spherical coordinates; Vector fields, line and surface integrals for work and flux; Divergence and curl of vector fields; the Green’s, Stokes’, and Divergence Theorems. Finally, there is an introduction to partial differential equations.
Note: Required first meeting in fall: Thursday, September 13, 8:00 am, Science Center C. Required first meeting in spring: Wednesday, January 30, 8:00 am, Science Center C. May not be taken for credit by students who have passed Applied Mathematics 21a. Activities using computers to calculate and visualize applications of these ideas will not require previous programming experience. Special sections for students interested in physics or biochemistry and social sciences are offered each semester. The biochemistry/social sciences sections treat topics in probability and statistics in lieu of Green’s, Stokes’ and the Divergence Theorems.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 1b or equivalent.

Mathematics 21b. Linear Algebra and Differential Equations

Catalog Number: 1771

Enrollment: Normally limited to 30 students per section.

Richard L. Taylor (spring term), Dale Winter (fall term), Oliver Knill (spring term), Yum Tong Siu (spring term), and William A. Stein

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Section I, M., W., F., at 9 (with sufficient enrollment); Section II, M., W., F., at 10; Section III, M., W., F., at 11. Spring: Section I, M., W., F., at 9 (with sufficient enrollment); Section II, M., W., F., at 10; Section III, M., W., F., at 11; Section IV, M., W., F., at 12 (with sufficient enrollment); Section V, Tu., Th., 10–11:30; Section VI, Tu., Th., 11:30–1; and a weekly problem session to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2

By adding and multiplying arrays of numbers called vectors and matrices, linear algebra provides the structure for solving problems that arise in practical applications ranging from Markov processes to optimization and from Fourier series to statistics. To understand how, we develop thorough treatments of: euclidean spaces, including their bases, dimensions and geometry; and linear transformation of such spaces, including their determinants, eigenvalues, and eigenvectors. These concepts will be applied to solve dynamical systems, including both ordinary and partial differential equations.

Note: Required first meeting in fall: Wednesday, September 12, 8:00 am, Science Center A. Required first meeting in spring: Wednesday, January 30, 8:00 am, Science Center D. May not be taken for credit by students who have passed Applied Mathematics 21b.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 1b or equivalent. Mathematics 21a is commonly taken before Mathematics 21b, but is not a prerequisite, although familiarity with partial derivatives is useful.

Mathematics 23a. Theoretical Linear Algebra and Multivariable Calculus I

Catalog Number: 2486

John Boller

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, and a one-hour conference section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

Vectors and matrices; eigenvalues and eigenvectors; systems of linear differential equations; differentiation and integration of functions of several variables; line integrals.

Note: Mathematics 23a,b are honors courses, specifically designed for students with strong mathematics backgrounds who are seriously interested in continuing in the theoretical sciences.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 1b or a grade of 4 or 5 on the Calculus BC Advanced Placement Examination. This course does not correlate with the Physics 15 sequence. Mathematics 23 goes well beyond the concepts strictly necessary for Physics 15, which are more closely followed in Mathematics 21.

Mathematics 23b. Theoretical Linear Algebra and Multivariable Calculus II

Catalog Number: 8571

John Boller
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a one-hour conference section to be arranged.

Exam Group: 4

Continuation of the subject matter of Mathematics 23a. A rigorous treatment of linear algebra and the calculus of functions in n-dimensional space.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 23a.

Mathematics 25a. Honors Multivariable Calculus and Linear Algebra

Catalog Number: 1525

Kalle Karu

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3

A rigorous treatment of linear algebra, point-set and metric topology, and the calculus of functions in n variables. Emphasis placed on careful reasoning, and on learning to understand and construct proofs.

Note: This course should only be elected by students with a strong interest and background in mathematics. May not be taken for credit after Mathematics 23.

Prerequisite: A 5 on the Advanced Placement BC-Calculus Examination, or the equivalent as determined by the instructor.

Mathematics 25b. Honors Multivariable Calculus and Linear Algebra

Catalog Number: 1590

Kalle Karu

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3

A rigorous treatment of linear algebra, point-set and metric topology, and the calculus of functions in n variables. Emphasis placed on careful reasoning, and on learning to understand and construct proofs.

Note: This course should only be elected by students with a strong interest and background in mathematics. May not be taken for credit after Mathematics 23.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 25a or permission of instructor.

Mathematics 55a. Honors Advanced Calculus and Linear Algebra

Catalog Number: 4068

Wilfried Schmid

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

A rigorous treatment of metric and general topology, linear and multi-linear algebra, differential and integral calculus.

Note: Mathematics 55a is an intense course for students having significant experience with abstract mathematics. Instructor’s permission required. Every effort will be made to accommodate students uncertain of whether the course is appropriate for them; in particular, Mathematics 55a and 25a will be closely coordinated for the first three weeks of instruction. Students can switch between the two courses during the first three weeks without penalty.

Mathematics 55b. Honors Advanced Calculus and Linear Algebra

Catalog Number: 3312

Wilfried Schmid

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Continuation of Mathematics 55a. Calculus on manifolds, de Rham cohomology. Additional topics may include differential equations.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 55a or permission of instructor.
*Mathematics 60r. Reading Course for Senior Honors Candidates
Catalog Number: 8500
Clifford Taubes
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Advanced reading in topics not covered in courses.
Note: Open only to candidates for honors in Mathematics who obtain the permission of both the faculty member under whom they want to work and the Director of Undergraduate Studies. May not count for concentration in Mathematics without special permission from the Director of Undergraduate Studies. Graded SAT/UNS only.

*Mathematics 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 2165
Clifford Taubes
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Programs of directed study supervised by a person approved by the Department.
Note: May not ordinarily count for concentration in Mathematics.

*Mathematics 99r. Tutorial
Catalog Number: 6024
Clifford Taubes and members of the Faculty
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Topics for 2001-02: (1) Modular Forms (fall) Prerequisites: one semester of complex analysis (such as Math 113), also one semester of algebra or concurrent enrollment in algebra is strongly recommended. (2) Classical Mechanics and Geometry (fall) Prerequisites: multivariable calculus, linear algebra and comfort with reading and writing rigorous mathematical arguments are necessary prerequisites. For example, completion of Math 21a,b and Math 101, or Math 23a,b, or Math 25a,b or Math 55a,b satisfies this prerequisite. In addition knowledge of point-set topology at the level of Math 101, 112 or 131 will be assumed. (3) Statistics and its Applications to Biology (spring) Prerequisites: probability theory (at the level of Stat 110) and linear algebra. (4) Milnor’s Seven-Spheres (algebraic and differential topology) (spring) Prerequisites: multivariable calculus, linear algebra and comfort with reading and writing rigorous mathematical arguments are necessary prerequisites. For example, completion of Math 21a,b and Math 101, or Math 23a,b, or Math 25a,b or Math 55a,b satisfies this prerequisite. In addition knowledge of smooth manifolds and homology theory at the level of Math 135 will be assumed.
Note: May be repeated for course credit with permission from the Director of Undergraduate Studies. Only one tutorial may count for concentration credit. Students must register their interest in taking a tutorial with the Assistant Director of Undergraduate Studies by the second day of the semester in which the tutorial is offered.

Cross-listed Courses

For Undergraduates and Graduates

See also Applied Mathematics and Statistics.
Mathematics 101. Sets, Groups and Topology
Catalog Number: 8066
Daniel L. Goroff
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An introduction to rigorous mathematics, axioms, and proofs, via topics such as set theory, symmetry groups, and low-dimensional topology.
Note: Acquaintance with algebra, geometry and/or calculus is desirable. Students who have already taken Mathematics 25a,b or 55a,b should not take this course for credit.
Prerequisite: An interest in mathematical reasoning.

Mathematics 102. Methods of Discrete Mathematics
Catalog Number: 8389
Paul G. Bamberg and John Boller
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An introduction to rigorous mathematics and proof drawing on topics from group theory, graph theory, combinatorics, and number theory. We explore how proofs are discovered and refined through observation, conjecture, and verification. As one component of this investigation, we will use Mathematica to explore interesting and otherwise intractable examples to develop computer-aided proofs.
Note: Acquaintance with Calculus is desirable. Students who have taken Mathematics 25ab or Mathematics 55ab should not take this course for credit. This course is designed to fulfill the goals of Mathematics 101.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21b or equivalent. The student should also have some familiarity with some computer language though no prior familiarity with Mathematica will be assumed.

Mathematics 112. Real Analysis
Catalog Number: 1123
Curtis T. McMullen
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
An introduction to mathematical analysis and the theory behind calculus. An emphasis on learning to understand and construct proofs. Covers limits and continuity in metric spaces, uniform convergence and spaces of functions, the Riemann integral, sets of measure zero and conditions for integrability.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b or 23a,b, and either an ability to write proofs or concurrent enrollment in Mathematics 101. Should not ordinarily be taken in addition to Mathematics 25a,b or 55a,b.

Mathematics 113. Complex Analysis
Catalog Number: 0405
Matthew Baker
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Analytic functions of one complex variable: power series expansions, contour integrals, Cauchy’s theorem, Laurent series and the residue theorem. Some applications to real analysis, including the evaluation of indefinite integrals and the study of harmonic functions. An introduction to conformal geometry and conformal mappings.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 23a,b, 25a,b, or 101. Students with an A grade in Mathematics 21a,b may also consider taking this course, but must understand proofs.
Mathematics 115. Methods of Analysis and Applications
Catalog Number: 1871
Dmitry Tamarkin
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Some complex function theory; Fourier analysis; Hilbert spaces and operators; Laplace’s equations; Bessel and Legendre functions; symmetries; and Sturm-Liouville theory.
Note: Mathematics 115 is especially for students interested in physics.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b, 23a,b, or 25a,b, and permission of instructor.

[Mathematics 118r. Dynamical Systems]
Catalog Number: 6402
Shlomo Z. Sternberg
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to dynamical systems theory with a view toward applications. Topics include existence and uniqueness theorems for flows, qualitative study of equilibria and attractors, iterated maps, and bifurcation theory. Computer programs will be developed and used for visualization, approximation, and experimentation.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b.

Mathematics 119. Partial Differential Equations and Applications
Catalog Number: 7326
Albert Chau
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
Partial differential equations with constant coefficients, hyperbolic elliptic, and parabolic equations, Fourier analysis, Green’s function.
Prerequisite: Familiarity with functions of a complex variable.

Mathematics 121. Linear Algebra and Applications
Catalog Number: 7009
Peter B. Kronheimer
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Real and complex vector spaces, dual spaces, linear transformations and Jordan normal forms. Inner product spaces. Applications to linear programming, game theory and optimization theory. Emphasizes learning to understand and write proofs.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b or equivalent. Should not ordinarily be taken in addition to Mathematics 23a,b, 25a,b, or 55a,b.

Mathematics 122. Abstract Algebra I: Theory of Groups and Vector Spaces
Catalog Number: 7855
Stephen DeBacker
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Introduction to the theory of groups and group actions, with emphasis on finite groups and matrix groups. Sylow theorems. A short introduction to rings and fields. Vector spaces and linear transformations. Bilinear forms: symmetric, Hermitian, and skew-symmetric forms.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21b and the ability to write proofs as in Mathematics 101, 121, or the equivalent.

Mathematics 123. Abstract Algebra II: Theory of Rings and Fields
Catalog Number: 5613
Curtis T. McMullen
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Rings, ideals, and modules; unique factorization domains, principal ideal domains and Euclidean domains and factorization of ideals in each; structure theorems for modules; fields, field extensions. Automorphism groups of fields are studied through the fundamental theorems of Galois theory.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 122.

Mathematics 124. Number Theory
Catalog Number: 2398
William A. Stein
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Factorization and the primes; congruences; quadratic residues and reciprocity; continued fractions and approximations; Pell’s equation; selected Diophantine equations; theory of integral quadratic forms.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 122 (which may be taken concurrently) or equivalent.

Mathematics 126. Representation Theory and Applications
Catalog Number: 0369
David Kazhdan
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Representation theory of finite groups including character theory, induced representations, Frobenius reciprocity, and interesting applications.

Mathematics 128. Lie Algebras
Catalog Number: 6519
Shlomo Z. Sternberg
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11

Mathematics 129. Topics in Number Theory
Catalog Number: 2345
Christophe Cornut
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Number fields, ideal class groups, Dirichlet unit theorem, zeta functions, with specific attention to cyclotomic fields.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 122 and 123.

Mathematics 131. Topology
Catalog Number: 2381
Barry C. Mazur
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Basic notions of point set topology such as continuity, compactness, metrizability. Algebraic topology including fundamental groups, covering spaces, and higher homotopy groups. Applications to the theory of knots.
Prerequisite: Some acquaintance with metric space topology (Mathematics 25a,b, 55a,b, 101, or 112) and with groups (Mathematics 101 or 122).

Mathematics 134. Calculus on Manifolds
Catalog Number: 7150
Alexander Braverman
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Generalization of multivariable calculus to the setting of manifolds in real n-space, as used in the study of global analysis and geometry. Differentiable mappings of linear spaces, the inverse and implicit function theorems, differential forms, integration on manifolds, the general version of Stokes’s theorem, integral geometry, applications.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b and familiarity with proofs as in Mathematics 101, 112, 121, or the equivalent.

Mathematics 135. Differential Topology
Catalog Number: 2107
Shing-Tung Yau
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
Smooth manifolds, intersection theory, vector fields, Hopf degree theorem, Euler characteristic, De Rham theory.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 23a,b, 25a,b, 55a,b, or 134.

[Mathematics 136. Differential Geometry]
Catalog Number: 1949
----------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Curves and surfaces in 3-space, Gaussian curvature and its intrinsic meaning, Gauss-Bonnet theorem, surfaces of constant curvature.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b and familiarity with proofs as in Mathematics 101, 112, 121, or equivalent.

Mathematics 137. Algebraic Geometry
Catalog Number: 0556
Daniel Allcock
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Affine and projective spaces, plane curves, Bezout’s theorem, singularities and genus of a plane curve, Riemann-Roch theorem.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 122, 123.
Mathematics 138. Classical Geometry
Catalog Number: 0162
Paul G. Bamberg
Half course (spring term). M., W., 4–5:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
An introduction to spherical, Euclidean and hyperbolic geometry in two and three dimensions, with an emphasis on the similarities and differences between these flavors of geometry. The most important tool in analyzing these geometries will be a study of their symmetries; we will see how this leads naturally to basic notions in group theory and topology. Topics to be covered include the connection between hyperbolic geometry and special relativity and applications of symmetry groups to physics.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a,b.

[Mathematics 141. Introduction to Mathematical Logic]
Catalog Number: 0600
---------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Any mathematics course at the level of Mathematics 21a,b or higher, or permission of instructor.

Mathematics 144. Model Theory and Algebra
Catalog Number: 1258
Gerald E. Sacks
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Note: Mathematics 123 suggested, but not required.

Mathematics 191. Mathematical Probability
Catalog Number: 4306
David Kazhdan
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11
Prerequisite: Any mathematics course at the level of Mathematics 21a,b or higher.
Mathematics 192r. Algebraic Combinatorics
Catalog Number: 6612
James G. Propp (University of Wisconsin)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This course will enable students to be able to conduct original research in low-dimensional combinatorics. Methods taught will include recurrence relations (linear and non-linear), transfer matrices, and generating functions; topics include frieze patterns, number walls and tilings. There will be an emphasis on discovery and the use of computers.
Note: No prior knowledge of combinatorics is assumed, but familiarity with linear algebra will be helpful.

Cross-listed Courses

Primarily for Graduates

Mathematics 212a. Functions of a Real Variable
Catalog Number: 5446
Shlomo Z. Sternberg
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Prerequisite: Experience with courses involving rigorous proofs: e.g., Mathematics 25a,b, 112, 122.

Mathematics 212b. Functions of a Real Variable
Catalog Number: 7294
Shlomo Z. Sternberg
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Prerequisite: Mathematics 212a.

Mathematics 213a. Functions of One Complex Variable
Catalog Number: 1621
Yum Tong Siu
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Fundamentals of complex analysis, and further topics such as elliptic functions, canonical products, conformal mapping, extremal length, harmonic measure, capacity, hyperbolic geometry, quasiconformal maps.
Prerequisite: Basic complex analysis, topology of covering spaces, differential forms.
Mathematics 213b. Further Topics in Classical Complex Analysis
Catalog Number: 2641
Yum Tong Siu
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Fundamentals of Riemann surfaces. Topics may include sheaves and cohomology, uniformization, moduli, several complex variables.

Mathematics 216. Topics in Harmonic Analysis and Geometric Measure Theory
Catalog Number: 1468
Tatiana Toro (University of Washington)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
A study of how harmonic analysis, geometric measure theory and potential theory interact together to produce results concerning the regularity of free boundaries. The course will be self contained and therefore it will include a brief introduction to certain aspects of the 3 fields mentioned above.

Mathematics 219. The Analysis of the Kortweg-de Vries Equation
Catalog Number: 0546
Gigliola Staffilani (Stanford University)
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
The Kortweg-de Vries (KdV) equation is a typical dispersive equation. The guiding theme of the course will be the study of the following questions. How rough can an initial profile for the K-dV Cauchy problem be and still be able to claim well-posedness in an interval of time? What happens at time? Does the solution “blow-up” or can it be continued at all times?

Mathematics 230ar. Differential Geometry
Catalog Number: 0372
Shing-Tung Yau
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
A study of Riemannian manifolds, geodesics and curvature, and relations between curvature and topology. Also, a discussion of connections in principal bundles, spinors and Dirac operators, and the Bochner method.
Prerequisite: Math 131 and familiarity with smooth manifolds.

Mathematics 230br. Differential Geometry
Catalog Number: 0504
Shing-Tung Yau
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Topics in Riemannian geometry, Kähler geometry, Hodge theory, and Yang-Mills theory.
Note: Continuation of Mathematics 230ar.
Prerequisite: Differential Topology.

Mathematics 250a. Higher Algebra
Catalog Number: 4384
Noam D. Elkies
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
Course introduces ubiquitous algebraic structures and their properties and discusses some of their diverse applications. Highlights of the first term: Galois theory; the Brauer theory of central simple algebras; and representation theory of finite groups.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 123 or equivalent.

Mathematics 250b. Higher Algebra
Catalog Number: 8464
Noam D. Elkies
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
Continuation of Mathematics 250a. Main project will be the study of Lie groups, Lie algebras, and their finite-dimensional representations.

Mathematics 251x. Chiral Algebras
Catalog Number: 1035
David Kazhdan
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Invariant description of vertex algebras (Beilinson-Drinfeld). Chiral de Rham complex. (BD and Malikov, Schectman and Vaintrob.)

Mathematics 252x. Arithmetic of Elliptic Curves
Catalog Number: 6770
Barry C. Mazur
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Selected recent results concerning the arithmetic of elliptic curves and their L-functions, with relevant background material.

Prerequisite: Knowledge of basic algebraic number theory and the theory of algebraic curves, as well as some acquaintance with the cohomology of groups.

Mathematics 255r. Topics in Number Theory: Heights
Catalog Number: 0622
Matthew Baker
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An introduction to the theory of heights in arithmetic geometry, with an emphasis on problems related to lower bounds for heights. Discussions of heights of algebraic numbers, including Mahler measure, Lehmer’s problem and Bilu’s equidistribution theorem.

Mathematics 256. Theory of Error-Correcting Codes
Catalog Number: 5333
Noam D. Elkies
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Codes and linear codes, Hamming weight and distance, rates of transmission and reliability. Weight enumerators, dual code and the MacWilliams identity, Gleason’s theorems and consequences. Construction and properties of the Reed-Muller, Reed-Solomon, BCH, and Golay codes. Good Goppa codes from curves with many points over finite fields. Connections with sphere packing and other topics as time permits.
Mathematics 258x. Analytic Methods for Diophantine Problems
Catalog Number: 8021
Trevor Wooley (University of Michigan)
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
An introduction to the Hardy-Littlewood (circle) method, concentrating on its applications to counting integral/rational solutions of diophantine problems.
Prerequisite: Elementary Fourier analysis and number theory.

Mathematics 259x. Topics in K-Theory and L-functions
Catalog Number: 6955
Fernando Rodriguez-Villegas (University of Texas, Austin)
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
An overview of the relations between K-theory, special values of L-functions and polylogarithms. A discussion of Borel’s theorem for number fields and the conjectures of Bloch and Beilinson for elliptic curves, as well as the connection with the Mahler measure of polynomials.

Mathematics 260a. Introduction to Algebraic Geometry
Catalog Number: 7004
Mihnea Popa
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Introduction to complex algebraic varieties. Hodge theory. Curves, surfaces, moduli problems.
Prerequisite: Some familiarity with manifolds, differential forms and singular homology.

Mathematics 260b. Introduction to Algebraic Geometry
Catalog Number: 2745
Mihnea Popa
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Continuation of Mathematics 260a.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 260a.

Mathematics 262. Modular Forms
Catalog Number: 2368
Wilfried Schmid
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
The analytic theory of modular forms and Maas forms, from both the classical and the representation-theoretic perspective. Topics include L-functions, functional equation, Euler products, converse theorems.

Mathematics 264. A Second Course in Algebraic Geometry
Catalog Number: 7235
Joseph D. Harris
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
An introduction to some of the basic tools used in algebraic geometry. Topics include: intersection theory and enumerative geometry; Schubert calculus; Chern and Segre classes; linearization; and parameter spaces.
Mathematics 266x. Algebraic D-modules
Catalog Number: 3590
Alexander Braverman
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
D-modules on affine space, Bernstein’s inequality. Kashiwara’s theorem, Fourier D-modules on general algebraic varieties, inverse and direct image, holonomic D-modules with regular singularities, introduction to Riemann-Hilbert correspondence.
Prerequisite: The second half of the course will assume the knowledge of basic geometry and homological algebra.

Mathematics 272a. Introduction to Algebraic Topology
Catalog Number: 1666
Peter B. Kronheimer
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
Prerequisite: Mathematics 131 or permission of instructor.

Mathematics 272b. Introduction to Algebraic Topology
Catalog Number: 6502
Peter B. Kronheimer
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
Prerequisite: Mathematics 272a.

Mathematics 275. Topics in Conformal Dynamics
Catalog Number: 5906
Curtis T. McMullen
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Advanced topics in complex dynamics, hyperbolic geometry, Kleinian groups and Teichmueller theory.

Mathematics 277x. Foliations and the Topology of 3-Manifolds
Catalog Number: 1294
Danny Calegari
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
A study of 2-dimensional foliations and laminations, mostly in the context of 3-manifold topology. The aim of the course is to give an exposition of some of these results which are not widely available.
Prerequisite: Prior coursework in 3-manifold topology and/or geometrization helpful, but not required.

Mathematics 278x. Progress Towards Geometrization
Catalog Number: 5916
Danny Calegari
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
A discussion of progress made towards the resolution of the geometrization conjecture in the last decade. Topics may include: resolution of the Seifert fiber space conjecture; homotopy hyperbolic 3 manifolds are hyperbolic; bounds on exceptional surgeries; and the orbifold theorem.
Prerequisite: A good basic background in 3-manifold topology. Some familiarity with the Thurston theory of 3-manifolds, such as might be obtained by reading “Thurston’s Notes.”

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Mathematics 301. Theory and Practice of Teaching in the Mathematical Sciences

Medical Sciences

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION
Faculty of the Committee on Higher Degrees in Medical Sciences

Thomas M. Roberts, Professor of Pathology (Medical School) (Chair)
Nancy Andrews, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Constance L. Cepko, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Jonathan B. Cohen, Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
R. John Collier, Maude and Lillian Presley Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Raymond L. Erikson, American Cancer Society Professor of Cellular and Developmental Biology
Thomas O. Fox, Associate Professor of Neuroscience (Medical School) (ex officio)
Edward E. Harlow, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Stephen C. Harrison, Higgins Professor of Biochemistry
Peter M. Howley, George Fabyan Professor of Comparative Pathology (Medical School) (ex officio)
Dennis L. Kasper, William Ellery Channing Professor of Medicine (Medical School) (ex officio)
Elliott D. Kieff, Harriet Ryan Albee Professor of Medicine and Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Philip Leder, John Emory Andrus Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Hidde Ploegh, Mallinckrodt Professor of Immunopathology and Professor of Pathology (Medical School & Affiliate member of MCB)
Joan V. Ruderman, Marion V. Nelson Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Division of Medical Sciences

Chester Alper, Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Frederick W. Alt, Charles A. Janeway Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Paul J. Anderson, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Spyros Artavanis-Tsakonas, Kurt J. Isselbacher/Peter D. Schwartz Professor of Oncology (Medical School)
John A. Assad, Assistant Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Hugh Auchincloss, Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Dennis A. Ausiello, Jackson Professor of Clinical Medicine (Medical School)
K. Frank Austen, Theodore Bevier Bayles Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Frederick Ausubel, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Hamid Band, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Mark G. Baxter, Assistant Professor of Psychology (on leave spring term)
Bruce P. Bean, Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Jonathan R. Beckwith, American Cancer Society Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Alan H. Beggs, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
David R. Beier, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Welcome W. Bender, Harold T. White Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Francine M. Benes, Professor of Psychiatry (Medical School)
Gilles A. Benichou, Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Thomas L. Benjamin, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Christophe O. Benoist, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Larry I. Benowitz, Associate Professor of Neurosurgery (Medical School)
Jack Bergman, Associate Professor of Psychobiology (Medical School)
Andre Bernards, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Merton Bernfield, Clement A. Smith Professor of Pediatrics and Professor of Anatomy and Biology (Medical School)
Marla J. Berry, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Stephen C. Blacklow, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
T. Keith Blackwell, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
John Blenis, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Kurt J. Bloch, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Richard S. Blumberg, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Azad Bonni, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Richard T. Born, Associate Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Xandra O. Breakefield, Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Michael B. Brenner, K. Frank Austen Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Dennis Brown, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Robert H. Brown, Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Joan S. Brugge, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Linda D. Buck, Associate Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Stephen Buratowski, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Rami Burstein, Associate Professor of Neurobiology and Anaesthesia (Medical School)
Stephen Calderwood, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Stephen C. Cannon, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Lewis C. Cantley, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Harvey Cantor, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
William A. Carlezon, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry (Medical School)
Charles B. Carpenter, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Michael C. Carroll, Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Dong Feng Chen, Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Lan Bo Chen, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Lynda Chin, Assistant Professor of Dermatology (Medical School)
George M. Church, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Karen M. Cichowski, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
David E. Clapham, Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Donald M. Coen, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Tucker Collins, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
David P. Corey, Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Gabriel Corfas, Assistant Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Douglas Allen Cotanche, Associate Professor of Otology and Laryngology (Medical School)
Clyde S. Crumpacker II, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
James M. Cunningham, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Patricia A. D’Amore, Professor of Ophthalmology and Pathology (Medical School)
Alan D. D’Andrea, Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
John R. David, Professor of Medicine (Medical School) and Richard Pearson Strong Professor of Immunology and Infectious Diseases (Public Health)
Charles R. Dearolf, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Genetics) (Medical School)
James A. DeCaprio, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Ronald A. DePinho, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Ronald C. Desrosiers, Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
William F. Dietrich, Associate Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Patricia K. Donahoe, Marshall K. Bartlett Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Martin E. Dorf, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
John E. Dowling, Harvard College Professor and Gordon and Llura Gund Professor of Neurosciences (on leave fall term)
Ursula C. Dräger, Professor of Psychiatry (Medical School)
Glenn Dranoff, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Thaddeus P. Dryja, Jr., David Glendenning Cogan Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Catherine Dulac, Professor of Molecular and Cellular Biology
Anindya Dutta, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Ann M. Dvorak, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Susan M. Dymecki, Assistant Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Nicholas J. Dyson, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Michael J. Eck, Assistant Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Elaine A. Elion, Associate Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Thomas E. Ellenberger, Hsien Wu and Daisy Yen Wu Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Joel K. Elmquist, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Alan M. Engelman, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Tamar L. Enoch, Associate Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Myron E. Essex, Mary Woodard Lasker Professor of Health Sciences (Public Health)
R. Alan Ezekowitz, Charles Wilder Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Daniel D. Federman, Carl W. Walter Professor of Medicine and Medical Education (Medical School)
Joyce D. Fingeroth, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Daniel Finley, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
David E. Fisher, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Mark C. Fishman, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
John G. Flanagan, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
William C. Forrester, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Dan G. Fraenkel, Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
David A. Frank, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Christin A. Frederick, Associate Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Robert M. Friedlander, Associate Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Barbara C. Furie, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Bruce Furie, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Dana Gabuzda, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Raif S. Geha, Prince Turki Bin Abdul Aziz Al-Saud Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Lee Gehlke, Professor of Health Sciences and Technology and MMG (Medical School)
Katia Georgopoulos, Associate Professor of Dermatology (Medical School)
John Gergely, Associate Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Grace Gill, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
D. Gary Gilliland, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Michael A. Gimbrone, Elsie T. Friedman Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Irene K. Gipson, Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Laurie H. Glinscher, Professor of Medicine (Medical School) and Irene Heinz Given Professor of Immunology (Public Health)
David E. Golan, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Alfred L. Goldberg, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Irving H. Goldberg, Otto Krayer Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Marcia Goldberg, Associate Professor of Medicine (Microbiology and Molecular Genetics) (Medical School)
Anne E. Goldfeld, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Daniel A. Goodenough, Takeda Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Howard M. Goodman, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Heinrich G.J. Gottlinger, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Howard Green, George Higginson Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Jeremy Green, Assistant Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Michael E. Greenberg, Professor of Neurobiology and Neurology (Medical School)
Michael Grusby, Associate Professor of Molecular Immunology (Public Health) and Associate Professor of Medicine (Public Health)
James Gusella, Bullard Professor of Neurogenetics (Medical School)
Steven P. Gygi, Assistant Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Daniel A. Haber, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
David Hafler, Jack, Sadie, and David Breakstone Professor of Neurology (NSCI) (Medical School)
Iswar K. Hariharan, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Donald A. Harn, Professor of Tropical Public Health (Public Health)
Anne C. Hart, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Elizabeth D. Hay, Louise Foote Pfeiffer Professor of Embryology (Medical School)
Xi He, Assistant Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Zhigang He, Assistant Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Martin E. Hemler, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Darren E. Higgins, Assistant Professor of Microbiology & Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Philip W. Hinds, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Martin S. Hirsch, Professor of Medicine (Medical School) and Professor in the Department of Cancer Biology (Public Health)
I-Cheng Ho, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Ann Hochschild, Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
James M. Hogle, Edward S. Harkness Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Victor Wee Hsu, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Bradley T. Hyman, Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
John J. Iacomini, Assistant Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Donald E. Ingber, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Ole S. Isacson, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Rakesh K. Jain, A. Werk Cook Professor of Radiation Oncology (Medical School)
Farish A. Jenkins, Jr., Professor of Biology (FAS) and Professor of Anatomy in the Harvard-MIT Division of Health Sciences and Technology (Medical School) (on leave spring term)
Frances E. Jensen, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Robert P. Johnson, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Jae Ung Jung, Associate Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
C. Ronald Kahn, Mary K. Iacocca Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Lee M. Kaplan, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Morris J. Karnovsky, Shattuck Professor of Pathological Anatomy (Medical School)
Howard R. Katz, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Kenneth M. Kaye, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Andrius Kazlauskas, Associate Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Mark T. Keating, Professor of Cell Biology and Pediatrics (Medical School)
Vicki R. Kelley, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Roya Khosravi-Far, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Kwang-Soo Kim, Associate Professor of Psychiatry (Medical School)
Jean-Pierre Kinet, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Randy King, Assistant Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Robert E. Kingston, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Tomas Kirchhausen, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Marc W. Kirschner, Carl Walter Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Michael Klagsbrun, Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Nancy Kleckner, Herchel Smith Professor of Molecular Biology
David M. Knipe, Higgins Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Roberto G. Kolter, Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Christine L. Konradi, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry (Medical School)
Bruce R. Korf, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Walter J. Koroshetz, Associate Professor of Medicine and Assistant Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Stanley J. Korsmeyer, Sidney Farber Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Kenneth S. Kosik, Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Barry E. Kosofsky, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Edward A. Kravitz, George Packer Berry Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Jordan A. Kreidberg, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Vijay K. Kuchroo, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Louis M. Kunkel, Professor of Genetics and Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
David J. Kwiatkowski, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Andrew A. Lackner, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Lois A. Lampson, Associate Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Peter T. Lansbury, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Andrew B. Lassar, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Claude P. Leche, Visiting Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Catherine A. Lee, Silas Arnold Houghton Associate Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Jeannie T. Lee, Associate Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Tun-Hou Lee, Professor of Virology (Public Health)
Norman Letvin, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Rong Li, Associate Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
M. Charles Liberman, Professor of Otology and Laryngology (Medical School)
Towia A. Libermann, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Andrew H. Lichtman, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Judy Lieberman, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Edmund C. C. Lin, Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
David M. Livingston, Emil Frei Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Margaret S. Livingstone, Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Eng H. Lo, Associate Professor of Radiology (Medical School)
Mary R. Loeken, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
A. Thomas Look, Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
David N. Louis, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Kun Ping Lu, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Francis W. Luscinskas, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Andrew D. Luster, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Samuel E. Lux IV, Robert A. Stranahan Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Qiufu Ma, Assistant Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Richard L. Maas, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Marcy E. MacDonald, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Jeffrey D. Macklis, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Joseph A. Majzoub, Associate Professor of Pediatrics and Medicine (Medical School)
Clint L. Makino, Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Jarema Malicki, Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology (Genetics) (Medical School)
Richard H. Masland, Charles Anthony Pappas Professor of Neuroscience (Medical School)
Diane J. Mathis, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Peter McCaffery, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry (Medical School)
Andrea I. McClatchey, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Frank D. McKeon, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Markus Meister, Jeff C. Tarr Professor of Molecular and Cellular Biology
John J. Mekalanos, Higgins Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Mark Mercola, Associate Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Arthur M. Mercurio, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Matthew L. Meyerson, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Alan M. Michelson, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Jeffrey B. Miller, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Keith W. Miller, Mallinckrodt Professor of Pharmacology (Medical School)
Timothy J. Mitchison, Hasib Sabbagh Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Danesh Moazed, Assistant Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Donald K. Morisato, Assistant Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Cynthia C. Morton, Professor of Pathology and William Lambert Richards Professor of Obstetrics, Gynecology, and Reproductive Biology (Medical School)
Edmund A. Mroz, Jr., Associate Professor of Physiology (Medical School)
Richard C. Mulligan, Mallinckrodt Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Karl Münger, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Venkatesh N. Murthy, Assistant Professor of Molecular and Cellular Biology, Tutor in Biochemical Sciences
Lee M. Nadler, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Cathryn R. Nagler-Anderson, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Benjamin Neel, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Rachael L. Neve, Associate Professor of Psychiatry (Medical School)
Max L. Nibert, Associate Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Anne Nicholson-Weller, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Marjorie A. Oettinger, Associate Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Jeffrey D. Parvin, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Stuart H. Orkin, Leland Fikes Professor of Pediatric Medicine (Medical School)
Christina M. Parker, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
David L. Paul, Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Michael Pazin, Assistant Professor of Dermatology (Medical School)
Norbert Perrimon, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Gerald Pier, Professor of Medicine (Microbiology and Molecular Genetics) (Medical School)
Scott L. Pomeroy, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Kornelia Polyak, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Raja R. Rando, Gustavus Adolphus Pfeiffer Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Rajiv R. Ratan, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Elio Raviola, Bullard Professor of Neurobiology and Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
R. Clay Reid, Associate Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Ellis L. Reinherz, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Charles C. Richardson, Edward S. Wood Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Barrett J. Rollins, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Fred S. Rosen, James L. Gamble Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Paul A. Rosenberg, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Michael Rosenblatt, Ebert Professor of Molecular Medicine (Medical School)
Nadia Rosenthal, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Andre Rosowsky, Associate Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Frederick P. Roth, Assistant Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
David H. Rowitch, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Robert H. Rubin, Gordon and Marjorie Osborn Professor of Health Sciences and Technology, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Christopher E. Rudd, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Ruth M. Ruprecht, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Gary B. Ruvkun, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
David H. Sachs, Paul S. Russell/Warner Lambert Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Haruo Saito, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Clifford B. Saper, James Jackson Putnam Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
David T. Scadden, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Priscilla A. Schaffer, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Robert H. Schiestl, Associate Professor of Toxicology (Public Health)
Stuart F. Schlossman, Baruj Benacerraf Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Bruce J. Schnapp, Associate Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Stuart L. Schreiber, Morris Loeb Professor of Chemistry and Chemical Biology
Thomas M. Schulteiss, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Peter H. Schur, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Thomas L. Schwarz, Professor of Neurology and Neurobiology (Medical School)
Brian Seed, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Rosalind A. Segal, Assistant Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Christine E. Seidman, Professor of Medicine, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Jonathan G. Seidman, Henrietta B. and Frederick H. Bugher Foundation Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Dennis J. Selkoe, Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Charles N. Serhan, Professor of Anaesthesia (Medical School)
Jeffrey E. Settleman, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
William F. Sewell, Associate Professor of Otology and Laryngology (Medical School)
Arlene H. Sharpe, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Carla J. Shatz, Nathan Marsh Pusey Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Jen Sheen, Associate Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Jie Shen, Assistant Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Yang Shi, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Steven E. Shoelson, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Piotr Sicinski, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Pamela A. Silver, Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Gary A. Silverman, Associate Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
David A. Sinclair, Assistant Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Jeffrey L. Sklar, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
D. Max Snodderly, Associate Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Joseph G. Sodroski, Professor of Pathology (Medical School) and Professor of Cancer Biology (Public Health)
Sergei Y. Sokol, Associate Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Bruce M. Spiegelman, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Robert G. Spiro, Professor of Biological Chemistry (Medical School)
Timothy A. Springer, Latham Family Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Ivan Stamenkovic, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Michael Starnbach, Associate Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Thilo Stehle, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)
Richard L. Stevens, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Charles D. Stiles, Professor of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics (Medical School)
Thomas P. Stossel, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
J. Wayne Streilein, Charles L. Schepens Professor of Ophthalmology (Medical School)
Michel A. Streuli, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Gary R. Strichartz, Professor of Anaesthesia (Medical School)
Jack L. Strominger, Higgins Professor of Biochemistry
Kevin Struhl, David Wesley Gaiser Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Kathleen J. Sweadner, Associate Professor of Cellular and Molecular Physiology in the Department of Surgery (Medical School)
Megan Sykes, Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Jack Szostak, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Clifford J. Tabin, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Armen H. Tashjian, Jr., Professor of Toxicology, emeritus (Public Health) and Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Daniel G. Tenen, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Cox Terhorst, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Sheila Thomas, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Stefan Thor, Assistant Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Nicholas L. Tilney, Francis D. Moore Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Li-Huei Tsai, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Sander Van Den Heuvel, Assistant Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Richard A. Van Etten, Associate Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
David L. Van Vactor, Associate Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Timothy K. Vartanian, Assistant Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Marc Vidal, Assistant Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Ulrich H. Von Andrian-Werburg, Associate Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Harald Von Boehmer, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Denisa D. Wagner, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Gerhard Wagner, Elkan Blout Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Bruce D. Walker, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
W. Allan Walker, Conrad Taff Professor of Nutrition and Pediatrics (Medical School) and Professor in the Department of Nutrition (Public Health)
Christopher T. Walsh, Hamilton Kuhn Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Christopher A. Walsh, Bullard Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Johannes Walter, Assistant Professor of Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (Medical School)
Thomas Walz, Assistant Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Frederick C. Wang, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Charles J. Weitz, Associate Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Peter F. Weller, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Marianne Wessling-Resnick, Professor of Nutrition (Public Health, Medical School)
Kristin White, Assistant Professor of Dermatology (Medical School)
Morris F. White, Associate Professor of Biochemistry (Medical School)
Malcolm Whitman, Associate Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Don C. Wiley, John L. Loeb Professor of Biochemistry and Biophysics, Tutor in Biochemical Sciences (on leave 2001-02)
Louise E. Wilkins-Haug, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics, Gynecology, and Reproductive Biology (Medical School)
Thomas H. Wilson, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Fred Winston, Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Dyann F. Wirth, Professor of Tropical Public Health (Public Health)
Clifford Woolf, Richard J. Kitz Professor of Anaesthesia (Medical School)
Chao-Ting Wu, Assistant Professor of Genetics (Medical School)
Kai Wucherpfennig, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Bruce Yankner, Associate Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Gary I. Yellen, Professor of Neurobiology (Medical School)
Anne B. Young, Julieanne Dorn Professor of Neurology (Medical School)
Junying Yuan, Professor of Cell Biology (Medical School)
Edmund J. Yunis, Professor of Pathology (Medical School)
Bruce R. Zetter, Professor of Surgery (Medical School)
Jing Zhou, Associate Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Leonard I. Zon, Professor of Pediatrics (Medical School)

The Division of Medical Sciences makes available to graduate students the facilities of the preclinical departments and research laboratories of the Harvard Medical School and its affiliated hospitals and institutions. The Division offers advanced courses and research in cell biology, biological chemistry and molecular pharmacology, physiology, genetics, immunology, microbiology and molecular genetics, neurosciences, pathology, and virology. Qualified undergraduates may be admitted with the permission of the instructor and the student’s department of concentration, as far as the facilities of the special laboratories permit. Inquiries should be addressed to the Division of Medical Sciences, Harvard Medical School, 260 Longwood Avenue, Boston, MA 02115, or telephone (617) 432-0162.
For other courses in biological sciences, see listings of the Program in Biological Sciences in Public Health, Biophysics and Molecular and Cellular Biology.

Biological and Biomedical Sciences (BBS)

BBS is an interdepartmental program within the Division of Medical Sciences at Harvard Medical School. BBS faculty are primarily drawn from five preclinical departments of the Medical School: Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology (BCMP); Cell Biology; Genetics; Microbiology and Molecular Genetics; and Pathology. In addition, selected faculty located within area hospitals and institutions are members of BBS.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

BBS 300. BBS Seminar
Catalog Number: 8771
Clifford J. Tabin (Medical School) 2430, Patricia A. D’Amore (Medical School) 1168, Robert E. Kingston (Medical School) 1153, and Fred Winston (Medical School) 7877
This seminar is designed to help students learn presentation skills. Each student in their fourth year will be required to give a 20 minute talk to other fourth year students and selected faculty. The talk will be based upon the research in the student’s thesis lab (i.e. a “lab” talk, not necessarily the student’s own research.) The course faculty will help in the preparation of the talk and will give feedback following the talk. Students must register for this course by their fifth year.

BBS 333r. Introduction to Research in Biological and Biomedical Sciences
Catalog Number: 1206
Constance L. Cepko (Medical School) 1150
Note: BBS students register for lab rotations under this course number.

BBS 380. Reading and Research in Biological and Biomedical Sciences
Catalog Number: 0349
Constance L. Cepko (Medical School) 1150

Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology

All courses in Biological Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology are subject to limitation in enrollment and will not be offered unless there is sufficient demand. For courses in Neuropharmacology, see listings under Neurobiology. For more courses in biochemistry, see other listings in the FAS Biological Sciences section.

Primarily for Graduates
BCMP 200. Molecular Biology
Catalog Number: 5591
Stephen Buratowski (Medical School), David E. Fisher (Medical School), Marla J. Berry (Medical School), Anindya Dutta (Medical School), Alan M. Engelman (Medical School), and Johannes Walter (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., 10:30–12.
An advanced treatment of the Central Dogma of molecular biology. The course will consider the molecular basis of genetic information transfer from DNA to RNA to protein, using current examples from eukaryotic and prokaryotic systems. Topics include DNA and chromatin structure, replication, DNA repair, genome stability and plasticity, transcription, post-transcriptional RNA processing, translation, and post-translational regulation. Lectures and discussion sessions will emphasize experimental techniques and primary literature readings.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BP 723.0.
Prerequisite: Intended primarily for graduate students familiar with basic molecular biology or with strong biology/chemistry background.

BCMP 201. Proteins: Structure, Function and Catalysis
Catalog Number: 5068
Thomas E. Ellenberger (Medical School), Stephen C. Blacklow (Medical School), Stephen C. Harrison, and Christopher T. Walsh (Medical School)
Advanced coverage of contemporary topics in protein biochemistry with emphasis on the interrelated roles of protein structure, catalytic activity, and macromolecular interactions in biological processes. Topics include the analysis of protein sequence information and three dimensional structures of proteins, protein folding and conformational changes that control biological activity, the regulated assembly and disassembly of macromolecular complexes, the structural basis for enzymatic catalysis, fidelity and proofreading mechanisms, energy transduction, and the generation of force by proteins.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BP714.0
Prerequisite: Knowledge of introductory general biochemistry, elementary physical chemistry, and molecular genetics required.

*BCMP 205. Principles of Pharmacology
Catalog Number: 1737
David E. Golan (Medical School) and members of the Department
Half course (spring term). M., through F., 8:30–12. First class meets 2/08/02, class ends 3/8/02.
Intensive introduction to pharmacology, emphasizing basic mechanisms of drug action and principles of drug-receptor interactions, pharmacokinetics, and drug metabolism. Drug classes illustrated using prototypic drugs. Examples drawn from autonomic nervous system, cardiovascular, and central nervous system pharmacology; autacoids and chemotherapeutic agents also considered.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as IN 705.0. Ten hours of lecture, four hours of conference, and four hours of tutorial per week. Permission of both the course director and the Medical School Registrar is required.
Prerequisite: Introductory biochemistry and physiology preferred but not required.
BCMP 207. Molecular Approaches to Drug Action, Discovery, and Design

Catalog Number: 0529 Enrollment: May be limited.

Donald M. Coen (Medical School), David E. Golan (Medical School), James M. Hogle (Medical School), Christopher T. Walsh (Medical School), Morris F. White (Medical School) and Associates

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 3:30–5:30.

Explores how molecular biology, structural biology, and modern enzymology have revolutionized understanding of selective drug action and development of new therapies. Analyzes molecular underpinnings of basic pharmacological principles. Examples drawn primarily from pathways central to molecular biology such as signal transduction, DNA replication, and gene expression with application to diseases including cancer, diabetes, and AIDS.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BP 715.0. Intended primarily for graduate students.

BCMP 210. Theory and Practice of Techniques in Molecular Biology

Catalog Number: 1230

Welcome W. Bender (Medical School), Donald K. Morisato (Medical School), and Stanley Tabor (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). M., 2–4, W., 2–5, F., 2–4.

Reviews the principles of common lab techniques, and discusses recent innovations. A variety of procedures will be tested experimentally. Topics include separation techniques for nucleic acids and proteins, polymerase reactions, nucleic acid reassocitions, and immunological detection. Course format includes lecture, lab experiments, and discussions.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BP 725.0.

Prerequisite: Exposure to molecular techniques will be assumed.

BCMP 213. Behavioral Pharmacology

Catalog Number: 4782 Enrollment: Limited to 15.

Jack Bergman (Medical School), Carol A. Paronis (Medical School) and associates

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 3:30–5.

Introduction to CNS pharmacology and behavior. Effects of psychomotor stimulants, antischizophrenics, opioid analgesics, and antianxiety agents on behavior. Emphasis on methodology, pharmacological analysis, and drug dependence; attention to tolerance, withdrawal, and self-administration of drugs.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BP 719.0.

[BCMP 228. Macromolecular Crystallography and NMR]

Catalog Number: 3969

Gerhard Wagner (Medical School) and James M. Hogle (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Theory and practice of modern methods of structural analysis: model building of proteins and DNA, growing protein crystals, making a heavy atom derivative, taking X-ray precession photographs, solving a protein structure; setup of 2D NMR experiments, spectral assignment distance geometry, and other modeling programs on graphics workstations. The two parts of this course, Macromolecular Crystallography and Macromolecular NMR, can be taken together as a
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

BCMP 230. Principles and Practice of Drug Development
Catalog Number: 1295
Robert H. Rubin (Medical School)
Critical assessment of the major issues and stages of developing a pharmaceutical or biopharmaceutical. Drug discovery, preclinical development, clinical investigation, manufacturing and regulatory issues considered for small and large molecules. Economic considerations of the drug development process. Multidisciplinary perspective from faculty from clinical, life, and management sciences and industry guests.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Contact instructor at 432-3213. Offered in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as BP 722.0.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as HT920.

BCMP 231 (formerly Genetics 212). Biology of Yeasts: Cell Proliferation and Differentiation
Catalog Number: 3476
Elaine A. Elion (Medical School)
This course will consider topics such as cell cycle control, determination of cell identity and cell morphology from the perspective of studies using yeasts as the experimental organism. We will concentrate on examining how scientific problems can be studied in these simple eukaryotes using genetic methods. Primary research papers will be discussed and critically evaluated. The two parts of this course can be taken together as a half course, or individually as quarter courses under BCMP 370. The first quarter will consider determination of cell identity and control of cell differentiation; the second quarter will consider cell cycle control and morphogenesis.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as BP 726.0.
Prerequisite: Genetics 201 or equivalent. May be taken concurrently.

Catalog Number: 1044
Rong Li (Medical School), Tom Rapaport (Medical School), Joan Ruderman (Medical School), Timothy J. Mitchison (Medical School), and John Blenis (Medical School).
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 10:30-12; plus sections F. at 10:30-12.
Current concepts in Cell Biology and Biochemistry, with emphasis on experimental approaches. Topics include the molecular basis of cellular compartmentalization, protein trafficking, cytoskeleton dynamics, mitosis, cell locomotion, cell cycle regulation, signal transduction, and the cellular/biochemical basis of diseases. The course will also cover various methods, such as protein purification, sequencing, analysis of protein-protein interactions, and microscopy methods.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as CB 713.0
Prerequisite: Basic knowledge in biochemistry and genetics.

Cell Biology 207. Developmental Biology: Molecular Mechanisms of Vertebrate Development
Catalog Number: 2044 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Mark Mercola (Medical School), John G. Flanagan (Medical School), Andrew B. Lassar (Medical School), Thomas M. Schultheiss (Medical School), Sergei Y. Sokol (Medical School), Clifford J. Tabin (Medical School), and Malcolm Whitman (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2–4.
This course analyzes the developmental programs of frog, chick, and mouse embryos with emphasis on experimental strategies for understanding the responsible molecular mechanisms. Principal focus of the course is the establishment of the body plan and the formation of selected organs. Specific topics include developmental anatomy of early embryos, primary axis formation and regional specification, formation of the nervous system, establishment of cell fate, homeotic genes and the control of pattern, cell migration and cell-cell signalling, stem cell potency and development of muscle, cartilage, heart, reproductive system and limbs. The course includes lectures and conference sessions in which original literature will be discussed in depth. Short research proposals will be required in lieu of exams.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as CB 710.0.

Cell Biology 211a. Biology of the Cancer Cell
Catalog Number: 5771
James A. DeCaprio (Medical School) and Myles A. Brown (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). M., W., 12:30–2.
Examines the basic mechanisms of cell growth and the processes that lead to cancer. Emphasizes the molecular basis of cancer including alterations in signal transduction, cell cycle, apoptosis, transcription, and DNA repair. Focuses on how oncogenes, tumor suppressors, and oncogenic viruses affect normal cell growth and explores the development of novel target based therapies.
Note: Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as CB 704.0.
Prerequisite: General knowledge of biochemistry, molecular genetics, and cell biology.

[Cell Biology 211b. Growth Factors and Signal Transduction]

Catalog Number: 4169
Enrollment: Limited to 30.

Charles D. Stiles (Medical School), Alan D. D’Andrea (Medical School), and Thomas M. Roberts (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The course is divided into three instruction blocks. The first block covers history, chemistry and biology of the major growth factor families and their receptors including the hematopoietic growth factors. The second block teaches basic principles in growth factor receptor activation and signal transduction. The Ras/Raf/MAP kinase cascade and the JAK/STAT signaling pathways are used as teaching vehicles. The third instruction block is entitled “Variations on the Themes and a Look Ahead.” The content of this block will change as the field unfolds. Most recently (Fall of ’00), this block featured one lecture “snapshots” of nitric oxide signaling, TGF-beta receptor signaling, Eph family receptors and their ligands, tyrosine phosphatases, Notch/Delta, Wnt and Patched signaling pathways.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the medical school as CB 705.0.
Prerequisite: BCMP/CB 201 or equivalent.

[Cell Biology 213. Biological Machines]

Catalog Number: 8427

Robin Reed (Medical School), Thomas E. Ellenberger (Medical School), Daniel Finley (Medical School), Tomas Kirchhausen (Medical School), Danesh Moazed (Medical School), Tom Rapoport (Medical School), Bruce J. Schnapp (Medical School), and Gary I. Yellen (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Most major cellular processes are carried out by complex macromolecular machines. The course will investigate the basic principles of these machines by exploring specific examples, including the proteasome, chaperones, nucleocytoplasmic transport machinery, the spliceosome, protein translocation machinery, ion channels, DNA polymerases and topoisomerases, molecular motors and chromatin remodeling machinery. We will examine the structure and assembly of these machines, the mechanisms they use to achieve fidelity, how and why energy is used, the role of conformational changes, and reasons for the extreme complexity of many of the machines. The format will be essentially a workshop, with frequent presentations by students. The material will be focused on the current literature, with an emphasis on experimental design and proposing new experiments.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Course web site is http://cbweb.med.harvard.edu/biomachine/. The BioInformation Systems Manager will be Scott Storms, PhD. Offered jointly with the Medical School as CB 719.0
Prerequisite: Undergraduate level biochemistry, molecular biology, cell biology.
Cell Biology 214. Developmental Biology and Genetics
Catalog Number: 3458
Spyros Artavanis-Tsakonas (Medical School), Iswar K. Hariharan (Medical School), Norbert Perrimon (Medical School), Sander Van Den Heuvel (Medical School), and David L. Van Vactor (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). M., 6–8 p.m.; W., 6–8 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 9
The course will emphasize the Developmental Genetics of Model systems including flies, worms, and mice and will be taught at a graduate level. We aim to provide a comprehensive picture of the biological principles and molecular mechanisms governing ontogeny as revealed by the analysis of model systems. We are also interested in discussing different experimental approaches, evaluate experimental systems, and examine the relevance of invertebrate studies in human biology and pathology with an emphasis on cancer. While much of the studies we will discuss involve Drosophila, we will often contrast and compare this experimental system with C.elegans and occasionally with vertebrate systems.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as CB 720.0.

*Genetics 200. Genetics Development and Reproductive Biology
Catalog Number: 4265 Enrollment: Limited to 4 Division of Medical Sciences students.
Philip Leder (Medical School), Daniel D. Federman (Medical School), Bruce R. Korf (Medical School), and Clifford J. Tabin (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M. through F., 8:30–12:30 First class meets 3/18/02. Call 432-0904 for first meeting times.
Focuses on fundamental aspects of human genetics, reproduction, early development, and morphogenesis. Both classical and molecular genetics are addressed, with particular application to human biology and medicine. Laws that govern inheritance and variation among individuals and populations considered with special attention to the molecular aspects of inheritance, mutation, and gene control.
Note: Call 432-1515 to register. Permission of both the course director and the Medical School Registrar is required. Offered jointly with the Medical School as IN 703.0.
Prerequisite: Biochemistry or equivalent.

Genetics 201. Principles of Genetics
Catalog Number: 4225
William F. Dietrich (Medical School), Anne C. Hart (Medical School), Ann Hochschild (Medical School), Lizabeth A. Perkins (Medical School), and Fred Winston (Medical School)
An in-depth survey of genetics, beginning with basic principles and extending to modern approaches and special topics. To illustrate the principles of genetics, we will draw on examples from various systems, such as Drosophila, C. Elegans, Saccharomyces, mouse, human and bacteria. In addition, considerable time will be spent discussing important practical aspects and constraints of genetic analysis in various organisms. Section meetings will focus on critical discussion of papers from the literature and on discussion of problem sets.
Note: Intended for first-year graduate students. Offered jointly with the Medical School as GN 701.0.

(Medical School), Francesca Pignoni (Medical School), Meredith Applebury (Medical School), and Elio Raviola (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

An introduction to the visual system focusing on the vertebrate visual system, primarily on the retina, but with some coverage of other visual centers. Covers aspects of anatomy, physiology, biochemistry, development, and molecular genetics.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. An introductory course in neurobiology is suggested, but not required. Offered jointly with the Medical School as GN 714.0.

Genetics 216. Advanced Topics in Gene Expression
Catalog Number: 2244
Robert E. Kingston (Medical School) and Fred Winston (Medical School)

This course will cover both biochemical and genetic studies in regulatory mechanisms. We will discuss a small number of topics in depth, using the primary literature as the main source of information. Each area of research covered will be analyzed in terms of the conceptual basis for its study, its advancement and evolution, and the experimental approaches that were used. Topics will range from prokaryotic transcription to eukaryotic development.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as GN 703.0.

Prerequisite: BCMP 200 and Genetics 201.

[Genetics 218. Genotype to Phenotype: Epigenetic and Other Forms of Gene Regulation]
Catalog Number: 2252 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Chao-Ting Wu (Medical School), William C. Forrester (Medical School), and Jeannie T. Lee (Medical School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

There is increasing interest in apparently unusual forms of gene regulation, many of which have been described as epigenetic. We will explore a selection of these phenomena, including X-inactivation, transvection, methylation, parental imprinting, RIP, MIP, quelling, co-suppression, and paramutation. Examples will be taken from prokaryotes, ciliates, fungi, plants, insects, and mammals. While the underlying bases for these processes may seem diverse, we will aim to identify unifying themes. The course format will entail paper discussions, lectures, and student presentations.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Medical School as GN 724.0.

Prerequisite: Introductory course in genetics and molecular biology, or permission of the instructors.

Genetics 220. Molecular Biology and Genetics in Modern Medicine
Catalog Number: 4660
David Hausmann (Medical School) and associates

Half course (fall term). M., F., 9–12. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3, 4

The focus of this course is on the scientific, clinical, and ethical aspects of modern human genetics. Basic science lectures covering genetic approaches and molecular underpinnings of inherited diseases are integrated with patient presentations and discussion. An outside project puts each student in direct contact with clinicians, researchers, and patients dealing in a particular disorder. During the first portion of the semester fundamental principles of human genetics are presented to the class. During these early sessions, students with stronger backgrounds meet in alternative sections with leading researchers to discuss related advanced topics based on reading of primary literature.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as HT 160.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Genetics 300. Advanced Topics in Cell, Molecular, and Developmental Biology
Catalog Number: 1037
Susan M. Dymecki (Medical School) 1736

Topics cover areas of interest in cell, molecular, and developmental biology such as molecular genetics of learning and memory, conservation of embryological mechanisms, molecular organogenesis, and biology of yeasts. Different topics are covered each term.

Note: A series of reading and discussion seminars, each running for a half semester (seven weeks). Two seminars, which can be taken in different semesters, are required for credit. Non-DMS students must get permission from the Division of Medical Sciences before registering for this course. Please contact us at 432-0605 or visit the DMS Office at T-MEC 435, 260 Longwood Avenue, Boston.

Tutorials to be scheduled individually by each group.
This course provides thorough coverage of the essential elements of hypothesis-driven research proposal writing. Through a series of written exercises and class discussions, students will learn how to choose an appropriate research subject, define specific scientific hypotheses to advance the understanding of the chosen topic, design a series of properly controlled experiments to investigate these questions, anticipate potential outcomes and technical pitfalls of the proposed experiments, and consider alternative interpretation of the predicted results. Emphasis will be placed on the organization of these concepts in a coherent, appropriately structured written format. Groups of approximately four students and two faculty instructors will meet for six tutorials during the course of the fall semester. Discussions will focus on the critical assessment of model research proposals and on the development of original proposals by individual students within the group.

Immunology

All courses in Immunology are subject to limitation in enrollment and will not be offered unless there is sufficient demand.

Primarily for Graduates

[Immunology 200. Lymphocyte Development and the Generation of Diversity]
Catalog Number: 2669
[Immunology 200. Lymphocyte Development and the Generation of Diversity]
Shiv S. Pillai (Medical School), Frederick W. Alt (Medical School), Laurie H. Glimcher (Public Health), and Marjorie A. Oettinger (Medical School)
[Immunology 200. Lymphocyte Development and the Generation of Diversity]
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
[Immunology 200. Lymphocyte Development and the Generation of Diversity]
Topics discussed will include commitment to the lymphoid lineage, cell fate decisions in B and T cell development, the transcriptional regulation of lymphocyte development, the generation of TH1 and TH2 cells, and apoptotic death in the immune system. We will also examine the processes of VDJ recombination, isotype switching, and somatic mutation in mechanistic detail. The two parts of this course may be taken together as a half course, or individually as quarter courses which will be offered sequentially, one on DNA rearrangement and the other on lymphocyte development.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. The quarter courses are offered under Immunology 300. Offered jointly with the Medical School as IM 700.0. Given in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Genetics or Introductory Immunology course at the undergraduate or graduate level.

---

Immunology 201. Principles of Immunology

Catalog Number: 8337

Hidde Ploegh (Medical School), Uli Von Andrian (Medical School) Co-Director, Frederick W. Alt (Medical School) and Diane Mathis (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1:30–3:30.

As a comprehensive core course in immunology, the topics include a broad but intensive examination of the cells and molecules of the immune system. Special attention is given to the experimental approaches that led to the general principles of immunology.

Note: Background in genetics and biochemistry is strongly recommended. Offered jointly with the Medical School as IM 702.0.

Prerequisite: This course is intended for students who have had prior exposure to immunology on the undergraduate level. In the absence of such exposure, students MUST obtain the permission of the Course Director.

---

Immunology 205. Principles of Clinical Immunology

Catalog Number: 7604

Roy J. Soberman (Medical School), Richard L. Stevens (Medical School) and associates

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Focuses on the molecular mechanism of immunologic diseases. A detailed examination of the current scientific literature and experimental approaches used to elucidate the mechanisms of these diseases is the subject of a combination of discussions and brief introductory lectures.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as IM 707.0.

Prerequisite: General immunology and a strong knowledge of biochemistry is suggested.

---

Immunology 217. Signal Transduction and Gene Regulation in the Immune System

Catalog Number: 8205 Enrollment: Limited to 16.

Anjana Rao (Medical School), Hamid Band (Medical School), Michael Pazin (Medical School), and Brian Seed (Medical School)

Half course (spring term). Th., 4–6:30.

An advanced discussion of the mechanisms of signal transduction and inducible gene expression in cells of the immune system, with reference to non-immune cells types and systems. The two parts of this course are offered in sequence as individual quarter courses, the first on cell signaling and the second on transcriptional regulation. They may also be taken together as semester-long half course. The topics to be discussed include: protein modules and protein-protein interactions; antigen and coreceptor stimulatory pathways; adhesion receptors and lymphocyte homing; negative signaling and tolerance; viral subversion of the immune response; calcium signaling; MAP kinase cascades; cell activation and cell death; cytokine signalling; NFκB; cooperative mechanism in gene transcription; histone acetylation and DNA methylation; chromatin; locus control; and new approaches to the study of immune system function in vivo.

Note: Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as IM 727.0.

Prerequisite: General biochemistry and immunology.

Immunology 219. Immunodeficiencies and Infectious Diseases

Catalog Number: 1873
Cox Terhorst (Medical School), Michael B. Brenner (Medical School), Raif S. Geha (Medical School), Norman Letvin (Medical School), Fred S. Rosen (Medical School), and Michael Starnbach (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

This course will be divided into two parts. The first quarter describes genetically determined human immunodeficiency patients, murine immunodeficiencies caused by homologous recombination or introduction of transgenes, and human and animal acquired immunodeficiencies. Examines impact of defects on lymphoid differentiation and on immune responses. Evaluates use of animal models for study and therapy of human disease states. The second quarter characterizes natural host immune responses that contain infectious agents. Interactions between HIV and cells of the immune system will be emphasized. The two parts of this course can be taken together as a half course, or individually as a quarter course under Immunology 300.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as IM 729.0.

Prerequisite: Course in basic immunology.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Primarily designed for work on a thesis problem, carried out under the supervision of the following faculty members whose special research interests are listed.

Immunology 300. Advanced Topics in Immunology

Catalog Number: 4739
Hidde Ploegh (Medical School & Affiliate member of MCB) 3143

A series of reading and discussion seminars each running for a half semester (7 weeks). Two seminars, which can be taken in different semesters, are required for credit. Topics include the role of intracellular and transmembrane protein phosphates in signal transduction.

Note: Designed primarily for first- and second-year Immunology graduate students. Non-DMS students must get permission from the Division of Medical Sciences before registering for this course. Please contact us at 432-0162 or visit the DMS Office at T-MEC 435, 260 Longwood Avenue, Boston.

Immunology 301. Immunology Seminar

Catalog Number: 4971
Hidde Ploegh (Medical School & Affiliate member of MCB) 3143

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). W., 3:30–6:15.

Gives students exposure to research topics in Immunology. Students prepare for the weekly seminar through readings and occasional discussion with the seminar speakers. These discussions are facilitated by members of the Committee on Immunology.

Note: Designed primarily for first- and second-year Immunology graduate students.

Medical Sciences

Primarily for Graduates

*Medical Sciences 215. Integrated Human Physiology
Catalog Number: 6359
Bruce R. Zetter (Medical School) and members of the Faculty
Half course (fall term). M., through F., 8:30–12:00. First meeting 12/13/01.
This course describes the physiological mechanisms underlying the functions and interactions of the major systems of the human body, including the cardiovascular, renal, gastrointestinal, respiratory, endocrine, and reproductive systems. Particular emphasis is placed on the interactions between these systems and the overall integration of physiological functions. The course is geared primarily toward small group exercises including case discussions, problem sets, hospital based demonstrations, and laboratories.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as IN 712.0. Students taking the course for credit are expected to attend all course sessions. Permission of both the course director and the Medical School Registrar is required.

*Medical Sciences 250ab. Human Functional Anatomy
Farish A. Jenkins, Jr., Lee Gehrke (Medical School), and Samuel Kennedy (Medical School)
Full course (fall term). Lectures, M., W., F., 1:30–2:30; laboratory, M., W., F., 2:30–6.
Lectures, detailed laboratory dissections, and prosections provide a thorough exploration of the gross structure and function of the human body. Fundamental principles of bioengineering are employed to promote analytical approaches to understanding the body’s design. The embryology of major organ systems presented, together with certain references to phylogenetic development, as a basis for comprehending anatomical complexity. Correlation clinics stress both normal and abnormal functions of the body; guest lectures focus on current problems in organ system research and molecular aspects of development.
Medical Sciences 265. Human Physiology: Classical and Contemporary Approaches
Catalog Number: 4308
Edmund A. Mroz, Jr. (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores function of the human organism, through experimental findings and underlying principles of classical physiology and of cellular and molecular biology. Covers the cardiovascular, respiratory, renal, and gastrointestinal systems, and energy metabolism. Discusses cellular and molecular basis of function while emphasizing integrated regulation via endocrine and autonomic nervous systems.

Note: Contact instructor: E-mail eam@epl.meei.harvard.edu Tel: 573-4232. Offered jointly with the Medical School as MS 701.0.
Prerequisite: Cell biology or biochemistry.

Microbiology and Molecular Genetics

All courses in Microbiology and Molecular Genetics are subject to limitation in enrollment and will not be offered unless there is sufficient demand.

Primarily for Graduates

*Microbiology 200. Molecular Microbiology and Pathogenesis
Catalog Number: 7773
Catherine A. Lee (Medical School), R. John Collier (Medical School), Dan G. Fraenkel (Medical School), and Roberto G. Kolter (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., 9–10:30. Pre-class meeting 1/29/02, RSVP clee@hms.harvard.edu.
Course will be devoted primarily to bacterial structure, physiology, genetics, regulatory mechanisms and pathogenesis. Class time will consist of a combination of: 1) lecture, 2) presentations emphasizing methods, results and interpretation of classic and contemporary literature, 3) guest seminars, and 4) small group discussions of papers.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as MG 726.0. Course website http://gasp.med.harvard.edu/micro200/index.html

*Microbiology 205. Mechanisms of Microbial Pathogenesis
Catalog Number: 2480 Enrollment: May be limited.
Clyde S. Crumpacker II (Medical School), Harvey B. Simon (Medical School) and associates
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–11.
The mechanisms of bacterial, mycoplasmal, fungal, and viral pathogenesis are covered. Topics are selected for intrinsic interest and cover the spectrum of pathophysiologic mechanisms of the infectious process. Emphasis on pathogenesis at the molecular level.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as HT 040.

[Microbiology 209. Molecular Biology of Bacterial Development and Multicellularity]
Catalog Number: 2698 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Roberto G. Kolter (Medical School) and associates
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The course provides an in depth coverage of bacterial systems displaying complex developmental processes and intercellular communication. A major aim of the course is to give students experience in researching topics and preparing formal lecture presentations. Lectures are accompanied by critical discussions of key papers. The specific topics vary from year to year and are selected based on the recent literature and student interest.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. A minimum of 8 interested students are required to offer the course, open to graduate and advanced undergraduate students.
Contact the instructor at 432-1776. Offered jointly with the Medical School as MG 727.0.

[*Microbiology 212. Bacterial Metabolism]
Catalog Number: 0598
Dan G. Fraenkel (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Pathways and energy metabolism. A discussion course based on papers.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Contact the instructor at 432-1912. Offered jointly with the Medical School as MG 728.0. Also offered as 2 Quarter Courses.

Microbiology 213. Social Issues in Biology
Catalog Number: 7905
Jonathan R. Beckwith (Medical School), Roberto G. Kolter (Medical School), and Louis Guenin (Medical School)
A series of presentations and discussions on several of the following: philosophy, history, and sociology of science, science and journalism, genetics and the law, fraud in science, social and ethical issues in genetic screening, genes and human behavior, gender issues in biology, and the Human Genome Project. A set of readings is prepared for each session that includes differing viewpoints on the topic at hand.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Note: Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as MG 722.0.

Prerequisite: Some background in genetics.

Microbiology 230. Analysis of the Biological Literature
Catalog Number: 3791 Enrollment: Limited to and required of all first-year BBS students.
Stephen C. Blacklow (Medical School), Alan D. D’Andrea (Medical School), Elaine A. Elion (Medical School), Andrius Kazlauskas (Medical School), Andrea I. McClatchey (Medical School), Karl Münger (Medical School), Jeffrey D. Parvin (Medical School), David Pellman (Medical School), Thomas M. Schultheiss (Medical School), Piotr Sicinski (Medical School), and Sheila Thomas (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 4:30–7:30 p.m.
Critical analysis of original research articles in an intensive small group discussion format. Papers will be analyzed in terms of background, hypothesis, appropriate use of experimental methods, and objective interpretation of results. Covers a wide range of papers in biochemistry, genetics, microbiology, and cell and developmental biology.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research
Primarily designed for work on a thesis problem, carried out under the supervision of the following faculty members, whose special research interests are listed. Courses in parasitology are listed in the catalog of the Harvard School of Public Health (see Pathology).

Microbiology 300. Advanced Topics in Microbiology and Molecular Genetics
Catalog Number: 2304
Michael Starnbach (Medical School) 1816
A series of reading and discussion seminars, each running for a half semester (7 weeks). Two seminars, which can be taken in different semesters, are required for credit.

Note: Non-DMS students must get permission from the Division of Medical Sciences before registering for this course. Please contact us at 432-0605 or visit the DMS Office at T-MEC 435, 260 Longwood Avenue, Boston.

Prerequisite: Dependent on seminar.

Neurobiology

Primarily for Graduates

Neurobiology 200. Introduction to Neurobiology
Catalog Number: 6062 Enrollment: Limited to 45.
David P. Corey (Medical School), Richard H. Masland (Medical School), John A. Assad (Medical School), Matthew Frosch (Medical School), Gabriel Corfas (Medical School), and guest lecturers
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., 9–12.
Spans modern neuroscience from molecular neurobiology to perception and cognition, including the following major topics: anatomy and development of the brain; cell biology of neurons and glia; ion channels and electrical signaling; synaptic transmission, integration, and chemical systems of the brain; sensory systems; motor systems; higher brain function (memory, language, affective disorders).
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as HT 130. Follows the Medical School calendar. Three hours of lecture and six hours of lecture/conference weekly.

Neurobiology 204. Neurophysiology of Central Circuits
Catalog Number: 5603
R. Clay Reid (Medical School), John A. Assad (Medical School), Stephen C. Cannon (Medical School), and Richard Born (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., 10–12.
Introduction to the physiology of circuits in the vertebrate central nervous system. Topics include the auditory, somatosensory, and visual systems, the cerebellum, and the neural control of eye movements. The behavior of these systems will be analyzed at three levels: the electrophysiological properties of single neurons, synaptic interactions between neurons in vitro, and the behavior of the circuits in vivo.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as NB 721.0.
Prerequisite: Neurobiology 220.

Neurobiology 206. Molecular Mechanisms of Synapse and Signaling
Catalog Number: 1733
Jonathan B. Cohen (Medical School) and Thomas L. Schwarz (Medical School)
Introduction to the molecular mechanisms of synaptic function, receptor recognition, and regulation. Topics include the structure and function of neurotransmitter receptors and their intracellular signalling pathways, and the mechanisms involved in the metabolism, storage, and release of neurotransmitters. Examples are chosen from monoamine, amino acid, and peptidergic systems.
Neurobiology 207. Developmental Neurobiology

Catalog Number: 4977
Enrollment: Limited to 30.
Rosalind A. Segal (Medical School), Qiufu Ma (Medical School), Stefan Thor (Medical School), and David L. Van Vactor (Medical School)

Development of the nervous system. Topics include delineation of neural vs. non-neural tissues; axial and segmental patterning; cell lineage; specification of neuronal identity; axonal outgrowth and guidance; synapse formation and regression; hormonal influences on nervous system development.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as NB 720.0.
Prerequisite: Neurobiology 200 or permission of instructor.

Neurobiology 209. The Neurobiology of Disease

Catalog Number: 5562
Edward A. Kravitz (Medical School), Robert H. Brown (Medical School), and Walter J. Koroshetz (Medical School)

Half course (spring term). M., 4–6:30, W., 7:30–9:30 p.m.

Designed for advanced undergraduate and graduate students interested in diseases and disorders of the nervous system. A major disease or disorder is presented each week. Monday sessions involve patient presentations and “core” lectures describing clinical aspects of a disease or disorder, the pathology (where relevant), and the basic science information needed to help in understanding the disease or disorder. On Wednesdays, students present material from original literature sources, and there is general discussion.

Note: Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as NB 713.0.
Introductory neurobiology, biochemistry, and molecular biology are recommended.

[Neurobiology 220. Cellular Neurophysiology]

Catalog Number: 2141
Stephen C. Cannon (Medical School), Bruce P. Bean (Medical School), Wade G. Regehr (Medical School), and Gary I. Yellen (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 9:30–12, and weekly discussion section.

Introduction to the physiology of neurons. Topics include structure and function of ion channels, generation and propagation of action potentials, physiology of synaptic transmission, and mechanisms of neurotransmitter modulation of neuronal activity. Includes problem sets and reading of original papers.

Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as NB 714.0.
Prerequisite: Introductory neurobiology.

[Neurobiology 221. Molecular Neurobiology]

Catalog Number: 0443
Charles J. Weitz (Medical School), Linda D. Buck (Medical School), and Michael E. Greenberg (Medical School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to the molecular biology and genetics of the nervous system. Selected aspects of development, gene regulation, plasticity, and behavior are covered. Includes reading and discussion of original papers.

_Note:_ Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as NB 715.0.

_Prerequisite:_ Introductory neurobiology (may be taken concurrently).

Eligible students interested in parasitology and tropical medicine should consult the courses offered by the Department of Tropical Public Health as listed in the catalog of the Harvard School of Public Health. For specific information regarding prerequisites and advisability, contact the office of the Department of Tropical Public Health, Harvard School of Public Health.

Primary for Graduates

[Pathology 205. Molecular Biology of the Auditory System]
Catalog Number: 0211
Cynthia C. Morton (Medical School) and William F. Sewell (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This critical reading and discussion course will examine molecular genetic and molecular biological approaches to understanding auditory function and dysfunction. This course will emphasize the functional implications of genetic disorders of hearing in which both the gene and the molecular defect have been identified or hypothesized. It will also cover molecular biological approaches to understanding and intervening in auditory dysfunction. Discussions will be led by students. The first half of the course will focus on human genetics.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. Offered jointly with the Medical School as HT 730.
Prerequisite: Introductory courses in neurobiology and molecular biology are recommended.

[Pathology 209. Tumor Pathophysiology and Transport Phenomenon]
Catalog Number: 5934
Rakesh K. Jain (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). M., 5:30–7:30 p.m.
Tumor pathophysiology plays a central role in the growth, metastasis, detection, and treatment of solid tumors. Principles of transport phenomena are applied to develop a quantitative understanding of angiogenesis (formation of new blood vessels), blood flow and microcirculation, metabolism and microenvironment, transport and binding of small and large molecules, movement of cancer and immune cells, metastatic process, radiotherapy, chemotherapy, immunotherapy, hyperthermia, and photodynamic therapy of solid tumors.
Note: Given in alternate years. Offered by the HST Program as HT-525J and the Medical School as PA 712.0.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Students are usually not eligible to enroll in one of these courses until they have completed their formal required course work. Research courses are primarily designed for research work on a student’s thesis problem, carried out under the direct supervision of one of the following faculty members, whose special research interests are listed.

Pathology 300. Advanced Topics in Cell, Molecular, and Developmental Biology
Catalog Number: 2245
Patricia A. D’Amore (Medical School) 1168
Topics cover areas of interest in cell, molecular, and developmental biology such as signal integration in the cell, biology of growth factors, and cell adhesion molecules. Different topics are covered each term.
Note: A series of reading and discussion seminars, each running for a half semester (seven weeks). Two seminars, which can be taken in different semesters, are required for credit. Non-DMS students must get permission from the Division of Medical Sciences before registering for this course. Please contact us at 432-0605 or visit the DMS Office at T-MEC 435, 260 Longwood Avenue, Boston.
Prerequisite: Dependent on seminar.

Virology

Primarily for Graduates

Virology 200. Animal Virology
Catalog Number: 1190
James M. Cunningham (Medical School), Dana Gabuzda (Medical School), and Lee Gehrke (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M., 1:30-3 and Tu or Th., 12:30-4.
Topics that will be covered in lectures include the replication strategies of RNA and DNA viruses, the principles of viral structure, and the cell biology of viral replication with special emphasis on viral entry, viral assembly, viral translational control mechanisms, and viral transformation. Other topics that will be covered include the mechanisms responsible for generating and maintaining diversity in RNA viral populations, viral immunology and pathogenesis, plant viruses, viroids, prions, antiviral chemotherapy, and the design and use of viral vectors. The lectures will be integrated with a weekly seminar series and with a discussion group in which students will critically evaluate one or more key papers in virology.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as MG 723.0.

Virology 201. Animal Virology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6025
Joseph G. Sodroski (Medical School, Public Health), Heinrich G.J. Gottlinger (Medical School), Jae Ung Jung (Medical School), Frederick C. Wang (Medical School), and Richard Owens
Snyder (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). W., 1:30–4:30.
Examines aspects of biological and molecular mechanisms by which animal viruses replicate in or interact with host cells and organisms. Topics chosen from viral entry into host cells, transcription of viral genes, replication of viral nucleic acids, transformation of cells, virus assembly, virus genetics, viral vectors, viral pathogenesis, antiviral agents, and host immune response.
Note: Offered jointly with the Medical School as MG 724.0.
Prerequisite: General background in biochemistry and virology.

Virology 202. Readings in Virology
Catalog Number: 6075 Enrollment: Limited to first year Virology Students
Max L. Nibert (Medical School) and Karl Münger (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. First Meeting Wednesday, September 12, 2001. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Students are divided into groups of four and will meet weekly with a member of the faculty. The objectives of this course are to develop and improve ability to: (1) critically read current relevant scientific literature. (2) understand the status of an area of research. (3) develop new hypotheses. (4) formulate experimental approaches to testable hypotheses. (5) design, execute, and critically evaluate experimental approaches using contemporary biochemical, genetic, and cell biologic technologies. (6) write and orally present scientific ideas, and (6) understand concepts in virology using Reo and Rota or Human Papilloma viruses as model systems.
Note: Weekly writing and oral presentations of either an article from the literature that is selected by the faculty or proposals based on laboratory rotations designed by the students. Students are required to take a laboratory rotation course in parallel with this course.

Jan Ziolkowski, Arthur Kingsley Porter Professor of Medieval Latin

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in Medieval Studies

Beverly Mayne Kienzle, Professor of the Practice of Latin and Roman Languages (Divinity School)
Roger E. Stoddard, Senior Lecturer on English

The standing committee on Medieval Studies exists in order to promote and coordinate work on medieval subjects broadly construed throughout the University, including Dumbarton Oaks in Washington, D.C., and I Tatti in Florence as well as the various faculties and departments in Cambridge. Working in cooperation with the student-faculty Medieval Society, it sponsors events and activities of interest to medievalists. Among its most important activities are the frequent meetings of the Medieval Studies seminar (Monday afternoons), the sporadic Special Seminars in Medieval Studies, and fostering the Medieval Studies Library in Widener. Its electronic mailing list is the most comprehensive guide to late antique, medieval and Byzantine events at Harvard University and in the Boston area generally. No degree specifically in medieval studies is offered either on the undergraduate or on the graduate level, although it is possible to develop within many departmental programs an individual program emphasizing the medieval aspects of the field. A graduate student who wishes to follow an interdisciplinary doctoral program is required to enter and to work for at least a year in one of the regular departmental programs for the Ph.D. After a year, it is recommended that the student contact the chair of the Committee on Medieval Studies for guidance as to the alternatives available in medieval studies. With the assistance of the Committee on Medieval Studies, the student may petition the Dean of the Graduate School for permission to work under the guidance of a specially appointed Ad Hoc Committee in a specific area of Medieval Studies. If this petition is approved, the Ad Hoc Committee will supervise the graduate student’s program through the completion of the doctorate. Specific questions concerning Medieval Studies on either the undergraduate or the graduate level and requests for the pamphlet on Medieval Studies and the annual list of courses on medieval topics should be addressed to the Chairman of the Committee, Robinson Hall 201. For more information and to receive the MSC’s email on its frequent activities, contact medieval@fas.harvard.edu (and view its website at www.fas.harvard.edu/~medieval).

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Medieval Studies 101. The Auxiliary Disciplines of Medieval History: Proseminar]
Catalog Number: 3759
Michael McCormick
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Familiarizes new scholars in art history, history, literature, and music with the research tools, techniques, and concepts required for advanced study of medieval evidence. “Medieval” ranges from Diocletian to the Renaissance, focusing on the Latin West but not neglecting Byzantium. Topics include general heuristics, hagiography, late and medieval Latin philology, late antique studies, numismatics, diplomatic, codicology, and an initiation to Latin paleography, from the 6th to the 17th century.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Medieval Studies 102. Intermediate Medieval Latin Palaeography and Manuscript Culture]
Catalog Number: 7124 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Beverly Mayne Kienzle (Divinity School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to Latin manuscripts and the historical and cultural context of their production and use. This course includes a practical initiation to Latin palaeography, frequent visits to the Houghton Library and opportunities to work with both actual manuscripts and facsimiles of famous manuscripts, practice in transcribing previously unedited texts and discussion of problems in textual criticism. Student presentations on current research in the history of Western manuscript culture.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Students will work with William P. Stoneman, Librarian of Houghton Library.
Prerequisite: A 100-level Latin course or the equivalent or instructor’s permission.

[Medieval Studies 105. Production of Manuscripts and Printed Books Before 1600]
Catalog Number: 3251
Roger E. Stoddard and assistant
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An examination of the physical structure and means of production of early manuscripts and printed books based on examples in the Houghton Library.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Medieval Studies 117. Constitutional and Legal History of Medieval England
Catalog Number: 5468
Charles Donahue, Jr. (Law School)

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3

A survey of the ideas and events that shaped the structure of English law and governance from the Anglo-Saxon invasions to the Reformation Parliament. Topics include the formation of the kingdom of England, the emergence of institutions of royal governance, the relations between church and state, the development of Parliament, and the various institutional reactions to political conflict and social change.
Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Normally alternates with History 1133. Offered concurrently, but with a separate section at the Law School.

[Medieval Studies 119. Constitutional and Legal History of Medieval Continental Europe]
Catalog Number: 4410
Charles Donahue, Jr. (Law School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

A survey of the main outlines of continental European constitutional and legal history from the fall of the Roman Empire to the “Rise of absolutism” at the beginning of the 17th century. Focuses on the main expressions of European legal culture over this long period of time. In each period an effort is made to relate the types of law produced to the social, political, and religious history of the period.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Middle East Program

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Middle Eastern Studies
Cemal Kafadar, Vehbi Koc Professor of Turkish Studies (Chair)
Eva Bellin, Associate Professor of Government
Steven C. Caton, Professor of Contemporary Arab Studies
Byron J. Good, Professor of Medical Anthropology (Medical School)
William A. Graham, Jr., Albertson Professor of Middle Eastern Studies and Professor of the History of Religion
William E. Granara, Professor of the Practice of Arabic
Wolfhart P. Heinrichs, James Richard Jewett Professor of Arabic
Michael Herzfeld, Professor of Anthropology (on leave spring term)
Roy Mottahedeh, Gurney Professor of History
Gülru Necipoglu-Kafadar, Aga Khan Professor of Islamic Art
E. Roger Owen, A. J. Meyer Professor of Middle East History
Dani Rodrik, Rafiq Hariri Professor of International Political Economy (Kennedy School)
F. Engin Sezer, Associate Professor of Turkish
Wheeler M. Thackston, Jr., Professor of the Practice of Persian and other Near Eastern Languages
Frank E. Vogel, Assistant Professor of Law (Law School)
Irene J. Winter, William Dorr Boardman Professor of Fine Arts

The Center for Middle Eastern Studies was established for the purpose of integrating and reinforcing instruction and research in the languages, literatures, history, economics, and cultures of North Africa, the Middle East, and Islamic Central and South Asia, with the emphasis on the modern period. The Committee on Middle Eastern Studies is the degree committee that administers programs offered through the Center. To achieve its goals, the Center cooperates with departments within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and with other faculties that have Middle Eastern interests, other regional studies centers, and various libraries and museums that hold collections related to Middle Eastern and Islamic studies. The Center’s aim is to offer a comprehensive program to provide integrated training for those planning careers in education, government service, or private industry, and to support research on the area.

The following degree programs are offered through the Center: Regional Studies Program—Middle East (A.M.): The program for this degree requires two years of study, leading to an A.M. It seeks to give the student both a broad background and a special competence in selected fields of Middle Eastern studies. Each student’s needs and interests, as well as previous experience and qualifications, are taken into account in planning his or her course of study. This program is comparable to other regional studies programs, such as those for Russia and East Asia.

Joint Programs for the PhD: The Faculty of Arts and Sciences has approved joint programs with other faculty departments for the degree of PhD in Middle Eastern studies and in the fields of anthropology, fine arts, or history. (A joint program in economics exists, but students are not being accepted at the present time for this program. Students interested in the economic history of the Middle East should apply to the program in History and Middle Eastern Studies.) A PhD in political science with a Middle Eastern specialization is offered through the Department of Government, and applications for this program should be made to that department. A candidate for a joint PhD degree is usually expected to have completed an A.M. program in Middle Eastern studies or another relevant field, at Harvard or elsewhere, prior to admission as a doctoral Concurrent degrees are also offered in Islamic law and Middle Eastern and Islamic studies, which combine degree work in the Harvard Law School and the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Joint or concurrent degrees with other departments and faculties are also possible on an ad hoc basis.

Languages: Competency in one or more of the languages of the Middle East is critical to advanced studies in this field. The master’s program requires all students to attain a reading and speaking competence, at least at the intermediate level, in one of the major modern Middle Eastern languages: Arabic, Hebrew, Persian, or Turkish. Students who already have an adequate knowledge of one such language, and native speakers, will be required to study a second language. The PhD programs vary in their language requirements. In most cases, students must attain a thorough knowledge of a modern Middle Eastern language (see above), as well as a reading knowledge of one of the European languages: German, French, Italian, or Russian. In the History and Middle Eastern Studies Program, a written exam will be required in the language of the candidate’s primary research, covering both primary and secondary sources in that language. As in the master’s program, native speakers of Middle Eastern languages will be required to attain competence in a second Middle Eastern language. (For specific details on language requirements and language proficiency examinations, see the degree supplement Degree Programs in Middle Eastern Studies. Please note that the departments involved in the joint PhD programs, as well as the Committee on Middle Eastern Studies, at times revise their language requirement policies. Students are expected to keep in touch with their advisors and relevant language instructors at all times so they may be informed of possible changes to those requirements.)

Courses: Middle Eastern-related courses are offered in the Department of Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations—courses in Akkadian, Ancient Near East, Arabic, Aramaic, Armenian, Armenian Studies, Early Iranian Civilizations, Ethiopic, Hebrew (Classical and Modern), Hebrew Literature and History, Iranian, Islamic Civilizations, Near Eastern Civilizations, Persian, Postbiblical Jewish Studies, Semitic Philology, Sumerian, and Turkish; and the Department of History—courses in Byzantine, Islamic, Judaic, and modern Middle Eastern history. Other appropriate courses are offered in the departments of Anthropology, Classics, Comparative Literature, the Core Curriculum, Fine Arts, Government, Linguistics, Music, Psychology, Sanskrit and Indian Studies, Slavic Languages and Literatures, Sociology, and the Study of Religion. Middle Eastern-related courses are also taught in the graduate schools of Business, Design, Divinity, Law, and Government. For more information about these programs, please refer to the degree supplement, Degree Programs in Middle Eastern Studies.

The Committee on Mind/Brain/Behavior is an interdisciplinary group of scholars appointed to coordinate the teaching of neuroscience and related fields among Harvard’s departments. Working closely with the University’s Mind/Brain/Behavior Interfaculty Initiative, the Committee is designed to advance knowledge of neuroscience at multiple levels of analysis, ranging from the molecular events within individual neurons to the ways large-scale neural circuits register sensory information and control behavior. The Committee coordinates the wide and varied course offerings that address methods, findings, and theory in neuroscience; helps students learn of opportunities with the various fields allied with neuroscience; and promotes interdisciplinary interaction among members of these fields.

For undergraduate students wishing to specialize in an area related to the neurosciences, five concentrations offer specialized tracks: Biology offers a Neurobiology track; Computer Science offers a Computational Neuroscience track; History and Science offers a Mind, Brain, and Behavioral Sciences track; Philosophy offers a Mind/Brain/Behavior track; Psychology offers Mind/Brain Behavior track clusters in Cognition/Brain/Behavior and Psychopathology; and Psychology also administers a Cognitive Neuroscience track, a joint program in Psychology and Biology. Foundation courses are required or recommended each year in all tracks so that students in the five concentrations can interact. The foundation courses include Science B-29, Evolution of Human Nature (first year); Biological Sciences 80, Behavioral Neuroscience (sophomore year); one of several designated seminars (junior year); and a research workshop (senior year). For the requirements of each track, consult www.mbb.harvard.edu/undergrad/Home.html.

The courses listed below address various facets of neuroscience or closely related material. Complete descriptions may be found under the various departments.

Music

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Department of Music

Thomas Forrest Kelly, Harvard College Professor and Morton B. Knafel Professor of the Humanities (Chair) (on leave spring term)
Kay Kaufman Shelemay, G. Gordon Watts Professor of Music (Acting Chair, spring term only)
Reinhold Brinkmann, James Edward Ditson Professor of Music (on leave fall term)
Mauro Calcagno, Assistant Professor of Music (on leave 2002-03)
David E. Cohen, Associate of Dudley House, Assistant Professor of Music
Mario Davidovsky, Fanny P. Mason Professor of Music (on leave fall term)
David N. Fallows, Visiting Professor of Music (University of Manchester)
Joshua Fineberg, Assistant Professor of Music
Alexander J. Fisher, Lecturer on Music
Edward Gollin, Lecturer on Music
Robert D. Levin, Dwight P. Robinson, Jr. Professor of the Humanities (Head Tutor)
David Lewin, Walter W. Naumburg Professor of Music
Lewis Lockwood, Fanny Peabody Research Professor of Music
Jameson N. Marvin, Senior Lecturer on Music
Ingrid Monson, Quincy Jones Professor of African-American Music (on leave fall term)
Jeff William Nichols, Associate Professor of Music
Karen Painter, Associate Professor of Music (Assistant Head Tutor) (on leave fall term)
Bernard Rands, Walter Bigelow Rosen Professor of Music
Ruth A. Solie, Visiting Professor of Music (Smith College)
Kurt Stallmann, Assistant Professor of Music
Daniel Stepner, Preceptor in Music
John Stewart, Senior Preceptor in Music
Richard Wolf, Assistant Professor of Music (Assistant Head Tutor) (on leave 2002-03)
Undergraduates considering a concentration in Music should meet with the Head Tutor to discuss the program. Prospective concentrators in Music are encouraged to take Music 51 in their freshman year; Music 51 is a prerequisite of Music A. Music A is required of concentrators, and should be taken as early as possible. Students who know they are going to concentrate in Music and do not have piano background should consult with the instructor of Music A immediately upon arrival at Harvard. In order to obtain concentration credit for a course for which such credit is not normally given, students must petition the Department at the beginning of the semester. For students not intending to concentrate in Music, the department ordinarily offers Music 1 and Music 2 every year. Other courses may be taken with permission of the instructor. See also listings in Afro-American Studies, Core Curriculum, Folklore and Mythology, General Education, and Medieval Studies.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Music Ar, Musicianship

Catalog Number: 4859 Enrollment: Limited to concentrators; the Earlab is open to students concurrently taking another course in the Music Concentration Program.
John Stewart
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Consists of two parts: (1) Basic piano skills involving sight reading, score reading, figured bass realization, harmonization of melodies. Individual or small-group instruction; and (2) Earlab (sight singing, rhythmic studies, melodic/harmonic dictation, and other exercises). Two class meetings per week. In addition, individual instruction in piano playing is given to those not proficient at the keyboard.
Note: Music concentrators are required to enroll in two terms of Music A, starting in the fall term. A special examination is required of Music concentrators to meet the Musicianship requirement. While credit is awarded for suitable progress in the course, concentrators may find it necessary to repeat (audit) all or portions of Music A in order to prepare for this exam (see Concentrator’s Handbook).
Prerequisite: Music 51. However, concentrators are urged to participate (unofficially) in the Earlab portion from the freshman year on.

Music 1a, Introduction to Music I
Catalog Number: 8071
A. J. Fisher
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3

This course explores about one thousand years of music history (ca. 800-1800), from the medieval through the Classical period. Particular emphasis is given to the liturgical and stylistic context of Gregorian chant and early polyphony; text-music relationships in Renaissance and early baroque compositions; and the works of J. S. Bach, Handel, Haydn, and Mozart.
Note: Music 1a can be taken independently of Music 1b. No prerequisites; no prior knowledge of music is presumed.
Music 1b. Introduction to Music II
Catalog Number: 4952
Alexander J. Fisher
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 5
Music 1b continues the survey started in Music 1a, beginning with the transition from the Classical to the Romantic period. The course will explore the history of music in its stylistic and cultural contexts, including aspects of form, composition, social significance, and politics. Composers studied will include Beethoven, Schubert, Robert and Clara Schumann, Liszt, Berlioz, Mahler, Wagner, Bizet, Verdi, Schoenberg, Berg, Stravinsky, Debussy, and later twentieth-century figures.
Note: Music 1b can be taken independently of Music 1a. No prerequisites; no prior knowledge of music presumed.

Music 2. Fundamentals of Music Theory I
Catalog Number: 0645 Enrollment: Limited to 48.
Joshua Fineberg
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
Open to all students. Provides a practical foundation in basic skills of reading, writing and hearing of classical Western music. Teaching takes place in groups of 10-12, divided according to background, with full group lectures once every second week. While reading knowledge of simple musical notation is helpful, there will be at least one section for students with no previous experience.
Note: May not be counted for concentration. This course has been completely restructured.

Music 3. Fundamentals of Music Theory II
Catalog Number: 5805 Enrollment: Limited to 48.
Joshua Fineberg
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7
The first part of the course concentrates on increasing understanding and fluency in writing within the musical language of “common practice tonality.” The second part of the course looks at twentieth-century techniques for composing music. The final project is a short composition that will be performed during reading period. Teaching takes place in groups of 10-12, divided according to background, with full group lectures once every second week.
Note: May not be counted for concentration credit. This course has been completely restructured.
Prerequisite: Music 2 or permission of the instructor.

Music 4. Introduction to Composition
Catalog Number: 2239 Enrollment: Limited to 16.
Jeff William Nichols
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4, W., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Open to students with little or no prior experience in composition. Explores phrase structure, harmony, counterpoint, and form in a variety of idioms through exercises and short compositions. Also covers basic principles of instrumentation and score preparation.
Note: May not be counted for concentration credit.
Prerequisite: Music 2 or equivalent or permission of the instructor.
Music 5. Intermediate Composition
Catalog Number: 2376
Michael Gandolfi
Half course (spring term). M., 2–4, W., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Continues the exploration of basic compositional principles begun in Music 4, but with a focus on strategies of large-scale organization in music. Students write three pieces during the semester, each exemplifying a different principle of formal structure (e.g. rondo, through composition, and “moment form”).
Note: May not be taken for concentration credit. May be taken independently of Music 4 with permission of the instructor.

*Music 51. Theory I
Catalog Number: 3649
Edward Gollin (fall term) and John Stewart (spring term)
Full course. Tu., Th., at 1, and additional hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15
Elementary counterpoint and harmony; small forms and chorale harmonization. Concentration on written exercises, ear training, and keyboard.
Note: Music 51 or its equivalent is required of all concentrators. Students planning to concentrate in Music are encouraged to take the course in their freshman year. In any case, concentrators should plan to meet this requirement by no later than the end of the sophomore year.
Prerequisite: Basic theory and ear training skills. For more specific information, consult instructor before the first class meeting.

*Music 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 1298
Robert D. Levin and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open to students wishing to pursue supervised study in an area not covered by the courses currently offered. Students must submit a study proposal to the faculty member with whom they wish to study and a signed proposal to the Department Administrator. May be counted for concentration only with the prior approval of the Department.

*Music 92r. Senior Project
Catalog Number: 2744
Robert D. Levin and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
For students doing a Senior Project, when a pertinent regularly listed course does not exist, or is not being offered during the student’s senior year.
Note: Students considering this course should read carefully and well in advance the relevant material in Handbook for Students, under the section of “Fields of Concentration: Music”. Students should note, in particular #3 in the section marked ‘Basic requirements’: “a brief written prospectus . . . must be approved and signed by the instructor, and submitted to the Head Tutor no later than the second week of the semester.” The prospectus must clarify, when appropriate, why no regularly listed course being offered during the student’s senior year is pertinent to the proposed work.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

*MUSIC 93R, Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 8849
James D. Yannatos

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Open to students wishing to pursue supervised study in chamber music. Students must submit a study proposal to Professor Yannatos and a signed proposal to the Department Administrator.
Note: May not be taken Pass/Fail. May not be counted for concentration.

*MUSIC 97R, Tutorial—Sophomore Year: Music History and Repertory
Catalog Number: 0113
Mauro Calcagno

Full course (indivisible). M., W., F., at 10, with additional meeting to be arranged.
For concentrators only. An intensive survey of Western music throughout its history and of selected non-Western musical traditions, providing methods of further study of music in historical and cultural contexts as well as basic knowledge of repertory.
Note: Music 97R is required of all concentrators and should be taken in the sophomore year or earlier by permission. Each half of the course culminates in an examination testing students’ knowledge of a large listening repertory. These examinations must be passed in order to receive credit for the course.
Prerequisite: Music 51 (may be taken concurrently).

*MUSIC 98R, Tutorial—Junior Year
Catalog Number: 5601
Robert D. Levin and members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open to junior candidates for honors in Music who have written permission to enroll from the instructor with whom they wish to work, and also from the Head Tutor in Music. With permission, may be taken for a second term.

*MUSIC 99R, Tutorial—Senior Year
Catalog Number: 1765
Robert D. Levin and members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open to senior candidates for honors in Music who have written permission to enroll from the instructor with whom they wish to work, and also from the Head Tutor in Music. May be counted toward concentration credit only by honors candidates.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

MUSIC 121A, Choral Conducting
Catalog Number: 1550
Jameson N. Marvin

An investigation of choral literature of varying styles and genres with emphasis on conducting technique and score analysis.
Note: May not be counted for concentration.
Prerequisite: Choral or ensemble experience; ear training, keyboard, and theory background helpful.

[Music 121b. Advanced Choral Conducting]
Catalog Number: 1675
_Jameson N. Marvin_
Half course (spring term). _Hours to be arranged._
Development of the conductor’s ear, analytical and interpretive skills, rehearsal techniques, and further development of conducting technique related to choral literature from the Renaissance through the 20th century.
_Not:_ Expected to be given in 2002–03.
_Prerequisite:_ Music 121a, Music 51, or conducting and musicianship background.

[Music 125a (formerly *Music 158a). Beginning Orchestration and Conducting]
Catalog Number: 8397
_James D. Yannatos_
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. _EXAM GROUP: 16, 17_
Studies in basic conducting skills related to exercises in 17th- and 18th-century orchestration. Demonstration of stringed instruments.
_Not:_ May not be counted for concentration credit.
_Prerequisite:_ Music 51 or permission of instructor.

[Music 125b. Advanced Orchestration and Conducting]
Catalog Number: 8304

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Islamic Civilizations 120. The Arab Mediterranean City
Catalog Number: 0686
Susan G. Miller
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Cities have defined Mediterranean culture for thousands of years. Using sources from medieval times to the present, the interaction between urban form and social praxis is traced against the background of an encompassing Islamic culture: the city as sacred space, performance space, domestic and monumental space. Examples are drawn primarily from North Africa but also from Egypt and the Levant to fill out the trans-Mediterranean perspective.

Islamic Civilizations 121. North Africa, 1500 to the Present
Catalog Number: 6224
Susan G. Miller
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An initiation to North African (Maghribi) history, surveying the evolution of relations between state and society from the late medieval period to the present and emphasizing the specificity of the North African experience. Topics include: Maghribi space and society in the medieval literature; saint worship and sultanic authority; society viewed through the literature of captivity; the 19th-century encounter with the West; race and caste in the colonial era; the Algerian revolution in essay, film and fiction; post-colonial political change.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Islamic Civilizations 124. Central Asian Culture and Society
Catalog Number: 3927 Enrollment: Limited.
John S. Schoberlein
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The course explores the diversity and continuity in contemporary Central Asian culture and society and their historical roots. After building a basis of knowledge of the pre- and early-modern history of the region and of its contemporary political context and institutions, the course will approach Central Asian culture, social structure and everyday life from a variety of angles. These will include perspectives available in various types of literature on the region, including the travel accounts of travelers to the region from pre-modern to recent time, indigenous literary folklore traditions, 19th-century orientalist scholarship, and contemporary scholarly approaches. The course will draw on ethnographic accounts to develop a rich picture of the social meaning and cultural context of ways of life (from the historical caravan trade and pastoral nomadism to contemporary collective farm and urban life), community rituals, social institutions, religious practices, moral sensibilities and aesthetic traditions.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Intended primarily for advanced undergraduates and graduate students; some background in the Near East and/or the former Soviet Union desirable.
Islamic Civilizations 125. History and Culture of Islamic Peoples of the Former Soviet Union
Catalog Number: 0646 Enrollment: Limited.
John S. Schoberlein
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Themes in the history of cultural change, from prior to Russian expansion into Muslim lands until the post-Soviet period. The course encompasses territories falling under Russian dominion by the 19th century that are inhabited by peoples which are culturally more akin to Asia and the Islamic Middle East than to Europe: Central Asia, the Caucasus, and southern Russia. Themes include the background of Iranian, Turkic and Islamic culture, problems of induced cultural change (Russification/Europeanization/modernization), social transformation under the establishment and dissolution of Russian rule and the Communist system, the institutionalization of national identities, and changing family and community organization.
Note: Intended primarily for graduates and advanced undergraduates; some background in the Near East and/or the Soviet Union desirable.

Islamic Civilizations 145. Islamic Philosophy and Theology
Catalog Number: 0292
Robert Wisnovsky
Half course (fall term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
An introduction to some of the more important philosophical and theological problems that have preoccupied Muslim intellectuals from the 8th to the 20th centuries. Points of conflict amongst philosophers and theologians will be examined in detail. These include the Qur’an’s createdness, God’s causation of human acts, the primacy of human reason, the world’s eternity, the survival of human souls, and God’s ability to intervene in the natural order. The impact of European thought on 19th- and 20th-century Islamic intellectual history will also be examined. Finally, we will try to determine how “Islamic” Islamic philosophy and theology are, and how useful they might be to Muslims today.
Note: No knowledge of Arabic required. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3602.

Islamic Civilizations 160. The Meanings of Islam in Central Asia
Catalog Number: 8678
John Schoberlein
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The course will examine the changing role of Islam in Central Asia through history from a multidisciplinary perspective. Central Asia is on the margins of the Islamic world, though integral to it, and the course will consider the ways that regions’ position on the transcontinental trade routes and desert-oasis borderlands have led to particular expressions of the processes which are common to the Islamic world more widely. It will also look at the process of modernization and the role of Islam in the Russian and Soviet imperial contexts.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Primarily for graduate students and advanced undergraduates. Some background in Central Asia and/or Islamic civilizations preferable.

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course will introduce students of Hebrew language and literature to the language as practiced in the broadcast and printed media. In Hebrew, more than in other languages, the language of the media uses terminology, vocabulary, and syntactic structures that are unique to these fields, and that both express and influence meaningful trends in culture and society. The course will present examples from Israeli Internet programs, television, radio, daily newspapers, and magazines all relating to current events and major issues. Conducted in Hebrew.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in Hebrew.

Prerequisite: 4040 (Modern Hebrew 120a) or equivalent.

Catalog Number: 6949
Rita Aharony

Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
A survey of the layers of the Hebrew language as reflected in texts dealing with Jerusalem, written indifferent centuries. Students will learn the practical morphology and syntax of all periods of the Hebrew language, in many kinds of texts. In the modern period we will introduce the students to literary, press, and media selections, as well as academic papers. The goal of this course is to facilitate scholarly work and research in Hebrew.

Note: Conducted in Hebrew. Offered by the Divinity School as 4043.

Prerequisite: 4040 (Modern Hebrew 120a) or equivalent.

Catalog Number: 2250
Miri Kubovy

Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Close reading of a selection of works by three generations of Israeli writers in the second half of the 20th century, and a discussion of fiction, poetry, drama, film and essays which represent major trends in Israeli social and cultural life. The main subjects include the Holocaust; feminism; Americanization; the departure from Zionist ideology; the genre of eternal childhood; and the polarities between Arabs and Jews, Sephardi and Ashkenazi Jews, poor and rich, orthodox and secular, and right and left political camps. Among the authors to be discussed: S.Y. Agnon (Nobel Prize 1966), Amos Oz, A.B. Yehoshua, David Grossman, Yehudah Amichai, Yonah Wollach, and Orly Castel-Bloom.

Note: This course will be conducted in English.

Yiddish 105. Yiddish Language and Linguistic Theory
Catalog Number: 7146
David Braun
Half course (spring term). Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
Yiddish, spoken among Ashkenazic Jews (i.e., Jews of Western and Central European and, later, Eastern European origin) for the past millenium, belongs to the Germanic language family, although its contacts with Slavic and Semitic (Hebrew, Aramaic) have made lasting impressions. Facts of Yiddish phonology, morphology, syntax, and the syntax-semantics-pragmatics interface pose interesting problems for linguistic theory, many of which are not common to other Germanic languages. We will look at a wide range of Yiddish data and will read and discuss some of the more recent analytical attempts to understand these phenomena.

Yiddish 108. American Jewish Literature
Catalog Number: 6058
Ruth R. Wisse
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Studies major motifs and tensions in Yiddish poetry, prose and drama during the heyday of Jewish immigrant culture when America became one of the world centers of Yiddish culture. Works by Abraham Cahan, Jacob Gordin, Moishe Leib Halpern, Sholem Asch, Jacob Glatstein, Anna Margolin, Isaac Bashevis Singer; the Yiddish influence on Isaac Rosenfeld, Saul Bellow, Irving Howe, and Cynthia Ozick.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

Yiddish 109. The Yiddish Novel Under Tsars and Stripes
Catalog Number: 6009
Ruth R. Wisse
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Studies the emergence of the novel as a major Yiddish literary form in Poland, Russia, and the United States. Readings from Sholem Asch, David Bergelson, Isaac Rabon, Der Nister, Jacob Glatstein, I. J. Singer, Isaac Bashevis Singer, Chava Rosenfarb.

Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of Yiddish helpful, but all works will be available in English translation.

Philosophy 3. Introduction to the Problems of Philosophy
Catalog Number: 1996
James Pryor
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Introduction to methods of contemporary philosophy, concentrating on the following questions: What is the relation between your mind and your body? Will computers ever have minds of their own? What makes you the person that you are? Could you survive the death of your body? Would your clone be a different person from you? Is it already settled how the future is going to turn out? Does that mean you have no free will?

Philosophy 7. Introduction to Ancient Philosophy
Catalog Number: 1454
Raphael Graham Woolf
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
A survey of some main themes and figures of ancient philosophical thought, concentrating on the pre-Socratics, Plato, and Aristotle. Topics include the nature of reality, the ways we might come to have knowledge, and the good life for human beings.

Philosophy 8. History of Early Modern Philosophy
Catalog Number: 8947
Alison Simmons
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12
A survey of major 17th- and 18th-century philosophers with a focus on the major metaphysical and epistemological writings of Descartes, Locke, Hume, and Kant. Topics include the natures of mind and body, the physical world, causation, freedom, and human knowledge. Special attention to the rise of mechanistic science (i.e. the “Scientific Revolution”).

Philosophy 102. Aristotle
Catalog Number: 6236
Gisela Striker

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13

An introduction to Aristotle’s philosophy focusing on his metaphysics and epistemology.

Readings will include selections from: Categories, Posterior Analytics, Physics books I and II, and Metaphysics.

Prerequisite: At least one half-course in philosophy.

Philosophy 105. Ancient Theories of Mind
Catalog Number: 5062
Raphael Graham Woolf

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5

An investigation of the Greek concept of psuchê and of ancient theories about the psuchê. Standardly but somewhat misleadingly translated as ‘soul’, the notion of psuchê corresponds in some respects with the modern notion of ‘mind’ but also has considerably wider scope. The course will concentrate mainly but not exclusively on the role of the psuchê as the seat of mentality. Readings from pre-Socratic authors, Plato, Aristotle, and possibly some post-Aristotelian philosophers.

Philosophy 115. Problem of Evil in Medieval Philosophy: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 0130
Carlos G. Steel (Catholic University of Leuven, Belgium)
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
A discussion of medieval arguments about evil, focussing on the ontological question (inherited from Neoplatonism): what sort of existence does evil have if it must be understood as a ‘privation’ of the good? After an introduction on the Neoplatonic antecedents of the medieval debate (Proclus-Dionysius and Augustine) we will examine some texts of Thomas Aquinas and confront the scholastic doctrine of evil with its modern critics.

Philosophy 120. The Rationalists
Catalog Number: 2512
Alison Simmons
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
A study of the major writings of Descartes, Malebranche, Spinoza, and Leibniz, focussing on such topics as substance, causation and explanation, God, the natures of and relation between mind and body, and human cognition.

Philosophy 129. Kant’s Critique of Pure Reason
Catalog Number: 0614
Paul Guyer (University of Pennsylvania)
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
A close study of Kant’s first critique with focus on Kant’s analysis of the fundamental capacities of the human mind and the implications of this analysis for his account of the possibility of mathematical and scientific knowledge, for his critique of traditional metaphysics, for his own brand of idealism, and for his distinction between theoretical and practical reason.

Philosophy 132. Hegel
Catalog Number: 8652
Frederick Beiser (University of Indiana)
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
A study of Hegel’s epistemology, metaphysics, ethics, and political philosophy, aiming for a broad understanding of Hegel’s system. Following an examination of the context of Hegel’s philosophy (Fichte, Hölderlin, Schiller, Schelling), we will consider Hegel’s response to his contemporaries (his early Jena writings, especially the Differenzschrift), and then look at the Phenomenology, Encyclopaedia Logic, and Philosophy of Right. Finally, we will consider some central objections to Hegel’s philosophy in Feuerbach, Kierkegaard, and James.

Philosophy 133z. Nineteenth-Century Philosophy from Fichte to Nietzsche: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 4710
Frederick Beiser (University of Indiana)
Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
A survey of philosophers, including Fichte, Hegel, Feuerbach, Kierkegaard, Marx, and Nietzsche, centering on consideration of two grand themes of 19th-century philosophy: alienation and nihilism.

Philosophy 137. The Later Philosophy of Wittgenstein
Catalog Number: 6580
Warren Goldfarb
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
A close reading of Ludwig Wittgenstein’s Philosophical Investigations, focusing on its treatments of the topics of meaning, reference, rule-following, cognition, perception, “the private mental realm,” knowledge, scepticism, and the nature of philosophy. Attention to Wittgenstein’s philosophical methodology, with its claim to dissolve philosophical problems rather than propose solutions of them.
Prerequisite: Two half courses in Philosophy.

Philosophy 143z. Truth
Catalog Number: 3448
Richard G. Heck, Jr.
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
Conceptual and formal issues regarding truth and the liar paradox. Readings from such authors as Austin, Strawson, Ayer, Dummett, Putnam, Tarski, and Kripke.
Prerequisite: Quantitative Reasoning 22 or equivalent preparation.

Philosophy 144. Logic and Philosophy
Catalog Number: 1111
Warren Goldfarb
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Three philosophically important results of modern logic: Gödel’s incompleteness theorems; Turing’s definition of mechanical computability; Tarski’s theory of truth for formalized languages. Discusses both mathematical content and philosophical significance of these results.
Prerequisite: Some knowledge of deductive logic.

Philosophy 146. Philosophy of Language
Catalog Number: 3795
Susanna Siegel
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
An introduction to the philosophy of language. Topics may include: the relation between meaning and intention; the nature of presupposition; the semantics of ascriptions of beliefs and desires; quantifier domain restriction (how are the universes of discourse of quantified sentences determined?); the distinction between referential and attributive use of descriptions.

Philosophy 153. Personal Identity: Who Am I?
Catalog Number: 7844
Mark Heller (Southern Methodist University)
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
An exploration of the issue of personal identity. What is it that makes me the same person who used to get mugged in the school yards of New York? The main focus will be identity over time, but we will also discuss identity across possible worlds. What is it that makes it true that I, the same person who is teaching philosophy, might have been a fireman instead?

Philosophy 156. Philosophy of Mind
Catalog Number: 3677
James Pryor
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
A survey of central issues in contemporary philosophy of mind. We will consider: (i) different accounts of the relation between minds and the physical world, including questions about whether computers could ever have thoughts or consciousness; (ii) questions about how much our thoughts and experiences depend on the nature of our environments, and how much they’re determined by our own intrinsic make-up; and (iii) problems about how the mental causally interacts with the physical.

Philosophy 157y. Philosophy of Color: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 2543
James Pryor and Alison Simmons
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Examines some metaphysical questions about color: Is color an objective property or is it subjective in important ways? (If the latter, in which ways?) Are physical objects really colored? (If not, is anything?) Also examines questions about our perceptual experience of color: Do you and I have the same experiences when we look at tomatoes? Are those experiences representational? Do they mislead us? Finally, examines the relationship between scientific and philosophical investigations of color.
Prerequisite: Philosophy 156 or equivalent.

Philosophy 166z. Identity and Individuality: Race, Society, and State: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 1148
K. Anthony Appiah
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Nowadays we often suppose we should respect people’s diverse identities both in our institutions and in our everyday dealings with one another. But we also value individuality, believing that people should be free to shape their lives for themselves. These two ideas seem to make conflicting demands on political morality; one topic that fruitfully illuminates these tensions is that of race. This course will explore these tensions.

Philosophy 167. Feminist Perspectives in Moral and Political Philosophy: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 4890
Melissa Barry
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An examination of how feminist philosophers have invited a rethinking of central ideas in moral and political philosophy including human nature, equality, autonomy, rights, justice, free speech, contract, consent, and the public/private distinction. We will consider foundational philosophical questions about objectivity, truth, relativism, and the nature of reason. Relative to feminist theorizing, we will ask: Which methods are appropriate? Is there a unified category of “gender” that can be the focus of our theorizing?
Philosophy 169. Morality and Action
Catalog Number: 8138
Thomas M. Scanlon, Jr.
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 14
Various views of the rational and motivational basis of action and their implications for the nature of moral requirements, moral appraisal, and moral responsibility.

Philosophy 172. The History of Modern Moral Philosophy
Catalog Number: 5184
Christine M. Korsgaard
Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
A study of the development of modern moral philosophy from its origins in the natural law theories of Hobbes and Pufendorf to the emergence of the two most influential theories of the modern period, utilitarianism and Kantianism, in the works of Bentham and Kant. Selections from the works of Hobbes, Clarke, Butler, Hutcheson, Hume, Smith, Price, and others.

Philosophy 174. Recent Ethical Theory
Catalog Number: 5525
Melissa Barry
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 15
An examination of central issues in contemporary normative ethics, including the strengths and weaknesses of consequentialism, the nature and justification of deontological constraints, the difference between agent-neutral and agent-relative reasons for action, and the potential conflict between moral requirements and personal projects.

[Philosophy 188r. Philosophy and Literature: Dostoevsky: Proseminar ]
Catalog Number: 8454 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Robert Nozick and William Mills Todd III
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An examination of Dostoevsky’s philosophical ideas and how they function in his fiction. What is gained and what is lost by presenting philosophical ideas in works of fiction rather than in discursive prose? Reading of Dostoevsky’s major works with a view to showing how the problems they contain (social, psychological, political, as well as metaphysical and philosophical) are inseparable not only from his time but from the distinctive novelistic form he created.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

Philosophy 189z. Aesthetics: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 0374
Richard Moran
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Problems in the nature of visual representation, particularly photography. We will discuss the difference between verbal and visual representation, including the difference between saying and showing; and the differences between pictures made “by hand” and images recorded and reproduced mechanically. These differences will be considered in the context of their significance for our epistemic, aesthetic, and moral responses to them. Readings include Barthes, Bazin, Benjamin, Berger, Cavell, Sontag and others.

*Philosophy 191. Philosophy and History: The Russian Revolution: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 2051 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Robert Nozick and Eric Lohr
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
An examination of selected philosophical and methodological issues concerning historical explanation, evidence, causation, contingency, objectivity, and narrative, in the context of a detailed case study of the Russian Revolution and its aftermath.

Half course (fall term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
A close examination of views on mental representation, consciousness, and cognition in early modern theories of mind, including that of Descartes, Arnauld, Malebranche, and Leibniz.

*Philosophy 225. Kant’s Religious and Political Philosophy: Seminar
Catalog Number: 7789
Christine M. Korsgaard
Half course (fall term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Kant’s accounts of politics and religion are grounded in the moral agent’s need for a vision of how the “Kingdom of Ends” can be realized. We will study these accounts and the relations between them.

*Prerequisite: Philosophy 168 or permission of the instructor.

Philosophy 231. Kant’s Third Critique: Seminar
Catalog Number: 5254
Paul Guyer (University of Pennsylvania)
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
A study of Kant’s Critique of Judgment, focusing on Kant’s analyses of taste, the beautiful, the sublime, and genius; his theory of fine art; and his unification of theoretical and practical reason through teleology.

Philosophy 244. Possible Worlds: Seminar
Catalog Number: 9306

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in Physics

Gerald Holton, Mallinckrodt Professor of Physics and Professor of the History of Science, Emeritus
Ronald L. Walsworth, Associate of the Harvard College Observatory, Lecturer on Astronomy

The Physics Department offers three separate sequences of introductory courses: Physics 1a and 1b at the introductory calculus level and Physics 11a, 11b or Physics 15a, 15b, 15c at the intermediate calculus background. Students with strong preparation may also enter the 15 sequence by taking Physics 16 instead of Physics 15a. Each of the three sequences is designed to be a self-contained treatment of classical physics.

Students who expect to concentrate in physics or one of the other sciences in which physics plays a major role will usually take the Physics 15 sequence followed by Physics 143a,b. Students with excellent high-school preparation may begin the Physics 15 sequence taking Physics 16 instead of Physics 15a. Physics 16 is a course in mechanics and special relativity specifically designed for students who have done well in a high-school advanced placement course.
Students who do not plan to continue in physics and have sufficient mathematical skills may wish to take the one year Physics 11 sequence. Physics 11a and 11b offer, in two semesters, classical physics at a level comparable to the longer Physics 15 sequence, but covering fewer topics.

Physics 1a and 1b present a self-contained treatment of classical and modern physics in one year, but at a lower mathematical level than the Physics 11 sequence. Physics 1a and 1b are designed to meet the requirements of all medical schools. Most medical schools will also accept the Physics 15 or Physics 11 sequences. Some prefer that more than two half courses in physics be taken. Premedical students should inquire at the medical schools to which they expect to apply.

Students who do not intend to devote more than one year to the study of physics, and especially those not concentrating in a physical science or mathematics, will probably find that Physics 1a and 1b, with their broader range of subject matter, will more appropriately serve their needs than Physics 11a and 11b.

Further details may be found under the individual course headings.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Physics 1a. Principles of Physics: Mechanics
Catalog Number: 7422
David A. Weitz and Eric Mazur
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10, plus twice weekly conference sections and six laboratory sessions to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 11
An introduction to classical mechanics: kinematics, Newton’s laws of motion, conservation laws, oscillations, and thermodynamics as understood from the kinetic theory of particles. Brief applications of these ideas to elasticity and fluids as helpful preparation for the MCAT exams are included.
Note: Not designed as an introductory course for physics concentrators; those students should take Physics 15a or 16. Students who have taken Mathematics 21a or the equivalent and desire a one-year survey course may wish to take Physics 11a and 11b in order to make full use of their mathematical background. Physics 1a may not ordinarily be taken for credit in addition to Physics 11a, 15a, 16, or Science A-15. Both Physics 1a and 1b must be taken together to fulfill the Science A requirement.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 1b or the equivalent. Students with a lower level of mathematical preparation should consult the instructor.

Physics 1b. Principles of Physics: Electricity, Waves, Nuclear Physics
Catalog Number: 7483
Eric Mazur
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, plus twice weekly conference sections and five laboratory sessions to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
A continuation of Physics 1a: electricity and magnetism, direct-current and alternating-current circuits, sound and light, radioactivity and nuclear physics.
Note: May not ordinarily be taken for credit in addition to Physics 11b or 15b. Both Physics 1a and 1b must be taken together to fulfill the Science A requirement.

Prerequisite: Physics 1a and Mathematics 1b, or the equivalent.

Physics 11a. Mechanics
Catalog Number: 3131
Melissa Franklin and Andrew Foland
Half course (fall term). Lectures, Tu., Th., 11:30–1; weekly ninety-minute discussion sections.
EXAM GROUP: 13
Physics 11a is the first half of a one-year physics sequence. It provides an introduction to classical mechanics, including the laws of conservation of energy, momentum, and angular momentum; the translational motion of particles, rigid bodies, and fluids; the rotational motion of rigid bodies; the general description of waves and optics. Physics 11a may be taken by students who have taken or who are concurrently taking Mathematics 21a or 23a or Applied Mathematics 21a. Calculus is used routinely but the emphasis is placed on the basic concepts.
Note: Physics 11a may not be taken for credit by students who have passed Physics 15a or 16.

Physics 11b. Electricity, Magnetism, and Waves
Catalog Number: 5472
Andrew Foland and Melissa Franklin
Half course (spring term). Lectures, Tu., Th., 10–11:30, weekly ninety-minute discussion sections, and one three-hour laboratory session every two weeks. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Physics 11b is the second half of a one-year physics sequence. It covers the basic phenomena of electricity and magnetism, elements of circuits with selected applications, Maxwell’s equations, electromagnetic waves and optics, and a brief introduction to quantum physics.
Note: May not be taken for credit by students who have passed Physics 15b or Physics 15c.
Prerequisite: Physics 11a; Mathematics 21a or 23a.

Physics 15a. Introductory Mechanics and Relativity
Catalog Number: 1984
Cumrun Vafa (fall term) and George W. Brandenburg (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a weekly two-hour discussion section. EXAM GROUP: 13
Newtonian mechanics and special relativity. Topics include vectors; kinematics in three dimensions; Newton’s laws; force, work, power; conservative forces, potential energy; momentum, collisions; rotational motion, angular momentum, torque; static equilibrium, oscillations, simple harmonic motions; gravitation, planetary motion; special relativity.
Prerequisite: Mathematics preparation at least at the level of Mathematics 1b concurrently is required. However, some elementary ideas from multivariable calculus may be used and students are encouraged to take Mathematics 21a concurrently.

Physics 15b. Introductory Electromagnetism
Catalog Number: 2701
Mara Prentiss (fall term) and Howard Georgi (spring term) and assistants
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Tu., Th., 11:30–1; Spring: Tu., Th., 10–11:30; and a weekly two-hour discussion section and three-hour laboratory session every two Electricity and magnetism at the level of Purcell’s book. Covers all topics in Purcell including Maxwell’s equations in differential form and electric and magnetic fields in materials.

Note: Laboratory “zap” electronics lab in a toolbox—students work on the labs in their dorm rooms—afternoon and evening help labs are scheduled. Laboratories will be under the supervision of Thomas C. Hayes.

Prerequisite: Physics 15a, Physics 16, or written permission of the Head Tutor in Physics.

Mathematics preparation at least at the level of Mathematics 21a taken concurrently is required.

Vector calculus, div, grad and curl are used extensively—in principle, this is taught in the course.

Students taking Mathematics 21a concurrently will likely find that some concepts are introduced in Physics 15b before they have seen them in Mathematics 21a. Some students may wish to postpone Physics 15b until they have completed Mathematics 21a.

Physics 15c. Wave Phenomena
Catalog Number: 8676

Nima Arkani-Hamed (University of California, Berkeley) (fall term) and Masahiro Morii (spring term)

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30, and three hours per week of conference and laboratory. EXAM GROUP: 15

Forced oscillation and resonance; coupled oscillators and normal modes; Fourier series; Electromagnetic waves, radiation, longitudinal oscillations, sound; traveling waves; signals, wave packets and group velocity; two- and three-dimensional waves; polarization; geometrical and physical optics; interference and diffraction. Optional topics: Water waves, holography, x-ray crystallography. Solitons.

Note: Laboratory: Continuation of “zap” plus additional labs. Laboratories will be under the supervision of Thomas C. Hayes.

Prerequisite: Physics 15b and mathematics preparation at the level of Mathematics 21b taken concurrently. Some prior knowledge of complex numbers (for example as taught in Mathematics 1b) is helpful. Multivariable calculus is used in the treatment of the wave equation, but plays a much less central role than in Physics 15b.

Physics 16. Mechanics and Special Relativity
Catalog Number: 2019

Howard Georgi

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 13

Newtonian mechanics and special relativity for students with good preparation in physics and mathematics at the level of the advanced placement curriculum. Topics include an introduction to Lagrangian mechanics, Noether’s theorem, special relativity, collisions and scattering, rotational motion, angular momentum, torque, the moment of inertia tensor, oscillators damped and driven, gravitation, planetary motion, and an introduction to cosmology.

Prerequisite: Score of 4 or 5 on the mechanics section of the Physics C Advanced Placement exam, or equivalent. Mathematics preparation at least at the level of Mathematics 21a taken concurrently is required. Thorough knowledge of calculus of one variable and vectors plus some mathematical sophistication. The mathematical level will be significantly higher than that of Physics 15a.
*Physics 90r. Supervised Research
Catalog Number: 2460
Margaret E. Law and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Ordinarily open to selected concentrators in Physics, or in Chemistry and Physics, who have obtained honor grades in Physics 15 and a number of intermediate-level courses. The student must be accepted by some member of the faculty doing research in the student’s field of interest. The form of the research depends on the student’s interest and experience, the nature of the particular field of physics, and facilities and support available. Students wishing to write a senior thesis can do so by arranging for a sponsor and enrolling in this course. A list of possible faculty sponsors and their fields is available in Lyman 233 and on the Physics Department Web page. Course enrollment forms may be obtained from Lyman 233.

*Physics 91r. Supervised Reading Course for Undergraduates
Catalog Number: 1218
Margaret E. Law and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open to selected concentrators in Physics, Chemistry and Physics, and other fields who wish to do supervised reading and studying of special topics in physics. Ordinarily such topics do not include those covered in a regular course of the Department. Honor grades in Physics 15 and a number of intermediate-level courses are ordinarily required. The student must be accepted by a member of the faculty. A list of possible faculty sponsors and their fields is available in Lyman 233 and on the Physics Department Web page. Course enrollment forms may be obtained from Lyman 233.

*Physics 95. Topics in Current Research
Catalog Number: 2806
Isaac F. Silvera
Half course (fall term). M., 3–4, W., 7:30–9 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
The goal of this physics tutorial is to guide students in the transition from learning physics by subject (e.g., electricity and magnetism, quantum mechanics, etc.) to appreciating physics as an intense, diverse discipline of modern research. Examples from experimental and theoretical, high and low energy physics are presented. Every Wednesday evening, a physics faculty member speaks on his/her area of research. Each presentation is preceded by assigned reading and a lecture designed to introduce students to some of the basic physics of the area discussed, as well as to important developments and burning problems being addressed at the frontiers of research. Note: Intended mainly for junior and senior concentrators.

Cross-listed Courses

Astronomy 45. Introduction to Astrophysics
Science A-29. The Nature of Light and Matter

For Undergraduates and Graduates
Certain physics courses are offered in several other departments. See especially the offerings of the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences.

[Physics 121. History and Philosophy of 20th-Century Physics]
Catalog Number: 0160
Peter L. Galison
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An introduction to the history and philosophy of physics for students with a strong undergraduate background in science. Topics include relativity, quantum theory, weapons development, and modern ideas about unification.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. May not be taken for credit by students who have taken History of Science 120.
Prerequisite: An introductory course in college physics, preferably at the level of Physics 15c.

Physics 123. Laboratory Electronics
Catalog Number: 0864 Enrollment: Limited to 22 students per section.
Paul Horowitz and Thomas C. Hayes (fall and spring)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Section I, Tu., Th., 1:30–5; Section II, W., F., 1:30–5. Regardless of section choice, all students must attend first course meeting on 9/12 or 1/30 at 1:30 p.m. in Science Center 206. EXAM GROUP: 6
A lab-intensive introduction to electronic circuit design. Develops circuit intuition and debugging skills through daily hands-on lab exercises, each preceded by class discussion with minimal use of mathematics and physics. The treatment moves quickly from passive circuits, through design with discrete transistors, then concentrates on the application of integrated operational amplifiers to make a variety of circuits including integrators, oscillators, regulators, and filters. The digital half of the course emphasizes the use of programmable logic devices, microprocessors, and microcontrollers, while treating issues that arise in interfacing both analog and digital devices to a computer. Provides an overview of radio and television, digital audio, signal averaging, and construction techniques.

Physics 125. Widely Applied Physics
Catalog Number: 6990
Ronald L. Walsworth
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Applies elementary physics to real things and practical situations. Emphasis is on developing physical intuition and the ability to do order-of-magnitude calculations. New physical concepts are introduced as necessary. Example topics: the Big Bang, stars, nuclear reactions, and searches for extra-solar planets; aerodynamics, rockets and spacecraft; materials properties; electronic noise, lasers, and the global positioning system; magnetic resonance imaging, physiology of major organs, and health risks; energy use and production; climate and global change.
Note: Physics 143a and 181 are very helpful, but not required.
Prerequisite: Physics 15a,b,c, and mathematics at the level of Mathematics 21a (which may be taken concurrently).

Physics 140. Introduction to Biophysics
Catalog Number: 5394
Howard C. Berg and David R. Nelson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An introduction to the physics and biology of stochastic processes that affect the behavior of cells, biopolymers and biological motors. Elements of probability and statistics, entropic elasticity, the random walk, diffusion, sedimentation and electrophoresis. Applications to sensory physiology, cell motility, stretching and twisting of DNA and the motion of motors along biopolymers.
Note: To be given in alternate years. Lectures, problem sets, discussions. May not be taken for credit by students who have taken MCB 140.
Prerequisite: Mathematics at the level of 21a, Physics 15a/15b or Physics 11a/11b or permission of the instructor. Some familiarity with elementary statistical mechanics helpful.

Physics 143a. Quantum Mechanics I
Catalog Number: 1050
John M. Doyle (fall term) and Cumrun Vafa (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: M., W., 12–1:30; Spring: Tu., Th., 10–11:30.
EXAM GROUP: Fall: 5, 6; Spring: 12, 13
Introduction to nonrelativistic quantum mechanics: uncertainty relations; Schrödinger equation;
Dirac notation; matrix mechanics; one-dimensional problems including particle in box, tunneling, and harmonic oscillator; angular momentum, hydrogen atom, spin, Pauli principle; time-independent perturbation theory; scattering.
Prerequisite: Linear algebra including matrix diagonalization; Physics 15c or written permission of the Head Tutor.

Physics 143b. Quantum Mechanics II
Catalog Number: 0253
Lene V. Hau
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Further techniques and applications of quantum mechanics, including approximation methods for time-dependent problems, several and many-particle systems, interaction of quantum systems with radiation and external fields, variational methods, collision theory, and measurement theory.
Prerequisite: Physics 143a.

Physics 145. Elementary Particle Physics
Catalog Number: 6057
Gary J. Feldman
Half course (spring term). Lecture meets M.,W., (F.,) at 10; seminars and sections Tu., Th.,
7:30–9 p.m. as needed. EXAM GROUP: 3
Introduction to elementary particle physics. Emphasis is on concepts and phenomenology rather than on a detailed calculational development of theories. Starts with the discovery of the electron in 1897, ends with the theoretical motivation for the Higg’s boson, and attempts to cover everything important in between. Taught partly in seminar mode, with each student presenting a classic paper of the field.
Prerequisite: Physics 143a. Physics 143b or equivalent is useful.

Physics 151. Mechanics
Catalog Number: 2068
Masahiro Morii

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

Fundamental ideas of classical mechanics including contact with modern work and applications. Topics include Lagrange’s equations; action principles, Hamilton’s equations; symmetry and conservation laws, Hamilton-Jacobi theory and phase space dynamics. Applications to celestial mechanics, quantum mechanics, rigid body motion, the theory of small oscillations and classical fields, and nonlinear oscillations, including chaotic systems will be presented.

Note: May not be taken for credit in addition to Engineering Sciences 125.

Prerequisite: Physics 15a,b or written permission of the Head Tutor; Mathematics 21a,b or equivalent.

Physics 153. Electrodynamics
Catalog Number: 0264

Michael Tinkham

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

Aimed at advanced undergraduates. Emphasis on the properties and sources of the field vectors and on the wave aspect of the electromagnetic fields. Course starts with electrostatics and subsequently develops the Maxwell equations. Topics: electrostatics, dielectrics, magnetostatics, electrodynamics, wave propagation in various media, reflection and refraction, radiation, antennas and interference. In addition, a number of applications of electrodynamics in ‘modern physics’ are discussed.

Prerequisite: Physics 15 a,b, and c, or written permission of the Head Tutor; Mathematics 21a,b or equivalent.

Physics 165. Modern Atomic, Molecular, and Optical Physics
Catalog Number: 0348

John M. Doyle

Half course (spring term). M., W., 12–1:30. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6

Modern atomic, molecular, and optical physics includes the use of coherent electromagnetic radiation to probe and control atomic systems, use of traps to isolate atoms, molecules, and elementary particles for studies of ultracold quantum degenerate matter and precision tests of the standard model; resonance methods. Goals of this course include acquainting students with these and other modern research topics while providing the foundations of modern atomic, molecular and optical physics research.

Prerequisite: Physics 143a and 143b.

Physics 181. Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics
Catalog Number: 6346

Robert M. Westervelt

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

Introduction to thermal physics: basic concepts of thermodynamics (energy, heat, work, temperature, entropy), classical and quantum ensembles and their origins, and distribution functions. Applications include Debye’s theory of solids, Planck’s theory of black body radiation, classical and quantum gases, magnetism and phase transitions.

Note: May not be taken for credit in addition to Engineering Sciences 181.

Prerequisite: Physics 143a or equivalent.
Physics 191r. Advanced Laboratory
Catalog Number: 7711 Enrollment: Together with Physics 247r, limited to a total of 24 students.
Peter Pershan (fall and spring), Robert M. Westervelt (fall term), Isaac F. Silvera (spring term) and Mikhail Lukin (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., Th., 1–5. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Students carry out three experimental projects selected from those available representing condensed matter, atomic, nuclear, and particle physics. Included are nuclear magnetic resonance, microwave spectroscopy, optical pumping, scattering of laser light, neutron activation of radioactive isotopes, Compton scattering of gamma rays, the relativistic mass of the electron, recoil free gamma-ray resonance, the lifetime of the muon, studies of superfluid helium, positron annihilation superconducting transitions, the quantum Hall effect, and properties of semiconductors. The facilities of the laboratory include several computers that are used extensively in the laboratory.
Note: The course cooperates with Applied Physics 191; experiments from that course may be chosen when available. A substantial amount of outside reading is expected.
Prerequisite: Physics 15. Physics 143a is recommended.

Physics 195. Introduction to Solid State Physics
Catalog Number: 2978
Michael Tinkham
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10-11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Fundamental physical properties of crystalline solids discussed in terms of the basic principles of classical and quantum physics. Crystal structure, lattice vibrations, specific heat, energy band theory of metals and semiconductors and insulators, electrical transport in metals and semiconductors, optical and magnetic properties, superconductivity.
Note: Designed as a first course in solid state physics for students with knowledge of elementary quantum mechanics (Physics 143a). Some knowledge of statistical physics (Physics 181) is also helpful, but not a formal prerequisite. Students who propose to take Applied Physics 295a in the spring term, and who have not previously taken a formal course in solid state physics, are strongly advised to take this course first. It is suggested that students may wish to take Applied Physics 195 when this course is bracketed.

[Physics 197. Computational Physics Methods and Applications]
Catalog Number: 8653
Efthimios Kaxiras
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course develops computational approaches for understanding physical systems, and illustrates the applications of such approaches to specific problems. The methods to be covered include: numerical differentiation and integration, solution of ordinary and partial differential equation, eigensystems, and stochastic approaches like Monte Carlo and genetic algorithms for statistical sampling and optimization of multi-variable systems. The emphasis is on developing the ability to handle both simple and complex physical systems which are analytically intractable. Examples will be drawn from several diverse fields of physics. Familiarity with a programming language (Like Fortran or C) is assumed.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. May not be taken for credit by students who have taken Applied Physics 197.
Prerequisite: Background in mathematics at the level of Applied Mathematics 105b, which may be taken concurrently.

Cross-listed Courses

- [Applied Physics 217. Photons and Atoms]
- [Astronomy 145. Topics in Astrophysics]
- [Astronomy 150. Radiative Processes in Astrophysics]
- [Astronomy 191. Astrophysics Laboratory]
- [Astronomy 192. Tools and Techniques of Astronomical Measurements]
- [Chemistry 160. Physical Chemistry]
- [Chemistry 161. Statistical Thermodynamics]
- [Chemistry 163. Molecular Biophysics and Biophysical Chemistry: Structure and Conformational Dynamics of Bio-macromolecules]
- [Earth and Planetary Sciences 106. Introduction to Planetary Physics]
- [Engineering Sciences 120. Introduction to the Mechanics of Solids]
- [Engineering Sciences 123. Introduction to Fluid Mechanics]
- [Engineering Sciences 154. Electronic Devices and Circuits]
- [Engineering Sciences 181. Thermodynamics]
- [Engineering Sciences 190. Introduction to Materials Science]

Primarily for Graduates

The courses primarily for graduates are open to undergraduates provided they have passed the prerequisites with a grade of C or higher; in each case, special permission by the instructor is needed. In cases where students do not have the listed prerequisites, the written approval of the Head Tutor is required.

Physics 210. General Theory of Relativity
Catalog Number: 4840
Andrew Strominger
Half course (fall term). W., F., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
An introduction to general relativity: Riemannian geometry; the Principle of Equivalence; Einstein’s field equations; the Newtonian limit; gravitational radiation; experimental tests; Penrose diagrams; black holes.
Prerequisite: Physics 151 and 153, and Mathematics 21 or equivalents.

Physics 218. Modern Dynamical Systems
Catalog Number: 1362
Eric J. Heller
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30-1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Introduction to modern topics in dynamical systems and classical Hamiltonian theory, including nonlinear systems and chaos. Modern topics include iterated maps, Poincare maps, nonlinear resonance theory, KAM theory, structure of phase space, mixing and entropy production, bifurcation theory, homoclinic tangles, Smale horseshoes, fractal repellors and numerical methods.
Prerequisite: Physics 151 and 143a,b or equivalent; Applied Math 201,202 or equivalent.

Physics 232a. Electromagnetism I
Catalog Number: 4885
Jene A. Golovchenko
Half course (fall term). M., W., 9:30–11. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3
Static and dynamic classical electromagnetic phenomena based on the Maxwell-Lorentz equations. Geometrical foundations, field equations, constitutive relations, special functions, scalar and vector multipole expansions, exact solutions, relaxation methods, conservation theorems, wave propagation and radiation, connections with other field theories. Illustrations include particle traps, spin resonance, screening. Kapitza potentials, reactive and dissipative systems, radiation resistance and antenna theory.
Prerequisite: Physics 153 and Applied Mathematics 105a,105b, or equivalent.

Physics 232b. Electromagnetism II
Catalog Number: 7246
Paul C. Martin
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Prerequisite: Physics 232a or equivalent, and Physics 143b or Physics 251a.

Physics 245. Relativistic Quantum Mechanics with Applications
Catalog Number: 3551
John Huth
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Basic techniques of relativistic quantum mechanics and field theory, including Feynman diagrams, with applications. Emphasis is given to the basic concepts of quantum field theory and their applications in the phenomenology of elementary particle physics. Applications covered include QED, weak interactions, and an introduction to the standard electroweak model.
Prerequisite: Two semesters of quantum mechanics, e.g., Physics 143a,b or equivalent.

Physics 247r. Laboratory Course in Contemporary Physics
Catalog Number: 8665 Enrollment: Together with Physics 191r, limited to a total of 24 students.
Peter S. Pershan (fall and spring), Robert M. Westervelt (fall term), Isaac F. Silvera (spring term), and Mikhail Lukin (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., Th., 1–5. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Three experimental projects are selected representing condensed matter, atomic, nuclear, and particle physics. Examples: experiments on NMR, microwave spectroscopy, optical pumping, scattering of laser light, neutron activation, Compton scattering of gamma rays, relativistic mass of the electron, recoil-free gamma-ray resonance, lifetime of the muon, superfluid helium, superconducting transitions, and properties of semiconductors.
Note: The course cooperates with Applied Physics 210r. A substantial amount of outside reading may be required.

[Physics 248. Phenomena of Elementary Particle Physics ]
Catalog Number: 5431
Melissa Franklin

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A systematic introduction to the phenomena of elementary particle interactions. Topics: symmetries, hadron spectroscopy, deep inelastic scattering and structure functions, QCD, heavy quark production and decay, CP violation, symmetry breaking, Higg’s mechanism, and others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Physics 245 or equivalent.

Physics 251a. Advanced Quantum Mechanics I
Catalog Number: 2191
Bertrand I. Halperin

Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Basic course in nonrelativistic quantum mechanics. Review of wave functions and the Schrodinger Equation; Hilbert space; the WKB approximation; central forces and angular momentum; scattering; electron spin; measurement theory; the density matrix; time-independent perturbation theory.

Prerequisite: Physics 143a,b or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

Physics 251b. Advanced Quantum Mechanics II
Catalog Number: 2689
Bertrand I. Halperin

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 5
Time-dependent perturbations; quantized radiation field; absorption and emission of radiation; identical particles and second quantization; symmetry groups.

Prerequisite: Physics 251a.

Physics 253a. Quantum Field Theory
Catalog Number: 8050
Sidney Coleman

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Introduction to relativistic quantum mechanics and quantum field theory. Canonical quantization, scalar and spinor fields, scattering theory, Feynman diagrams, renormalization.

Prerequisite: Physics 251a,b or equivalents.

Physics 253b. Quantum Field Theory
Catalog Number: 5250
Sidney Coleman

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
A continuation of Physics 253a. Vector fields, gauge invariance, functional integration, quantum electrodynamics, spontaneous symmetry breakdown, and an introduction to the standard model.

Prerequisite: Physics 253a.
[Physics 262. Statistical Physics]
Catalog Number: 1157
David R. Nelson
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Basic principles of statistical physics and thermodynamics, with applications including: the equilibrium properties of classical and quantum gases; phase diagrams, phase transitions and critical points, as illustrated by the gas-liquid transition and simple magnetic models; fluctuations about equilibrium, Langevin equations and Fokker-Planck descriptions of time-dependent phenomena.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. It is suggested that students may wish to take Applied Physics 284 when this course is bracketed.
Prerequisite: Ordinarily, Physics 143a,b and Physics 181 or Engineering Sciences 181.

Physics 264. Group Theory with Application to Particle Physics
Catalog Number: 5317
Nima Arkani-Hamed (University of California, Berkeley)
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Introduces the theory of Lie groups and their representations. Emphasizes compact groups and applications to particle physics.
Prerequisite: Physics 143a and 143b or equivalent.

[Physics 265 (formerly Physics 265r). Photons and Atoms]
Catalog Number: 4203
Lene V. Hau
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Coherent and squeezed light, Casimir force, cooling and trapping of neutral atoms and charged particles, atomic fountains, atomic clocks, atom interferometry, electromagnetically-induced transparency, Slow Light, Bose-Einstein condensation including necessary statistical mechanics and many-body theory.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Students may wish to take Applied Physics 217, whose content is very similar, when this course is bracketed.
Prerequisite: Graduate level course in electromagnetism/electrodynamics (Physics 232a for example) and one semester of intermediate or advanced quantum mechanics (Physics 251b for example). AP216 recommended.

[Physics 266. Topics in Bose-Einstein Condensation and Superfluidity]
Catalog Number: 0104
Isaac F. Silvera
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This special topics course will present a deep treatment of Bose-Einstein condensation and superfluidity in fluids of identical bosons. Both the homogeneous systems such as superfluid helium and the inhomogeneous systems such as the alkali gases and spin-polarized hydrogen will be considered in three and two dimensions. The material will be balanced between theory and experiment. Degenerate Fermion systems will also be discussed.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Quantum mechanics and statistical mechanics.
Physics 268r. Theory of Many-Particle Systems
Catalog Number: 7951

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the modern theory of phase transitions presented using examples drawn from quantum many-body systems. Physics of the quantum Ising model, magnetically ordered and spin-gap states of antiferromagnets, the superfluid-insulator transition, and phases of Fermi liquids. Bosonization methods in one dimension. Other topics drawn from current research depending on student interest.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Expected to be omitted in 2003–04.
Prerequisite: Physics 262 or equivalent.

Physics 270. Experiments and Ideas in Mesoscopic Physics
Catalog Number: 0788
Charles M. Marcus

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30-4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This special topics course introduces the subject of mesoscopic quantum effects in small electronic systems, including conductance fluctuations, localization, electron interference, and persistence currents in metals and semiconductors. More or less attention will be given to specialized topics such as hybrid superconducting systems, magnetic and Kondo systems, clean (ballistic) systems, dynamical effects, and the high magnetic field regime, depending on the interests of participants. The reading list will focus primarily on the experimental literature, augmented by recent texts and reviews. The format of the course will be a combination of lectures and journal-club-style presentations.
Prerequisite: Basic familiarity with quantum mechanics and solid state physics at the level of undergraduate courses.

Physics 283r (formerly Physics 283). The Standard Model
Catalog Number: 3620
Lisa Randall

Half course (fall term). W., F., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Theory and phenomenology of the Standard Model of particle physics and its extensions. Focus will be on the SU(2)xU(1)xSU(3) gauge theory of the electroweak and strong interactions and underlying physics that can generate the electroweak symmetry breaking scale. Topics might include effective field theories, supersymmetry, and theories of physics with extra dimensions.
Prerequisite: Physics 253a,b or equivalent.

Physics 285. Quantum Optics
Catalog Number: 3264
Mikhail D. Lukin

Half course (fall term). M., W., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 4, 5
Prerequisite: A course in electromagnetic theory (Physics 232a or equivalent); one half course in intermediate or advanced quantum mechanics.
Physics 287a. Introduction to String Theory
Catalog Number: 2012
Shiraz Minwalla
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2:30-4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Introduction to the perturbative formulation of string theories and eleven-dimensional supergravity. Basic examples of compactifications and solitonic solutions and their role in strong-weak coupling dualities in string theory.
Prerequisite: Physics 253a,b or equivalent.

Physics 287br (formerly Physics 287b). Topics in String Theory
Catalog Number: 4555
Shiraz Minwalla
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2:30-4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
A selection of topics from current areas of research on string theory.
Prerequisite: Physics 287a.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Odd numbers designate courses of preliminary reading or experimental research. Even numbers designate thesis research and are to be used only when an instructor has agreed to supervise a student’s research for the doctorate. Reading and Research courses largely concerned with physics are offered under the sponsorship of several other departments, particularly Astronomy, Chemistry, and Earth and Planetary Sciences; and of the Division of Engineering and Applied Sciences (Applied Mathematics, Applied Physics, Computer Science, and Engineering Sciences).

Richard Tuck, Professor of Government (on leave spring term)
Richard J. Zeckhauser, Frank Plumpton Ramsey Professor of Political Economy (Kennedy School)

The PhD in Political Economy and Government (PEG degree) is intended for scholars interested in either academic or policy-making careers requiring advanced knowledge of both economics and political science. It is appropriate only for the small number of students whose academic interests are not served by doctoral studies in economics, political science, or public policy.

Candidates for the PEG degree are typically in residence for at least two years before undertaking an oral general examination. Course work integrates economics, political science, and other social sciences. Satisfactory completion of the general examination is a prerequisite for writing a dissertation. Continuation of candidacy is contingent upon suitable progress and achievement during each academic year.

Applicants to this program must present their academic credentials, career plans, and a tentative outline of their proposed program of residence and research. Recent scores from the aptitude portion of the Graduate Record Examination are required, as are transcripts for all prior study and letters of recommendation. Application forms and leaflets describing field and other requirements are available at the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. For further information on faculty, programs, and courses in the John F. Kennedy School of Government, see the school’s catalog and courses of instruction.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Psychology 1. Introduction to Psychology
Catalog Number: 0854
Patrick Cavanagh (fall term) and Daniel T. Gilbert (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., W., 2–3:30 and one hour to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Surveys the scientific study of human psychology. Introduces students to topics such as perception, consciousness, development, cognition, emotion, motivation, psychopathology, decision making, and social behavior.

Psychology 13. Cognitive Psychology
Catalog Number: 8706
Daniel J. Simons
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a one-hour section meeting to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Introduces the study of human cognition. Topics include perception, attention, memory, knowledge representation, language, problem solving, and reasoning. Considers the real-world implications of laboratory findings.
Prerequisite: Psychology 1, or permission of the instructor.

Psychology 15. Social Psychology
Catalog Number: 4760
Nicholas Epley
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30 and a one hour section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

An introduction to research and theory in social psychology meant to improve people’s understanding of themselves, others, and the social world around them. Topics include social influence, attitude change, and persuasion; stereotyping and prejudice; social cognition; social interaction and group processes; liking, loving, and interpersonal attraction; altruism and aggression; and everyday human judgment. We will also discuss applications of social psychology to law, politics, education, and health.

Psychology 16. Human Development
Catalog Number: 1483
Michelle D. Leichtman

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30; plus discussion section W., at 10 or 12. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

Introduces theory, empirical research, and applied issues in developmental psychology. Focuses on cognitive/linguistic, social and emotional aspects of development across the life course, with emphasis on infancy and childhood. Includes child observation and testing.

Psychology 18. Abnormal Psychology
Catalog Number: 8560
Patricia Deldin

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30 and a one-hour section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Introduction to the study of psychopathology. Focus will be on theoretical models of abnormal behavior as they relate to the definition, etiology, and treatment of mental disorders. Diagnostic classification, behavioral, and biological features of the major syndromes of psychopathology will be emphasized.

Prerequisite: An introductory course in psychology.

Psychology 910r. Supervised Research
Catalog Number: 1472
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Independent empirical research (laboratory or field) conducted under the supervision of a departmental faculty member.

Note: Research report or equivalent paper required. Admission to course via application (available in Psychology Undergraduate Office). May be taken not more than three times for College credit and only once for honors concentration credit. Psychology 910r and 920r can be taken a total of three times for non-honors concentration credit.

Psychology 920r. Supervised Reading
Catalog Number: 3577
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department

Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Independent reading on topics not covered by regular courses of instruction.

Note: Paper required. Admission to course via application (available in Psychology.
Undergraduate Office). May be taken not more than three times for College credit and not at all for honors concentration credit. Psychology 920r and 910r can be taken a total of three times for non-honors concentration credit.

Psychology 970. Contemporary Issues in Psychology: Intensive Cross-level Analyses
Catalog Number: 8008
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Examines selected issues and phenomena addressed in contemporary psychological research. Special attention to examining topics from a variety of perspectives, to reading primary sources in the field, and to developing thinking, writing, research, and discussion skills.
Note: This tutorial, or Psychology 971, is required of concentrators upon entering the concentration, normally in the sophomore year. Sophomore Essay required. Letter-graded.

Psychology 971. Contemporary Issues in Psychology: Intensive Cross-level Analyses
Catalog Number: 3498
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines selected issues and phenomena addressed in contemporary psychological research. Special attention to examining topics from a variety of perspectives, to reading primary sources in the field, and to developing thinking, writing, research, and discussion skills.
Note: This tutorial is designed for students who enter the concentration after the first semester of the sophomore year. For assignment to a section, speak to the Undergraduate Program Administrator before Study Cards are due. Sophomore Essay required. Letter-graded. Students who take this course instead of Psychology 970 must take an additional concentration elective to fulfill the full-year tutorial requirement.

[Psychology 980a. Becoming Who We Are: Issues in Social Development]
Catalog Number: 6988
Enrollment: Limited to 15. Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines theory and empirical research pertaining to basic issues in both developmental and social psychology. Through weekly discussion, students will be encouraged to think about how developmental processes interact with social environment to foster such things as a sense of self, morality, gender identity, family dynamics, and styles of interpersonal communication. By doing so, students should arrive at a better understanding of how psychological research can help us understand the world and ourselves.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Psychology 980b. Evolutionary Psychology]
Catalog Number: 2577
Enrollment: Limited to 15. Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks. Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the department.
Half course (fall term). Th., 2:30–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
Examines the design of the human mind from an evolutionary perspective. Through weekly discussion, students will be encouraged to critically evaluate the evolutionary psychology approach drawing in evidence from cognitive psychology, cognitive development, comparative psychology, and the neurosciences. The course will examine a number of key questions in the study of the evolution of the mind including: theory of mind and social cognition, deception and cheating detection, mate choice and human sexuality, and intuitive physics.

Prerequisite: Science B-29.

*Psychology 980c. Neural Networks
Catalog Number: 6722
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department.
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Review of neural network theory and computational neuroscience, with emphasis on realistic models of hippocampal memory and processing. Includes survey of connectionist and computational neuroscience models of hippocampal and cortical processing. Associative memory function, place cells, oscillatory processes and self-organization are some of the topics that will be covered.

*Psychology 985. Junior Tutorial: Honors Thesis Preparation
Catalog Number: 2343
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall term: Hours to be arranged; Spring term: Hours to be arranged, plus occasional required group meetings Fall: M., 4–6; Spring: M., at 4. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 9
Supervised reading and research normally resulting in an honors thesis prospectus. Supplemental group meetings to discuss topic and adviser selection, methodology, prospectus writing, and the prospectus meeting.
Note: Normally limited to junior psychology concentrators. Admission to course via application (available in Psychology Undergraduate Office). Graded SAT/UNS. Full prospectus or term paper required.

Psychology 987. Junior Tutorials: Mind/Brain/Behavior
Interdisciplinary seminars that address current research topics in mind/brain/behavior from a variety of perspectives. Enrollment preference given to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
*Psychology 987a. The Interface Between Cognitive Neuroscience and Neuropsychology: What Patients Teach Us About Theories of the Mind
Catalog Number: 1424 Enrollment: Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
Dara S. Manoach (Medical School) and Margaret G. O’Connor (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Tu., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 18
Evaluates cognitive neuroscience models of brain function using a neuropsychological approach. A number of developmental, neurological and psychiatric syndromes will be discussed. Case studies will be presented and the relevant research will be reviewed and used to challenge current theories. We will also review a variety of assessment techniques including neuropsychological evaluation and neuroimaging. Students will take turns presenting relevant literature.

[Psychology 987b. Music, Mind, and Brain]
Catalog Number: 7107 Enrollment: Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

----------

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course takes a multidisciplinary approach to understanding neural systems that govern music perception and cognition. Students expected to master topics in acoustics, music theory, psychophysics, cognitive psychology, auditory development, neurophysiology, neuroanatomy, and neurology. Similarities and differences between music and language with respect to their underlying mental operations and brain mechanisms explored.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*Psychology 987c. Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Drug Policy
Catalog Number: 1082 Enrollment: Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
Ken Nakayama
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Applies the perspectives of law, molecular psychiatry, psychology, epidemiology, and sociology to the problems of substance abuse, with a special focus on cocaine and other illegal drugs. Considers fundamental public policy choices about primary systems we use to respond to substance abuse— the criminal justice and health care systems— and suggests a closer working relationship between these systems, especially in urban poverty areas. A critical question will be how to influence substance addicts to desire to recover. The course will also examine the challenges in developing strategies to address substance abuse. Readings drawn from the literature of neurobiology, psychiatry, psychology, public health, public policy, law, and history.

*Psychology 987f. The Biology of Conscious States: Waking, Sleeping, and Dreaming
Catalog Number: 3372 Enrollment: Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
Robert A. Stickgold (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Tu., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
The course focuses on waking, sleeping, and dreaming as examples of conscious states in both humans and animals. Original papers and books by Allan Hobson (The Dreaming Brain) and Antonio Damasio (The Feeling of What Happens) form the background for discussions of waking, sleeping, and dreaming from the perspectives of neurology, physiology, psychology, and cognitive neurosciences. We discuss various approaches to understanding the functions of sleep and wake (consciousness) and review several theories on the topic.

*Psychology 987g. Theories of Violence
Catalog Number: 7611 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Preference given to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
Alan Abraham Stone (Law School and Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Considers clinical examples of violent individuals (videotape interviews of a multiple murderer and violent sexual predator) and group violence (federal law enforcement’s assault on the Branch Davidians in Waco, Texas). Then examines various theories of brain, mind, and behavior which attempt to explain violence.

*Psychology 987h. The Dynamics of Drug Addictions
Catalog Number: 5541 Enrollment: Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
Gene M. Heyman
Drug users often fluctuate between periods of heavy and light consumption and most eventually “recover.” The seminar will discuss research on: (1) behavioral characteristics of addiction, (2) drug-induced brain changes, (3) learning-induced brain changes, (4) the psychology of choice, (5) obsessive compulsive disorder and its neural substrates, and (6) the distinction between voluntary and involuntary behavior. Readings will be selected primarily from journal articles.

Psychology 987i, The Science of Happiness
Catalog Number: 4100 Enrollment: Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
Ken Nakayama
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
This course focuses on the science of happiness, integrating findings from positive psychology, psychiatry, behavioral genetics, neuroscience, and behavioral economics. We will begin with a brief history of ideas on happiness from Aristotle’s notion of happiness as virtue to Daniel Kahneman’s calculus of happiness as the summation of momentary pleasures. Over the course of the semester, we will consider the genetics of happiness including the notion of a biologically determined hedonic set point, the brain’s pleasure circuitry, and the mind’s power to frame events positively, a tool used with great success in cognitive therapies. We will question an idea that has gained prevalence since the Enlightenment: that pleasure and happiness are our purpose.

Psychology 987j, Mind, Brain, and Limits in Medicine
Catalog Number: 8821 Enrollment: Preference to juniors in Mind/Brain/Behavior tracks.
Gary S. Belkin (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
From the still controversial definition of brain death to the ways expectations of preserved consciousness influences how a patient’s condition is considered “hopeless,” inferences about brain function often shape ideas and practices about the purposes and limits of medicine. Examining clinical controversies, ethical debates, and selected primary source material, this seminar will explore how historical tools can help explore and draw lessons from the close connections between mind, brain, behavior, and the ethics of the ends of medicine, particularly at the end of life.

Senior Tutorial

Psychology 990, Senior Tutorial: Honors Thesis in Psychology
Catalog Number: 3553
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department
Full course. Hours to be arranged, plus occasional, optional but highly recommended group meetings M., 4–6.
Individual supervised thesis research supplemented with group meetings to discuss major aspects of the thesis process (e.g., organizing, conducting, and presenting research).
Note: Required of and limited to honors senior psychology concentrators. Graded SAT/UNS. Prospectus meeting required for fall term credit, as well as a paper for students who divide course at mid-year. Submission of thesis required for full year credit.
Prerequisite: Advanced methods course.
*Psychology 992. Senior Tutorial: Honors Thesis (Mind/Brain, Behavior)
Catalog Number: 4990
Stephen M. Kosslyn, Ken Nakayama and members of the Department.
Full course. Hours to be arranged. Occasional, optional but highly recommended group meetings on Monday 4-6.
Supervised research leading to the submission of the senior honors thesis. Individual work with thesis adviser is supplemented by participation in Mind/Brain/Behavior Interdisciplinary Research Workshop.
Note: Required of and limited to seniors in the MBB Track. Track seniors will take this course in lieu of Psychology 990, although they are strongly encouraged to attend group meetings of Psychology 990. Graded SAT/UNS. Prospectus meeting required for fall term credit, as well as a paper for students who divide course at mid-year. Submission of thesis required for full year credit.
Prerequisite: An advanced methods course.

*Psychology 995. Senior Seminar: General Psychology
Catalog Number: 5201 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
L. Dodge Fernald, Erin Driver-Linn and members of the Department.
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Th., 1–3; W., 3:30–6:30; Spring: Th., 1–3; M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
A capstone course aimed at an integrated review of the field through seminar discussions, oral reports, field experience, practitioner interviews, and independent research projects. Focus is upon the perspectives and prescriptions in contemporary psychology.
Note: Designed for senior concentrators not engaged in an honors thesis.

Cross-listed Courses

Biological Sciences 80 (formerly Biological Sciences 25). Behavioral Neuroscience
Science B-44. Vision and Brain
Statistics 100. Introduction to Quantitative Methods
Statistics 101. Introduction to Quantitative Methods
Statistics 102. Fundamentals of Biostatistics
Statistics 104. Introduction to Quantitative Methods

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Psychology 1010. Human Intelligence and IQ
Catalog Number: 1892
Joshua Stephen Rodefer
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
The study and measurement of human intelligence is one of the most controversial subjects in psychology. Some of the main issues that will be covered in this course include the modern development of IQ tests, the heritability of intelligence, theories of intelligence, environmental effects on IQ, relationship of cognitive psychology to measuring IQ, and intelligence in the social context.
*Psychology 1152r (formerly Psychology 1152). Animal Cognition: Laboratory
Catalog Number: 1805 Enrollment: Limited to 12. Preference given to Psychology undergraduates and students in the Mind/Brain/Behavior program.
Marc D. Hauser
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., 5–7 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 9
An introduction to issues, laboratory techniques, and field methodology in animal cognition. Students develop and pilot research projects. Empirical research is accompanied by a critical reading and discussion of papers on such topics as language evolution, concept acquisition, acoustic perception, and domain-specific knowledge.
Prerequisite: Science B-29 or Biology 22 or permission of instructor.

Psychology 1153 (formerly Psychology 2339). Evolutionary Ethics: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6771 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Marc D. Hauser
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Explores the biological foundations of our ethical behavior, integrating theoretical and empirical advances from evolutionary biology, cognitive science, neurobiology, economics, philosophy, and law. Discusses evolution of religion, legal issues, nonhuman morals, and human values.
Note: Graduate students welcome.

*Psychology 1201 (formerly Psychology 2260). Psychopharmacology
Catalog Number: 6717 Enrollment: Limited to 30.
Joshua Stephen Rodefer
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Provides an overview of basic pharmacology and neuroscience before covering topics related to preclinical and clinical psychopharmacology. Specifically, examines drugs used in treatment of mental/neurological disorders in addition to those substances that have abuse potential.
Prerequisite: Biological Sciences 25 or 80 or Psychology 1 or permission of instructor.

Psychology 1202. Cognition, Emotion, and the Developing Brain
Catalog Number: 5907
Kurt W. Fischer (Education)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Provides an overview of knowledge about brain and behavior development in human beings across the life cycle. The focus will be normal human development, although there will be discussion of pathology and of findings with animals where relevant. The two instructors bring complementary backgrounds in psychology, human neurology, and education. Topics will include normal neurological development in human beings, cognitive and emotional development, nonlinear dynamics of development, and especially relations between development of brain and behavior.
Note: Offered jointly with the School of Education as H-134.

*Psychology 1252. Neurobiology of Learning and Memory: Seminar
Catalog Number: 8580 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Graduate students encouraged to enroll.
Mark G. Baxter
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Consideration of experimental studies aimed at defining the neural systems involved in learning and remembering different types of information. The primary focus will be research attempting to assign specific mnemonic functions to specific brain areas, and theories attempting to integrate what is known about the biological organization of the brain with the psychological phenomena of learning and memory.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Psychology 1 and Biological Sciences 25 or 80.

[Psychology 1254. Neuropsychology of Aging and Dementia]
Catalog Number: 9109 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Graduate students encouraged to enroll.

Mark G. Baxter

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Provides an interdisciplinary synthesis of research on the cognitive changes that occur in normal aging and dementia. Considers both theoretical perspectives and methodological issues as they relate to declines in components of attention, learning, and memory. Both group differences and individual variability will be discussed, as we consider both behavioral and neurobiological evidence from human and nonhuman subjects.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Psychology 1 and Biological Sciences 25 or 80.

[Psychology 1302 (formerly Psychology 1500). Psychology of Language]
Catalog Number: 0295

Alfonso Caramazza

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

An examination of the psychological processes that underlie the use of language. Studies of normal performance as well as research on language impairments in brain-damaged patients are considered. Topics include sentence comprehension and production, reading and writing, and the role of memory, perception, and attention in language processing.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Psychology 1303. Cognitive Neuroscience]
Catalog Number: 1052

William Tecumseh Fitch

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1 and a weekly section meeting to be arranged.

Despite phenomenal advances in our understanding of the nervous system in the last decade, many fundamental questions concerning the relation between brain and mind remain unanswered. How are memories stored and retrieved? How is sensory input converted to subjective percept? Is the brain a general-purpose learning machine or a toolbox of innate, specialized processors? This course introduces the methods, findings, and controversies of cognitive neuroscience. A comparative, developmental perspective will be adopted throughout, using data from animals and young children to inform theories of human cognition and brain evolution. Students will learn to read the primary literature and evaluate it from both theoretical and empirical perspectives.

*Psychology 1350 (formerly Psychology 2350). Memory and Amnesia: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6014
Daniel L. Schacter
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines memory and amnesia from cognitive, neuropsychological, evolutionary, and psychobiological perspectives. Focuses on the idea that memory problems can be divided into seven fundamental types: transcience, absent-mindedness, blocking, misattribution, suggestibility, bias, and persistence.

Psychology 1355. Behavioral Genetics: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6652 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Joshua Stephen Rodefer
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course provides a broad overview of the application of genetic methods to study human and animal behaviors. Emphasis is placed upon the use of methodology and design to address psychologically relevant questions concerning the etiology and nature of individual differences in various behaviors (e.g., intelligence, personality, psychiatric disorders).

Psychology 1357. Evolution of Language
Catalog Number: 9255 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
William Tecumseh Fitch
Half course (spring term). W., 1:30–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Because human language differs so radically from the communication systems of other animals, language has been termed an “embarrassment for evolutionary theory.” Nonetheless, debate about the evolution of language has sparked a large and rapidly growing literature asking how this most human of abilities arose during the course of human evolution. In this seminar, we will read and critique both classic and recent work on language evolution, evaluating current data and hypotheses from a Darwinian perspective.

Prerequisite: One or more of the following courses: Science B-16 (History of Life), Science B-29 (Human Behavioral Biology), Linguistics 110 (Introduction to Linguistics), Psychology 1302 (Psychology of Language), Biology 17 (Evolution), Biological Sciences 2 (Organismic and Evolutionary Biology), or Biological Sciences 51 (Integrative Biology of Organisms).

Psychology 1358. Cognitive Neuroscience of Emotion
Catalog Number: 4087 Enrollment: Limited to 20. Graduate students welcome to enroll.
Mark G. Baxter
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
In this seminar course, we will discuss studies of humans and animals aimed at understanding the neural substrates of emotional behavior, and influence of emotion on cognition. We will pay equal attention to studies of brain activation in response to emotional experience, and abnormalities in emotion resulting from brain damage.

Note: Preference given to juniors in the Mind, Brain, and Behavior tracks.
Prerequisite: Biological Sciences 80.

Psychology 1401. Perception, Touch, Taste, and Sound
Catalog Number: 4372
William Tecumseh Fitch
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1 and a weekly section meeting to be arranged. EXAM
The complex process by which information is gathered by our sensory organs and converted to a subjective percept has been studied most intensively in the visual domain, but a huge body of research focuses on audition and olfaction as well. This course will focus on these senses, and is intended to complement Science B-44 (Vision and Brain). Introduces the experimental methods and findings of auditory and olfactory neuroscience and psychology, touching more briefly on the tactile sense and taste. Also addresses the difficult question of how the different sensory modalities are combined to form a holistic multimodal percept of the world. In the laboratory portion of the course, students will master basic experimental techniques and create and run original experiments in psychophysics.

Prerequisite: Introductory Psychology or Cognitive Psychology plus a Statistics course such as 100, 101, 102, 104, or the equivalent.

Psychology 1501. Social Psychology of Organizations
Catalog Number: 0823 Enrollment: Limited to 45.

J. Richard Hackman

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–10, and a ninety minute section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11

Surveys interpersonal and group processes in organizational settings. Includes how groups and organizations affect individual members and vice versa; interpersonal and group processes; work team behavior and performance; power dynamics in organizations; intergroup relations; the leadership of groups and organizations. Group project required.

Prerequisite: Psychology 1 and Statistics 100, 101, 102, 104, or the equivalent.

Psychology 1502. Applied Social Psychology
Catalog Number: 4239

Philip Stone

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10 and a one-hour section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12

Examines importance of individual identity, self-esteem, personal strengths and signature themes, levels of engagement, performance standards, reward systems, and organizational cultures in shaping effective job matches and project-team participation. Includes case studies and videos. Open to students without prior background in psychology.

Psychology 1503. Psychology and Law
Catalog Number: 3707

Ellsworth Lapham Fersch

Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30; F., at 1or 2. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

Compares legal and psychological approaches to human behavior and considers their interaction. Topics include forensic assessment of competence, insanity, and civil issues; legality and morality; theories of crime; eyewitness identification; criminal profiling; trials and juries; rights of victims, accused, and special groups; and sentencing. The course discusses the roles of lawyers and of psychologists, in theory and in practice. The course focuses on case studies and on research.

Note: Graduate/professional students and students who have taken S-1870 will not be admitted.
Psychology 1506. Social Relationships
Catalog Number: 9327
Anne Maureen McGuire
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1:30–3 and a one-hour section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Reviews empirical studies of friendships, dating, and long-term relationships (including marriage). Topics include types and functions of social relationships; effects of individual differences (sex, attachment style, sexual orientation); processes of relationship formation, maintenance, and dissolution, including attraction, love, social support, sexuality, communication, jealousy, and conflict. Draws from perspectives in social psychology (social roles, equity, social exchange), evolutionary biology (reciprocal altruism, mate choice), and economics. Readings cover relationships in a variety of human societies.
Prerequisite: Psychology 1, 13, 15, 16, or 17 or permission of the instructor.

Psychology 1507. Cross-Cultural Psychology
Catalog Number: 8214
Anne Maureen McGuire
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30 plus a section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Covers empirical findings regarding human diversity in psychology and explores how cultural forces shape psychology. Topics include: cultural differences in perception and cognition (categorization, perceptions of time and space), affective processes (emotion, motivation, values), social cognition (self, identity, attribution), development (socialization, enculturation), personality, social behavior (conformity, influence, communication, relationships, aggression), intergroup relations (prejudice, conflict), and sex and gender across cultures. Implications are drawn for intercultural contact (migration, acculturation), education, physical and mental health, and organizational behavior.
Prerequisite: Two psychology courses, including, preferably, introductory psychology.

[Psychology 1558r. Supervised Research Experience in Social Psychology]
Catalog Number: 4067
Daniel T. Gilbert
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Provides students with experience conducting social psychology research under the direct supervision of a graduate student mentor, each of whom offers a unique program of work and instruction. Students perform literature searches, create experimental materials, recruit and test human subjects, code and analyze data, and so on. This course affords students a “hands on” experience of the research process in social psychology and an opportunity to work closely with a graduate student mentor.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Psychology 1560r (formerly Psychology 2650r). Interpersonal Influence and Communication: Laboratory]
Catalog Number: 6494
Nalini Ambady
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Laboratory course in interpersonal influence and communication. Students will conduct independent research under the supervision of the instructor.

Note: Undergraduates and graduate students interested in examining communication, interpersonal influence, social identity, and culture and emotion are encouraged to enroll.

Psychology 1563. Psychological Themes in Text: Seminar
Catalog Number: 9275 Enrollment: Limited to 15.

Philip Stone

Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Analyses of themes reflecting motives, attitudes, cognitive styles, attributional tendencies, and perceived interpersonal relationships, as found in interview and focus-group transcripts, open-ended survey responses, corporate reports, editorials, and newspaper accounts. Enlists computer-aided procedures for analyzing theme patterns within large amounts of text as described at www.wjh.harvard.edu/~inquirer.

Note: Open also to undergraduate and graduate students outside of Psychology.

[Psychology 1564. Designs for a Positive Psychology: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 6442

Philip Stone

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Builds upon an American Psychological Association initiative to foster psychological research with applications for developing flourishing, fulfilling lives as well as thriving families and communities. Student projects will each study a domain of psychology for its potential contributions to a well-grounded, valid positive psychology.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Psychology 1565. Conscious Will: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 4113 Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Daniel M. Wegner

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

What causes the feeling that we cause our actions? This course examines questions of free will vs. determinism and mind vs. body by probing anomalies of will—from phantom limbs, Ouija boards, and dowsing rods to hypnosis, dissociative identity disorder, and spirit possession.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Psychology 1566. Social Psychology in the Legal Process: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 6898 Enrollment: Limited to 25.

Sharon H. Kramer

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Examines the relevance of certain aspects of social psychology to the American legal process. Topics include research on group decision making and its relevance to jury decision making; reliability and credibility of hearsay testimony and eyewitness testimony; nonverbal behavior in the courtroom.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Psychology 15.
[Psychology 1567. Altruism and Aggression: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 2648 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Anne Maureen McGuire
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines causes, consequences, and correlates of prosocial and antisocial behavior, drawing on theory and research in psychology and behavioral (evolutionary) biology. Analyzes types and taxonomies of helping and harming behaviors among intimates, friends, acquaintances, and strangers. Reviews a variety of immediate and distal processes, including elicitors and inhibitors of helping and harming; social learning and biological influences on the development of individual differences; and the effects of intra-individual factors (e.g., sex differences, impulsivity, testosterone, empathy) on aggression and altruism. Primary focus is on inter-individual behavior, with some attention to intergroup aggression (e.g., gangs) and collective helping (e.g., charitable giving). Examples will be drawn from a variety of cultures and subcultures, and from the social behavior of nonhuman species.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Psychology 1569. Psychosocial Aspects of HIV/AIDS
Catalog Number: 6546 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Michael Robert Rodriguez
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines current theoretical and research literature on the impact of HIV and AIDS on individuals and communities. Relies on an interdisciplinary perspective to explore topics that include prevention, bereavement, stigma, homophobia, collective identity, resilience, stress and coping, survivor guilt, and altruism, among others.
Prerequisite: An introductory course in psychology, or permission of the instructor.

*Psychology 1570 (formerly *Psychology 2640). The Nature of Prejudice
Catalog Number: 9939 Enrollment: Limited to 22.
Mahzarin R. Banaji
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Explores prejudice from an experimental psychology perspective, emphasizing "position pieces" that mark historical shifts in thinking. Explores questions concerning the ordinary nature of prejudice, its unconscious operation, and the role of conscious ideology.
Note: Open to graduates with permission of instructor.

Psychology 1604. Cognitive and Symbolic Development
Catalog Number: 1453
Howard E. Gardner (Education)
Half course (fall term). M., W., 8:30–10. EXAM GROUP: 1, 2
Provides an integrative survey of basic concepts and research in cognitive development from infancy to early childhood. Among the major theoretical orientations to be covered (from infancy to early adulthood) are those of Piaget, Vygotsky, information-processing psychology, neural networks, evolutionary psychology, modularity/constraints position, and the symbol systems approach. The relation of developmental psychology to schooling is treated at the end of the course.
Note: Offered jointly by Education as H-105.
Psychology 1606. Language Acquisition
Catalog Number: 4632
Jesse Snedeker
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30; W., 11:30–1 plus a one-hour weekly section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Explores the (as yet unanswered) question “How do children manage to learn language?”
Introduces classic and contemporary theories of language acquisition. Topics include early speech perception; word learning; acquisition of phonology, morphology, and syntax; development of pragmatic and metalinguistic knowledge; and developmental change in language comprehension and production. To appreciate these accomplishments, we need to define what is being acquired. Thus, we also examine the workings of these linguistic subsystems and adult language processing.

Psychology 1653. Social-Cognitive Development: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6712 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Michelle D. Leichtman
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Considers the development of cognition in social context with emphasis on infancy and early childhood. Topics include memory, intelligence, language, narrative, culture and social cognition.
Prerequisite: Psychology 16 or permission of instructor.

[Psychology 1657. Personality and Social Development: Research Seminar]
Catalog Number: 6836 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
----------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores research addressing the processes of infant and child social and personality development. Focuses on four key areas of research: cognition, attachment theory, language development, and moral development. Within these broad areas, addresses issues and debates about the role of genes, gender, socialization, and neurological development as interacting forces that affect how infants and children acquire self/other awareness, identity, and social competence. Field research will supplement seminar discussions, and laboratories will teach basic methodological and statistical design techniques.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Psychology 1 and 16, or concurrent enrollment.

Psychology 1701 (formerly Psychology 17). Personality Psychology
Catalog Number: 4538
Brian R. Little
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2–3:30, and a one-hour section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Introduction to personality psychology. Reviews the major developments and debates in the area of personality. Covers a variety of approaches to understanding individual differences, including temperament, traits (factor analytic models), cognitive models, behavioral genetics, neurobiological processes, and person situation interaction.
Prerequisite: An introductory course in psychology, preferably Psychology 1.
Psychology 1702. Emotions: Theories and Research
Catalog Number: 6016
Shelley H. Carson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Emotion permeates our experience and defines, in part, the quality of human existence. This course provides an overview of the major theories, modern research, and current issues in the field of emotion. Topics include examination of basic and complex emotions, physiological and evolutionary models of emotion, gender and cross-cultural differences, emotions and mental health, and the role of emotion in motivation.

Psychology 1703 (formerly Psychology 1005). Human Sexuality
Catalog Number: 7683
Michael Robert Rodriguez
Half course (spring term). M., W., 3–4:30 and a weekly section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Examines the development and expression of sexual behavior as a complex psychological, socio-cultural, biological, and historical phenomenon. Students will explore topics that include: research methods in human sexuality; biological bases of sexual behavior; sexual arousal and response; gender identity and gender roles; attraction and love; sexual orientation; sexuality across the life cycle; sexual dysfunctions and sex therapy; safer sex and STD prevention; atypical sexual variations; and sexual coercion and abuse and their treatment.

[Psychology 1801. Anxiety Disorders]
Catalog Number: 4906 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Richard J. McNally
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Concerns current theory and research on the etiology and treatment of anxiety disorders (e.g., panic disorder, obsessive-compulsive disorder, social phobia, post-traumatic stress disorder). Cognitive, behavioral, and biological approaches are emphasized.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. For both graduate and advanced undergraduate students.
Prerequisite: Psychology 18.

[*Psychology 1803. Eating Disorders]
Catalog Number: 4992 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Pamela Kohl Keel
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the diagnosis, epidemiology, etiology, assessment, and treatment of eating disorders, including anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa, binge eating disorder, and subclinical eating disorders. Theories of appetite control and weight regulation also covered.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. May not be taken Pass/Fail.
Prerequisite: An introductory course in psychology.

*Psychology 1851. Introduction to Clinical Science
Catalog Number: 6392 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Jill M. Hooley
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This course is designed to extend the material covered in Psychology 18 (Abnormal Psychology) in a more clinical direction. Provides students with an opportunity to approach issues in clinical psychology from a scientist-practitioner perspective. Focuses on how research-based approaches to the study and treatment of psychopathology can translate into high quality ethical care for patients with major psychiatric problems.

Prerequisite: Psychology 18, and at least one other course in psychopathology. No exceptions.

[Psychology 1854. Schizophrenia: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 2771 Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Jill M. Hooley
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines schizophrenia and schizophrenia-spectrum disorders from biological, psychological, and psychosocial perspectives. Focuses on early (e.g., Kraepelin) and modern (e.g., DSM-IV) perspectives, clinical case descriptions of the disorder, and recent theoretical and empirical developments in understanding etiology, phenomenology, and treatment.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Psychology 18.

[Psychology 1855. Mood Disorders: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 6867

Patricia Deldin
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines current theory and research on the etiology and treatment of unipolar and bipolar mood disorders. Cognitive, behavioral, and biological approaches will be emphasized.

Prerequisite: Psychology 18 and introductory psychology.

[*Psychology 1856r. Laboratory in Psychophysiology]
Catalog Number: 7521

Patricia Deldin
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An advanced psychophysiology course designed to give students “hands-on” psychophysiology research experience. Theoretical psychophysiology background required.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Psychology 1807.

[Psychology 1860. Methods of Research in Psychopathology]
Catalog Number: 2549 Enrollment: Limited to 18.

Shelley H. Carson
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Introduction to planning, conducting, and reporting research related to psychopathology. Students will design a study, as well as collect, analyze, and report data using APA style. Classic and recent studies in the field of psychopathology will serve as models for an understanding of research design and data analysis.

Prerequisite: Psychology 18 and Statistics 100, 101, 102, or 104.
Psychology 1861. Developmental Psychopathology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 1325 Enrollment: Limited to 16.
Shelley H. Carson
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
An overview of mental disorders in childhood and adolescence. Topics will include internalizing problems (anxiety, depression, suicide, and somatic disorders) externalizing problems (conduct disorder, ADHD, and substance abuse), and autism. Theoretical perspectives, diagnostic criteria, etiology, treatment, and risk and protective factors will be examined.
Prerequisite: Psychology 1 or 18.

Psychology 1901. Methods of Behavioral Research
Catalog Number: 3811
Brian R. Little
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30, and a one-hour section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Theoretical and practical introduction to planning, conducting, reporting, and evaluating research in the social and behavioral sciences. Topics include experimental design, reliability and validity, experimental artifacts, and a particular emphasis on data analysis.
Prerequisite: Statistics 100 or 101 or 102 or 104 or the equivalent.

Psychology 1951. Intermediate Quantitative Methods
Catalog Number: 8674
David Kevin Ahern (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30, and a one-hour section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
This course will emphasize analysis of variance designs and contrasts for applied behavioral research. Additional topics include reliability, validity, correlation, effect size, and meta-analysis.
Prerequisite: Statistics 100 or 101 or 102 or 104 or the equivalent.

Psychology 1952. Multivariate Analysis in Psychology
Catalog Number: 6191
Lee Baer (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
This course will emphasize multiple regression analysis, analysis of variance, analysis of covariance, and factor analysis. Additional topics include discriminant analysis and structural equation modeling.
Prerequisite: Psychology 1951, facility with at least one computer statistics package, and normally first-or second-year student standing in the psychology graduate program.

Science B-29. Evolution of Human Nature
The following courses offered in Human Development at the Graduate School of Education automatically count for undergraduate concentration credit: Education H-125. Art and the Mind: A Cognitive View of the Arts, Development, and Education; *Education H-155. Seminar: Methods and Conceptsin Research on Dynamic Development of Emotion of Cognition; *Education H-173. The Role of the Disciplines in Education Today; *Education H-391. Research Seminar: The Development of Interpersonal Competence and Intergroup Awareness; Education H-843. The Development of Writing. Cross-registration with instructors’ and departmental signature is required. Forms for cross-registration are available in Senior Tutors’ offices. The above courses; and H-090, Proseminar in Human Development and Psychology are also particularly recommended for graduate students. For full course descriptions, consult the School of Education course catalog.

Primarily for Graduates

Psychology 2010. Contemporary Topics in Psychological Research
Catalog Number: 6515
Daniel L. Schacter and members of the Department
Half course (fall term). M., Th., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9, 18
Advanced survey of research topics in experimental, personality, developmental, and social psychology.
Note: Required of and limited to first-year doctoral students in the Department of Psychology.

Psychology 2020ab. Cognition, Brain, and Behavior: Proseminar
Catalog Number: 7860
Marc D. Hauser and members of the Department
Full course (spring term). Tu., Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Advanced survey of research topics in cognition, brain, and behavior.
Note: Required of and limited to first-year graduate students in the CBB program.

Psychology 2040. Contemporary Topics in Psychopathology
Catalog Number: 4628 Enrollment: Limited to doctoral candidates.
Jill M. Hooley
Half course (fall term). Tu., 10–12; W., at 12. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Advanced survey of current topics in experimental psychopathology.
Note: Required for first-year or second year graduate students in the psychopathology area.

[Psychology 2050. History of Psychology]
Catalog Number: 3378
---------
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A study of the organization of psychology in the late 19th and 20th centuries. Early psychologists—James, Hall, Dewey, Titchener, and Thorndike—initiate research programs in sensation and perception, the study of exceptional mental states, and several forms of educational psychology. Psychologies of personal and social design emerge, centering at first on the naturalistic programs of the “brass instrument laboratories” and theoretical behaviorism, but more and more giving a place to cognitive, developmental, personality, clinical, and social programs.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Psychology 2100, Research Methodology
Catalog Number: 8552 Enrollment: Limited to doctoral students.
J. Richard Hackman
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1:30–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Covers all major steps in conducting an empirical research project, with emphasis on studies that involve human participants. Topics include finding and formulating research problems; research design strategies; developing and validating concepts; designing and assessing empirical measures and manipulations; issues in data collection, analysis, and interpretation; and writing and publishing research reports.

Psychology 2150, Memory Development: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4765
Michelle D. Leichtman
Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines basic issues in the development of the memory system across the lifecourse. Topics include infant memory, childhood amnesia, suggestibility, affect and memory, strategy development, metamemory, memory across cultures, and the development of memory in various modalities. Considers memory in applied as well as laboratory contexts.

Psychology 2160, Conceptual Development
Catalog Number: 6752
Susan E. Carey
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
Survey of theoretical debates concerning the development of concepts, reasoning, and the lexicon, including the nature of innate knowledge, continuity through development, cross-cultural and cross-species variation, and the interactions between language and thought during development.

Note: Limited to graduate students in psychology.

[Psychology 2170, Origins of Knowledge
Catalog Number: 6883
Elizabeth S. Spelke
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Psychology 2180, Modularity, Domain-Specificity, and the Organization of Knowledge
Catalog Number: 5200
Elizabeth S. Spelke
Half course (fall term). W., 7–10 p.m.; Tu., at 12; M., at 3.
This course considers the modular organization of the mind and brain, including the domains of objects, number, places, and people, based on behavioral studies of animals, humans with and without pathology, and imaging studies.
Note: The course is held every other week at MIT, and the first meeting will be Sept. 5 in Rm. NE20-461 at MIT (above the MIT Coop in Central Square; entrance is at 3 Cambridge Center, behind the Coop. If door is locked wait and someone will come down to let you in.)

Psychology 2210. Seminar on Concepts and Words
Catalog Number: 6738
Jesse Snedeker and members of the Department.
Half course (spring term). Th., 6–8 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 18
This course will examine how concepts are acquired in people and in non-human primates, the representation of concepts and words, and the relationship between concept acquisition and word learning.
Note: Limited to graduate students. No undergraduates admitted.

Psychology 2220. Research in the Development of Concepts and Language
Catalog Number: 4672
Susan E. Carey and members of the Department.
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Research seminar open to graduate students and advanced undergraduates conducting research in cognitive development.

Psychology 2230. Research in the Development of Cognition and Perception
Catalog Number: 3164
Elizabeth S. Spelke and members of the Department.
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Research seminar open to graduate students and advanced undergraduates conducting research in cognitive development.

Psychology 2240. Topics in Visual Cognition
Catalog Number: 7650
Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Daniel J. Simons
Half course (fall term). M., 12–3. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6, 7
This seminar course will focus on a selection of current and historical issues in the study of visual cognition. Discussions in each meeting will focus on a single topic and will be based on several articles from the primary literature. The course is designed for graduate students or advanced undergraduates who have had some exposure to cognitive psychology or perception.
Prerequisite: Psychology 13 or equivalent and some experience reading cognitive psychology journal articles (e.g., an advanced methods course, research experience, sophomore tutorial).

*Psychology 2253r (formerly Psychology 2253r). Behavioral Neuroscience: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 1146
Mark G. Baxter
Half course (fall term). W., at 6.
Note: Open only to graduate students and undergraduates involved in research in the instructor’s laboratory.
Psychology 2300r, Perception, Cognition, and Representation: Seminar
Catalog Number: 8369
Patrick Cavanagh
Half course (spring term). F., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 5, 6
Discussion of issues in perception, attention, and cognition.
Note: Undergraduates may enroll with permission of the instructor.

[*Psychology 2335r (formerly Psychology 3380r). Language: Research Seminar]
Catalog Number: 5121
Alfonso Caramazza
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Psychology 2353r, Visual Cognition: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 6563
Daniel J. Simons
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Spring: F., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: Spring: 7, 8
Note: Open only to graduate students and undergraduates involved in or interested in research in the instructor’s laboratory.

Psychology 2355r, Laboratory in Cognitive Neuroscience: Seminar
Catalog Number: 1119
Stephen M. Kosslyn
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: M., at 2; M., at 2; Spring: Tu., at 3. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 7; Spring: 17
Focuses on how one asks and answers questions about visual cognition. Students are involved in all phases of conducting experiments and learn the fundamentals of experimental design and data analysis. Students formally present their research to the seminar as well as work independently.
Note: Meets advanced methods requirement for undergraduates. Undergraduates may enroll with permission of instructor.
Prerequisite: Psychology 13 or BS 80, plus statistics.

[Psychology 2400. Cognitive Psychology and Emotional Disorders]
Catalog Number: 6138 Enrollment: Limited to graduate students.
Richard J. McNally
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar concerns research and theory on the application of cognitive psychology methods to the understanding of anxiety and mood disorders.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Psychology 2420. Cognitive-Behavioral Treatment of Psychological Disorders
Catalog Number: 8446
Richard J. McNally
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Covers current cognitive-behavioral approaches to the treatment of common psychological disorders in adults. Emphasis is on the practical aspects of treatment, and on treatment outcome.
research. Theoretical underpinnings of cognitive-behavioral therapy are also addressed.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Limited to graduate students.

[Psychology 2435. Laboratory in Eating Disorders]
Catalog Number: 2559 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Pamela Kohl Keel

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Trains students in the assessment of eating disorders, including anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa, binge eating disorder, and eating disorders not otherwise specified. Particular attention given to differentiating between normal and abnormal eating and weight control behaviors. Psychometric properties of various self-report and structured interview assessments covered.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Psychology 1, Psychology 18, and introductory statistics.

[Psychology 2460. Diagnostic Interviewing]
Catalog Number: 4157 Enrollment: Limited to 12. Graduate students only.
Jill M. Hooley

Half course (spring term). Tu., 10–12. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Focuses on the development of clinical interviewing and diagnostic skills through exposure to the Structured Clinical Interview for DSM-III-R (SCID-R) and other research-oriented diagnostic interviews. Examines the major issues in diagnosis and assessment and provides exposure to syndromes of psychopathology via videotapes, audiotapes, and direct clinical interviews.

Prerequisite: Psychology 2040.

[Psychology 2480. Human Neuropsychology/Neuroanatomy: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 4335
William P. Milberg (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the anatomical structure of the human brain with an emphasis on neuropsychological correlates and the cortical representation of higher order cognitive functions. Consists of a gross brain dissection laboratory followed by discussions of descriptive and theoretical aspects of clinical neuropsychological phenomena.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Preference to graduate students who have completed Psychology 2010; if space is available, qualified undergraduates who have taken Biological Sciences 25 or 80 may enroll with permission of instructor.

Psychology 2482. Neuropsychological Assessment
Catalog Number: 3669 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
William P. Milberg (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., 4:30–6:30. EXAM GROUP: 18
Introduction to the theory and technique of assessing higher mental functions in brain-damaged patients. Topics include a comparison of currently available test batteries, clinical localization of cortical functions, and behavioral neurology.

Note: Preference to graduate students who have completed Psychology 2010 and Psychology 2480; if space is available, qualified undergraduates who have taken Biological Sciences 25 or 80 may enroll with permission of instructor.

Prerequisite: Psychology 2010; *Psychology 2480 recommended.

Psychology 2500. Advanced Social Psychology
Catalog Number: 5094
Daniel M. Wegner
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Advanced survey of classic and current research and theory in social psychology, including self, social cognition, attitudes, social influence, altruism and aggression, prejudice and discrimination, close relationships, and group dynamics.
Note: Seniors may enroll with permission of instructor.

Psychology 2525. Emotion: Social and Neuroscience Perspectives
Catalog Number: 5594 Enrollment: Limited to 15. This course will examine social and neuroscience perspectives on emotion,
Mahzarin R. Banaji and Nalini Ambady
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course will examine social and neuroscience perspectives on emotion, with a focus on recent advances.

Psychology 2530r. Mental Control: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 2364
Daniel M. Wegner
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 5, 6
Note: Open only to graduate students and undergraduates involved in research in the instructor’s laboratory.

[Psychology 2551. Themes and Controversies in Social Cognition: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 3829 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Daniel T. Gilbert
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores theory and research on cognitive processes in social psychology. Rather than focusing on the details of particular methods and models, the seminar concentrates instead on scientific answers to “big questions,” such as: How does the mind construct reality? Can we, do we, and should we control our thoughts and actions? How do we gain knowledge of ourselves and others? What does it mean to be rational, and is this something to strive for? Can we avoid thinking in socially pernicious ways, and if not, can we be held responsible for the consequences of our thoughts? Can we fool ourselves about ourselves, and if so, is this a bad thing?
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Advanced undergraduates may enroll with permission of instructor.

Psychology 2560. Judgment and Decision Making
Catalog Number: 3807
Nicholas Epley
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Will investigate the mechanisms used to make judgments under uncertainty and what these mechanisms suggest about the accuracy of everyday human judgment. Topics will include judgmental heuristics, egocentrism, prediction and recollection, attribution, and metacognition.

*Psychology 2580r. Affective Forecasting: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 4262
Daniel T. Gilbert
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: M., 10:30–12; Spring: Th., 3:30–5. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 3, 4; Spring: 17, 18
Note: Open to graduate students only.

*Psychology 2630. Social Behavior in Organizations: Seminar
Catalog Number: 0991 Enrollment: Limited.
J. Richard Hackman
Half course (fall term). Th., 12–1:30. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15
The social psychology of organizations. Topics include how groups and organizations affect individual members and vice versa; interpersonal and group processes; work team effectiveness; power and political dynamics in organizations; intergroup relations; contextual influences on behavior in organizations; group and organizational leadership.
Note: Open to doctoral students only. Students are also expected to attend the lectures of Psychology 1501.

Psychology 2650. Behavioral Approaches to Decision Making and Negotiation
Catalog Number: 7147
Max H. Bazerman
Half course (spring term). M., 3–6. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Provides a research overview of (1) the field of behavioral decision making and (2) decision analytic perspectives to negotiation. A core focus of the course will be the individual as a less-than-perfect decision maker. On the decision-making side, we will start with the concept of bounded rationality, continue with early research on decision biases, and assess the current state of research on human decision making. On the negotiation side, we will develop a behavioral decision perspective to negotiation, and examine how the field is currently evolving.
Note: Open to advanced undergraduates with a strong research interest with permission of instructor.

[Psychology 2660r (formerly Psychology 3040r). Research Seminar in Mindfulness Theory]
Catalog Number: 4909
Ellen J. Langer
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Mindlessness/mindfulness theory as it is compared to relevant current theories in social and cognitive psychology and as explored in applied settings. Experimental research required.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Ellen J. Langer
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Theory and research address the following topics as they relate to decision making: the illusion of control, predictability, actual vs. perceived control, internal vs. external control, risk taking, and mindfulness theory. Topics on relinquishing control include learned helplessness, obedience to authority, and mindlessness theory. These topics are examined in a variety of settings, including medicine, education, business organizations, and art.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Qualified undergraduates welcome to enroll.

[Psychology 2670b. Decision Making and Perceived Control II]
Catalog Number: 3434
Ellen J. Langer
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The deeper theoretical and experimental issues pertaining to control and mindfulness, as defined in Psychology 2670a, are explored. Experimental research is required.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Qualified undergraduates welcome to enroll.
Prerequisite: Psychology 2670a.

Psychology 2680. Applied Social Psychology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 1596
Philip Stone
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines attempts to create useful social psychology, from WW-II projects and NTL T-groups to recent tipping-point strategies for social change, constructing narratives for healthy sense-making, and assessing implicit attitudes for market research.
Note: Open to undergraduates.

Psychology 2690r. Self and Social Judgment: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 7990
Nicholas Epley
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open only to graduate students and undergraduates conducting research in the instructor’s laboratory.

[Psychology 2700. Debates in the Practice of Good Psychological Science]
Catalog Number: 5986
Stephen M. Kosslyn and members of the Department
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Addresses differences in models of good science across areas of psychology. Faculty discussants present their philosophies of science, answering questions such as what constitutes science, an ideal research question, method, interpretation and dissemination of results.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Senior psychology concentrators welcome to enroll; consult instructors before the start of class.

[Psychology 2900. Professional Ethics]
Catalog Number: 6702 Enrollment: Limited to graduate students.
Pamela Kohl Keel
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines ethical principles and legal issues concerning applied psychology in general, and clinical psychology in particular. The ethical dilemmas faced by psychologists in a variety of roles will be discussed, with a particular emphasis on practicing psychologists and academicians. Key legal principles and precedent-setting legal decisions will be covered.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Cross-listed Courses

Catalog Number: 7858
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: M., 11–1.

Psychology 3020. Direction of Doctoral Dissertation
Catalog Number: 4492
Members of the Department and others listed under Psychology 3010 direct doctoral dissertations.

Psychology 3040. Clinical Psychology: Science and Practice
Catalog Number: 0309
Jill M. Hooley 1191 (on leave 2002-03)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to clinical psychology from a scientist-practitioner perspective. Focuses on how research-based approaches to the study and treatment of psychopathology can translate into high quality ethical care for patients with major psychiatric problems.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Required of and limited to doctoral students in the Clinical Psychology program.

*Psychology 3050r. Clinical Practicum
Catalog Number: 6299 Enrollment: Limited to students in the Clinical Psychology Program.
Jill M. Hooley 1191 (on leave 2002-03)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Students will work in clinical settings locally and, under supervision, will be directly involved in the treatment and clinical care of patients.

*Psychology 3060r. Multicultural Aspects of Clinical Treatment
Catalog Number: 7321 Enrollment: Limited to students in the Clinical Psychology Program.
Jill M. Hooley 1191 (on leave 2002-03) 1191
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Focuses on the clinical management of patients from different cultural backgrounds and provides supervised experience in the treatment of such patients.

*Psychology 3070 (formerly *Psychology 2465). Clinical Assessment and Treatment Practicum
Catalog Number: 4439 Enrollment: Limited to graduate students in Clinical Psychology.
Jill M. Hooley 1191 (on leave 2002-03) 1191 and members of the Department.
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Faculty interview psychiatric inpatients to demonstrate establishing treatment alliances, gathering histories, and initial assessment. Group discussion will consider how theoretical principles are applied to clinical work.

*Psychology 3330ar. Memory: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 0141
Daniel L. Schacter 2805

Catalog Number: 1754
Marc D. Hauser 3347, Daniel L. Schacter 2805 and members of the Department.
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Th., 12:30–2; Spring: Tu., 12:30–2 Spring: Hours to be arranged.
Researchers in CBB, including graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, and faculty, present and discuss current research in cognitive science. Topics include memory, language, vision, mental imagery, concepts, animal and infant cognition, and related areas.

*Psychology 3360r. Current Topics in Vision and Sensory Processes
Catalog Number: 0604
Ken Nakayama 2558
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Tu., 12–2. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15

*Psychology 3420r. Research Workshop in Social Psychology
Catalog Number: 7610
Philip Stone 2275 (spring term only), Daniel M. Wegner 3758 (fall term only)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: Tu., 12–2; Spring: Tu., 12–1:30.
Provides a forum for the presentation, discussion, and critique of current research in social psychology. Presenters include graduate students and faculty in the Social Psychology Program at Harvard, as well as visiting speakers. The course is required of first-year students enrolled in the Social Psychology Program. The course is closed to all but those students in the Fall, and is open to all graduate students enrolled in the Social Psychology Program in the Spring.

*Psychology 3450. Social Cognition and Social Neuroscience: Research Seminar
Catalog Number: 7865

Steven Kelman, Albert J. Weatherhead III & Richard W. Weatherhead Professor of Public Management (Kennedy School)
Sanjeev Khagram, Assistant Professor in Public Policy (Kennedy School)
David C. King, Associate Professor in Public Policy (Kennedy School)
The doctoral program in Public Policy trains qualified candidates to shape the direction of public policy research and to prepare the next generation of teachers for programs in public policy. It also qualifies individuals to perform high-level policy analysis and prepares them for positions of leadership in the public sector. Interested applicants should contact the John F. Kennedy School of Government for application material.

All PhD candidates must demonstrate mastery of five fields of study through a combination of course work and written and oral examinations. A sophisticated understanding of the core materials in the MPP program at the Kennedy School, and a demonstrated ability to apply analytic techniques to a field of policy are critical components of the faculty decision to recommend a student to the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences for the dissertation phase of study. Once admitted to the GSAS, a student is expected to work closely with a faculty adviser and dissertation committee. Most dissertations involve the application of analytic techniques to the solution of a substantive problem. A few methodological theses concentrate on developing new analytic techniques, their usefulness to be demonstrated through explicit application to a policy issue.

Introductory Courses

Primarily for Undergraduates

[Religion 11. World Religions: Diversity and Dialogue]
Catalog Number: 4811
Diana L. Eck
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the major religious traditions of the world through the writings and perspectives of 20th-century adherents of those traditions. What does it mean to be a Hindu, Buddhist, Jew, Christian, or Muslim today? How do people of faith think about the internal diversity of their own tradition and about the wider issue of religious diversity? Special attention given to the problem of pluralism and religious truth as viewed from the perspective of each religious tradition and to the particular issues of emerging pluralism in the United States.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3220.

Cross-listed Courses

[Foreign Cultures 12. Sources of Indian Civilization]
[Literature and Arts A-80. To Far Places: Literature of Journey and Quest]

General: Comparative and Methodological

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Religion 1001. Ethnographic Imaginations]
Catalog Number: 0156
Brian C. W. Palmer
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course provides a practical introduction to field research projects, from the initial conception to the final acts of writing. Readings include innovative ethnographies—particularly those dealing with religious subjects—as well as reflections on method. Attention is given to the difficulty of apprehending the beliefs and experiences of others, whether as a reverent insider or a skeptical outsider. Individual and small-group fieldwork projects promote an awareness of methodological choices and a habit of critical self-scrutiny. Writing exercises encourage experimentation in diverse ethnographic genres as well as the development of a dependable personal voice.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 3331.

Religion 1004. Religious Dimensions in Human Experience

Catalog Number: 9089
David L. Carrasco
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13

A critical introduction to major themes in the history of religions including religious experience, cosmic cities, ritual violence, charisma, ancestors and ghosts, the death of God(s), search for the soul, identity and ethnicity. A robust study of religious claims in Judeo-Christian, Islamic, Hindu traditions and Latin American and African American Religions by reading Toni Morrison, Tomas Eloy Martinez, Diana Eck, Mircea Eliade, Leila Ahmed and others.

Note: Offered at the Divinity School as HDS 3160.

[Religion 1007. Religion in Multicultural America]

Catalog Number: 3416
Diana L. Eck
Half course (fall term). . EXAM GROUP: 12

An exploration of the changing religious landscape of the US, looking at the history and dynamic interaction of the various religious traditions that now compose the American religious scene. Focuses on the religious life of Asian-Americans—Buddhist, Hindu, Sikh, Jain—and on the African-American and immigrant traditions of Islam. Throughout is a dual focus on how the various religious traditions are changing in the American environment and how America is changing in this new multireligious context.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3221.

[Religion 1008. Practicing Religion]

Catalog Number: 1834 Enrollment: Limited
Kimerer LaMothe
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

When studying religion, how important is it for a scholar to consider what people actually do? What is the relationship between what a person or community practices and what a person or community believes? Between religious ideas and religious actions? Or between sacred texts and ritual performance? This course investigates the recent explosion of theories on practice and performance as these theories are being used to illuminate questions in and about the field of religious studies. Readings may include: Freud, Foucault, Merleau-Ponty, Bordieu, de Certeau, Bell, Schechner, Butler, and others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Jointly offered by the Divinity School as 2446.
Prerequisite: Sophomore Tutorial or coursework in theory and method, philosophy, cultural studies, or the equivalent.
[Religion 1009. Designing a World Religion Museum]
Catalog Number: 4290
Lawrence E. Sullivan (Divinity School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

If you could design a World Religion Museum, how would you do it? Impassioned public debates surround the treatment of religion in museums, where research, education, and entertainment are displayed in revealing ways. This course asks how we learn and teach about religion in a plural society. As leisure time and access to “other” cultures grow, museums crystallize questions about the relationship of: art to religion, education to entertainment, object to community, self-representation to representation of the “other.” How do you reconcile the authority of social institutions with the ongoing creativity of living communities? What context best discloses the meaning of religious art: patronage, patrimony, property, or performance? Drawing on existing models and new proposals, students will develop defensible intellectual concepts and cultural content for a museum. This course will be offered in collaboration with the School of Design, the School of Education, and other Harvard graduate programs to produce model museums, replete with content and educational programs.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered by the Divinity School as 3323.

[Religion 1012a. Dreams and Dreaming]
Catalog Number: 5216
Kimberley C. Patton (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

The course will consider the religious role of the dream as initiatory experience, metaphor for aboriginal time, gateway to the other world, venue for the divine guide, revelation, healing event, “royal road” to the unconscious, occasion for quest or journey, epistemological paradox, and divinatory omen of the personal or collective future. Theories of dreams, the history of dream interpretation, and the relationship of dreams to both myth and ritual will be examined cross-culturally. The course will also evaluate current research in the psychology and neurobiology of dreams with respect to relevance for the theological and spiritual dimensions of human dreaming.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 3315A.

[Religion 1012b. Dreams and Dreaming]
Catalog Number: 5697
Kimberley C. Patton (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

A continuation of Religion 1012a.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 3315B.

Prerequisite: It is not necessary to have taken Religion 1012a/HDS 3315A to take Religion 1012b/HDS 3315B.

[Religion 1016. How to Understand Religion: Theory from Max Müller to Catherine Bell]
Catalog Number: 5017
Lawrence E. Sullivan (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 11 and an hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4

Surveying modern methods, this basic course reviews prominent theorists and schools concerned with the nature and function of religion in order to ground key questions about religion and culture. Is religion rooted primarily in a personal quest for meaning or in institutional control of society? Do the order and function of religion operate largely on an unconscious level, like the structures of spoken language? Do myth and symbol point to truth? How can such truths be known and expressed? Are religious texts the best guides to religious meaning, or do actions speak louder than words? Do the origins of religion still shape religious experience and practice today? Are religions similar or different? Is the human being fundamentally intrinsically religious?

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 3321.

Religion 1017, New Religious Movements and Society: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 8082
Helen Hardacre

Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

This conference course examines the emergence and development of new religious movements (NRMs) from the 19th century to the present, based on case studies from Europe, Africa, the United States, and Japan. Topics include interpretations of the founding of NRMs, conflicts between NRMs and the media, and the contemporary millenarianism.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 3810.

Religion 1019, Science and the Spiritual Quest
Catalog Number: 5596
Lawrence E. Sullivan (Divinity School)

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 10 with an additional hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 3

The course covers three broad areas in science and religion: Cosmological sciences (e.g., physics and astronomy); Life sciences (evolutionary biology, genetics, neurobiology); and Sciences of the human person, individuals, and groups. Sullivan will draw on multiple religious traditions and spiritual perspectives to focus on the spiritual quest in an age marked by science. Separate sections for undergraduates, master’s students and doctoral students. Assignments for doctoral and master’s students include historical and philosophical dimensions.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 3319

[Religion 1030. Texts, Writers, and Readers]
Catalog Number: 1164 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
David D. Hall

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

This readings and research colloquium studies the production and transmission of texts within different religious traditions (chiefly Christianity, but also Buddhism, Judaism, etc.); authority or authenticity in relation to the fluidity of transmission; and the meanings of “author” and of the mediating figure of “reader.” The primary focus is on written texts, though oral tradition will be considered as well.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 2389.

Religion 1045, Thinking About Thinking
Catalog Number: 6190 Enrollment: Limited to 250. 250 total: 50 law students, 50 graduate students from other Harvard schools, 140 undergraduates, and 10 fellows.
Harvey G. Cox, Jr. (Divinity School), Alan Dershowitz (Law School), and Stephen J. Gould
Half course (spring term). Tu., 3–5 and a weekly discussion to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
A discussion of selected topics with the aim of isolating, illustrating, and examining the distinctive modes of thinking in science, religion, philosophy and law. Topics vary from year to year and may include some of the following: line-drawing and classification; beginnings and endings of life; effects and side-effects; causality, evidence, explanation and contingency; free will; biological and genetic explanations of behavior; legal punishment; discrimination and affirmative action; race, ethnicity and nationality; parents and children; gender; contrast between religious and empirical beliefs; natural law; textual interpretation; realism and perspectivism; animal rights.
Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 2480 and by the Law School as 47200-31.

[Religion 1050. Multicultural Biblical Criticism: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 1219 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Elizabeth Schüssler Fiorenza
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The course will discuss both the multicultural character of biblical texts and multiculturalism as a new interpretive approach in biblical studies. African, Asian, Indigenous, Latin American, Aboriginal, American Indian, Latina/o-Hispanic, and Australian studies, as well as, ethnicity, feminist, womanist, black, queer, liberation theological, postcolonial, and third World studies, have begun to de-center the hegemonic paradigm of biblical studies. This emerging emancipatory paradigm of biblical criticism is interdisciplinary, multi-vocal, ideology critical, and multicultural. The course discussions will explore the theoretical and methodological challenges these multicultural voices from the margins bring to biblical interpretation and will study the works of leading scholars that are shaping this field of study.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 2556.

[Religion 1075. Jerusalem: An Interdisciplinary Inquiry]
Catalog Number: 3014
Harvey G. Cox, Jr. (Divinity School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A holy city for three faiths, the focus of poetry, song, legend, and ideology, and a continuing political flashpoint, the city of Jerusalem provides a rich case study in religious history, art and arquitecture, eschatology and the phenomenology of sacred space. It also provides a critical test for inter-faith dialogue and peace-making. Utilizing a variety of disciplines, we will explore the meanings Jerusalem has had in the past and consider alternative solutions to current questions about its future.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 2505.

  - Catalog Number: 5630 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
  - Kimberley C. Patton (Divinity School)
  - Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Recent research has highlighted dimensions in the religious history of Greece generally neglected in past critical trajectories: e.g., magic; talismanic and apotropaic beliefs and practices; miasma and catharsis; the use of curse tablets and binding spells; lamentation; the semiotic values of cloth, tapestry, and other women’s handwork; the multifaceted role of sacred images in cult and society; social aspects of sanctuaries; dream, time, and the popular construction of evil.

The seminar will offer an intensive survey of important work on these “new” topics in ancient Greece.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3815.

Prerequisite: No language prerequisite; some background in ancient Greek religion preferred.

[Religion 1427. The Origins of Gnosticism and the Identity of Christianity]
Catalog Number: 3574
Karen L. King (Divinity School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Over fifty years have passed since the discovery of the “Nag Hammadi Library” in 1945. Three years ago, publication of critical editions of the full corpus was completed. Now the task of assessing the meaning and significance of these and related materials is beginning in earnest. This course will introduce students to critical issues concerning the identity of Christianity, including the problem of the origins and definition of “Gnosticism” (if such a thing exists), describing the diversity of ancient Christianities, defining orthodoxy and heresy, and discussing practices of syncretism and discourse of anti-syncretism. It will also introduce students to the analysis of select primary literature, including The Gospel of Thomas, The Gospel of Mary, The Gospel of Truth, The Apocryphon of John, and The Hypostasis of the Archons.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 1700.
Prerequisite: Introduction to the New Testament or History of Ancient Christianity, or the equivalent.
[Religion 1431. Introduction to Patristic Theology: The Cappadocians]

Catalog Number: 4279
Nicholas P. Constas (Divinity School)
_Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged._

This course is an introduction to patristic theology through the work of Basil of Caesarea, Gregory Nazianzus, and Gregory of Nyssa. From the eastern province of Cappadocia, these fourth-century thinkers are among the most important theologians of Christian antiquity. Their major works will be studied in English translation and organized around the following themes: 1) Trinitarian theology and the ontology of personhood; 2) creation and cosmology; 3) anthropology, gender, and eschatology; and 4) asceticism and spirituality.
_Note:_ Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered by the Divinity School as 2581.

[Religion 1432. Theology of the Icon]

Catalog Number: 2091
Nicholas P. Constas (Divinity School)
_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._

Historical and systematic introduction to the icon as both theological category and liturgical/devotional artifact through lectures, readings, slides, and museum visits. The history of the icon will be traced from Greco-Roman Egypt to the pop-icon of Andy Warhol, with special attention to medieval icons and their viewers. Theological themes include creation and incarnation, modes of presence and relation, the production of sacred space and perspective, and the role of women in the struggle against Byzantine Iconoclasm. Ancient sources range from John of Damascus, Theodore the Studite, and iconophile hagiography, to the proceedings of the Seventh Ecumenical Council. Modern theologies of the icon will also be surveyed through the work of Florensky, Evdokimov, and Lossky, along with Levinas’ conceptualization of the face and Marion’s distinction between the icon and the idol.
_Note:_ Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered by the Divinity School as 2582.

Religion 1489. Contemporary Interpretations of Jesus

Catalog Number: 6437
Harvey G. Cox, Jr. (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9

Beginning with the narratives of the life of Jesus in the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, and Luke), this course covers four current efforts to reclaim his significance: 1) the new search for the “historical Jesus,” especially the Jesus Seminar and its critics; 2) emerging Asian, African, and Latin-American Christian views of Jesus; 3) recent interpretations of Jesus in such non-Christian faiths as Judaism, Islam, Buddhism, and Hinduism; and 4) images of Jesus in music, film, and literature.

Note: Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2711.

Religion 1490. Feminist Theology as Systematics: A Critical Survey

Catalog Number: 3223
Sarah Coakley (Divinity School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

This course surveys some of the best work on feminism and Christianity to date, and analyzes its effect on the contemporary task of systematic theology. A course suitable for both those with no previous knowledge of feminist theology, and for those with a good background in this field, the early lectures give some telling examples of how feminist insights have shifted the ground of discussion in biblical exegesis, in patristics, and in medieval church history and spirituality. We shall also look briefly at the construction of ideas of “femininity” in Enlightenment philosophy and theology, which provides the historical backdrop against which a range of contemporary feminist theologies (both Christian and post-Christian) may be discussed and analyzed in later lectures.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2436.

Religion 1491. Themes in Christian “Spirituality”: Theories of Prayer, Self and Gender

Catalog Number: 3824
Sarah Coakley (Divinity School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

“Spirituality” and “mysticism” are both relatively modern words; we shall start by peeling back some misunderstandings that may attend them. Thereafter, the course will be strongly text-based. We shall begin by comparing Jesus on “prayer” and Plato on “contemplation,” and move from there to a number of distinctive theories of “prayer,” “meditation,” and “contemplation” in the Christian tradition (both East and West), and analyze how the discussion of prayer-practice is interwoven with presumptions about the nature of the (gendered) self. We shall be especially concerned with the way the Platonic and neo-Platonic traditions have been assimilated into Christian “spirituality.”

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2439.
Religion 1492. Introduction to Christian Theology
Catalog Number: 2161
Sarah Coakley (Divinity School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4

[Religion 2426. Editing Greek Christian Literature: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 9005
François Bovon (Divinity School) and John Duffy
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This seminar, led jointly by François Bovon and John Duffy of the FAS Classics Department, will explore the several step preparation of a scholarly text edition. The introductory sessions will focus on heuristic questions: how to track down manuscripts of authors and individual works; how to find library catalogs and descriptions; how to obtain copies of documents. The rest of the course will be devoted to a hands-on exercise in editing and translating one or more short Greek Christian texts, particularly apocryphal texts. Intended as a sequel to Rel. 1426/HDS 1270.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered by Divinity School as 1874.
Prerequisite: Religion 1426, HDS 1270, a course in Greek Paleography, and a strong background in Greek.

Catalog Number: 5810 Enrollment: Limited to 20.

Catalog Number: 6674
Harvey G. Cox, Jr. (Divinity School)
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Readings in current theology by and about Pentecostalism, focused especially on its rapid growth in the non-western world. The seminar will include participant observation in some immigrant congregations. Reading knowledge of Spanish, Portuguese or Korean recommended, but not required.
Note: Religion 2479 will be offered by the Divinity School as 2500.
Prerequisite: Some previous work in Pentecostalism.

Catalog Number: 5297 Enrollment: Limited to 30.
Sarah Coakley (Divinity School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This course will examine the notion of “religious experience” as it has been constructed and utilized in different schools of 20th-century philosophy of religion, and then subject the notion to feminist analysis. We shall ask to what philosophical purposes “religious experience” has been put: as a justificatory tool in evidential arguments for theism, as an organizing concept for certain intense psychological states, or as a means for counting theistic belief as “properly basic.” We shall also consider philosophical reasons for being suspicious of evidential appeals to discrete “religious experiences.” Drawing on recent work in feminist epistemology, as well as a number of test cases from the history of “female mysticism,” we shall expose the gender dimensions of these various philosophical accounts of intimacy with the divine.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 2647.
Prerequisite: Graduate work in philosophy and theology.

Religion 2492. Christology: Ancient, Modern, and Contemporary: Seminar
Catalog Number: 8450 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Sarah Coakley (Divinity School)
Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
This seminar will offer: an examination of formative christological developments in the patristic period, focusing on interpretational problems with the Definition of Chalcedon (451); an analysis of the fate of Antiochene/Alexandrian emphases in christology including a discussion of various understandings of “communications of idiom” in Greek, Scholastic, and Protestant thought; consideration of post-Enlightenment and contemporary assessments of Chalcedonianism including recent feminist and liberationist reappraisals.

Note: Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2643.
Prerequisite: Graduate work in theology or philosophy.

Catalog Number: 6295
David Lamberth (Divinity School) 3714 and the members of the Faculty
Half course (throughout the year). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: Fall: 8, 9
In the fall the weekly colloquium will focus on the thought of William James. In the spring bi-weekly meetings will be used to discuss the work in progress of doctoral candidates writing dissertations, faculty, and occasionally invited guests.

Note: This colloquium is a central vehicle of doctoral education in theology, and is composed of all faculty members, doctoral candidates and ThM students in the Theology Department. (Doctoral students in related fields should consult with the department chair concerning participation.) Central figures and recurrent issues in theology and philosophy of religion are considered. Participation in the colloquium is required of all theology doctoral candidates (including affiliated doctoral candidates) while in residence, with the exception of the semester in which they write General Examinations. Requirements for written work may differ for pre- and post-Generals students. Jointly offered with the Divinity School as 2696.

Modern Western
For Undergraduates and Graduates

Catalog Number: 4269
Kimerer LaMothe
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Why religion? Why does religion persist in contemporary western civilization where what counts as “truth” and “knowledge” is largely determined by scientific rationality? This course reads classic texts in modern western theology and philosophy written by Christian and Jewish authors in response to the question: what is religious experience and what does it offer human life? Responses considered range from “nothing,” mere illusion, and patriarchal oppression, to prophetic insight, healing power, existential meaning, indescribable passion and infinite love. Readings may include: Kierkegaard, Marx, Freud, M.B. Eddy, Buber, Tillich, Daly, Levinas, and Kristeva.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Religion 1525. Radical Movements in Modern America]
Catalog Number: 3935
David D. Hall
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A survey and close analysis of radical movements in 20th-century America, with particular attention to the problem of means and ends as it has been posed within the Old Left (Socialist and Communist) and the New (Students for a Democratic Society), within movements to confront war and racism (pacifism, nonviolence, and SNCC), and within anarchist and Christian perfectionist communities (e.g., the Catholic Workers).
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2302.

[Religion 1526. Religion in America from c. 1865 to the 1970s]
Catalog Number: 8025
Robert A. Orsi (Divinity)
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 9 and one hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 2
A survey of the history of American religions from the end of the Civil War to the 1970s. Topics include the religious worlds of immigrants and migrants (including the “new immigrations” of the mid-1960s); religion and race; the emergence of new religious idioms (such as Pentecostalism) and the reformulation of more established traditions in response to the challenges and conditions of modern culture (e.g., the changing intellectual landscape of American Catholicism in the 1960s), religious constructions of important social and moral issues (e.g., abortion and workers’ rights), the religious response to urbanization and suburbanization, and religion and gender.
Note: Jointly offered by the Divinity School as 2304.

[Religion 1528. Globalization and Human Values: Envisioning World Community]
Catalog Number: 4705
Brian C. W. Palmer
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Are we witnessing the emergence of a world community? How and by whom are pan-human solidarities imagined, symbolized, and contested? In this course, we look for the seedlings of a global civil religion in such practices as war-crimes tribunals, U.N. women’s conferences, human-rights declarations, Doctors Without Borders, interreligious dialogues, CNN broadcasts, Internet forums, McDonaldization, and Hollywood myth-making. The course draws upon ethnographic and cinematic accounts—as well as in-class interviews with relevant experts—to understand the history of worldwide convergences, the rites and identities of today’s global citizens, and the possibilities for utopian or dystopian futures.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 3332.
Religion 1529. Personal Choice and Global Transformation
Catalog Number: 2866
Brian C. W. Palmer
Half course (fall term). M., W., at 3 and a discussion hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 8
This is a course for students seeking to have an impact as ethically serious global citizens. How do personal choices about consumption, careers and child-rearing affect a wider world? Has globalization created new contexts for humanitarian service and political engagement? What does it mean to live deliberately, to forge a conscientious religious or secular lifestyle? What guidance and what warnings do religious communities offer to the would-be world-shaker? The course draws upon practical case studies to explore the collective consequences of individual decisions. What are the possibilities for women and men to “make a difference”?
Note: Lectures are supplemented by films, biographical explorations, and in-class interviews with relevant experts. Jointly offered with the Divinity School as 3333.

Religion 1530r. Religious Values and Cultural Conflict: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6858 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Harvey G. Cox, Jr. (Divinity School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
By reading a number of recent novels and reflecting on both their content and their sometimes controversial reception this course will examine how conflicting theological, cultural, and ethical values find expression. The works considered are Charming Billy by Alice McDermott, The God of Small Things by Arundhati Roy, The Beauty of the Lilies by John Updike, Children of Men by P.D. James, Satanic Verses by Salmon Rushdie, Left Behind by Tim LaHaye and Jerry B. Jenkins, Jazz by Toni Morrison, and Lying Awake by Mark Salzman.
Note: Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2504.

Religion 1531. Christianity and Democracy
Catalog Number: 9071
Elisabeth Schüessler Fiorenza (Divinity School), Ronald Thiemann (Divinity School), and Cornel West
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
An examination of the interaction between Christianity and modern political democracies and political theories. The course will cover topics such as: the separation of church and state; the relation of democratic government to the market economy; the struggle for democracy in the face of nationalism and racism; the struggle for women’s rights; the role of social movements in democratic reform; and the spirituality of radical democracy. This course will also examine the tensions inherent in the relation between Christianity and democracy and will seek new visions for the theory and practice of both.
Note: Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2539.

Religion 1535. Theology and Power: Seminar
Catalog Number: 8857 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Francis Fiorenza (Divinity School)
Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
An exploration of the diverse understandings of power within classical and recent social and theological thought. Transitions in the understanding of power with contemporary critical theory, feminist theology, and post-colonial theory will be discussed. Among the authors described: Weber, Lukes, Dahl, Foucault, Arendt, Habermas, Tillich, Rahner, Boff, West, Cobb, Butler, and Young.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 2633.

[Religion 1536. Theology and Culture]

Catalog Number: 1908 Enrollment: Limited to 30.

Francis Fiorenza (Divinity School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

This course will discuss the various modern theological interpretations of the relation between religion and culture in general and Christianity and culture in particular. The lectures and discussion will deal with the following authors: Weber, Troeltsch, Niebuhr, Barth, Tillich, Bellah, Berger, Habermas, Moltmann, Metz, Segundo, West.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered by the Divinity School as 2630.

[Religion 1539. Nietzsche and Religion ]

Catalog Number: 8102 Enrollment: Limited.

Kimerer LaMothe

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

How are we to understand the cry of Nietzsche’s madman: “God is dead. God remains dead. And we have killed him”? This course conducts close readings of Nietzsche’s texts with an eye to understanding his critique of religion—Christianity in particular—and the relationship of this critique to other ideas within his work, including his notions of eternal recurrence, the will to power, the affirmation of life, and the transvaluation of all values. This course will allow students to interrogate popular interpretations of Nietzsche as a nihilist, misogynist, relativist elitist, and decide for themselves why he has proved such a compelling and provocative voice in western culture since his death in 1900.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Coursework in philosophy or theology.

[Religion 1541. Kant and Kierkegaard ]

Catalog Number: 7694 Enrollment: Limited to 12.

David Lamberth (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

A close reading of selected major works of Kant and Kierkegaard. The seminar will focus on issues such as the nature and limits of reason, the concepts of freedom and morality, and the relationship between reason and faith.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered by the Divinity School as 2670.

[Religion 1543. Modern Theology I: Modern Theology and the Critique of Religion]

Catalog Number: 6386

David Lamberth (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

In this course we will consider the formative development of modern theology (primarily continental) in the context of the principal philosophical and social critiques of religion in the 19th century. Topics will include human nature and society, the developing understanding of Religion, the relationship of humanity to the divine, the possibility and character of religious knowledge, and the impact of developing understandings of the social, of history, and of historicity. Authors considered may include Kant, Schleiermacher, Hegel, Feuerbach, Marx, Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Harnack, Troeltsch, and Rauschenbusch.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2431.

Prerequisite: Previous work in Theology or Philosophy.

[Religion 1547. Modern Theology II: Modern Theology and the Ends of Modernity]
Catalog Number: 7008
David Lamberth (Divinity School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A thematic continuation of 1543, this course will consider developments within 20th century modern theology, focusing in particular on the internalization and development of forms of critique that were principally external to theology and religion in the 19th century. Beginning with the socially critical developments in kerygmatic theology, we will analyze and trace the influence of critical thought within theology through the 20th century, paying particular attention in the second half of the course to the emergence of feminist and black liberation theologies in the United States. In the final weeks we will evaluate selected developments in postmodern thought in light of this tradition of theological reflection.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2433.

Prerequisite: 2431 or the equivalent.

[Religion 1548. Religion and the Performing Arts: The Case of American Modern Dance: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 3603 Enrollment: Limited to 15. Preference given to concentrators.
Kimerer LaMothe
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Can categories of religious studies—such as ritual, practice, play, performance—help us understand the impact of contemporary performing arts on artists and audiences alike? What is the relationship between religion and art? Between the sacred and the beautiful? Beginning with an exploration of some theoretical perspectives on religion and the performing arts (e.g., Nietzsche, Kandinsky, Artaud; the Turners, Schechner, Blacking, and Hanna), this seminar will examine the case of American modern dance. We will examine claims made for dance by artists, critics, and scholars alike, and assess the usefulness of religious studies in explaining the power of nonverbal aesthetic experience.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Field trips dependent on local concert schedules. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2445.

Prerequisite: One course in the modern West.

[Religion 1549. Religion and Art in the Twentieth Century]
Catalog Number: 6267 Enrollment: Limited.
Kimerer LaMothe
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
How are religion and art related—or are they? This course investigates conceptions of the relationship between religion and art proposed by twentieth-century philosophers, artists, and scholars of religion. This course focuses on how conceptions of this relationship evolve in the context of the shift from a modern to a postmodern condition, in particular as played out in the visual and performing arts. While this course is primarily a study of ideas about religion and art, examples of the art and religion in question will be incorporated into class discussions. Readings may include works by: Adorno, van der Leeuw, Heidegger, Langer, Artaud, Graham, Benjamin, Beaudrillard, Kristeva, Mark C. Taylor, and others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Coursework in theory, cultural studies, religious studies, philosophy, or art history.

Cross-listed Courses

Primarily for Graduates

Religion 2501. The Religious History of American Women: Seminar

Catalog Number: 6508 Enrollment: Limited to 16.

---

Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

Focuses on the relationship between concepts of piety and concepts of femininity in the development of American culture. Assesses both the role of gender in shaping American religious history and the impact of religion on gender norms. Women’s experience will be explored in Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish, and North American groups, as well as among theologically and institutionally innovative groups such as in Shakerism and Christian Science.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 2325.

Prerequisite: Some previous work in American religious history.

Religion 2515. Church and World: A Theological and Political Assessment: Seminar

Catalog Number: 9233

J. Bryan Hehir (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18

This seminar will analyze in ecumenical perspective the relationship of the church to the world in its biblical, theological and moral dimensions. Theological perspectives drawn from classical sources (Augustine, Aquinas, Luther, Calvin) and contemporary theologians (Congar, Rahner, R. Niebuhr, Hauerwas) will be considered in light of the historical-theological perspective of Troeltsch’s Social Teaching of the Christian Churches and in light of literature from political and social science.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 2857.

Religion 2540. Circumscribing a Discipline: Theology and the Philosophy of Religion: Seminar

Catalog Number: 4141 Enrollment: Limited to 12.

David Lamberth (Divinity School)

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

In the contemporary academy, philosophy of religion is regularly treated as a separate enterprise from theological study. This seminar will be concerned with two central questions, one genealogical and the other critical and conceptual: 1) What are the conditions (conceptual, academic, historical) under which the philosophy of religion emerged as its own field in the development of Western thought? and 2) To what extent is it justifiable and valuable from theological or philosophical perspectives to consider the philosophy of religion as separate from theology (and vice versa)? Readings will include pivotal primary texts as well as historical treatments, and will consider both European and American developments. Seminar participants will be expected to conduct primary research on some aspect of the seminar topic, and to present their work to the seminar at the end of the term.

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered by the Divinity School as 2672.
Prerequisite: Advanced work in the theology or philosophy of religion.

Religion 2545. Religion and Social Theory: Seminar

Catalog Number: 2728
David Little (Divinity School)
Half course (spring term). Th., 9–11. EXAM GROUP: 11, 12
The special focus of this course will be the writings of Max Weber together with the reactions of his critics and defenders. Relevance to current topics of concern, such as “secularization,” “religious nationalism,” and “cultural relativism” will be examined. Some attention will be devoted to the “theoretical reference points” of these thinkers, such as Marx, Nietzsche, and Dilthey.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 2813.

Religion 2550. Women and Religion in Contemporary America: Seminar

Catalog Number: 8927
Enrollment: Limited.
---
Half course (spring term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Post World War II America has witnessed dramatic changes in the roles and experience of women, as well as significant shifts in the role of religion in shaping public values, personal identity, and group affiliations. This course will examine the points of intersection between these two fundamental shifts in American social life across a spectrum of religious communities. We will survey responses to the changing roles of women both among groups that have embraced feminism and among those that view feminism as antithetical to religious values. We will explore debates and concerns leading to the ordination of women, the revision of prayer books, liturgies, language and policies, as well as debates and initiatives leading to the reassertion of traditional gender roles or to new models of family based on male headship.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 2328.

Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

Religion 3505hf. Colloquium in American Religious History

Catalog Number: 6445
Enrollment: Limited to 25.
David D. Hall 2510 and William R. Hutchison (Divinity School) 4061 (on leave fall term)
Half course (throughout the year). Alternate Tu., 7:30–9:30 p.m.
Presentation and discussion of the research of doctoral candidates in American religious history.

Note: Open, with instructor’s permission, to doctoral students in other fields of religious studies or American studies. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 2390.

Catalog Number: 2741 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Ali S. Asani
Half course (fall term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
A survey of Islamic civilization in the Indian subcontinent focusing on an exploration of Islamic identity. Issues and themes salient to Islamic identity considered within religious and political contexts, as well as the broader context of South Asian culture as expressed in language, literature, and the arts. Also examines the uses of the term “Islamic” in various pre-modern and modern discourses in South Asia.
Note: Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3625.
Prerequisite: Introductory course in Islam or equivalent.

[Religion 1590. Issues in Feminism and Islam: A Historical Overview]
Catalog Number: 9891
Leila Ahmed (Divinity School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
This course will explore some of the major issues and debates in relation to feminism and women in Islam in historical overview from a post-colonial perspective. Thus, as we explore these issues and debates, we will also be examining the methods, tools and assumptions forming the grounds of our studies, including in particular issues of Orientalism, colonialism and feminism in the construction of the religions/cultures of Others. Subsequent topics include an examination of some contemporary feminist readings of early Islam and exploration of women in Sufism and lived religion.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Offered by the Divinity School as 2562/3604.

Religion 1700. Introduction to Buddhism
Catalog Number: 3486
Karen Anne Derris

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10 and one hour to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12
This course will consider the variety of ways that Buddhists have defined, and engaged with the “three jewels” of Buddhism: the Buddha, the Dharma (the teaching), and the Sangha (the Buddhist community). Using this framework we will examine doctrine, practice, and culture in different parts of the Buddhist world in a variety of historical periods and consider the many ways people have lived and continue to live as Buddhists.

Note: Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3231.

Religion 1708. Issues in Buddhist Philosophy
Catalog Number: 8754 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Janet Gyatso (Divinity School)

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
A critical examination of key issues in Indian Mahayana Buddhist philosophy. Readings in Madhyamika, Yogacara, and epistemological traditions. The class will also consider two later Asian appropriations of Indic philosophical concepts: a set of Tibetan writings on special forms of memory; and a modern Japanese attempt to write a philosophy of the body, which draws together meditation theory with Japanese artistic practices and key notions from western continental thinkers.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as HDS 3889.

Prerequisite: Some knowledge of Buddhist traditions is preferrable.

Religion 1710. Buddhist Ethics: Seminar
Catalog Number: 8878
Janet Gyatso (Divinity School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An exploration of selected classic doctrinal texts and contemporary literary and autobiographical writings from several Buddhist traditions. In each instance the task will be to discern the bases of key ethical principles, with particular attention to the definition of the self, the grounds for human relationships, and the question of why one cares for others. Some works of contemporary western philosophical ethics will also be read in order to elaborate further distinctions and to consider the relevance of the Buddhist material for contemporary ethical issues.

Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 3888.
Religion 1712. Readings in Tibetan: Medical and Monastic Writings
Catalog Number: 8995
Janet Gyatso (Divinity School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 2. EXAM GROUP: 16
A close reading of sections of the root Tibetan medical text and early commentaries that pertain to the relation of sex to gender and other issues about bodily practice and function. This will be followed by the study of monastic writings with comparable or contrasting concerns as found in Tibetan commentaries on the Vinaya from the same period.
Note: Offered by the Divinity School as 3567.
Prerequisite: Some reading knowledge of classical Tibetan required.

[Religion 1724. The Genre of Biographical Narrative in Buddhist South and Southeast Asia: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 2219 Enrollment: Limited to 15. Preference to undergraduate concentrators.
Karen Anne Derris
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The genre of biographical narrative is central to the ritual, didactic, and ethical life of Buddhists. These compelling stories offer their audiences—both historical and present day readers—critical resources for understanding and interpreting the Buddhist world. This seminar will consist of a close reading of a broad range of biographical literature from South and Southeast Asia, including biographies of the Buddha and bodhisattvas, of monks, nuns, laity, even biographies of images and relics. How do the representations of life stories figure in conceptions of ethical and historical ideals? What is the relationship between the biographical genre and Buddhist notions of history as exemplified in Buddhist chronicles? How have the responses of diverse readers of these texts shaped their sense of self and their relationships to others?
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Prior coursework in Buddhist studies recommended.

[Religion 1725. Buddhism and Social Change: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 4517 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Christopher S. Queen
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A survey of Buddhist social teachings, this course examines the evolution of central concepts (impermanence, selflessness, suffering), ethical styles (discipline, virtue, altruism, engagement), and themes (peace, justice, gender, ecology) in Asia and the West. Representative figures and movements in the rise of socially engaged Buddhism since the 19th century will be considered.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3853.
Prerequisite: Previous study of Buddhism desirable.

Religion 1726. Buddhism in America: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4292 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Christopher S. Queen
Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
The transmission of Buddhist teachings and institutions to the West. A survey of Buddhist thinkers and movements since the 19th century, with primary attention to America: immigrant Buddhist communities, Transcendentalists and Theosophists, Pragmatist and Process philosophers, the “beat” generation, and recent Zen, Tibetan, and Theravada developments. Topics for discussion and research include tradition and transformation, socially engaged Buddhism and environmentalism, feminism, peace activism, and the dialogue with other faiths. Note: Separate requirements for undergraduate and graduate students. Knowledge of Asian Buddhism is desirable. Offered jointly with the Divinity School as 3851.

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures

Stanley Hoffmann, Paul and Catherine Buttenwieser University Professor

The curriculum in Romance Languages and Literatures includes courses in Catalán, French, Italian, Portuguese, and Spanish, as well as Latin American Studies and Romance Studies, and is structured in four large groupings: 1) Letters (A-C) designate elementary and early intermediate courses covering the first four semesters of language study; 2) Numbers 20-99 indicate courses in language, literature, and culture designed primarily for undergraduates. Numbers 20-59 give special attention to the development of language skills in a variety of literary and cultural contexts. Within this group, the first digit indicates the year of language study (i.e., 35 is third year). Courses numbered 40-59 offer the most advanced level of language study and are also open to graduate students. Courses 70-79 are introductory surveys of literature. Those numbered 90-99 include tutorials for concentrators and a series of undergraduate seminars, limited to 15 students, which offer introduction to the specialized study of literature. Numbers of courses above 59 do not reflect a required level of language proficiency. 3) 100-level courses are offered to undergraduates and graduate students; 4) 200-level courses, chiefly seminars, are offered primarily to graduate students.

For courses in general and comparative Romance literature, see listings of the Department of Comparative Literature.

No language courses may be taken pass/fail. Graduate students in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences may take language courses (numbered A-52) for a grade of SAT/UNSAT, with permission of the instructor. All Romance language courses, 100-level and above, may be taken Pass/Fail without the instructor’s signature unless otherwise noted. Undergraduates are free to enroll in 200-level graduate courses without the instructor’s signature unless otherwise noted. No auditors are allowed in lettered language courses or in courses numbered 20 to 59. No one may enter A level courses after the eighth meeting of the class, Bab or Dab classes after the first meeting, or a C or 20 level course after the sixth meeting.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[French 100. History of the French Language]
Catalog Number: 4197
Present the evolution of French from Latin to modern French, introduces basic phonology and morphology, discusses the various policies which attempted to rule the use of French and its dialects from the 9th century to the present.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French. Required of all graduate students in French.

[French 102. Introduction to Medieval Literature and Old French]

Catalog Number: 9929

Virginie Greene

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Provides students with linguistic, literary and cultural means of exploring French medieval literature. We will study verse and prose works from the 12th to the 15th century, using both editions in Old French and translations in modern French.

Note: Expected to be omitted in 2002–03. Expected to be given in 2003–04. Conducted in French.

[French 104. The Autumn of the Middle Ages]

Catalog Number: 7978

Virginie Greene

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

“So violent and motley was life, that it bore the mixed smell of blood and of roses” (Johan Huizinga, 1924). We will explore 14th- and 15th-century French literature not only in search of “blood and roses” esthetics, but also in questioning the relations between faith and reason, princes and poets, melancholy and enjoyment, fiction and reality. We will read texts by well-known authors such as François Villon, Jean Froissart, Philippe de Commynes, Christine de Pizan, and texts by less-known ones such as Antonine de La Sale, René d’Anjou, La Tour Landry.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

French 111. Genre and the Problem of Authority in Medieval French Literature

Catalog Number: 8276

Kevin Brownlee (University of Pennsylvania)

Half course (spring term). F., 9–12. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3, 4

Course considers literary genre as process and textual authority as problem. Special attention is given to questions of authorial voice, gender representation, and historico-political context. We will study texts from the 11th to the 15th centuries, in which new generic forms are invented and transformed: chanson de geste, courtly romance, lyric, drama, theater, and autobiography. Readings include the Chanson de Roland, Chretien de Troye’s Lancelot, Aucassin et Nicolette, Adam de la Halle’s Jeu de Robin et Marion, and Christine de Pizan’s Jehanne d’Arc.

[French 119. The French 17th Century: A Century of Moralists]

Catalog Number: 9288

Alexia Elisabeth Duc

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
More than any other period in French literature, the 17th century is preoccupied with the observation of the moeurs of its society, and the profession of moraliste becomes a common point between authors from various genres ranging from the theater to the novel and the formes brèves such as pensées, caractères, fables, maxims, etc. How can we explain such an appeal? What is the nature of this morale, and what vision does it offer of man, in a time of cultural, political and social transformations? Readings include La Mothe le Vayer, Sorel, Pascal, Molière, La Rochefoucauld, La Fontaine, Nicole, Racine, La Bruyère.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

French 121. The Text of the Renaissance
Catalog Number: 4006
Tom Conley

Half course (spring term). Tu., 11–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Studies printed writing of the Renaissance as creative form; includes readings of Rhétoriquers, Marot, Rabelais, arts poétiques, Ronsard, Pléiade and Baroque poetry, and personal essay: Hélisenne de Crenne, Montaigne, and d’Aubigné.

Note: Conducted in French.

[French 130. Literature and Cartography: History and Theory]
Catalog Number: 7252
Tom Conley

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Studies groundwork of a new field through comparative analysis of space, language, and locational imaging from late-medieval texts to the computer. Readings will extend into early modern print-culture (Rabelais, Finé, Thevet), the classical age (Descartes, Corneille, Sanson); the Enlightenment (Diderot, Cassini survey, Vaugondy); post-1789 (De Lisle, Balzac, Vidal de la Blache); the age of cinema (Clair, L’Herbier, Godard). Theory includes Certeau, Deleuze, Foucault, Jacob, Lefebvre.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

[French 131. From the Study to the Stage: Self, Identity and Writing in the 17th Century]
Catalog Number: 7385
Alexia Elisabeth Duc

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The argument of the course presents a counter-narrative to conventional histories of the emancipation of the individual beginning in the Renaissance and continuing steadily through the Enlightenment. In 17th-century France, the prevailing modes of constructing the self reflect a strong skepticism towards the very possibility of self-knowledge which leads to a reflection on the relationship between subjectivity and what is exterior to it but defines it; discourse, society, God. Readings start with Montaigne whose seminal enterprise sets the terms of the debate and follow with lyrical poetry (T. de Viau, St. Amant), theater (Corneille, Molière) moralist writing (La Rochefoucauld, Nicole, Pascal) and letters (Mme de Sévigné, Bussy-Rabutin).

Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Conducted in French.

[French 132a. 20th-Century French Fiction I: The Realist Mode]
Catalog Number: 4382
How has realism been interpreted by its major modern practitioners in French? Is realism in fiction a style, a genre, an ideology, a way of seeing, a way of reading? What is the relation between realism and history, politics, sexual politics, ethics? Discussions of works by Colette, Gide, Céline, Malraux, Sartre, Camus, Beauvoir, and others, as well as selected critical essays.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[French 132b. 20th-Century French Fiction II: The Experimental Mode]
Catalog Number: 1890
Susan R. Suleiman
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
What are some alternatives to (or subversions of) realism in fiction? We will try to answer that question by examining four major experimental currents or movements in 20th-century imaginative writing: Surrealism, the nouveau roman, the Oulipo, and écriture féminine. Discussion of works by Breton, Crevel, Bataille, Robbe-Grillet, Sarraute, Perec, Duras, Wittig, Cixous, as well as selected critical essays.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

French 133. Rise and Fall of the Hero in the 17th Century
Catalog Number: 2999
Alexia Elisabeth Duc
Half course (spring term). Tu., at 9, Tu., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3, 11, 12
17th-century literature reflects upon the lessons of Montaigne’s Essais and the notions of “dignitas” and “miseria hominis,” which we will explore in their constant dialectic. The fundamental question “What makes a hero?” can only be answered through an immersion in the main ethical, religious and philosophical currents of the “Grand Siècle.” Is heroism dead after the hero falls? Readings include Corneille, Descartes, Pascal, Molière, Racine and La Rochefoucauld.

Note: Conducted in French.

[French 136. Feminist Literary Criticisms]
Catalog Number: 3845
Alice Jardine
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Close readings of postwar French fiction and theory with emphasis on what is called “the feminine” in key psychoanalytic, philosophical, and literary feminist writings of the French poststructuralist tradition. What has been the legacy and impact of the last three decades of dialogue between French “theory” and feminist “practice” in the United States? Writings to be considered include Hélène Cixous, Marguerite Duras, Jeanne Hyvrard, Luce Irigaray, Julia Kristeva, and Monique Wittig as well as Gilles Deleuze, Jacques Derrida, and Jacques Lacan.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English. Readings in French.

Prerequisite: Excellent reading knowledge of French.

[French 139a (formerly French 139). The 18th Century: Self and Society]
Catalog Number: 2906
Christie McDonald
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An exploration of how the relationship between self and other, society and utopia, inaugurates a discourse on change from the second half of the 18th century through the French Revolution: Marivaux, Rousseau, Diderot, d’Alembert, Voltaire, Sade, Gouges, Beaumarchais, Condorcet.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in French.

[French 139b. The 18th Century: Ethical Dilemmas]
Catalog Number: 2223
Christie McDonald
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Questions how notions of personhood and otherness inhabit the emergent novel, exploring the way in which events and values are resisted or subsumed in literary discourse and the kind of social and political responsibility that accompanies it. Readings will be taken from the works of Charrière, Gouges, Laclos, Marivaux, Montesquieu, Rousseau, Sade, Voltaire, etc.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

French 165. Marcel Proust
Catalog Number: 4620
Christie McDonald
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
In Proust’s novel, À la recherche du temps perdu, questions of time and memory, truth and signification, literature and philosophy converge to ask: who am I? What does it mean to become a writer? Discussion of Proust’s novels and essays, as well as a number of critical texts.
Note: Conducted in French.

[French 167. Parisian Cityscapes]
Catalog Number: 7641
Verena A. Conley
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the rapid urbanization of Paris from World War II to the present by means of fiction, films and critical essays. Investigates how the Americanization of France, decolonization, immigration, globalization and the European Union continue to restructure the city with repercussions on its social, political, and artistic life (Allouache, Augé, Balibar, de Beauvoir, Beyala, Godard, Kassovitz, Maspero, Latour, Ross and others).
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

[French 175. Julia Kristeva: Introductions and Conclusions]
Catalog Number: 1888
Alice Jardine
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A textual and political introduction to one of the most important intellectuals of the 20th century as well as an attempt to draw some conclusions about the promises of her work for the future. Special attention will be paid to the question of gender and women in her writings.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English with readings in French.
Prerequisite: Excellent reading knowledge of French. Some background in French Poststructuralist theory would be helpful.

[French 180. 20th-Century French and Francophone Women Writers]
Catalog Number: 4566
Alice Jardine
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A consideration of some of the major novels by women writing in French from Colette to Djébar. Emphasis will be added to the literary, critical and political questions raised by the inclusion of women's cultural work into the canon.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English. Readings in French.

[French 182. Poetics and Politics: Contemporary French Theory and Culture]
Catalog Number: 0684
Verena A. Conley
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Focuses on the relation between cultural production and politics in the debate over the evolution of societies. Deals with cultural responses (theory, fiction and film) to unifying processes of global modernity. Readings include: Augé, Balibar, Cixous, Deleuze and Guattari, Derrida, Djébar, Godard, Virilio, and others.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

French 188. Women Francophone Writers
Catalog Number: 9922
Samba Diop
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Women writers of the Francophone world brought forth a style of writing referred to as l’écriture féminine and féministe. Their narratives project a new social vision based on the elucidation of problems that reflect the colonial and post-colonial world. Thus, there is a dynamic impulse predicated on the articulation of themes pertaining to societies where women are at the forefront in many areas; through the aid of narratives, we are given specific interpretations of topics: family, polygeny, modern/urban and rural life, education, marriage, the workplace, gender, race and ethnicity, etc. Authors include A. Andria, A. Sow Fall, M. Bâ, K. Bugul, C. Njuzi, H. Bassek, W. Liking, M. Rakotoson, (Africa and Madagascar); A. Djébar, F. Mernissi (Maghreb); M. Lacrosil, M.-T. Colimon, M. Condé (Antilles); M. Ndiaye, C. Beyala (France).
Note: Conducted in French.

Catalog Number: 5797
Pierre Nepveu (University of Montreal)
Half course (fall term). Tu., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Through the reading of significant literary texts (mostly novels, short stories, essays and some poems), and the occasional use of other media (films, audio-recordings), this course will examine the singular situation of French-Canadian culture and literature within a predominantly English-speaking North America. How did a literary and historical conscience take shape in such an environment? How did the French sources of that culture adapt to the New World, in the neighborhood of the New England Puritans and the British Loyalists of Upper Canada? What are the main features, themes, and forms that have emerged in modern and contemporary Quebec literature, in a growing multicultural and Americanized world? Novelists like Gabrielle Roy, Anne Hébert, Jacques Godbout, Marie-Claire Blais, and Jacques Poulin will get special attention, along with a variety of others, including immigrant writers.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

French 194. Francophone Film, Cinema, and Epic Fiction
Catalog Number: 9392
Samba Diop
Half course (spring term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Francophone cinema articulates themes in visual forms, with a distinct style of expression: colonization; decolonization; millenarian politics; the status of women; Western consumerism; the disenfranchised poor; Islam, Christianity and African religions; the griot and epic traditions; urban and rural life; myths and folktales; post-colonial life; education; reverse anthropology; etc. The peculiarity of Francophone cinema is that national languages such as Berber, Wolof, Arabic, Creole, Mandinka, are used as media of expression. However, because of the interferences with French, there is a disglossia between French and the national languages. Films allow us a broad view of the landscapes and of peoples in concrete forms. To provide contrast, we will read selected novels and epic texts.

Note: Conducted in English. Readings available in English and in French.

French 199. Quebec Poetry: Time and Space in the Poetic Mind.
Catalog Number: 5597
Pierre Nepveu (University of Montreal)
Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16

This course will propose a travel through the rich poetic landscape of modern Quebec, mainly from the 1960’s to the present day, with an important introduction to the earlier period. Emphasis will be put on the development of modern and post-modern forms, on the complex relationship between subjectivity and natural or urban spaces, and on the question of memory and identity in many of its most important dimensions: national, feminist, ethnic, etc. Foreign influences, whether European, American or East Asian, will be taken into account. Readings will focus on major poets such as Anne Hébert, Gaston Miron, Paul-Marie Lapointe, Jacques Brault, Nicole Brossard and Hélène Dorion. An anthology and various recording will provide some additional material to the basic readings.

Cross-listed Courses

Literature 125. Literature, Technology, and the Body
Literature 129. Reading the 18th Century Through 20th-Century Eyes
Literature 140. Colonial and Post-Colonial Spaces: France and North Africa

Primarily for Graduates

[French 213. In Search of a Medieval Subject]
Catalog Number: 1419
Virginie Greene
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
We will read lyric poetry and Arthurian romances in order to identify a subject through the broodings and wanderings of various (and often dubious) figures such as King Arthur himself, divided knights, elusive ladies, and vocal lovers.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Opened to qualified undergraduates.

French 214. The Romance of the Rose and Its Medieval Reception
Catalog Number: 7214
Kevin Brownlee (University of Pennsylvania)

Half course (spring term). F., 2–5. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 9
A close reading of the Rose, focusing on issues of authority, authorial selfhood, and hermeneutics. We then look at Jean Froissart and Christine de Pizan as readers and rewriters of the Rose.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Opened to qualified undergraduates.

French 224. Theater and Politics in the Classical Age: Corneille, Racine, Molière
Catalog Number: 6943
Alexia Elisabeth Duc

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
As the nature of the relationship between the State and its subjects changes drastically in the 17th century from Richelieu’s blatant use of force to the Sun King’s seduction by éblouissement, theater is made to participate in the political scene, and in turn provides a commentary on politics. Special attention given to the representation of the hero and the state and to the central reflection on power, force and discourse. Additional readings include “political” authors from the 16th and 17th centuries, such as Machiavelli, La Boétie, Guez de Balzac, Richelieu, Mazarin, Naudé.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

French 226. Literature and Civility in the 17th Century
Catalog Number: 7576
Alexia Elisabeth Duc

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores the relationship between literature and civility as aesthetic and social rhetorics conflate in the court and salon culture of the century. Special attention is given to epicurism and augustinism. Readings include Faret, d’Urfé, Scudéry, Bouhours, Méré, Nicole, Racine, La Fayette.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in French.

French 242. Jean-Jacques Rousseau
Catalog Number: 8357
Christie McDonald and Stanley Hoffmann

Half course (spring term). W., 4–6:30. EXAM GROUP: 9
The course will read a broad sweep of Rousseau’s anthropological, literary, social and political, as well as the autobiographical works. Discussion will focus on key themes such as the relation between sentiment and reason, nature and culture, independence and dependence. Readings will include the Discours, the Contrat social, Emile, Nouvelle Héloïse, and Les Confessions.
Note: The language of class discussion will be determined.
Prerequisite: An excellent reading knowledge of French.

French 256, Sand, Colette, and the Mothers of Invention
Catalog Number: 3546
Janet Beizer
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Colette, both a subtle deconstructionist and a fabulous mystifier of maternity, looked back in awe at the productivity of her literary foremother George Sand. Taking off from the relationship of literary maternity and filiation, we will consider how the two writers imagined and constructed mothers, motherhood, and maternity. Readings in Sand and Colette will include a range of genres (autobiography, correspondence, memoir, and novel), and will be influenced by contemporary critical and theoretical texts.

French 267. The Public Intellectual in France, from Zola to Bourdieu
Catalog Number: 6201
Susan R. Suleiman
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
What forms has the political engagement of intellectuals in France taken since the Dreyfus Affair, when the term “intellectual” first came into use? Are writers obligated to become involved in public life, or should they leave that to politicians? Is the intellectual always male? We will discuss these and related questions raised by major works and moments of debate in French cultural life since the turn of the 20th century. Works by Zola, Barrès, Benda, Nizan, Sartre, Beauvoir, Camus, Sollers, Debord, Kristeva, Bourdieu and others.
Note: Conducted in English or French, depending upon student preference. Open to qualified juniors and seniors, with instructor’s permission.

[Italian 102. History of the Italian Language]
Catalog Number: 0341
----------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Italian (like French, Spanish, Portuguese, etc.) is, effectively, Modern Latin. How did Italian, and the numerous dialects of Italy, come about? The course will look at the emergence of the new languages from Spoken Latin, but will also consider the influence of foreign cultures, such as those of Germanic invaders, and discuss the origin of selected words. After an introduction to historical Phonetics and Grammar, we shall study some early texts, both literary and “everyday” ones, and then follow the development of the Italian language and the fierce debates about its form from the Renaissance to the present.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04.

[Italian 120a. Dante’s *Inferno]
Catalog Number: 1186
Lino Pertile
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduces students to Dante’s Divine Comedy, an Italian poem that for centuries has occupied a special position in the cultural life of the West, continues today to be a source of inspiration for artists, and is an object of intense interest for scholars all over the world. While concentrating on the close study of the Inferno against the background of medieval Italy, the course attempts to account for the poem’s enduring presence in our time.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English.

[Italian 120d. Dante’s *Purgatorio and Paradiso]
Catalog Number: 2558

[Italian 123. Semantics of Desire: The Erotic Theme in Dante’s Poetry]
Catalog Number: 8912
Lino Pertile
Half course (spring term). Th., 2:30–5. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
Examines Dante’s discourse on Love, earthly and heavenly, in the context of the literature and culture of his times. In addition to a selection from Dante’s Comedy, texts will include Book 4 of Virgil’s Aeneid, Ovid’s Ars amatoria and Andreas Cappellanus’ De amore, Saint Bernard’s commentary on the Song of Songs, Guinizzelli’s and Cavalcanti’s Rime and Iacopone da Todi’s Laude.

Note: Conducted in Italian. Reading knowledge of Italian essential.

[Italian 140. The Novella from Boccaccio to the Storytellers of the 16th Century]
Catalog Number: 4689
Franco Fido

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Focus on the flowering of a “genre” peculiar to the Italian literary tradition: the novella or short story in prose, from its glorious inception in Boccaccio’s Decameron to the works of the best storytellers in the 14th, 15th, and 16th centuries, such as Sacchetti, Masuccio Salernitano, Bandello, Lasca, Straparola. Selected tales by these and other authors will be studied for their artistic quality, and as a mirror of the varied, colorful life of Italian society between the Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English or Italian.

[Italian 144. Life and Comedy in the Renaissance]
Catalog Number: 3790
Franco Fido

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
At the same time highly stylized and sharply naturalistic, 16th-century Italian comedy provides in its variety a rich reflection and a poignant criticism of Renaissance life and ideas. Readings will go from Ariosto’s “modernization” of classical models (Cassaria, Lena) and Machiavelli’s notorious Mandragola to the rustic and brutally realistic farces of Ruzante and the apocalyptic (but savagely funny) indictment of contemporary culture in the Candelaiò of Giordano Bruno.

Note: Conducted in English or Italian.

[Italian 155. Machiavelli and Guicciardini]
Catalog Number: 1220
Franco Fido

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Niccolò Machiavelli and Francesco Guicciardini—the greatest political thinker and the greatest historian of the sixteenth century in Europe—were among the sharpest witnesses of the climax and decline of Renaissance civilization. Their works and ideas will be studied and discussed in the context of Italian history and culture of early Cinquecento. Readings will include Il Principe, I discorsi, I ricordi, and excerpts from the Storia d’Italia.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English.

[Italian 192. Pirandello and the European Stage of the 20th Century]
Catalog Number: 7782
Laura Benedetti

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Poet, novelist, playwright, as well as recipient of the 1934 Nobel prize, Luigi Pirandello is best known for his long-lasting influence on 20th-century European theater. The course examines the main themes of Pirandello’s multi-faceted production, and their relationship with the contemporary development of European literature and theater.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English.

Italian 193. Literature and Fascism
Catalog Number: 0981
Lino Pertile

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
To what extent did Italian culture contribute to, and how was it affected by, the rise and consolidation of Fascism? How did Italian writers, artists, and intellectuals react and adapt to the Fascist regime? This course aims at providing an understanding of the culture of the 1920s and 1930s while focusing on some major literary works of the period.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English.

Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of Italian.

Italian 194. Bella ciao!: Women’s Identities in 20th - Century Italy
Catalog Number: 1329
Laura Benedetti

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The turn-of-the-century struggle for electoral rights, the Fascist celebration of motherhood as women’s sole mission, the post-war years, feminism and its revisions: we will explore how these and other historical and cultural factors shaped the notion of woman throughout 20th-Century Italy. Novels by Aleramo, De Céspedes, Banti, Fallaci and others; movies by Visconti, Scola, and Archibugi.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in English.

Catalog Number: 1502
Lino Pertile

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12
Aims at providing a critical understanding of some major novels published in Italy since 1945. Authors considered will include Cesare Pavese, Italo Calvino, Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa, Leonardo Sciascia, Dacia Maraini. The focus of the course will be on the changing relationship between writer and society in the past fifty years of Italian history.

Note: Conducted in English.

Prerequisite: Reading knowledge of Italian required.

Italian 198. Italo Calvino: The Poetics of Lightness
Catalog Number: 0358
Laura Benedetti

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 2:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Nonexistent knights, cloven viscounts, cosmicomics, the geography of the city and the universe: the production of the most experimental Italian writer of the 20th century engages in a dialogue with literary tradition, investigates the links between literature and science, and reflects on the mechanisms of textual creation and consumption. In the first of the Norton lectures that he was going to deliver at Harvard in 1985, Calvino described his working method as one involving “the subtraction of weight.” The course explores the author’s “poetics of lightness” through a thorough analysis of his work, from the war novel The Path to the Spider’s Nest (1947) to the textual adventures of If in a Winter Night a Traveler (1979).

Note: Conducted in English. Readings available both in the original and in translation.

[Spanish 90h. Indigenismos]
Catalog Number: 8790
José Antonio Mazzotti
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

An examination of so-called “indigenista” literature in Latin America, from its very beginnings in the 16th century to the poetry and novels of the 20th century. How were indigenous groups and ethnic nations characterized by the first Spanish colonizers and how have these images been transformed and used as tools for the modernizing nation-building process of the past century? How have Aztecs, Incas, Mayans and their descendants been re-accommodated into Latin American “imagined communities”? And how have these native peoples managed to undermine the dominating use of the letter by incorporating their own tonalities and cultural familiarities into the national literatures of their countries? This course will answer such questions through an interdisciplinary analysis of early chronicles and the works of José Carlos Mariátegui, Agustín Villoro, Guillermo Bonfil, Jorge Icaza, José María Arguedas and others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in Spanish.

[Spanish 90j. Lorca, Buñuel, Dalí]

Examines the rise and fall of the avant-garde, and in particular surrealism, in and out of Spain, by focusing on the writings, films, and artworks of three of the most “international” Spanish artists of the 20th century. Special attention paid to questions of gender and sexuality; tradition and revolution; commercialization and experimentation; scandal and conformity; war, memory, and imagination; travel and/or exile (in Mexico, France, and the United States).

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in Spanish. No prior knowledge of theory required.

Spanish 90m. Imagining Latin Americas: Neruda, Paz, García Márquez
Catalog Number: 8609
Luis E. Cárcamo-Huechante
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30.

This course will analyze the work of three major twentieth-century writers: Pablo Neruda, Octavio Paz, and Gabriel García Márquez. We will examine the ways in which their writings imagine both Latin America and the Americas in general. Special emphasis will be placed on the modern dimension of their literary registers—poetry, novel, short story, and essay—as well as on the location of the writer as a “public intellectual” in the Latin America of the 1950s, 1960s, and 1970s. Films will also be included in course analysis.

Note: Conducted in Spanish.

Spanish 90n. Spanish American Culture and Society in the Sixties

This course studies the powerful but elusive ethos of “Honor” as it informs the literary imagination of Spain during the 16th and 17th centuries. With readings in law, ethics, anthropology and history, we consider the personal and communal risks and benefits the honor code entailed, and ask why the theme demanded dramatic and poetic form. Authors studies include Juan de la Cueva, Lope, Cervantes, Tirso, Alarcon, Calderon.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Spanish 124. Don Quixote
Catalog Number: 1378
Mary Gaylord
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Close reading of “the first modern novel.” Considers Cervantes’ masterpiece as critical response to developments in European literature and aesthetic theory, to religious and political thinking, to 16th-century historiography, and to the discursive practices of imperial Spain.
Note: Conducted in Spanish.

[Spanish 132. Andean Voices, European Writing]
Catalog Number: 1471
José Antonio Mazzotti
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Will examine the transformative process of historiographic and literary production within the Andean context during the 16th and 17th centuries. How did the Incas manage to survive and remodel some dominant practices of representation? What cultural paradigms about the Indians were established then and have prevailed until today? The course will answer such questions through multidisciplinary analysis of works by Betanzos, Titu Cussi, Cieza de León, Guaman Poma de Ayala, the Huarochiri Manuscript, Inca Garcilaso de la Vega, and contemporary visual documentaries.
Note: Expected to be given in 2003–04. Conducted in Spanish. Text translations into English are available.

Spanish 133. The Novel of the Mexican Revolution: The Construction and Destruction of a Canon
Catalog Number: 2378
Margo Glantz
Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
The revolution changes the concept of country and of writing, and of the dictatorship of Porfirio Diaz at the end of the nineteenth century. The story is simultaneously constructed by the armed conflict and produces a model of complex narrative, incorporating different types of discourse (historical, journalistic, testimonial, autobiographical, and family chronical). When the revolution turns into a government, the narrative discourse is codified, and, during the middle of the twentieth century, a parodic literature caricatures the canon and exposes its political pretenses.

[Spanish 165. Bilingual Arts]
Catalog Number: 3062
Doris Sommer
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Bilingual practices are everywhere, though we are just beginning to address them in academic disciplines. We will explore the aesthetic dimensions of bilingualism, and some effects in related areas, including politics, language philosophy, and psychology. How do bilingual language games increase political flexibility, or threaten personal or national coherence? Topics will include 1) formalist appreciations; 2) exile as incitation to write; 3) Gains and Losses of heteroglossia; 4) Hybrid Games; 5) Political dialogues; 6) Code-Switching and Creativity; 7) Bilingual Theater, Music and Film; 8) The art of translation; 9) Bicultural Spaces. Readings in prose and poetry by international authors and theorists. Taught weekly, including guest lectures by, and discussions with, anthropologists, linguists, writers, and cultural critics who have worked on this subject.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Regular classes alternate with guest lectures and end with a small symposium or conference. Course taught in coordination with Prof. Isabell de Courtivron (MIT). Conducted in Spanish and English.

[Spanish 170. Modernism and Modernity in Spain and Latin America]
Catalog Number: 6007
Bradley S. Epps
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the development and dissemination of the modernist (or rather modernista) movement in a contested Hispanic realm, with special emphasis on Latin America and Catalunya. Includes work by Darío, Martí, Silva, Gutiérrez Nájera, Rusiñol, Català, Bertrana, Maragall, Valle-Inclán, Julián del Casal, Lugones, Machado, etc. Special attention to questions of (inter)nationality and visual production.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Spanish 172. Barcelona, fin-de-siècle
Catalog Number: 4211
Bradley S. Epps
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 6
Examines the construction, expansion, and transformation of Barcelona as cultural capital of Catalunya and as site of political and aesthetic experimentation. Drawing on creative writing, criticism, painting, sculpture, architecture, and urban planning at the end of both the 19th and 20th centuries (the first marked by the loss of Spanish colonies and the second by the consolidation of democracy after Franco’s dictatorship), we explore national identity and nationalism; bilingualism and biculturalism; and the relations between art and economics, political conformity and resistance. Works by Cerdà, Almirall, Aribau, Verdaquer, Maragall, Rusiñol, Prat de la Riba, d’Ors, Rodoreda, Monzó, Miró, Dalí, Tàpies, Guinovart, Mariscal; Gaudí, Puig i Cadafalch, Domènech i Montaner, Bofill.

Note: Conducted in Spanish.

Spanish 176. Visions of War in Modern Spanish Culture
Catalog Number: 0175
Antonio Monegal
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An examination of the role played by the discourse of war in the culture of modernity, and the way literature and the visual arts have addressed the problem of representing the experience of violence and horror. The course focuses on a variety of 20th-century conflicts, such as the Spanish Civil War, World War II and Bosnia, viewed through a selection of Spanish cultural products: novels, memoirs, documentary and fictional film, painting, photojournalism and comics.

Note: Conducted in Spanish.

Spanish 186. Tobacco and Sugar
Catalog Number: 1141
Doris Sommer
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
“The Cuban Counterpoint Between Tobacco and Sugar” (1940) by Fernando Ortiz will be the guide for considering the esthetic and historical experiments throughout the Spanish Caribbean. The different crops produced different political and cultural responses. Along with a general view of musical forms and plastic arts, and political developments, we will concentrate on literary works that include Cecilia Valdés, and other abolitionist novels, the Dominican Over and La charca from Puerto Rico, as well as writing by Hostos and Bonó among many others.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Conducted in Spanish.

Spanish 187. Literary Imagination, Cultural Discourse, and Market Society in Late Twentieth-Century Latin America
Catalog Number: 8881
Luis E. Cárcamo-Huechante
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 12:30–2. EXAM GROUP: 14, 15
This seminar aims to analyze and discuss literature (novel, short story, poetry, urban chronicle) and cultural critique texts that deal with the issue of market culture at the end of twentieth century, in the face of “neomodernization” in Latin American societies and the flow of commodities and images at a global scale. Authors, mostly from Argentina, Chile, Peru, and Mexico, include Néstor García Canclini, Beatriz Sarlo, Nelly Richard, Carlos Monsiváis, Enrique Lihn, Diamel Eltit, Ricardo Piglia, Pedro Lemebel, Luis Zapata, Cristina Civale, Alberto Fuguet, and Oscar Malca, among others.

Note: Conducted in Spanish.

Spanish 195. Outside and After the Latin American Literary “Boom”
Catalog Number: 1027
Luis E. Cárcamo-Huechante
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
This seminar will approach those other trajectories with respect to the Latin American literary scene of the second half of the twentieth century by exploring authors, works and contexts situated “outside” and “after” the so called Latin American “Boom.” Authors to be read are Juan Carlos Onetti, Jose María Arguedas, Julio Ramón Ribeyro, Jorge Edwards, Elena Poniatowska, Manuel Puig, Severo Sarduy and Clarice Lispector, including critical and theoretical discussion of their particular modes of reinventing language, and constructing aesthetic and cultural imagination.
Note: Conducted in Spanish.

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Some texts resist “competent” readers with barriers that more reading will not overcome. Anglo as well as Latin Americans (Morrison, Menchú, Garcilaso, Rodriguez, Poniatowska, among others) use various strategies to defend difference, as a kind of strategic essentialism, and to raise concerns about the hermeneutic project. Primary texts alternate with interpretive theories.

Catalog Number: 4352
Margo Glantz
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
We will study her work as a continuum, through the characteristic affinities and consistencies in La casa del respeto and La casa del placer. Characteristics include: the sacred, the profane, life in the convent and at court, the metropolitan royalty and the vice royalty. The dialogical relationships the nun established with her various interlocutors make her work a gigantic epistolary collection, an obvious aspect of her famous “Letters,” but less obvious in her poetry and drama.
Spanish 271. Hispanic Poetry and the Visual Arts
Catalog Number: 6694

Spanish 295r. Graduate Seminar on Poetry and Nation in Spanish America
Catalog Number: 1310
José Antonio Mazzotti
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Focuses on some of the foundational Spanish American poems from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries. Special attention will be given to poetic formulations of creole ethnic nationhood (Bernardo de Balbuena, Pedro de Peralta), early nation building (Bello, Olmedo, Heredia) and postcolonial discourses of social order. Will also examine key authors like Marti, Dario, Vallejo and Neruda by making use of a dialogic framework and a comparative approach in light of other (Brazilian, Asian, African) postcolonial contexts.
Note: Conducted in Spanish.

This is a two-year interdisciplinary program leading to the A.M. degree. For details, see the supplement, “A.M. in Regional Studies—Russia, Eastern Europe, and Central Asia.” The program aims to provide students with a firm grounding in the history, culture, language, politics, and economics of Russia, and of other countries of the former Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. Graduates typically enter careers in government service, international trade or finance, journalism, or consulting; some pursue further training in international law or for the academic professions. Brochures describing the program and requirements may be obtained from the Davis Center for Russian Studies — 1737 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, MA, 02138.

The course of studies takes into account the previous background, as well as the professional needs and interests, of the individual student. In addition to offerings by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, students may cross-register for courses at other schools of Harvard University, and at MIT and the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy. Faculty may offer specialized seminars specifically for program students. Students who have completed basic program requirements may seek permission for individual research under faculty direction. Arrangements may be made for students interested in fields not usually represented in course offerings.

Below is a partial list of relevant courses offered in 2000-2001:

Economics 1530, 2327, 2530a.

History 1502, 1516, 1531, 1542, 2511.

[Indian Studies 111. Literary Cultures of India: An Introduction to the Study of South Asia]
Catalog Number: 5599

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the study of South Asia through its literary institutions, authors, and texts. Focusing on classic texts from both the pre-modern and modern periods, the class will examine the place of literature in South Asian cultures, and especially in the religious and political life of India. A major theme of the course will be the interaction of cosmopolitan literatures written in languages like Sanskrit, Persian, and English, and those literatures written in regional languages like Hindi, Bengali, and Tamil.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Given in alternate years. All readings are in English translation.

[Indian Studies 112. Major Themes in Modern Indian History ]
Catalog Number: 6068
Rena Fonseca

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A seminar on the history of India from 1947 to the present. Topics covered: competing visions of the idea of “India”; Partition; scholarly controversies surrounding the role of Gandhi and of Nehru; the rise of religious nationalism and communal violence; ethnic conflicts in Punjab and Kashmir; prospects for democracy and stability in the 21st century. Students will work with various sources, including memoirs, newspaper reports, television documentaries, film, political speeches and interviews, and occasionally a short piece of fiction.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Indian Studies 115. Voices of Indian Women in Literature and Film: Seminar
Catalog Number: 3821
Rena Fonseca

Half course (spring term). Th., 1–3 and a weekly film screening to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
The seminar examines major themes in the lives of Indian women through the dual lenses of literature - primarily memoirs and fiction - and film. Women occupy a complex, often contradictory place in Indian society, simultaneously deified and oppressed, able to wield real political power, but also routinely denied healthcare and basic nutrition. How has the diversity and paradox of women’s lives been explored in writings and films about, and by, women? Topics include: Partition and violence, women’s literacy and fertility, political identities, social activism, arranged marriage and the caste system, dowry deaths, AIDS and the flesh trades, Bollywood and media representations of women, and voices from the Indian diaspora. Students will read the works of Lahiri, Roy, Tendulkar, Desai and Devi, among others, and will view films by Satyajit Ray, Deepa Mehta, Mira Nair, Anand Patwardhan and Shyam Benegal.

Language Courses

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Sectioning Note: Sectioning in multisectioned language courses is determined by attendance in class during the first week and through subsequent adjustments to maintain uniform section size. There is no separate sectioning meeting for language courses. Beginning on the first day of class, sections fill on a first-come basis, so that some sections may close on the first day. Students should attend the section of their choice and must continue to attend throughout the first week (or make special arrangements) to retain their places in sections. Students who miss classes may enter only those sections where space is available. Please note that under-enrolled sections may be canceled or rescheduled. No section times are guaranteed. As a general rule, no auditors are permitted in language courses. If fellowship terms or other circumstances prohibit registration, students must speak with the Director of the Language Program to request permission to audit. Language courses may not be taken Pass/Fail. Some courses permit graduate students to register on a Pass/Fail basis, but only by permission of the instructor.

Social Policy

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Higher Degrees in Social Policy

Katherine Newman, Malcolm Wiener Professor of Urban Studies (Kennedy School) (Chair)
David Tabor Ellwood, Lucius N. Littauer Professor of Political Economy (Kennedy School)
Jennifer L. Hochschild, Professor of Government
Christopher Jencks, Malcolm Wiener Professor of Social Policy (Kennedy School)
Paul Pierson, Professor of Government
Mary C. Waters, Harvard College Professor and Professor of Sociology

This program awards two different degrees: the PhD in Government and Social Policy and the PhD in Sociology and Social Policy. Both of these programs are joint degrees that provide students a thorough grounding in one of these two traditional disciplines and then move them into a series of interdisciplinary seminars on social policy based at the Kennedy School of Government. Students submit applications for admission to the Committee on Higher Degrees in Social Policy, which must be accepted as well by the admissions committee of either the Department of Government or the Department of Sociology. From the very beginning of their graduate careers, then, students are taught and supervised by faculty from government, sociology and the Malcolm Wiener Center for Social Policy in the Kennedy School.

This degree is intended for students who have central interests in problems of economic inequality; segregation; poverty; changing family structure; immigration, race, and labor market segmentation; educational inequality; and historical and comparative studies of inequality in the United States and abroad (especially Western Europe). It will be of particular interest for students who wish to combine solid training in the fundamental theoretical perspectives and methodological traditions of either government or sociology with advanced study of policy responses to these social problems. Students who would like the flexibility to pursue careers in departments of sociology or government, in schools of public policy, and in policy and other non-profit organizations may find these joint degrees especially suitable.

Students in the joint degree programs are eligible to apply for the Multidisciplinary Program on Inequality and Social Policy at the end of their first year of study. This training and fellowship program provides for summer institutes, research apprenticeships, and a variety of other opportunities. Please see the Web site www.ksg.harvard.edu/inequality for more details.

Applications for admission to the PhD programs in Social Policy may be obtained from the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, Admissions Office, Byerly Hall, 2nd Floor, 8 Garden Street, Cambridge, MA 02138. Further information about the joint degree programs may be obtained from the program Web site (www.ksg.harvard.edu/socialpol). Questions or requests for additional printed materials should be directed to Pamela Metz, Director, via e-mail (socialpolicy@harvard.edu) or correspondence addressed to her attention at the Kennedy School of Government, 79 John F. Kennedy Street, Cambridge, MA 02138.

Primarily for Undergraduates

*Social Studies 10. Introduction to Social Studies
Catalog Number: 5278
Glyn Morgan and staff
Full course. Fall: Tu., 2–4; W., 3–5; Spring: Tu., 2–4, and section hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
An introduction to the classics of modern social theory and to major issues in social analysis. Readings in Adam Smith, Tocqueville, Marx, Mill, Weber, Durkheim, Freud, and in other 20th-century theorists.
Note: Lectures and sections limited to and required of first-year concentrators in Social Studies.

*Social Studies 20. Statistics for Social Studies
Catalog Number: 3643
Mariko Chang
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to basic research methods and statistics designed primarily for concentrators in Social Studies. No previous background in statistics is required. Assists students in developing the skills to understand statistical methods used in social science research and to conduct quantitative analyses that address research questions. Also prepares students to do quantitative research for projects such as senior honors essays.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*Social Studies 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 7501
Judith E. Vichniac and staff
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Writing of senior honors essay.
Note: Required for concentrators.

Junior Tutorials
Note: Concentrators must take one fall and one spring tutorial. Admission is based on student preferences and a lottery system. Undergraduate non-concentrators may enroll in these tutorials if space is available.

Social Studies 98 — Junior Tutorials: Fall Term

*Social Studies 98ap. Contemporary Social Movements and Globalization
Catalog Number: 4703
William F. Fisher (Clark University)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines the connections between regional and national social movements and transnational alliances of international non-government organizations, advocacy groups and transnational issue networks. Using case studies, looks at environmental, human rights and women’s movements in various parts of the world.

*Social Studies 98ax. Development and Modernization: A Critical Perspective
Catalog Number: 5504
Stephen A. Marglin
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
What are the assumptions about human beings and our relationships with one another that underlie the conviction that development and modernization constitute progress, and that the developed West shows the way the rest of the world should/must go? To have economic growth, must people buy a whole package that changes the society, the polity, and the culture along with the economy? This tutorial will provide a framework for thinking about these and related questions (for example, why don’t economic problems fade as we get richer?), both in the context of the history of the West, and in the context of the Third World.

*Social Studies 98bg. The Contemporary American City
Catalog Number: 0913
Gwendolyn Dordick
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The contemporary American City displays a tremendous diversity. Within any metropolitan area is a heterogeneous assemblage of races, classes, and ethnic groups. Between cities such as Los Angeles and New York, Miami and Boston is considerable variation in social and spatial organization, economic futures, and culture. Through a survey of contemporary accounts of life in cities and their surrounding suburbs, this course will examine diversity within and among American urban centers.

*Social Studies 98bq. Popular Culture: Theories and Practices
Catalog Number: 2209
Lynne B. Layton (Medical School)
Half course (fall term). Th., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16
Examines the many theoretical perspectives on popular culture currently debated in academia—Marxist, feminist, psychoanalytic, semiotic. Focusing on one or two popular media as case studies, we will draw on the theories to inform textual analysis and to investigate issues of production and reception.

*Social Studies 98cd. The Politics of Social Policy in the United States
Catalog Number: 8657
*Anya Bernstein
*Half course (fall term). W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Examines social policy in the US and considers competing approaches to developing policy for the 21st century. Compares different perspectives on the nature and purposes of American social policy and explores how American institutions and political culture have shaped the development of social policy throughout the 20th century. Case studies will include welfare, marriage and divorce, health care, education, child care, and Social Security.

*Social Studies 98dg. Democracy and Dictatorship
Catalog Number: 9019
*Judith E. Vichniac
*Half course (fall term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Considers why certain countries develop and maintain democratic institutions while others do not. Are the answers to be found in sociological preconditions, political culture, or institutional developments? Readings are drawn from classics in political science and sociology. Consideration is given to historical and contemporary cases.

*Social Studies 98di. The Politics of Inequality in Latin America: The Transformation of Political Representation in the Neoliberal Era
Catalog Number: 8597
*Steven R. Levitsky
*Half course (fall term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
This course examines old and new efforts to organize, represent, and control the poor in Latin America. After first analyzing “traditional” patterns of social and political organization such as clientelism, populism, and corporatism, the course examines how changing class structures, economic liberalization, and the decline of corporatism are reshaping patterns of representation. Specific topics include party and party system change; the emergence of “neo-populist” leaders; and the rise of new social movements, NGOs, and other alternative forms of organization. The course asks whether these organizations can fill the representational void created by the weakening of unions and populist parties, or whether labor’s decline will mean a return to more exclusionary, clientelistic, and “neo-oligarchic” politics.

*Social Studies 98dp. Childhood, Culture, and Social Reform
Catalog Number: 6204
*Kiku Adatto
*Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
How has the culture of childhood changed, and in what ways have the boundaries between childhood and adult life shifted? Framing these questions within a historical perspective, this seminar will trace the role of children in public discourse from the Progressive era to the present. Particular attention will be paid to civic and reform movements, the influence of the consumer and popular culture, and the powerful role of visual images in shaping and defining childhood.
*Social Studies 98du. Enlightenment and Its Critics
Catalog Number: 2654
James Schmidt (Boston University)
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An examination of the vicissitudes of Enlightenment ideals of reason, critique, and autonomy over the last two centuries. It will explore how the arguments of the Enlightenment’s contemporaries (including Kant, Diderot, and Hegel) have been taken up by such twentieth-century social theorists as Max Horkheimer, Theodor Adorno, Hans-Georg Gadamer, Jürgen Habermas, and Michel Foucault.

*Social Studies 98dw. Gender and Politics
Catalog Number: 0447
Oona Britt Ceder
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Employing gender as a category of analysis, this course will examine women’s political consciousness and participation from the late eighteenth century to the present. The first part of the course will investigate the political activities and status of women in North America. Cases to be considered include Native American women’s resistance to colonial rule; the role of African-American and white women in the movements for the abolition of slavery and women’s suffrage; and the emergence of Hispanic and Asian women on the U.S. political stage. In the second part of the course, students will evaluate the contribution of gender-based analysis to the study of contemporary political life and issues. U.S. as well as global perspectives will be considered.

*Social Studies 98dy. “The Rise of the West” in Comparative Perspective: The Historical Development of Western Europe and Other Civilizations, AD 500-1700
Catalog Number: 3381
Tom Peter Harsanyi
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the political, social, economic, and intellectual transformation of Western Europe during the medieval and early-modern periods, with comparisons to China and other civilizations (the Islamic world, Japan, Eastern Europe). Considers a variety of theoretical approaches to explain how and why Western Europe gradually emerged as the epicenter of world-wide modernization.

*Social Studies 98ea. Conflict and Cooperation in International Politics
Catalog Number: 0554
Michael J. Hiscox
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines sources of conflict and cooperation among nations in the current international system. Issues covered include the origins and effects of alliances, deterrence, the impact of democratization, the effects of economic interdependence, environmental problems, ethnic conflict and cultural divisions in world politics.

*Social Studies 98ed. Ideology and Critique
Catalog Number: 5106
Christopher J. Sturr
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An examination of ideology in critical social theories. Course traces the concept from the Enlightenment through classical Marxism, the Second International, Western Marxism, and more recent theorists. Course ends by considering the relevance of the concept for a range of contemporary social-theoretical approaches with a liberatory agenda, including Marxism, feminism, anti-racism, post-colonial theory, and queer theory.

*Social Studies 98ef. The Political Economy of Developing Countries
Catalog Number: 9318
Sylvia Maxfield
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Focuses on the politics of economic reform in recently industrializing countries. The objectives are to master basic concepts of open economy macroeconomics, gain familiarity with a variety of non-OECD country experiences, learn how to evaluate social science research, develop students’ own research skills and build oral presentation capabilities. Student will pick a country to research and report on during the term. Readings include an edited compilation by Frieden, Pastor and Tomz as well as articles by Haggard, Kahler, Stallings, and Keohane.

Catalog Number: 6827
Phineas Baxandall
Half course (fall term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
“The Information Revolution” is fundamentally changing society, economy, and politics. The nature and mechanisms of these changes are rarely well specified or critically evaluated. Seminar will look at such questions as whether digital technologies naturally encourage personal freedom and deregulated markets; whether trade in information is fundamentally different than other commodities; whether the nature of identity and culture is changed by the web-based interaction; and whether hackers and code-writers are the new revolutionaries and legislators.

*Social Studies 98ep. Juries, Justice, and Democracy
Catalog Number: 1144
Jeffrey B. Abramson (Brandeis University)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Does trial by jury suggest a coherent and commendable theory of democratic or popular justice? This tutorial will examine historical and contemporary legal materials that bear on the competence of ordinary persons to do justice as jurors. Issues to be considered are: jury nullification; verdicts according to conscience; the ideals and realities of drawing juries from a “representative cross-section of the population”; the influence of race, gender, and national origin on jury deliberations; unanimous verdicts; and the death penalty.

*Social Studies 98eq. Globalization From Underneath
Catalog Number: 1978
Kiaran Aeveen Honderich
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Places theories of globalization into a conversation with political-economy narratives about the poor in Africa, including ones addressing the history of African poverty, the situation of African women and rural dwellers, the HIV/AIDS pandemic, and effects of economic reforms. Considers how the African poor and other marginalized groups are affected by globalization, and what light their situation casts on global structures and processes. How is their relation to the state being affected? Are they best understood as excluded, included or not yet included by globalization?

Social Studies 98er. From the Shop Floor to the Streets: The History, Politics and Culture of Social Movements in the US

Catalog Number: 6954
Corey Dolgon (Worcester State College)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

The course examines how social movements shape U.S. history and politics. We start by looking at sociological theories of social movements and then investigate early labor, abolitionist and suffrage organizing. We continue with the “maturing” labor movement, the rise of Communism and Socialism, and the birth of “community” organizing. We’ll also discuss conservative phenomena such as temperance, white supremacy, and “Americanism” movements. We conclude by discussing the “new” movements of the 1960s and the resurgence in both local and global organizing.

Social Studies 98 — Junior Tutorials: Spring Term

Social Studies 98av. Leadership and Followership in Modern Society: Politics, Personality, and Charisma

Catalog Number: 5427
Richard M. Hunt
Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9

Based on Social Studies 10 readings of Weber, Durkheim, and Freud, examines recent theories of leadership—political and professional—in modern society. Special attention is given to the relation between leaders and followers, and to the specific historical conditions from which leaders emerge. Also studies various forms of charismatic leadership. Case studies include Lincoln, Hitler, FDR, Huey Long, and Martin Luther King, Jr.

Social Studies 98ck. Community Empowerment and Civic Democracy in the Contemporary United States: Theory, Practice, and Policy

Catalog Number: 9316
Carmen J. Sirianni (Brandeis University)
Half course (spring term). F., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8

Analyzes innovations in community organizing, civic engagement, and “policy design for democracy” in a variety of arenas (urban development, environment, health, journalism, social services, education) over the past several decades in the U.S. Examines these in terms of theories of deliberative democracy, social capital, and civil society, as well as debates on the future of the welfare state and regulatory politics. Considers the larger crisis of American democracy and the possibilities of civic renewal.

Social Studies 98cl. Law and American Society

Catalog Number: 7389
Terry K. Aladjem
Half course (spring term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
Examines law as a defining force in American culture and society in four dimensions—as it establishes individual rights, liberties, and limits of toleration; as it attempts to resolve differences among competing constituencies; as it sets out terms of punishment and social control, and as a source of informing images and ideological consistency.

[Social Studies 98cm. American Social Movements]
Catalog Number: 2773
Rebecca Mary McLennan
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 9
Examines social movements in 19th- and 20th-century America using theoretical material and case studies of major social movements. Topics will include how movements arise and evolve, how members determine strategy, the relationship between movements and other modes of politics, and why movements succeed or fail.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Social Studies 98cv. Authoritarianism and Democracy in Latin America]
Catalog Number: 5595
Steven R. Levitsky
Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Examines political regimes and regime change in modern Latin America, focusing primarily on the cases of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Peru, and Venezuela. Compares different theoretical approaches (including modernization, neo-marxist, cultural, choice-centered, and institutional approaches) to explaining the emergence of democracy in the region, its breakdown in the 1960s and 1970s, and the “wave” of re-democratization in the 1980s and 1990s. Examines contemporary problems of democratic survival and consolidation, analyzing the effects of factors such as the international context, the debt crisis and economic liberalization, state weakness, political violence, and poverty and inequality. Also examines how different institutional structures, such as electoral systems, party systems, and executive-legislative arrangements, may affect the stability and quality of new democracies.

[Social Studies 98dj. The Rule of Law: Social Theoretical Debates]
Catalog Number: 7023
Rebecca Mary McLennan
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
How has the advent of corporate capitalism, private and public bureaucracies, and “globalization” affected the operations of formal, calculable legal principles of the kind conceived by Locke and other early liberal theorists? Has the liberal rule of law lost its efficacy and its legitimacy? Does it sustain or undermine the social relations of capitalist mass democracies? Explores the social theoretical debates around the fate of formal law under the conditions of modernity. Among other questions, considers Marxian critiques of formal law; Max Weber’s analysis of law in the age of bureaucratic rationalization; the conservatives’ attack on liberal law (Carl Schmitt and Friedrich Hayek); and the debate between the Frankfurt theorists (Franz Neumann, Otto Kirchheimer, Jürgen Habermas) and Critical Legal Studies (Duncan Kennedy and Roberto Unger) on whether liberal law is determinant and legitimate.
Social Studies 98dx. Feminist Theory: Equality, Identity, Difference
Catalog Number: 3055
Oona Britt Ceder
Half course (spring term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Course examines main currents of feminist thought. Readings on feminist theories that have their origins in Western social and political thought (Mary Wollstonecraft, John Stuart Mill, Emma Goldman, Simone de Beauvoir, and others), and works by writers who reject the methods of canonical thought and develop new, oppositional forms of feminist theorizing (Irigaray, Audre Lorde, Mary Daly, bell hooks, Gloria Anzaldua, Judith Butler). Through analysis, students will acquire an understanding of the relationship between feminist theories and major traditions of social and political critique.

Social Studies 98eb. The Politics of International Trade
Catalog Number: 9198
Michael J. Hiscox
Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines political conflict over international trade. Major issues covered include the relationship between trade and national security, and the effects of trade on different classes and groups within nations. The seminar will address debates about strategic trade policy and competition between industrial states, the particular difficulties faced by developing economies, regional trade agreements, the role of the WTO, and the use of economic sanctions.

Social Studies 98ec. Theories of Rights
Catalog Number: 5550
Annabelle Lever
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Are rights inherently individualistic and egoistic, as Marx believed, and as contemporary critics of “rights talk” maintain? Is it possible to talk of rights to welfare, or universal human rights, without extending the concept of a right so far that it becomes meaningless? Are rights absolute, and if not, what is their point? Are rights side-constraints, trumps or thresholds, and what do these metaphors imply about the way rights work and their consequences for social policy?

Social Studies 98eg. State Formation and State Collapse
Catalog Number: 3072
Rebecca Mary McLennan
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the theory and history of state formation, and its analytical opposite, state collapse. The course explores how states emerge and dissolve in the international system, examining a variety of perspectives from political science, law, and sociology. The course analyzes the rise of the sovereign state vis-à-vis its competitors; addresses the problem of state collapse; and evaluates possible and impossible solutions to the problem of state collapse, considering arguments from international law and moral theory.

Social Studies 98eh. Meaning and Politics
Catalog Number: 5363
Melissa Sharon Lane (Cambridge University)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Examines the question of how to interpret the meaning of texts and actions, and its implications for social science and politics. Examines nineteenth century debates over the nature of the moral sciences, the role of consciousness and value, and the way these debates changed in the twentieth century with the advent of phenomenology and the revival of positivism. Readings from J.S. Mill, Windelband, Dilthey, Durkheim, Weber, Croce, Collingwood, Heidegger, Gadamer, Skinner, and others.

Social Studies 98ei. The Construction of Race in Society and History

Kimberly McClain DaCosta

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

Offers a comparative sociohistorical analysis of that peculiar form of ethnicity called “race”. Using a wide range of empirical and theoretical materials, we problematize what is too often considered settled, namely, what constitutes “race”. We explore historical and cross-national variations in the bases of racial division, as well as the mechanisms through which racial domination is (re)produced, including prejudice, discrimination, segregation, ghettoization and violence.

Social Studies 98ej. Nation, State, and Violence in Twentieth-Century Europe

Audrey Helfant Budding

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

During the twentieth century, homogeneous “national” states emerged out of many formerly mixed areas of Europe, at a horrific human cost. Tutorial will explore the unmixing of nations. It will draw on works of anthropology, history, political science, and sociology to illuminate the dynamics of nationalist mobilization, the interaction of nationalism and communism, and the nature of “ethnic cleansing.” Specific topics will include the Stalinist deportations of peoples, the Holocaust, and the post-Yugoslav wars.

Social Studies 98ek. Globalization, Transnationalism, and Migration

Lucia Volk

Half course (spring term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

This course seeks to understand the significant shift in theorizing social groups and behavior patterns as a result of transnationalism, globalization and migration. We will explore both the challenges the new social phenomena pose to traditional research methodologies as well as the problem of building new explanatory frameworks that incorporate movement and change, yet still have explanatory powers for specific localities.

Social Studies 98en. Housing and Homelessness: Exploring the Importance of Place, Shelter and Home in America

Gwendolyn Dordick

Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9

Housing is more than bricks and mortar. The places we live provide us—to a greater or lesser extent—personal security and comfort, a social environment and the basis for strong feelings of identity and belonging. This tutorial will examine the material, social and cultural aspects of housing and homelessness in American society. A particular, but not exclusive, focus on the homeless will bring to the foreground important and often taken-for-granted aspects of place, shelter, and home that are true across the socioeconomic spectrum.

Social Studies 98eo, Culture and Society
Catalog Number: 2114
Kiku Adatto
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
The seminar will explore the interplay of culture and society using a wide range of sources and case studies (drawing on anthropology, history, sociology, literature and photography). Among the topics explored will be religion and political rhetoric, the history of manners, the work ethic, advertising, and the rise of America’s image-conscious visual culture.

Social Studies 98es, Radicalism in Twentieth Century U.S. Culture and Politics
Catalog Number: 3357
Jessica Shubow
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
This seminar examines the historical meanings, sources, and impact of political and cultural radicalism in the 20th century U.S. Studying the collective action and thought of populists, anarchists, anarcho-syndicalists, socialists, communists, fascists, nationalists, feminists, identity-based, and queer activists whose activities or aspirations that fall outside or exceed the rules and terms of the electoral political system, we will historically analyze the relationship between cultural and political insurgency, the economy, and the state.

Introductory Courses

Sociology 10. Introduction to Sociology
Catalog Number: 4814
David J. Frank
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Distinguishes five approaches to the study of society — those centered on society as a whole, those centered on groups, and those centered on individuals, interactions, and cultures. Introduces a range of classical and contemporary literatures to illustrate each approach, and thereby provides a broad survey of substantive fields of sociological interest, from religion and race to sports and friendship.
Note: Counts for introductory concentration requirement.

Sociology 11. American Society
Catalog Number: 3469
Gwendolyn Dordick
Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 9. EXAM GROUP: 2
Explores selected aspects of contemporary American society from a sociological perspective. Topics will include gender, socialization and politics; popular culture and high culture; race and ethnicity; crime and drugs; poverty and homelessness; and the changing suburban landscape.
Emphasis on the application of key concepts and approaches in social theory to understanding the workings of our social environment. Readings will focus on major works within each substantive area and will reflect a diversity of methodological approaches.

Note: Counts for introductory concentration requirement.

[Sociology 25. Introduction to the Sociology of Organizations]
Catalog Number: 3609
Peter V. Marsden

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduces the sociological study of formal organizations. Surveys basic concepts, emphases, and approaches. Attention given to processes within organizations, as well as to relationships between organizations and their environments. Topics include bureaucracy, leadership and power in organizations, interorganizational networks, and coordination among organizations.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Counts for introductory concentration requirement.

[Sociology 40. Introduction to Human Societies]
Catalog Number: 4512
Mark J. Zimny

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
Introduces the distinct way of thinking and seeing the world through the sociological perspective. Topics to be covered include socialization, deviance, race and ethnicity, and the particular concepts and tools that sociologists use to study human social life.

Note: Counts for introductory concentration requirement.

[Sociology 60. Race and Ethnic Relations]
Catalog Number: 4114
Prudence L. Carter

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 9. EXAM GROUP: 2
Examines race and ethnic relations in the United States from a theoretical, historical, and comparative perspective. Explores the emergence of racial and ethnic minorities through such historical processes as colonialism, slavery, and immigration. Studies the current relations among racial and ethnic groups in the United States.

Note: Counts for introductory concentration requirement.

[Sociology 68. Social Movements]
Catalog Number: 0507
Kenneth T. Andrews

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Explores the origins, dynamics, and consequences of social movements from a sociological perspective. Examines a wide range of topics including: emergence of movements, recruitment and leadership, interactions of movements with the media, political elites and the broader public, tactics (e.g. nonviolent direct action, litigation), and the factors contributing to the success and failure of movements. Cases covered include the mobilization of racial and ethnic groups, women’s movements, conservative/right-wing movements and environmental activism.

Note: Counts for introductory concentration requirement. Replaces Sociology 106.

Tutorials

*Sociology 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 4449
Kenneth T. Andrews and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Individual work in sociology under the supervision of teaching staff in the department. A graded supervised course of reading and research on a topic not covered by regular courses of instruction.
Note: Students negotiate topics on their own. A final paper must be filed in the undergraduate office.

*Sociology 96. Individual Community Research Internship
Catalog Number: 7425
Kenneth T. Andrews and staff.
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: W., 4–6; W., 7–9 p.m.; Tu., 3–5; W., at 7 p.m.; Spring: Hours to be arranged.
Community Research Internships give students the opportunity to use the methods and ideas of sociology in the process of learning about and trying to deal with practical problems faced by communities and other social actors in society at large. Students are individually placed with community organizations and agencies where they carry out research on topics of concern to those organizations and agencies. Classwork focuses on instruction in the methods and philosophy of fieldwork.
Note: Specific positions and projects vary from term to term, and are available largely on a first-come, first-served basis to students approved by the Head Tutor. Interested students should consult the Head Tutor’s office about the nature and availability of internships at or before the beginning of the term. Both concentrators and nonconcentrators are welcome to apply. First meeting required.

*Sociology 97. Sophomore Tutorial
Catalog Number: 5079
David J. Frank
Half course (spring term). First Meeting Required: W., 1-3.
Introduces concentrators to sociological theory. Aims to give students a critical understanding of selected classic and contemporary theories and to explore the relative merits of these theories from an empirical standpoint. In the first part of the term, students read influential statements about sociological theory and its relationship to research, and learn how researchers construct, evaluate, and modify theory. Readings focus especially on the classical theories of Marx, Weber, and Durkheim. In the second part of the term, students read theoretical pieces by contemporary sociologists. Readings focus on works that particularly reflect the theoretical concerns of the earlier classic thinkers.

Note: Required of and limited to concentrators, ordinarily sophomores.

Sociology 98. Junior Tutorial
Catalog Number: 5943
_ Kenneth T. Andrews and members of the department._
_Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Fall: W., 2–4; M., 1–3; Spring: Hours to be arranged._
Small group research projects centered on common topics that vary by seminar and year. Recent topics have been on migration; science and society; advancing research and social policies in Afro-America; controversies of ideology and social knowledge; ethnic and racial identity; and sex and race in employment.

Note: Required of and limited to concentrators, ordinarily juniors.

Sociology 99. Senior Tutorial
Catalog Number: 6237
_ Kenneth T. Andrews and members of the Department _
_Full course. Hours to be arranged._
Supervision of theses or other honors projects.

Note: Limited to concentrators, ordinarily seniors. In addition, students of Sociology 99 may also enroll in a fall term only, optional, regularly scheduled weekly group seminar for consultation and discussion about choice of problems, possible data, and research procedures.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Sociology 103. Environment and Society]
Catalog Number: 6928
_David J. Frank_
_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._
One of the profound changes of the 20th century is the rise of the belief that human society is embedded in a physically sustaining natural environment — an ecosystem. In this course, we explore alternatives to the ecosystem model, and then look at how social structures have been theorized to affect the “ecosystem” and vice-versa.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 107. The American Family]
Catalog Number: 9124
_Martin K. Whyte_
_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._
Examines patterns and trends in American family life, both sociologically and historically. Topics covered include changes in the nature of marriage; women’s roles; kinship relations; sexual attitudes and behaviors; divorce; and child rearing.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
[Sociology 110. Sociological Approaches to Income and Wealth: Conference Course]

Catalog Number: 2404

Mariko Chang

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Explores the sociological meaning of income and wealth and the ways in which these socially constructed meanings interact with social and economic behavior. Centered around the questions: In what ways are the economic and the social embedded? How are people’s perceptions of income and wealth shaped by social institutions such as the family, the economy, and the state? What are the sociological explanations for the distribution of income and wealth in society? What are the societal effects of growing or shrinking economic inequality?

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Sociology 116. Professions and Disciplines

Catalog Number: 1305

Libby Schweber

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12

Uses the sociological literature to trace changes in the representation and organization of professions and disciplines in modern society. Topics include bases of professional authority, professions and ethics, public images, the consequences of bureaucratization, the relation between the professions and the state and different types of knowledge/power relations. Special attention is paid to the cases of medicine, law, and the social sciences in the United States.

Sociology 117. Religion and Society

Catalog Number: 1570

Ziad Weal Munson

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 12

Examines the relationship between society and religious institutions, religious beliefs, and religious practices. Major topics covered include the question of whether or not modern society is becoming more secular, the place of religion in politics, religious conversion, new religious movements, and the role of religious rituals and symbols in the modern world. These topics are explored using both classical sociological theory and contemporary empirical data.

Sociology 124. Social Stratification

Catalog Number: 9219

Judah Matras

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13

Examines individual and structural explanations for the generation and maintenance of inequality in the United States and the influence of stratification on individuals and groups. Covers status attainment and social mobility; the allocation of societal rewards according to class, race, and gender; the distribution of educational opportunities and cultural capital; and labor market segmentation by race, ethnicity, and gender.

Sociology 128. Paradigms of Social Inquiry

Catalog Number: 5979

David R. Gibson

Half course (fall term). M., W., (F.), at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Introduces sociological thinking—what is a sociological problem, how to pose one, what alternative answers might be, how to weigh the evidence. Case studies of sociological research and theorizing, not particular statistical methods.

Note: Prerequisite to Sociology 156. Required of Sociology concentrators. For all other students, permission of instructor required.

Sociology 129. Political Sociology
Catalog Number: 2495
Ziad Weal Munson
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 1. EXAM GROUP: 15

An examination of the sociological approaches to power, politics, and the state. Major topics will include: state formation, revolution, nationalism, warfare, the formation and consequences of major policy initiatives, citizenship and rights, social movements, and the influence of various groups in politics.

Sociology 130. The Politics of Illness: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 6220
Jason A. Kaufman
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

Integrates contemporary sociological understanding of political processes with a historical understanding of the social development of medicine and the health-sciences. Specific topics of inquiry will include: political struggles over state responses to communicative disease (particularly AIDS); the sociology of scientific discovery; the social transformation of American medicine; the cognitive discovery that microbes cause disease and its ensuing impact on state formation; the role of disease in geo-political (i.e. military) conflict; the network-structure of disease pathology; mental illness and the politics of normalcy; reproductive health and gender politics; poverty, health, and politics; and future crises for the health-sciences infrastructure.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Sociology 139. Deviance and Social Control
Catalog Number: 4020
Mark J. Zimny
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

The relationship of social organization to deviant behavior; the identification of deviant behavior and the social response it elicits. Individual, group, and organizational violations of social norms, rules, and laws. Emphasis on the “societal reaction” or “interactionist” approach to deviance. The correctional and causal approach towards deviance, its limitations and alternative ways to address the subject of deviance.

Sociology 141. Social Institutions of Contemporary China
Catalog Number: 9333
Martin K. Whyte
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–2:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7

Introduction to the patterns of social life in China and how these have changed since the revolution in 1949. Topics covered include political institutions, work organizations, village life, cities, family life, schooling, and inequality.
Sociology 149. Ethnicity: Comparative and Historical Perspectives: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 8242
Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Orlando Patterson
Half course (spring term). W., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Ethnicity has emerged as one of the most important forces in the modern world. It is the source of collective identity, communal solidarity, and nation building as well as the inspiration for resistance to colonial domination and dictatorial regimes. It has also been a major source of political, social, and economic conflicts throughout the world, in some cases resulting in genocidal wars between groups. The course explores the nature of ethnicity, the main theoretical approaches to the subject, and case studies of ethnic formation and conflict around the world, paying special attention to the relationship between ethnicity and religion, language, racism, and modernization.

Sociology 150. The Social Underpinnings of Taste
Catalog Number: 4638
Stanley Lieberson
Half course (fall term). (M.), W., F., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 4
Examines current empirical and theoretical information about the social factors influencing our tastes. This includes work on naming practices, fashion, art, and pop culture. Considers how tastes are molded and changed by social class, political and social events, age cohorts, and education, as well as internal processes.

Sociology 152. Mass Media: Sociological Perspectives
Catalog Number: 0754
Shyon Stephan Baumann
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
Examines mass media production, content, and effects. The focus is on the realms of the news and of culture in the United States. Considers the main theories and the evidence regarding debates on how the mass media function and influence society. Topics include violence, censorship, corporate influence, bias, advertising, and modes of media consumption.

Sociology 153. Media and the American Mind
Catalog Number: 8867
Jason A. Kaufman
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores contemporary American society through the lens of media, including but not restricted to television, movies, and the internet, and critically examines the social histories of the telephone, the telegraph, radio, theatre, literature, music, and the arts. Special attention is given to the ways in which media both shape and reflect the social contexts in which they are produced and consumed. Draws upon a wide variety of social scientific paradigms in so doing, focusing on topics such as class and cultural consumption, the business dynamics of the art world, the co-optation and subversion of dominant art forms, the impact of information networks on social structure and social development, the sociology of celebrity, and the socio-historical rise of different genres and art forms.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Sociology 156. Quantitative Methods in Sociology
Catalog Number: 8958
Peter V. Marsden

Half course (spring term). M., W., (F.), at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Introduces quantitative analysis in social research, including principles of research design and the use of empirical evidence, particularly from social surveys. Descriptive and inferential statistics, contingency table analysis, and regression analysis. Emphasis on analysis of data and presentation of results in research reports.

Note: Required of and limited to Sociology concentrators, ordinarily sophomores.

Prerequisite: Sociology 128.

Sociology 157. Gender and Social Policy: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 3030
Mary Ruggie (Kennedy School)

Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Examines the role of various agents and venues (including governments, courts, interest groups, employers) on the development and implementation of such policies as health, labor market and welfare. Wherever possible, policies in the U.S. are compared with those in selected European countries. Theoretical perspectives are drawn from the literature on the welfare state and feminist legal theory.

Sociology 158. Gender Stratification
Catalog Number: 1956
Annemette Sorensen

Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines the evidence about the nature and causes of gender stratification in post-industrial societies. Consequences of gender stratification for family life, for relations between men and women, and for class and race inequalities are considered.

Sociology 159. Technology and Society: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 4394
Shyon Stephan Baumann

Half course (fall term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines the relationship between technology and society with a focus on the historical interaction between them as well as the contemporary ethical, political, economic, and cultural issues that are raised by technological development. The extent to which technological change has led to changes in social institutions, social relations, and norms and values is explored. Also, explored are the organizational and society-level determinants of technological advancement and implementation.

[Sociology 160. Medicine, Health Policy and Ethics in Comparative Perspective: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 3456 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Mary-Jo Del Vecchio Good (Medical School)

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Complements Sociology 162. Provides opportunities to study in greater depth topics of: culture and political economy of bio-medicine; health policies at national and international levels; and bioethics. Students will read case materials, journal articles and ethnographies as well as conduct “data searches” from the web and from more traditional sources, and choose course projects that may include field research as well as literature or document based studies.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 162. Medical Sociology]
Catalog Number: 5801
Mary-Jo Del Vecchio Good (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Explores current topics in medical sociology, including the work of doctoring, the experience of illness, and the social distribution of health needs and health resources. Examines how medical knowledge, practice, research, and technology are culturally shaped and institutionally organized. Primarily focuses on biomedicine as a cultural system in North America; however, comparative illustrations are drawn from international medicine.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 166. Poverty, Public Policy, and Controversy]
Catalog Number: 8460
Explores American poverty, changing social attitudes toward “the poor” and the transformation of government’s role in addressing the conditions and affecting the “behavior” of people in poor and near-poor families. Emphasis will be put on integrating quantitative descriptions of poverty (rates, trends, etc), shifting policy debates, and exploring texts and narratives that reveal how low-income people understand and respond to the conditions of living poor in a wealthy society. Issues of race, ethnicity, gender and stigma will be included. Recent research on low-income working mothers/parents and their children and life in post-welfare America will be explored, with a focus on the broad social effects.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[*Sociology 168. Sociology of Law: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 8326
Kenneth T. Andrews
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines law from a sociological perspective. Particular attention will be given to the historical patterns that have shaped law as a social institution and profession. The relationship of law to politics, culture, and the economy will be studied. Specific topics include the role of law in shaping gender, work, race/ethnicity, and social inequality.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 172. Knowledge and Power: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 0993
Libby Schweber
Half course (spring term). Th., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 17, 18
Examines the changing place of knowledge in modern society and changing ways of thinking about the relation of knowledge and power. Readings are organized around three themes: intellectuals in politics, knowledge as a form of discipline and knowledge as a form of liberation. Topics include: Taylorism, Social Policy, Reproductive Technology, AIDS Research, Education and Deviance.

[Sociology 184b. Freedom and Society in the Modern World]
Catalog Number: 4506
Orlando Patterson
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A comparative and historical examination of the meanings and experiences of freedom from early modern times to the present. Freedom is viewed and treated less as an idea and more as a cultural chord with institutional implications. The course examines the ways in which social context and political conflicts led to the reconstruction of the medieval heritage of freedom during critical periods of Western history from renaissance Florence down to contemporary America. It concludes with an overview of the spread of freedom in the non-Western world, and the problems of reconciling it with development strategies and traditional values.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 185. Race and Crime in America]
Catalog Number: 4244
Lawrence D. Bobo
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., at 11. EXAM GROUP: 13
Exams sociological thinking and research on race and crime. General theories of involvement in crime and deviance will be discussed with special attention to issues of youth gangs, to impact of poverty and of racial residential segregation on involvement in crime, and the impact of high rates of incarceration on minority communities. The course will address the tightly interconnected politics of race and crime and the public policy questions raised by high rates of incarceration of minority youth.

[Sociology 188. Lines that Divide: Race, Class, Gender, and Ethnicity in the Ethnographic Tradition: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 6496 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Katherine Newman (Kennedy School)
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
The ethnographic tradition in sociology — its methods, substance, and theoretical contributions — will be explored through the intensive reading of qualitative literature on African-American communities in poverty, working and middle class families in the throes of economic change, elites confronting meritocratic ideologies, women and men contending with changing definitions of gender roles, and ethnic groups struggling to define the meaning (or loss of significance) of their national origins. Race, class, gender, and ethnicity will be examined as theoretical constructs, sources of division, and avenues of potential integration in American culture. Attention will be given to methods of data collection, analysis, and argument in community studies.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Sociology 191. Cities and Regions: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 6203
---------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Stresses the interaction of societies and their geographies, focusing primarily on historic and current developments in the United States. Considers demography, technology, institutions, ideology, health, the economy, and other factors.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Women’s Studies 125. Gender and Health

Primarily for Graduates

Sociology 203a. Methods of Quantitative Sociological Research I
Catalog Number: 3315
Lowell L. Hargens
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Focuses on a matrix approach to regression analysis with an emphasis on the assumptions behind OLS and the consequences of their violation. Extensions are studied including instrumental variables, generalized least squares, probit and logit models, survival analysis, and hierarchical linear models. Provides an introduction to systems of equations, including path models and simultaneous equations.
Note: Required of first-year graduate students in Sociology.
Prerequisite: Sociology 202 or equivalent.

Sociology 203b. Methods of Quantitative Sociological Research II
Catalog Number: 1860
---------
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Treats longitudinal design and methods for the statistical analysis of longitudinal data with an emphasis on the analysis of change in discrete variables, or event history analysis. Includes an introduction to time series analysis. Both statistical theory and practical applications will be covered.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Intended primarily for graduate students in Sociology.
Prerequisite: Sociology 203a.

Sociology 203c. Analysis of Categorical Data
Catalog Number: 2951
Christopher Winship
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Provides an introduction to methods for the multivariate analysis of categorical data. Covers loglinear analysis for the applied practitioner. Additional topics include logit and probit analysis, models for ordinal data, multinomial and conditional logit models, path analysis for categorical variables, and latent class analysis. Emphasis on empirical applications in the social sciences.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: Sociology 203a or permission of instructor.

Sociology 204. Sociological Theory: Seminar

Catalog Number: 6189

Libby Schweber

Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9

A survey and critical analysis of sociological theory from the late 19th century through the 1960s. Emphasis placed on the practical application theory, especially its ability to help us formulate explanations to social phenomenon and to develop empirical tests of those explanations.

Note: Required of first-year graduate students in Sociology.

Sociology 206. The Sociology of Development: Seminar

Catalog Number: 9026

Martin K. Whyte

Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Examines debates surrounding the nature of the process of economic development. Major attention is devoted to rival theories of where and why development occurs and to a variety of social consequences of economic development.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 207. Gender and Sexuality: Seminar]

Catalog Number: 4080

David J. Frank

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Argues that “gender” and “sexuality” are neither fixed in reality nor free floating in space but rather institutionalized in a limited set of dynamic cultural and organizational arrangements, such as the state and science. The configuration of these arrangements sets the boundaries within which gender and sexuality have meaning and motivate action in society at large.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Sociology 208. Contemporary Theory and Research: Seminar

Catalog Number: 6080

David R. Gibson

Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Develops tools for the construction of sociological theory. Compares major contemporary sociological theories and their applications to the study of social organization. Emphasis is placed on adjudicating among competing explanations based on evidence and critical assessment of a theory’s logic.

Note: Required of and limited to first-year graduate students in Sociology.
Sociology 209. Qualitative Social Analysis
Catalog Number: 1198
Katherine Newman (Kennedy School) and Prudence L. Carter
Half course (fall term). M., 9–11. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3
Examines the main approaches and methodological assumptions in the analysis of non-numerical data by comparative, interpretive, and historical sociologists. Reviews methods of linking and presenting varied data bases and main criteria for establishing validity and reliability in the analysis of field notes, archival, published, and other kinds of qualitative data.
Note: Required of and limited to first-year graduate students in Sociology.

Sociology 210. Issues in the Interpretation of Empirical Evidence: Seminar
Catalog Number: 2882
Stanley Lieberson
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Special problems occur in the interpretation of results based on non-experimental data — whether they are from surveys, historical research, field work, or other sources. These issues apply to both quantitative and qualitative studies, and are different from those resolved through statistical solutions. We consider the assumptions employed, their appropriateness, and various solutions.

[Sociology 217. Sociology of Families and Kinship: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 8522
Martin K. Whyte
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines recent theoretical approaches and empirical research on family patterns, combining focus on how and why family patterns vary and change over time while examining how individuals differ in their experience of life course transitions, such as marriage, childbearing, employment, divorce, and retirement.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Sociology 220. Globalization: Seminar
Catalog Number: 0150
David J. Frank
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Argues that globalization is pervasively consequential for contemporary social life. Begins by exploring the substance of globalization, its origins and its economic, political, and cultural dimensions. Then looks at globalization’s consequences, particularly for nation-states, organizations, and persons.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Sociology 221. Immigration, Identity and Assimilation: Seminar
Catalog Number: 9699 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Mary C. Waters
Half course (fall term). W., 10–12. EXAM GROUP: 3, 4
Examines the experiences of immigrants who have arrived in the United States since 1965 and their children — the second generation. Patterns of economic, political, and social assimilation, as well as ethnic identity formation will be reviewed. Recent theories and empirical research on the link between identity and economic assimilation will be discussed.

*Sociology 224. Organizational Analysis
Catalog Number: 8202
Peter V. Marsden
Half course (fall term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Surveys sociological perspectives on organizations and environments. Reviews classical and contemporary theories of bureaucracy and organization-environment relations. Attention to perspectives including ecological, institutional, resource dependence, transaction-cost, agency theory, learning theory, and organizational culture. Examination of phenomena at multiple levels from the establishment to the organizational network or field.

[Sociology 226. Topics in Social Organization]
Catalog Number: 9258
Peter V. Marsden
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Recent theory and research on social organization, including both organizational analysis and social networks. Topics may include network exchange theory, organizational ecology, and social influence models, among others. Some attention to quantitative techniques useful in the study of social organization, including event-history analysis, event-count analysis and multilevel analysis. It is expected that students enrolling will have graduate-level background in the study of social organization and social networks.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*Sociology 227. Political Sociology: Seminar
Catalog Number: 6042
Kenneth T. Andrews
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the field of political sociology including the theoretical and programmatic statements of classical theorists and recent debates in the field. A wide range of substantive topics will be covered including the state and economy, revolution and warfare, social inequality and policy, democracy and political participation, social movements and interest groups.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*Sociology 232. Social Movements: Seminar
Catalog Number: 1333
Kenneth T. Andrews
Half course (fall term). W., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Introduces major theoretical approaches to the study of social movements and explores central topics of contemporary research including protest cycles, the social and cultural basis of movement participation, countermovements, repression and the state, the internal organization of movements, and the consequences of movements. Illustrative studies will be examined to reflect on the strengths and limitations of various approaches.
[Sociology 237. Contemporary Chinese Society: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 4320
Martin K. Whyte
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A seminar devoted to the intensive analysis of a particular aspect of contemporary Chinese society. This year the focus will be on trends in inequality and stratification in China.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 244. Topics in Economic Sociology]
Catalog Number: 8692
Mariko Chang
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Introduction to the field of economic sociology at the graduate level. The course is structured around 3-5 “sub-topics” within the economic sociology literature. This structure should permit a nice balance between breadth and depth, while permitting graduate students to explore material in greater detail than would be feasible in most introductory courses at the graduate level.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Sociology 248. Race, Politics, and Social Inequality]
Catalog Number: 8035
Lawrence D. Bobo
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the place where race, public will, and policy-making intersect and reviews theories of race-making and racial inequality, the dynamics of public opinion, and the effects of a racialized public sphere on social policy. Focused attention will center on the shaping of the welfare state, crime and the criminal justice system, and the social and political dynamics of an increasingly multiethnic society.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*Sociology 249. “Race,” Culture and Social Structure: Seminar
Catalog Number: 5727
Orlando Patterson
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
The seminar will examine the socio-economic and cultural dimensions of racial inequality in the United States. Both the external and institutional factors accounting for inequality as well as the internal problems of black social life and culture will be examined. We will also explore the political and economic consequences of various policies aimed at reducing inequality such as affirmative action. Particular attention will be given to family structure and gender relations and to the policies relating to them. All points of view will be considered.

*Sociology 250. Culture: Current Issues in the Study of Taste: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4641
Stanley Lieberson
Half course (spring term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Reviews and evaluates both theoretical and empirical efforts to understand the social context in which tastes operate in daily life. Focus is on existing debates and new directions in this area.
Although not required, students can use the seminar to develop their current projects in this area, or to develop new ones.

Sociology 251. Gender and Organizations: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4645

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the role of gender in work organizations, with an emphasis on current research.
Considers the effects of organizational practices on women’s and men’s work opportunities and rewards, factors that affect organizations’ sex composition, and the effects of sex composition of organizational outcomes.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Graduate standing and a graduate level class in multivariate statistics.

Sociology 256. Sociology of Education: Seminar
Catalog Number: 7794
Prudence L. Carter
Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
The course will examine current theory and research about education’s role in modern society, including: sources of educational change; organizational context of schooling; impact of schooling on social stratification and cultural reproduction; and the relationships between the educational system and other social institutions.

Sociology 259. Civic Engagement: Theories, Research, and Strategies
Catalog Number: 8759
Theda Skocpol and Marshall Louis Ganz
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Surveys theories and empirical research about civic engagement in the United States and other democracies, and considers practical strategies attempted by movements and actors seeking to enhance civic participation. Each seminar member will develop a research project or proposal.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor required.

Sociology 260. Values Orientations and Life Course Decisions: Seminar
Catalog Number: 0472
Ronny Jean Lesthaeghe (University of Brussels)
Half course (spring term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Addresses whether or not value orientations have any predictive power in sorting individuals over paths of their life courses, and to what extent particular life course transitions cause shifts in value orientations. Makes use of the existing empirical literature in both the US and Europe; makes connections with various theories of an economic, sociological and demographic nature. Panel data and cross-sectional evidence will be analyzed.
Prerequisite: Requires some basic notions of multivariate analysis.

Sociology 271. Sociology of Culture
Catalog Number: 5401
Jason A. Kaufman
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
A review of contemporary themes and approaches in the sociology of culture. Topics will include theories of media and mass society; high-brow and low-brow in cultural consumption; class, culture, and power; the production of culture; neo-institutionalism and the dissemination of schema; culture and cognition; incorporating culture in macro-theories of social change; and current methodological strategies for the empirical study of cultural processes.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Sociology 275. Social Network Analysis
Catalog Number: 6899
Peter V. Marsden
Half course (spring term). M., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Teaches concepts and methods for studying social structure in terms of social relationships or social networks. Approaches to collection of network data; issues of data quality; analysis of total network data via graph-theoretic techniques, multidimensional scaling, block models and related methods; analysis of survey network data on interpersonal environments of individuals.

Sociology 290. Sociological Field Methods
Catalog Number: 4613
Gwendolyn Dordick
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
An intensive exploration of strategies, practices, and problems in the sociological investigation of natural settings with a principal focus on gaining practical experience in the field. In addition to smaller exercises, students will complete two significant research projects. Classroom time will be spent analyzing and debriefing issues that arise in the course of conducting these projects.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Open to all graduate students 2nd year and above.

Sociology 296a. Proseminar on Inequality and Social Policy I
Catalog Number: 6231 Enrollment: Limited to 18.
David Tabor Ellwood (Kennedy School)
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Deals with the causes of economic inequality, including demand for various kinds of skills, the supply of such skills, cultural differences, political attitudes, political institutions, and living arrangements.
Note: Jointly offered with the Kennedy School as HLE-511.

Sociology 296b. Proseminar on Inequality and Social Policy II
Catalog Number: 0193
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Deals with the reasons for changes in economic inequality, including changes in the supply and demand for skills, employment patterns, living arrangements, residential segregation by race and class, discrimination against women and minorities, immigration, the growth of the welfare state, and recent changes in welfare regulations.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

The Committee on South Asian Studies is a multidisciplinary group of scholars appointed to coordinate teaching and research on South Asia (Bhutan, Bangla Desh, India, Maldives, Pakistan, Nepal, Sri Lanka, and the neighboring areas) among Harvard’s departments and schools and is concerned with the planned development of South Asian Studies in the University as a whole. It sponsors lectures, seminars, conferences, films, and exhibitions on South Asia. Its various interdisciplinary seminars are open to all students and faculty members. There is no separate degree program, but degrees can be sought in the Department of Sanskrit and Indian Studies, which offers undergraduate concentrations in both Sanskrit Studies and Indian Studies. Advanced degrees (A.M., Ph.D.) are only offered in Sanskrit and Indian Studies combined, requiring the student to study advanced Sanskrit. Other departments and programs affiliated with the South Asia Committee may also offer degrees; applicants should contact those departments directly.

The courses listed below deal directly or indirectly with the study of South Asia. A more detailed description of these courses may be found in this catalog under the appropriate department or committee. Other relevant courses are listed in the catalogs of the schools of Business, Divinity, Education, Public Health, Law, and the Kennedy School of Government.

Special Concentrations

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Degrees in Special Concentrations

Anthony G. Oettinger, Gordon McKay Professor of Applied Mathematics and Professor of Information Resources Policy (Chair)
Allan M. Brandt, Professor of the History of Science (FAS) and Amalie Moses Kass Professor of the History of Medicine (Medical School)
Peter Buck, Senior Lecturer on the History of Science
Deborah D. Foster, Senior Lecturer on Folklore and Mythology (Director of Undergraduate Studies)

Robert Kiely, Harvard College Professor and the Donald P. and Katherine B. Loker Professor of English (on leave spring term)
Stephen M. Kosslyn, John Lindsley Professor of Psychology
Arthur L. Loeb, Senior Lecturer on Visual and Environmental Studies
Robb Moss, Rudolf Arnheim Lecturer on Filmmaking
Sandra Naddaff, Senior Lecturer on Literature
Peter P. Rogers, Gordon McKay Professor of Environmental Engineering (on leave spring term)
Philip Stone, Professor of Psychology
Richard Wolf, Assistant Professor of Music (on leave 2002-03)

Application forms and information on completing petitions for Special Concentrations may be obtained from the Committee’s office, University Hall B-2.

Primarily for Undergraduates

*Special Concentrations 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 2815
Deborah D. Foster and members of the Committee
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Open to Special Concentrations concentrators who wish to pursue supervised study for graded credit in an area not covered by courses currently offered by regular Departments and Committees. Students must secure the written approval of the faculty member with whom they wish to study and the signature of the Faculty Adviser and the Director of Undergraduate Studies of Special Concentrations.

*Special Concentrations 96r. Senior Projects
Catalog Number: 0829
Deborah D. Foster and members of the Committee
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Designed for seniors in their final semester completing their senior project to meet the Basic (rather than Honors) requirements for concentration. May be repeated with the permission of the Director of Undergraduate Studies and the Faculty Adviser. Students must secure the written approval of the faculty member with whom they wish to study and the signature of the Faculty Adviser and the Director of Undergraduate Studies of Special Concentrations.

*Special Concentrations 97r. Tutorial — Sophomore Year
Catalog Number: 2660
Deborah D. Foster and members of the Committee
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Ordinarily taken by honors sophomores.

*Special Concentrations 98r. Tutorial — Junior Year
Catalog Number: 2497
Deborah D. Foster and members of the Committee
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Successful completion two terms of *Special Concentrations 98r are ordinarily required of all honors concentrators in their junior year. Exceptions to this can only be granted with the consent of the Faculty Adviser and the Director of Undergraduate Studies of Special Concentrations.

*Special Concentrations 99. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 3294
Deborah D. Foster and members of the Committee
Full course. Hours to be arranged.
Note: Ordinarily taken by honors seniors as a full course. Either half year may be taken as a half course only with the consent of the Faculty Adviser and the Director of Undergraduate Studies of Special Concentrations. Graded SAT/UNS.

Statistics

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Department of Statistics

Donald B. Rubin, Professor of Statistics (Chair)
Arthur P. Dempster, Professor of Theoretical Statistics (on leave spring term)
S.C. Samuel Kou, Assistant Professor of Statistics
Jun S. Liu, Professor of Statistics
Fabrizia Mealli, Visiting Associate Professor of Statistics
Xiao-Li Meng, Professor of Statistics (Director of Graduate Studies)
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Mayumi Morimoto, Lecturer on Statistics
Carl N. Morris, Professor of Statistics (on leave 2001-02)
David van Dyk, Associate Professor of Statistics (Head Tutor)
Steve C. Wang, Lecturer on Statistics (Head Tutor)
Wing H. Wong, Professor of Statistics (FAS) and Professor of Computational Biology (Public Health)

Other Faculty Offering Instruction in the Department of Statistics

Frederick Mosteller, Professor of Mathematical Statistics, (Emeritus), (FAS), Roger Irving Lee Professor of Mathematical Statistics (Public Health) (Emeritus)
Bernard Rosner, Professor of Medicine (Medical School)
Alan Zaslavsky, Associate Professor of Statistics (Medical School)

In 2001–2002, the Statistics Department offers four courses at the introductory level (below Statistics 110). Statistics 100 and 101 are essentially equivalent in terms of their quantitative requirements, but differ in the amount of emphasis placed on different techniques and applications. Statistics 100 emphasizes regression, including multiple regression, which is essential in economics and related fields. Statistics 101 emphasizes analysis of variance, which is widely used in experimentally oriented subjects such as psychology and biology. Statistics 104 combines the content of Statistics 100 and 101, and moves somewhat faster than these courses, assuming a stronger quantitative orientation. Statistics 102 is comparable to Statistics 104 in its technical level, but is specifically oriented toward biomedical applications and techniques.

Generally, Statistics 104 and 101 will be accepted as fulfilling any requirement or prerequisite which is fulfilled by Statistics 100. Consult the Statistics Department or your tutorial office for more information about which courses satisfy your concentration requirements, and for guidance on selecting a course. More detailed information can be accessed through the network at the Statistics Department home page at www.harvard.edu/~stats/.

Primarily for Undergraduates

Statistics 91r. Supervised Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 6641
David van Dyk and members of the Department
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Note: Normally may not be taken more than twice; may be counted for concentration in Statistics if taken for graded credit; may be taken in either term; for further information consult with head tutor.

Statistics 99hf. Tutorial — Senior Year
Catalog Number: 4381
David van Dyk and members of the Department
Half course (throughout the year). Hours to be arranged.
The systematic application of statistical ideas to a problem area.
Note: In exceptional circumstances, may be taken alternatively as a half course in the spring term only.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

Statistics 100. Introduction to Quantitative Methods
Catalog Number: 3808
Fabrizia Mealli (University of Florence) (fall term), Fabrizia Mealli (fall term) and Steve C. Wang (spring term)
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and a section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Introduces the key ideas underlying statistical and quantitative reasoning, including fundamentals of probability. Topics may include elements of sample surveys, experimental design and observational studies, descriptive and summary statistics for both measured and counted variables, and statistical inference including estimation and tests of hypotheses as applied to one- and two-sample problems, regression with one or more predictors, correlation, and analysis of variance. Emphasizes simple and multiple regression and applications in nonexperimental fields including, but not limited to, economics.
Note: Only one of the following courses may be taken for credit: Statistics 100, 101, 104.

Statistics 101. Introduction to Quantitative Methods
Catalog Number: 5128
Steve C. Wang
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, and a section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Covers the same topics as Statistics 100. Emphasizes the analysis of variance, applied in experimental fields such as psychology and other behavioral sciences.
Note: Only one of the following courses may be taken for credit: Statistics 100, 101, 104.

Statistics 102. Fundamentals of Biostatistics
Catalog Number: 0266
Bernard Rosner (Medical School)
Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 11, and section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
An introduction to statistical methods used in biological and medical research. Elementary probability theory, basic concepts of statistical inference, sampling theory, regression and correlation methods, analysis of variance, study design. Emphasis on applications to medical problems.
Note: Primarily for undergraduates with medical or biological interests.

Statistics 104. Introduction to Quantitative Methods
Catalog Number: 4582
David van Dyk
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 11, and a section time to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4 Covers the same topics as 100 and 101 combined, at a slightly higher level. Applications will be drawn from fields such as economics, behavioral and health sciences, policy analysis, and law.

Note: Only one of the following courses may be taken for credit: Statistics 100, 101, 104.

Statistics 110. Introduction to Probability

Catalog Number: 0147

Wing H. Wong

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1, and a section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14

A first course in probability pointed toward applications, for students with some calculus. Models include the normal, binomial, exponential, Poisson and gamma distributions. Topics include expectation, independence, conditioning, generating functions, joint distribution and density functions, and limit laws.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 21a or equivalent.

Statistics 111. Introduction to Theoretical Statistics

Catalog Number: 1836

Xiao-Li Meng

Half course (spring term). M., W., F., at 12, and a section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 5

Basic concepts of statistical inference from frequentist and Bayesian perspectives. Topics include maximum likelihood methods, confidence and Bayesian interval estimation, hypothesis testing, least squares methods, and analysis of variance.

Prerequisite: Statistics 110 and basic linear algebra.

Statistics 139. Regression Analysis

Catalog Number: 1450

Steve C. Wang

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30, and a section meeting to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13

An introduction to data analysis using multiple regression. Topics may include model building and diagnostics, graphical checks of assumptions, transformations, multivariate graphics and visualization, exploratory data analysis, tests of significance and confidence intervals, and logistic regression. The course will emphasize analysis and investigation of real datasets using computer software.

Prerequisite: Statistics 100 or equivalent.

Statistics 140. Design of Experiments

Catalog Number: 7112

Mayumi Morimoto

Half course (spring term). W., F., 3:30–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9

Statistical designs for the estimation of the effects of treatments in randomized experiments. Topics include brief review of some basic structural inference procedures, analysis of variance, randomized and Latin square designs, factorial designs, confounding in blocks, and fractional replications.

Prerequisite: Statistics 100 and 139, or equivalent.
Statistics 149. Generalized Linear Models
Catalog Number: 6617
Steve C. Wang
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
An introduction to the application and theory of generalized linear models. Emphasis is on understanding models and applying them to data. Topics include likelihood theory, exponential families, model specification, model checking and diagnostics, logistic and ordinal regression, log-linear models, quasi-likelihood, generalized estimating equations, and generalized linear mixed models. Applications are drawn from a variety of fields, including medicine, biology, and the social sciences.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Statistics 111 or equivalent and Statistics 139 or equivalent.

Statistics 160. Survey Methods
Catalog Number: 2993
Xiao-Li Meng
Half course (spring term). M., F., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
An introductory course to the methodology of sample surveys. Topics cover both design issues (e.g., multi-stage sampling) and analysis methods (e.g., regression estimation). Emphasis will be given to statistical insights and practical feasibility. The common problem of nonresponse in sample surveys will also be addressed.
Prerequisite: Statistics 111 or 139, or permission of instructor.

Statistics 171. Introduction to Stochastic Processes
Catalog Number: 4180
Jun Liu
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
An introductory course in stochastic processes. Topics include Markov chains, branching processes, Poisson processes, birth and death processes, renewal theory, queuing theory, Brownian motion, and Martingales.
Prerequisite: Statistics 110 or equivalent.

Statistics 185. Statistical Decision and Forecasting
Catalog Number: 6788
David van Dyk
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
The development of a Bayesian approach to the related problems of decision and forecasting. Decision topics will include utility, loss, decision rules, risk, admissibility of decision rules, and decision theoretic aspects of sequential analysis. Forecasting will be developed through the dynamic linear model and include topics such as sequential analysis and smoothing; models for polynomial trends, seasonal trends, and adjustment for covariates; and forecast intervention, monitoring, and error analysis. Theory and computational methods will be developed with a strong emphasis on applications to a variety of data sets.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Statistics 110 or 139 or equivalent.
Primarily for Graduates

Statistics 210. Probability Theory and Statistical Inference I
Catalog Number: 2487
Jun S. Liu
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Prerequisite: A course in probability and statistics at least at the level of Statistics 110, 111.

Statistics 211. Probability Theory and Statistical Inference II
Catalog Number: 1946
S.C. Samuel Kou
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
Introduction to statistical inference. Frequency, Bayesian, and decision-theoretic approaches. Likelihood, sufficiency, multivariate Normal distribution, and exponential families. Testing hypotheses and estimation. Maximum likelihood estimation, likelihood ratio tests, linear models, models for frequency data, large and moderate sample approximations, including the delta method.
Prerequisite: Advanced calculus, Statistics 210, or equivalent.

Statistics 214. Causal Inference in Statistics and the Social and Biomedical Sciences
Catalog Number: 4042
Donald B. Rubin and Fabrizia Mealli (University of Florence)
Half course (fall term). Th., 2:30–5. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
Approaches to causal inference. Covers randomized experiments with and without noncompliance, observational studies with and without ignorable treatment assignment, instrumental variables and sensitivity analysis. A number of applications from economics, medicine, education, etc., are discussed.

Statistics 215 (formerly Statistics 315a and 315b). Fundamentals of Computational Biology
Catalog Number: 3304
Jun S. Liu and Wing H. Wong
Half course (spring term). F., 1–3:30, Th., 2–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 16, 17, 18
Covers developments in bioinformatics/computational biology in the past 30 years, with emphasis on topics of recent interest. Topics include the basics of statistical estimation, BLAST methods and theory, cDNA sequence analysis, clustering and classification methods, data resources, hidden Markov models, Gibbs sampler, microarray analysis, gene regulatory motif discoveries, phylogenetic inference, protein structures, comparative genomics.
Note: Course will have weekly meetings in both Cambridge and at the School of Public Health with identical content.
Statistics 220 (formerly Statistics 220r). Bayesian Data Analysis
Catalog Number: 6270
David van Dyk
Half course (fall term). M., W., F., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Begins with basic Bayesian models, whose answers often appear similar to classical answers, followed by more complicated hierarchical and mixture models with nonstandard solutions. Includes methods for monitoring adequacy of models and examining sensitivity of conclusions to change in models. Throughout, emphasis on drawing inferences via computer simulation rather than mathematical analysis.
Prerequisite: Statistics 110 and 111.

Statistics 221. Statistical Computing Methods
Catalog Number: 5959
S.C. Samuel Kou
Half course (spring term). Tu., F., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8, 16, 17
A study of computing methods commonly used in statistics. Topics include generation of random numbers, Monte Carlo methods, optimization methods, numerical integration, and advanced Bayesian computational tools such as the Gibbs sampler, Metropolis Hastings, the method of auxiliary variables, marginal and conditional data augmentation, slice sampling, exact sampling, and reversible jump MCMC. Computer programming exercises apply the methods discussed in class.
Prerequisite: Linear algebra, Statistics 111, and knowledge of a computer programming language. Statistics 220 is recommended.

[Statistics 232 (formerly Statistics 332). Incomplete Multivariate Data]
Catalog Number: 4196
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Methods for handling incomplete data sets with general patterns of missing data, emphasizing likelihood-based and Bayesian approaches. Focus is on the application and theory of iterative maximization methods, iterative simulation methods, and multiple imputation. Includes coverage of some multivariate tools and theory relevant to missing data problems. Real examples are drawn from a variety of fields, including health sciences, history of science, and government.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: A course in probability (Statistics 110-level), a course in theoretical statistics (Statistics 111-level), and knowledge of regression and linear algebra (Statistics 139-level).

[Statistics 239. Advanced Regression Analysis]
Catalog Number: 7423
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Besides the applications done jointly with Statistics 139, students meet separately to develop the theory (multivariate normal, maximum likelihood, likelihood ratio tests, Gauss-Markov, etc.) of linear models. Students do some of the homework assignments from Statistics 139, but also other assignments that differ and are more advanced. Grading is separate from Statistics 139.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Probability and statistics at the level of Statistics 110 and 111.
Graduate Courses of Reading and Research

*Statistics 301. Special Reading and Research
Catalog Number: 4474
Arthur P. Dempster 2345 (on leave spring term), Jun S. Liu 3760, S. C. Samuel Kou 4054, Xiao-Li Meng 4023, Carl N. Morris 2178 (on leave 2001-02), Frederick Mosteller 2235, Bernard Rosner (Medical School) 4018, Donald B. Rubin 7966, Steve C. Wang 2581, Wing H. *Statistics 310hfr. Astrophysics Seminar
Catalog Number: 9367
David van Dyk 2669
Half course (throughout the year). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

[Statistics 311. Recent Advances in Markov Chain Monte Carlo Technology]
Catalog Number: 0826
David van Dyk 2669
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Starting with a review of such standard techniques as Data Augmentation, the Gibbs sampler, and Metropolis Hastings, the course will focus on recent research papers on such topics as adaptive rejection sampling, the method of auxiliary variables, simulated tempering, the collapsed Gibbs sampler, marginal and conditional data augmentation, the nested EM algorithm, slice sampling, exact sampling, simulated sintering, reversible jump MCMC, regeneration, and sequential MC methods.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: Statistics 220 or equivalent.

*Statistics 312r (formerly Statistics 312hfr). Advanced Topics in Statistical Computing
Catalog Number: 7775
Xiao-Li Meng 4023
Half course (fall term). M., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

*Statistics 314r (formerly Statistics 314hfr). Seminar: Non-Parametric Methods
Catalog Number: 5052
S.C. Samuel Kou 4054
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

*Statistics 316. Research Seminar: Statistics of Complex Systems
Catalog Number: 4442
Arthur P. Dempster 2345 (on leave spring term) 2345
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 9
Statistical modeling and analysis applied to complex systems, including climate and ecological systems and complex memory systems used in visual recognition.

Catalog Number: 1478
Arthur P. Dempster 2345 (on leave spring term)
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Study of systems for evidence-based probabilistic reasoning, such as Fisherian, Bayesian, and Dempster-Shafer inference, with applications to inferential analyses, including prediction, risk assessment, and decision analysis.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Statistics 349r. Analysis of Psychological Data: Issues and Examples]
Catalog Number: 4528
Donald B. Rubin 7966
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Consulting projects on statistical problems arising in psychological and related research areas.
Participants expected to contribute actively to one or more projects.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Statistics 392hfr (formerly Statistics 292r). Topics in Statistics
Catalog Number: 0925
Donald B. Rubin 7966 7966
Half course (throughout the year). W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
A range of currently active projects. All involve real applications and require mathematical statistical development. Applications include education, census, political science, biomedical research. Techniques include design of experiments, Bayesian modelling, multiple imputation.

Ukrainian Studies

AN HISTORICAL EDITION OF FAS COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Faculty of the Committee on Ukrainian Studies
Roman Szporluk, Mykhailo S. Hrushev’s’kyi Professor of Ukrainian History (Chair) (on leave fall term)
Patricia R. Chaput, Professor of the Practice of Slavic Languages (on leave 2001-02)
Michael S. Flier, Oleksandr Potebnja Professor of Ukrainian Philology, Associate of Adams
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

House (Acting Chair, fall term)
Timothy J. Colton, Morris and Anna Feldberg Professor of Government and Russian Studies (on leave 2001-02)
Grzegorz Ekiert, Professor of Government (on leave 2001-02)
George G. Grabowicz, Dmytro Cyzevs’kyj Professor of Ukrainian Literature
Eric Lohr, Assistant Professor of History (on leave 2002-03)
Terry D. Martin, John L. Loeb Associate Professor of the Social Sciences

The Standing Committee on Ukrainian Studies was created by vote of the Faculty on October 29, 1974, to facilitate the systematic study of and coordinate work on Ukrainian subjects throughout the departments of the University. No degree specifically in Ukrainian Studies is offered on either the undergraduate or the graduate level. Students wishing to obtain a higher degree in a particular discipline of Ukrainian Studies, such as language, literature, politics, or history, should first fulfill all the requirements of the department of their scholarly discipline (departments of Government, History, Linguistics, or Slavic Languages and Literatures). Only then should they proceed to the fulfillment of specific qualifications in the Ukrainian aspect of their disciplines under the supervision of the Committee’s faculty. The weekly, interdisciplinary Seminar in Ukrainian Studies serves to introduce the methodology, analysis, and specific aspects of Ukrainian disciplines. Attendance at the seminar, therefore, is a prerequisite for any further study.

Working in cooperation with the graduate students and faculty of the Ukrainian Research Institute, founded in June 1973, the Committee sponsors events and activities of interest to specialists in Ukrainian studies. The Institute also maintains a research library and publications office. Specific questions concerning Ukrainian Studies and requests for the pamphlet describing Ukrainian Studies at Harvard should be addressed to the Director of the Institute, at 1583 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, MA 02138.

Primarily for Graduates

*Ukrainian 200. Ukrainian Studies: Seminar
Catalog Number: 7927
Roman Szporluk, Michael S. Flier, George G. Grabowicz and staff
Full course. M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Interdisciplinary seminar concentrating on methodological aspects of the Ukrainian disciplines. Seminar members and guests from other departments of the University and other universities discuss specific topics from analytical and comparative perspectives. Covers history, philology, linguistics, literature, Orientalism, art, sociology, economics, and political science.

Many courses in Visual and Environmental Studies are subject to limitation of enrollment. No pre-enrollments are accepted; apply at first class meetings only. VES concentrators in studio courses are expected to attend the Thursday evening lectures held at the Carpenter Center for the Visual Arts. Ordinarily, courses numbered 1-10 precede higher numbered two-digit courses. VES concentrators must complete four one- or two-digit courses by the end of the sophomore year. Attention is also called to courses listed in the catalog of the Graduate School of Design and the MIT Institute for Advanced Visual Studies.

Primarily for Undergraduates

*Visual and Environmental Studies 2aar. 2-D Black and White Design: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 2930 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Paul Stopforth
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Through short assignments, longer projects, slide talks, and informal critiques, this class will provide a firm foundation in the abstract principles of organization that underlie all forms of pictorial representation. This is a basic vocabulary course very useful for intelligent development of future artwork in all media.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 3aar (formerly *Visual and Environmental Studies 3abr). 3-D Artmaking and Design: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 0442 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Patrick Strzelec
Half course (fall term). M., 6–9 p.m., W., 9–12. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3, 4
Students will work with an assortment of tools, techniques, and materials to solve specific 3-dimensional problems and basic sculpture concerns. The course will be based on spatial thinking that deals with point, line, plane, mass, balance, and form.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 4abr. The Art of Color: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 6811 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Martha Diamond
Half course (spring term). W., 1–5, and 6–8 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9 Color and perception, seeing and manipulating. Application in oil painting, collage, and monotype. Includes two primary elements: doing and exploring classic color problems and applying solutions to oil painting. In color studies learn to see, identify, and use color for its numerous effects. In painting, learn to mix color, use different mediums and various treatments of the paint itself. Try different surfaces, grounds, and brushes. Study the effect of technique on idea and aesthetics.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 7abr. Design of the Page: Graphic Design and Typography: Beginning Studio Course]
Catalog Number: 0502 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Lorraine Ferguson
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Students will learn to use type expressively so that it both is an image and powerfully communicates a message. Beginning with basic elements, we will gradually add levels of complexity (variable type weights, sizes, styles, color, and other elements, including illustrations). We will analyze historical examples of “page” designs (as in books, posters, banners, tickets, labels, signs, maps, advertisements, etc.) that are content-driven, taking into account message, function, and audience, and will critique formal qualities of composition, proportion, contrast, and color as they relate to the overall concept and visual and semantic effectiveness.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 10aar. Fundamentals of Drawing: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7057 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
William P. Reimann
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12, 13
Studio problems develop the draftsman’s way of knowing through observation, formulation, and articulation. Class discussions develop visually oriented critical ability. Numerous drawing media are introduced. Outside assignments are a regular part of the course, extending studio projects to encourage independent experiment and individual exploration.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 10aaxr. Fundamentals of Drawing: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 4704 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Paul Stopforth
*Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Using a variety of graphic media, this course will develop responses and explore possibilities in the process of drawing. A diverse range of hand made and found objects will function as source materials for much of the course in which observation, structural principles, and expressive procedures will be articulated in the making of drawings. Individual and group discussion will focus on work in progress. There will be occasional slide presentations and museum visits.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 10abr. Fundamentals of Drawing: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 5332 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
William P. Reimann
*Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 8:30–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12, 13
See description for Visual and Environmental Studies 10aaxr.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 10abxr. Fundamentals of Drawing: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7158 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Paul Stopforth
*Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
See description for Visual and Environmental Studies 10aaxr.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 10b. Intermediate Drawing: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 1763 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
William P. Reimann
*Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Continuation and extension of VES 10a. Studio problems are viewed against drawing traditions and conventions, raising questions of value and interpretation. Field trips and required independent work demand selectivity and judgement to compose using more complex media. Emphasis on individual growth and cultivation of self-critical ability.
Prerequisite: VES 10a or equivalent preparation (to be validated by portfolio presentation and interview).

*Visual and Environmental Studies 11aar (formerly *Visual and Environmental Studies 11abr). Fundamentals of Figure Study: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7311 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
William P. Reimann
*Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–4.
Study of the figure by drawing from the model and from other sources. The basis for further work includes, but is not limited to, simplified osteological drawings, elementary studies in three dimensions, from observation of human and other skulls, parts, assemblies, concluding with the whole skeleton. A unit on gross topographic anatomy will follow. Daily outside related assignments are designed to build skills in graphically managing mass, achieving a degree of control over landscape space, and in designing and composing the page. Students should bring a portfolio of previous work to the first class. Recommended preparation: minimum of a term’s work in basic drawing.

Visual and Environmental Studies 12aar. Mixed Media: Drawing Into Painting: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7913 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Julian Lethbridge
Half course (fall term). W., 1–5, and 6–8 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9
Different means of giving form to an idea or impulse, the mutability of an idea through its development from one medium to another and the altered means that may emerge will be explored within studio practice primarily involving painting and drawing although some elemental printmaking may be included. Studio projects will involve representation and abstraction, include assigned readings, an examination of diverse, primarily 20th—century artists, and class critiques and discussions. The course is directed towards acquiring both practical skills and self-awareness, and to function as a laboratory of experimentation from which everyone can learn from one another.

Visual and Environmental Studies 15aar. Fundamentals of Printmaking: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 8651 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
H. Peik Larsen
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Relief prints made from wood, linoleum, plastic, metal, and plaster will be explored in small to large sizes. Photo relief and stencil prints will also be made. Work will be done in black and white.
Note: No previous printmaking experience required.

Visual and Environmental Studies 15abr. Silkscreen: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 0844 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Annette Lemieux
Half course (spring term). M., W., 9–12. EXAM GROUP: 2, 3, 4
For the student who is interested in the manipulation of found and original imagery. Students will create monotypes on paper and other surfaces utilizing the silkscreen process. Via slide presentations the class will be introduced to the work of artists such as Rauschenberg, Warhol, Polke, and others who use the silkscreen process.

Visual and Environmental Studies 16abr. The Painterly Print: Monotype/Monoprint Workshop
Catalog Number: 3443 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
H. Peik Larsen
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
This hands-on investigation of transfer processes will use many printmaking materials and mono-printing techniques. A wide variety of images will evolve through artist-generated matrices and creative printing procedures such as offset, trace monotype and counter-proofing. Emphasis is on development of ideas and personal vocabulary through experimentation and variation.

Note: No previous printmaking experience required.

Visual and Environmental Studies 20aar. Painting Space, Part I: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 4153 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Christian Garnett

_Half course (fall term). M., 1–5, and 6–8 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9_
This introductory painting class will focus on developing a physical connection to the tools and materials of painting. Using traditional and non-traditional methods, we will explore relationships between color, light, form and space. Students will learn to handle paint with courage and confidence. There will be readings and discussions of meanings and methods of painting throughout history. Slide talks, critiques, demonstrations, and exercises will support various specific projects.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Visual and Environmental Studies 20abr. Grounds for Painting: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 3106 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Paul Stopforth

_Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged._
Through a range of explorative processes this course will function as a ground within which a variety of painterly possibilities are constructed. The emphasis will be on the practice of painting in developing relationships to material, mark, surface, color, pictorial ambiguity, and meaning. Individual and group discussions will focus on work in progress; there will be occasional slide presentations and museum visits.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Visual and Environmental Studies 20bbr. Painting Space, Part II: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 2204 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Christian Garnett

_Half course (spring term). M., 1–5, and 6–8 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9_
This semester we will investigate spatial constructions in painting as we continue to cultivate a physical relationship to the materials. Students will be encouraged to use paint freely while learning to take responsibility for form. Using the model of twentieth century painting, we will identify and solve problems of structure and meaning. Slide talks, readings, demonstrations, critiques, and unusual assignments will complement class projects.

Prerequisite: VES 20aar or another college-level painting class.

Visual and Environmental Studies 30aar. Fundamentals of Sculpture: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 6594 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Patrick Strzelec

_Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8_
Students will explore traditional and non-traditional methods of sculpture making. The focus will be on working in the studio with various materials, techniques, and processes, utilizing a hands-on approach in order to develop a personal vision. Museum and gallery visits will be included, providing a broader context and understanding of the medium.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 30abr. Fundamentals of Sculpture: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7185 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Patrick Strzelec
Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
See description for Visual and Environmental Studies 30aar.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 40ar. Fundamentals of Still Photography: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 2010 Enrollment: Limited to 72.
Chris Killip
Half course (fall term). W., at 11, with three hours lab and three hours section each week to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 4
Introduction to still photography through individual and group exercises, with an emphasis on the medium as a vehicle for expression, documentation, and personal vision. Covers necessary technical, historical, and aesthetic aspects of the medium.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 40b. Photography: Intermediate Studio Course
Catalog Number: 6256 Enrollment: Limited to 24.
Chris Killip and Sage Sohier
Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–4; or T., Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Designed to extend the student’s understanding of the process through which meaning is produced in photography. Examines differing approaches to format, context, and presentation through a series of set projects.
Prerequisite: VES 40ar or equivalent preparation (portfolio presentation).

*Visual and Environmental Studies 50. Fundamentals of Filmmaking: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 4907 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Alfred F. Guzzetti and Robb Moss
Full course. M., W., 1–5; or Tu., Th., 1–5. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Introductory exercises in live-action filmmaking culminating in the production of a nonfiction film as a group project in the spring term.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 51ar. Small-Format Video: Introductory Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7526 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Steven Peter Ascher and Jeanne Marie Jordan
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–5. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Working alone and in small groups, students make a series of videotapes exploring aspects of contemporary life, television, and themselves.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 51br. Small-Format Video: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 3838 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Ross S. McElwee
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–5. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
Continuation of VES 51ar but may be taken separately with permission of the instructor. Each student plans, shoots, and edits a videotape of his/her design. Readings, screenings, and class exercises augment individual work.

Note: Students seeking to enroll should come to the first class meeting with an idea and a production plan for a video tape to be completed in the course.

Prerequisite: Prerequisites for admission are VES 51ar, or another course in live action film or video.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 52ar. Introduction to Non-Fiction Video: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 5337 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Robb Moss
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
This class will explore the expressive use of digital cameras and computer editing in the production of various exercises and individual projects. Admission is by interview with the instructor.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 53a. Beginning Animation Studio: Beginning Studio Course
Catalog Number: 1360 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Steven Subotnick
Half course (fall term; repeated spring term). M., 1–5, F., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9
An introduction to the art of animation. Students will gain an understanding of animation aesthetics, concepts and history through a series of exercises, discussions and screenings. Students will complete a variety of short guided projects designed to acquaint them with the main elements of animation. Screenings and discussions will provide a conceptual and historical framework for the exercises. Drawing skills are not necessary.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 54r. Life Stories: Introductory Video Studio Course
Catalog Number: 6487 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Alfred F. Guzzetti
Half course (spring term). F., 1–5:30 plus two additional hours of lab to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9
Explores the opportunities offered by moving pictures and sound to present nonfiction life stories—biography, autobiography, and diary. Introductory exercises in small-format video lead to a final project of the student’s own design. Production work is supplemented by study and discussion of selected films and videotapes.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 80ar. Alternative Histories and Materials: Conceptual Practice Studio Course
Catalog Number: 8894 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Elaine Engel Reichek
Half course (fall term). M., 6–9, Tu., 8:30–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12, 13
An introduction to the metaphoric possibilities of a variety of non-traditional art practices and materials. The use of craft technique, collage, found objects, texts, quotation, and archival materials will be explored. Lectures, readings, and discussions will focus on alternative narratives and practices in historical and contemporary context, with a particular emphasis on the students’ own histories and ideas.

For Undergraduates and Graduates

[Visual and Environmental Studies 107. Studies of the Built North American Environment since 1580]
Catalog Number: 7883 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
John R. Stilgoe
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
North America as an evolving visual environment is analyzed as a systems concatenation involving such constituent elements as farms, small towns, shopping malls, highways, suburbs, and as depicted in fiction, poetry, cartography, television, cinema, and advertising and cybernetic simulation.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Graduate School of Design as 4105.

[*Visual and Environmental Studies 111abr (formerly Visual and Environmental Studies 111aar). Figure Drawing: Intermediate Studio Course]
Catalog Number: 1265 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Susan Hauptman
Half course (spring term). T., 1–5 and 6–8 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17, 18
Intensive studio concentration in the analysis and representation of the human form with an emphasis on the formal and abstract properties of depiction and the defining role of light. Narrative and metaphor are explored and a series of slide talks address the genre with a particular emphasis on contemporary representation of the body, from Lucien Freud to Cindy Sherman.
Prerequisite: VES 10a and 10b, or portfolio presentation.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 112aar. Mixed Media: Studio Course]
Catalog Number: 8268 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Annette Lemieux
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
For the student who is interested in creating works on paper using a variety of materials and methods. Via slide presentations the class will be introduced to the work of artists who work with mixed media.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 120aar. Do it - Do it Again With Love: The Pleasure of Painting: Intermediate/Advanced Studio Course]
Catalog Number: 9127 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Martin Maloney
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
This course will help you to discover what you are good at painting and how your talents, skills, and interests could be related to both art from the past and art being made today. Personal and group critiques will help you learn what others see when they look at your work. Through regular research and discussion we will look at contemporary art to clarify what you find mysterious or puzzling as we find out what we expect art to do and be. By the end of the course you will be on your way to establishing your own rules for making successful contemporary art.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 120abr. Painting for the 21st Century: Advanced Studio Course
Catalog Number: 8087 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
*Annette Lemieux
*Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
Through slide presentations and informal discussions students will be introduced to painters of the 20th century to the present (David Salle, Gary Hume, Jonathan Lasker and others). Students will create paintings focusing on painting techniques with an emphasis on subject matter and content.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 130aar. Building Thought: Intermediate Sculpture Studio Course
Catalog Number: 4186 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
*Annette Lemieux
*Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 8:30–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12, 13
Through slide presentations, assigned readings and informal discussions, students will be introduced to artists of the 20th century to the present. Students will create works with a variety of materials that will reflect the conceptual concerns of the artists studied (Marcel Duchamp, Marcel Broodthears, Louise Bourgeois, and others).

*Visual and Environmental Studies 130abr. The Language of Sculpture: Advanced Sculpture Studio Course
Catalog Number: 4596 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
*Jackie Brookner
*Half course (spring term). M., 6–9 p.m., Tu., 8:30–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12, 13
This course will approach making sculpture as a vehicle for exploring one’s identity, as an individual and as part of the larger social fabric. Discussions with each student will investigate their creative process, from plumbing one’s sources to conceptual development and appropriate materialization. Readings, group discussions, and group critiques will grapple with such issues as: The expanding role of the artist today and how this affects the working process, how the work interacts with the world—as personal expression, as interdisciplinary exploration and/or in response to challenges within contemporary society. The course is intended for more advanced students and admission will be based on interview and portfolio review.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 131. Designing for the Stage: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 1116 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
*J. Michael Griggs
*Half course (fall term). M., W., 2–3:30. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
Students prepare and present for criticism stage design projects based on play texts that suggest varying interpretive and stylistic problems. Focus is on examining ideas through research of visual material and analysis of text. Through their design projects, students also complete assignments in perspective drawing, drafting, model making, and lighting design. Students at all levels of skill are welcome.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 132. Projects in Stage Design: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7533 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
J. Michael Griggs
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
The class will complete projects that explore the techniques of the stage designer. Projects may include large-scale scene painting, drafting, and CAD, advanced model making, and working with wood and metal. Some projects will be based on interpretations of dramatic literature to examine both conceptual issues and the practical problems of designing for the stage.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 140ar. Color Photography: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 0842 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Sage Sohier
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
A comprehensive introduction to photographing in color. The emphasis on the course will be on producing a body of photographic work using color, negative, and print technology. Attention will also be paid to color transparency materials, color theory, and the history of color photography over the last 25 years. A brief introduction to digital photography will be also included.
Prerequisite: VES 40ar or 40b or portfolio presentation.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 143r. The Photographer as Auteur: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 2835 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Chris Killip
Half course (spring term). W., 6–9 p.m. and additional hours to be arranged.
Explores the way in which some photographic practitioners have questioned accepted photographic conventions and are rejecting the historical orthodoxy in favor of a more subjective statement. Each student is expected to complete a major photographic project that reveals his or her own personal photographic style and preoccupations while still retaining a direct and discernable relationship to the subject.
Prerequisite: VES 40ar or 40b or portfolio presentation.

Visual and Environmental Studies 144br. A History of Photography: The 20th Century
Catalog Number: 6161
Jim Dow
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
The second semester of a two-semester survey of photographic practice from the inception of the medium through contemporary practice. While all aspects of post-World War I photography will be examined exhaustively, there will be considerable emphasis on work done as personal investigation or expression, as this is a 20th century phenomenon.
Note: Although all students will be required to do visually based projects, in addition to papers, this class is intended for a university-wide audience; a course in 19th century photography is not a prerequisite.
2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

*Visual and Environmental Studies 145r. Photography Now: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 9355 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Volker Heinze (Universität GH Essen)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 15, 16, 17
This course will undertake an in-depth study of contemporary photographic practice with a special emphasis on German Contemporary Photography (the Düsseldorf School and its followers). Each student will be expected to undertake a major photographic project.
Prerequisite: VES 40ar or 40b or portfolio presentation.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 146br. The Photographic Portrait: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 5743 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Chris Killip
Half course (spring term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
This course will examine the practical, sociological, historical, and aesthetic issues surrounding portrait photography in parallel with the active participation of each student in his/her own photographic project.
Prerequisite: VES 40ar or VES 40b or portfolio presentation.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 150ar. Film Production: Intermediate Studio Course
Catalog Number: 4692 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Hal Hartley
Half course (fall term). M., W., 1–4. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
All students will make two short pieces (one in film, the other in video) from two of four scripts provided to them by the instructor. The focus of the work is on increasing the student’s ability to observe the world around them and to exercise their ability to articulate the impressions gained from that observation.
Prerequisite: VES 50.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 150br. Film Production: Intermediate Studio Course
Catalog Number: 3934 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Hal Hartley
Half course (spring term). W., 1–4, M., 6–9 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
All students will make one short film or video which is their own original treatment of the topics explored in the previous course (VES 150ar); success or failure in various forms of observation and/or articulation.
Prerequisite: VES 150ar.

*Visual and Environmental Studies 151ar. The Post-Cinematic in Video Art: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 7965 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Isaac Julien
Half course (spring term). M., 1–4, Tu., 6–9 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8
The influence of cinema is everywhere in contemporary art practice. With the advent of new digital technologies producing new spectators, new ways of seeing. This course will explore both the new theoretical and practical implications of this; by utilizing photography, video, performance, and the different “genres” of film styles explored in this new medium, this course will explore the nexus between these different developments and practices of what can be termed the post-cinematic in video culture.

Prerequisite: At least one course in video production and at least one course in film theory.

Visual and Environmental Studies 151br. Tricking the Figurative out of the Quotidian: Studio Course
Catalog Number: 6247 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Ken Kobland

Half course (fall term). W., 1–4, Th., 10–1. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 12, 13, 14
Sophisticated small-format DV video allows for a rich reinvention of the personal/immediate as a fecund field of cinematic meaning; “stories” confected out of the manipulation of the medium itself. Through acts of extraordinary attention we discover in the “everyday” the necessary figurative spectacle for our concerns. The course examines work which is relevant to this kind of thinking/seeing and requires a series of short DV video “chapters” cumulatively resulting in a unique portrait of life and mind.

Prerequisite: One VES half-course in video production.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 151cr. Timelines: Sound and the Moving Image: Studio Course]
Catalog Number: 6452
Alfred F. Guzzetti and Kurt Stallmann

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A series of compositional studies and experiments exploring interrelationships between digital video imagery and sound.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.
Prerequisite: A course in video production or electro-acoustic musical composition.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 152ar. Women and Film: Production and Criticism]
Catalog Number: 3161 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Giuliana Bruno

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
A survey of film history and aesthetics that highlights the contribution of women, from the origin of cinema to recent production. How do women make, and write about, cinema? How does this change the way we look at, and read, images? Comparative analysis of filmic texts is combined with a study of film history and theory, including feminist theory. This work questions image making in relation to filmmaking, film viewing, and film criticism.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 152br. Italian Cinema: History, Geography, and Identity]
Catalog Number: 8324 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Giuliana Bruno

Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Examines the creative impact of Italian cinema in the context of Italian culture. What is the place of Italian cinema in film and cultural history? Is “national” cinema a cultural geography? Begins with the aesthetic and political canons of Neorealism, considers its phenomenology and Historicism, and moves from modernism to postmodernism. Analyzes, among others, Rossellini’s re-presentation of everyday life, Fellini’s opulent theatricality, Antonioni’s elegant minimalism, Visconti’s operatic design, Pasolini’s innovative film theory and practice, and Bertolucci’s scenographic fashions. Turning to contemporary times, it considers the impact of women directors and the new imagination of current independent filmmakers.

*Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Visual and Environmental Studies 153br. World Cinema: Questions of Third Cinema
Catalog Number: 9200 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Mark Nash (University of East London)
Half course (spring term). M., 6–9 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 9
Course looks at mainly non-European “World” Cinemas, and discusses issues relating to cinematic form and cultural identity. Examines interconnections between non-European cinema and its various cultural and economic contexts. Considers issues of national cinema and the political and cultural constructions of National identity. Studies the work of filmmakers from East Asia, Latin America, India and Africa and investigates the transition from colonial to post-colonial cinema, and the relation of filmmaking and film theory to liberation struggles.

Visual and Environmental Studies 154ar (formerly Visual and Environmental Studies 159ar). The Moving Image: Film and Visual Representation
Catalog Number: 2874 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Giuliana Bruno
Half course (fall term). Th., 10–11:30; Screenings: W., at 7 p.m.; Sections F., at 10 or 11. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
A survey aimed at developing visual literacy, this introduction to film history looks at major 20th century ideas on art and perception. We examine the invention of film in relation to significant cultural changes in our experience of visual space, and follow the evolution of film as a technique of spatio-visual observation. Addressing socio-sexual space, we see the moving image as product of the age of industrialization and conquest, element of urban culture, and means of imaginary transportation, on the brink of inside-outside. As we analyze case-study films on the subject of home(land), cityscape, and voyage, we provide analytic tools for understanding the language of cinema, and its impact on visual culture.

*Note: Recommended as preparation for VES 155ar and VES 155br. Jointly offered with the School of Design as 4131.

Visual and Environmental Studies 154br. Frames of Mind: Introduction to Film Theory and Film Analysis
Catalog Number: 0648 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Giuliana Bruno
Half course (spring term). Th., 10–11:30; Screenings: W., at 7 p.m.; Sections F., at 10 or 11. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
A basic introduction to the language of film theory, aimed at developing analytic skills to interpret films. We offer a historical survey that spans from turn-of-the-century scientific motion studies to the emotion studies of Hugo Münsterberg, and reaches the virtual movements of our new millennium. We consider Eisenstein’s theory of montage, the cultural history of the cinematic apparatus, and the body of physical existence, going from Kracauer to gender studies.
Different theoretical positions open up our understanding of films, and guide us in reading them. Particular attention is paid to theories that enable close analysis of films. In considering cultural transformation, for example, we test Walter Benjamin’s view of the age of mechanical reproduction vis-à-vis its contemporary representation in the film The Matrix.

Note: Recommended as preparation for VES 155ar and VES 155br. Jointly offered with the School of Design as 4132.

Visual and Environmental Studies 155ar. Film Architectures: Seminar Course
Catalog Number: 6864 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Giuliana Bruno

Half course (fall term). W., 2–4; Screenings: Tu., at 7 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

What is our experience of architecture in cinema? Considering the relation of these two arts of space, we look at how film and architecture are linked in history on the “screen” of the modern age. Highlighting the interaction of modernity, urban culture, and cinema, we explore the architecture of film in relation to the architectures of transit and the culture of travel. Emphasis is on readings as well as analysis of case study to pursue research projects and make presentations to the seminar. Case study centers on the cine city, with focus on the architecture of theatres, starting from the era of the movie palace.

Note: Active participation in seminarial endeavors is required. Ideally followed with VES 155br. Jointly offered with the School of Design as 4351.

Prerequisite: A course in film studies or the equivalent course in cultural studies.

Visual and Environmental Studies 155br. A Cultural Study of Film: Mapping and Fashioning Space: Seminar Course
Catalog Number: 7760 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Giuliana Bruno

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4; Screenings: Tu., at 7 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8

The impulse to map (ourselves) is a major drive of contemporary visual culture. Since Fredric Jameson’s call for “cognitive mapping”, and artists’ return to the art of mapping, cultural studies regard mapping as a critical navigational route. Our cultural history of film looks at this moving field. How does the moving image participate in the shifting architectonics of visuality, space, and the body? How is the body “fashioned” in inner and outer space? Emphasis on readings and case study of relevant films to pursue research projects and make presentations to the seminar. Case study includes the culture of fashion in film.

Note: Active participation in seminarial endeavors is required. May be taken as a continuation of VES 155ar. Jointly offered with the School of Design as 4352.

Prerequisite: A course in film studies or the equivalent course in cultural studies.

Catalog Number: 5211 Enrollment: Limited to 10.
Steven Subotnick

Half course (fall term). W., 1–5, Screenings: F., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7, 8, 9

Building on basic knowledge gained in Beginning Animation, each student will produce a single animation project in this course. This course will also include more advanced animation techniques and exercises with emphasis on storyboarding, timing and sound design. Screenings and discussions will play an important role.

*Prerequisite: VES 53a or equivalent preparation.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 157ar. New German Cinema: Oppositional Energies and Utopian Designs]

Catalog Number: 8774

Eric Rentschler

Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

In 1962 twenty-six angry young German directors announced their resolve to revive a moribund national film culture. “New German Cinema” would gain acclaim in the 1970s for interventions marked by subversive narrative strategies and unique formal approaches. We will examine features, shorts, and documentaries by Fassbinder, Herzog, Kluge, Schloendorff, Straub/Huillet, von Trotta, and Wenders, probing these films’ aesthetic shapes as well as their socio-political and theoretical implications.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Prerequisite: No knowledge of German required. Readings, films, and discussions in English.

Visual and Environmental Studies 157br. Film Authorship and Film History: The Cinema of Fritz Lang

Catalog Number: 5171

Eric Rentschler

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 11; Screenings: M., 4 - 6 p.m. EXAM GROUP: 9

The cinema of Fritz Lang is one of circumscribed spaces and controlled settings. Lang himself represents an extreme case of directorial volition, a filmmaker who saw himself as a master of time and space, who took pride in his distinctive vision and singular worlds. And yet, Lang’s films also reflect the impact of different times and spaces, of Germany before Hitler, of Hollywood from the thirties to the fifties, of the Federal Republic during the Cold War era. In our analyses of representative films from the early twenties through the early sixties, we will be particularly concerned with questions of agency and history. To what degree are these works of a consummate auteur also “other-directed,” i.e. shaped and informed by forces beyond the conscious control of a highly self-conscious artist?

Prerequisite: No knowledge of German required. Readings, films, and discussions in English.

Visual and Environmental Studies 158b. A History of American Independent Film
Catalog Number: 8339
Bruce Jenkins
Half course (fall term). M., W., 4–5:30; Screenings: Tu., 4-6; Sections: Hours to be arranged.
EXAM GROUP: 9

This survey course examines the history of alternative practices in narrative cinema in the U.S. produced outside the context of the studio system and often in opposition to dominant forms.
Examples from this discontinuous history will be analyzed against the backdrop of the commercial cinema and shifting social, political, economic, and cultural trends across the century. Beginning with the independent movements of the late silent era and continuing through the various “off-Hollywood” and “underground” cinemas of the 1950s and 1960s to the independent feature movement of the 1980s and early 1990s, the course will focus on such topics as the articulation of sexual and racial difference; the influence of artistic movements such as Pop, Beat, Arte Povera, and Minimalism; and challenges to realism in documentary and autobiographical forms.

Visual and Environmental Studies 159b. Fiction, Narrative, and Form in Film
Catalog Number: 0242 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
Hal Hartley
Half course (spring term). Tu., 8:30–11. EXAM GROUP: 10, 11, 12, 13

This course will view a wide range of short films and video, including documentary, fiction, and formal works with the aim of distinguishing the concrete differences between each mode, as well as their respective uses of and/or resistance to narrative devices. Students will prepare short weekly essays.

[*Visual and Environmental Studies 160. Modernization in the Visual United States
Environment, 1890–2035]*
Catalog Number: 6668 Enrollment: Limited to 40.
John R. Stilgoe
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Modernization of the United States visual environment as directed by a nobility creating new images and perceptions of such themes as wilderness, flight, privacy, clothing, photography, feminism, status symbolism, and futurist manipulation as illustrated in print-media and other advertising enterprise.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Graduate School of Design as 4303.

Prerequisite: VES 107 or permission of the instructor.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 161b. Imagining the City: Literature, Film, and the Arts]
Catalog Number: 4511
Giuliana Bruno and Svetlana Boym
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
How do visual representation and narrative figuration contribute to construct urban identity?
Explores the urban imagination at the crossroad of different artforms: architecture, cinema, literature, photography, and painting. Topics to be mapped out include: cities and modernity; metrophilia and metrophobia; the museum and cultural archaeology; the ruin and the construction site; interior space and public sphere; technology and virtual cities. The montage of imaginary cities traverses aspects of Paris, Tokyo, Berlin, Moscow, Rome, St. Petersburg, New York, Naples, Shanghai, and Hong Kong.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Visual and Environmental Studies 162. Theories of Representation
Catalog Number: 5098 Enrollment: Limited to 18.
Elizabeth Grosz
Half course (spring term). M., W., at 10. EXAM GROUP: 3
Designed to introduce the major theories and issues arising in contemporary theories of representation, from the pioneering work of the founders of contemporary theories of representation—Ferdinand de Saussure (Europe) and Charles Sanders Pierce (US)—to recent developments in these two related traditions in the work of the post-structuralist theorists like Barthes, Foucault, Derrida, Irigaray and Kristeva, who consider questions of power and desire in visual as well as linguistic systems of representation.

Visual and Environmental Studies 163. Feminism, Space and Visuality: Seminar Course
Catalog Number: 5701 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Elizabeth Grosz
Half course (spring term). M., 1–3. EXAM GROUP: 6, 7
Examines questions of how space and vision have been associated with concepts of femininity. Asks if and how the differences between the sexes may help us to understand how we understand space, and how we attempt to represent it; and how changing our understanding of sexual difference may transform how space is understood, organized and represented. Beginning with writings by Luce Irigaray, we will explore how conceptions of space, light, and vision are elaborated in the same terms as the differences of the sexes.

[Visual and Environmental Studies 166. North American Seacoasts and Landscapes, Discovery to Present: Seminar]
Catalog Number: 5873
John R. Stilgoe
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.
Selected topics in the history of the North American coastal zone, including the seashore as wilderness, as industrial site, as area of recreation, and as artistic subject; the shape of coastal landscape for conflicting uses over time; and the perception of the seashore as marginal zone in literature, photography, painting, film, television, and advertising.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Graduate School of Design as 4304.
Prerequisite: VES 107 and VES 160, or permission of the instructor.
Visual and Environmental Studies 167. Adventure and Fantasy Simulation, 1871–2036: Seminar
Catalog Number: 4902
John R. Stilgoe
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
Visual constituents of high adventure since the late Victorian era, emphasizing wandering woods, rogues, tomboys, women adventurers, faerie antecedents, halflings, crypto-cartography, Third-Path turning, martial arts, and post-1937 fantasy writing as integrated into contemporary advertising, video, computer-generated simulation, and private and public policy.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03. Offered jointly with the Graduate School of Design as 4305.
Prerequisite: VES 107, VES 160, and VES 166, or permission of the instructor.

Visual and Environmental Studies 170. Introduction to Architectural Theory
Catalog Number: 5115
George P. Baird (Design School) and Sarah Whiting (Design School)
Half course (fall term). M., W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
This course presents the range of material factors (physical, cultural, social, and historical) that condition the production of architecture and their interaction with the ideologies (interpretive, theoretical, and critical) that elaborate these factors at particular times. The objective is to introduce the discipline of architecture—its distinct mode of thought and operation, recent history, and relation to other spheres of cultural production such as art, science, technology, and politics—by addressing issues related to the development of architectural theory.
Note: Jointly offered with the Graduate School of Design as 3202.

Catalog Number: 3978
John Beardsley (Design School)
Half course (spring term). Tu., W., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 4, 5, 13, 14
Practice, according to Garrett Eckbo, is ‘knowing how to do something; theory is knowing why.’ This course will explore the ‘know why’ of landscape architecture since the Second World War, juxtaposing both the built works and the writings of landscape architects with texts that address methodology or the discipline’s larger theoretical cultural contexts. Within this broad framework, the course will examine a series of topics, including, the quest for a modern language for landscape architecture in the 1950s and 1960s.
Note: Jointly offered with the Graduate School of Design as 3102.

Visual and Environmental Studies 172. Urbanization in the Pacific Asian Region
Catalog Number: 3742
Peter G. Rowe (Design School)
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2:30–4:30. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17, 18
The purpose of this course is to provide an overall account of the urbanization in selected cities within the rapidly developing Pacific Asian region; to characterize relevant political traditions and forms of planning administration affecting urbanization there; and to depict prevalent patterns of urbanization, including illustration at appropriate levels, such as district, block, and building type. The questions being addressed are whether there is a distinctive form to urbanization within the Pacific Asian region, or whether it is largely a matter of satisfying demands for rapid urban expansion within the ambit of internationally available building technology?

Note: Jointly offered with the Graduate School of Design as 4329.

Visual and Environmental Studies 173. Introduction to Urban Planning and Design
Catalog Number: 3328
François C. D. Vigier (Design School) and Ann Forsyth (Design School)
Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 11:30–1. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
This course provides an understanding of the dynamics that created contemporary urban and regional spatial patterns, of social theories pertinent to urbanized societies, and of the nature of public interventions that can remedy functional and social deficiencies. It also provides a common theoretical context for the complementary activities of urban designers and planners.
Note: Jointly offered with the Graduate School of Design as 5101.

Visual and Environmental Studies 174. Internet and Architecture
Catalog Number: 4881
Jeffrey Huang (Design School)
Half course (fall term). M., 4–6. EXAM GROUP: 9
Emerging information infrastructures are challenging how traditional architectural space is perceived, used and produced, creating for many, remarkable discontinuities. Yet the nature of these information-driven changes and their desirability for architecture and society is hotly contested. This project-oriented course purports to give a basic orientation to these fundamental changes and the implications of new internet-based concepts on the architecture of buildings.
Note: Offered jointly with the Graduate School of Design as 7301.

Half course (fall term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Explores inductively the arrangement of three-dimensional space. The symmetries and transformations of polyhedra are investigated by constructing and deconstructing study models. Stability, mobility, tensegrity, and dome structures are evaluated, and students are encouraged to apply the principles learned to architectural and sculptural designs. Students experiment with pencils, paper, compasses, straight edges, scissors, exacto-knives, sticks, and joints, to discover concepts before they are named. Rote memorization of definitions is thereby discouraged and seemingly disparate concepts become unified into fundamental principles. Stress on method, experiments, and risk taking. VES 175 and 176 together constitute the fundamental grammar of two- and three-dimensional space.
Note: VES 175 and 176 may be taken independently, and in either order. Offered jointly with the Graduate School of Education as T-126.

2001-2002 Previous Courses of Instruction

Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 10–11:30. EXAM GROUP: 12, 13
Concentrates on the fundamental parameters of structure, primarily in two dimensions. Symmetry theory (e.g., designs by M.C. Escher), dynamic symmetry, the golden section, the Fibonacci series, and spirals are presented visually rather than verbally, but nevertheless rigorously. Students experiment with pencils, paper, compasses, straight edges, scissors, exacto-knives, sticks, joints, and computer graphics, to discover concepts before they are named. Rote memorization of definitions is thereby discouraged and seemingly disparate concepts become unified into fundamental principles. Stress on method, experiments, and risk taking. Students are expected to create a portfolio of their own visual exercises. VES 175 and 176 together constitute the fundamental grammar of two- and three-dimensional space.

Note: VES 175 and 176 may be taken independently and in either order. Offered jointly with the Graduate School of Education as T-127.

H. Peik Larsen and members of the Department; Thursday Seminar (ordinarily, for VES studio track concentrators): Klaus Kertess
Full course. Hours to be arranged. Th., Seminar for VES studio concentrators: 7–9 p.m.
Note: Studio concentrators enrolled in VES 99 are required to attend a weekly seminar on Thursdays 7-9 p.m. in addition to working with the senior tutorial adviser. This seminar will explore the interplay between visual intelligence and verbal intelligence in the context of contemporary art. Reading and writing assignments will focus on how we construct vision and how we attempt to translate the seen into the written and spoken. The Seminar is not limited to VES studio concentrators and may be taken for credit by non-VES students by registering for “VES 190r. Projects and Research.” It is presumed to be a full-year course, but may be divided. Permission of Head Tutor and instructor required.

Visual and Environmental Studies 190r. Projects and Research

Half course (spring term). M., W., at 1 and a one hour section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6
This introductory course examines the relationship between gender and globalization, including the transformation of women’s work, women’s activism on a global stage, gendered effects of border and passport controls, environmental and health impacts of globalization, women and money, gender and migration, global media, the gendering of commodities, and the feminization of impoverishment. Although the course focuses on the current period of globalization, attention will also be given to earlier periods of colonization, conquest, and trade.

[Women’s Studies 103. Introduction to Gay and Lesbian Studies]
Catalog Number: 4778
Bradley S. Epps
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.
This course provides an intensive overview of the major texts, concepts, and issues on and about homosexuality. Although the field typically privileges the late 20th century and the West, we will also examine works from various cultures and historical periods. Materials will be drawn from literature, visual arts, film, anthropology, psychoanalysis, religion, politics, philosophy, and contemporary theory, Queer and otherwise.

Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Women’s Studies 110a. Bodies and Boundaries: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 1730 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Katharine Park
Half course (spring term). Tu., Th., 11–12:30. EXAM GROUP: 13, 14
The history of the body, with particular attention to gender, from late Middle Ages to present. Focusing on Europe and the United States, course examines ways in which the body has been used to construct boundaries: between male/female, human/non-human, between races, between the “normal” and the “abnormal,” between the healthy and the sick. It considers techniques used to enforce those boundaries, from social discipline to surgery to eugenics, and ways in which those boundaries were continually challenged by people who refused to accept them or whose bodies refused to conform.
Women’s Studies 110b. Current Problems in Feminist Theory: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 5590 Enrollment: Limited to 25.
Verena A. Conley

Half course (spring term). W., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
A consideration of debates surrounding gender as a category of knowledge in the arts and humanities, particularly with regard to fiction, film, and TV, literary criticism, philosophy, psychoanalysis, and cultural theory. Provides historical frameworks for understanding what is at stake in current controversies surrounding essentialism, ethnocentrism, and “the straight mind.” Explores recent struggles over both the intellectual histories and future potentials of poststructuralism, postmodernism, and avant-garde practice.

Women’s Studies 110c. Borders and Betrayals: Engendering Cultural Identities
Catalog Number: 7763
Kath Weston

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 1 and a one hour section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 6
Gender occurs in many different renditions as it combines with race, class, sexuality, ethnicity, religion, and various cultural identities. This course demonstrates how to “think” gender together with other identities by examining how such identities are constituted, the difference that culture makes, the imagined communities people create based on intersecting identities, and the effort required to maintain the borders involved. It also considers the conflicts and betrayals generated when people appear to “cross the line.”

Women’s Studies 125. Gender and Health
Catalog Number: 4563
Mary Ruggie (Kennedy School)

Half course (fall term). M., W., at 2 and one-hour section to be arranged. EXAM GROUP: 7
Using theoretical perspectives on the body and the self and debates between feminism and science, this course explores the role of women, the medical profession and various social institutions in constructing discourse and knowledge about gender and health. Among the issues we will discuss are health behaviors, reproductive health, STDs, mental health, cancer, and aging, and differences among women and men of different class, race, and ethnic groups.

Women’s Studies 131. Women, Violence, and the Law
Catalog Number: 1401 Enrollment: Limited to 30.
Diane L. Rosenfeld

Half course (spring term). M., W., 2:30–4. EXAM GROUP: 7, 8
What makes violence against women different from other types of violence? How do law and society interact in the perpetuation or eradication of violence against women? How do we, as a society, address the gender bias that underlies intimate-partner violence? This course will be devoted primarily to an examination of these questions in the context of contemporary American culture. Students will be introduced to feminist legal theory. The readings will include works of Catharine MacKinnon, Kimberle Crenshaw, bell hooks, Duncan Kennedy and Angela Browne.

[Women’s Studies 153 (formerly Women’s Studies 122). Psychoanalysis, Gender, and Sexuality]
Catalog Number: 7950 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Mari Ruti
Half course (spring term). Hours to be arranged.

Ever since Freud’s by now infamous question, “What does the woman want?”, psychoanalysis has been preoccupied by the riddle of feminine desire. While Freud developed the clinical practice of psychoanalysis around the desirous discourse of the hysterical woman, Lacan went as far as to link feminine pleasure to the divine. Drawing on psychoanalysis, and on recent feminist and queer theory, this course will explore questions of love, desire, pleasure, masculinity/femininity, sexual orientation, and the divine. Authors considered include Freud, Lacan, Klein, Horney, Riviere, Kristeva, Irigaray, Butler, Halberstam, Nabokov, Jeanette Winterson, Kate Bornstein, and St. Theresa.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

[Women’s Studies 154 (formerly Women’s Studies 111). I Like Ike, But I Love Lucy: Women, Popular Culture, and the 1950s: Conference Course]
Catalog Number: 6855
Alice Jardine
Half course (fall term). Hours to be arranged.

A diagnosis and analysis of this formative decade for the U.S. babyboomer. Taught from a cultural studies perspective, the course will focus on gender politics in print media, film, television, and rock of the early cold war era. Parks, McCarthy, Monroe, Kerouac, and many others.
Note: Expected to be given in 2002–03.

Women’s Studies 160. Black Feminisms: Seminar Course
Catalog Number: 7936 Enrollment: Limited to 15.
Naomi Pabst
Half course (fall term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Course examines an array of black feminist writings, African American and diasporic, within socio-historical context. Course also addresses how representations of black feminism and black womanhood overlap and diverge in relation to one another. With an emphasis on black/female identity as mitigated by “difference” along lines of race, class, gender, ethnicity, color, nationality, generation, etc., we will negotiate the personal and political stakes in black feminism. Authors include: Lorde, hooks, Carby, Mirza, Collins, Smith, Morgan.

Women’s Studies 161. On Love: Gender, Sexuality, Identity: Seminar Course
Catalog Number: 4147 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Mari Ruti
Half course (spring term). Tu., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17

Is love a threat to the integrity of the self? Or a form of psychic, corporeal, and spiritual rebirth? This course examines literary, psychoanalytic, and mystical discourses on love, passion, and desire from a feminist/queer perspective. The emphasis throughout is on love as a potentially dangerous, yet also self-affirming and ecstatic, affective adventure. Authors considered include Freud, Lacan, Kristeva, Stendhal, Jane Austin, Alice Walker, Jeanette Winterson, bell hooks, St. Teresa, Hadewijch of Antwerp, and Rumi.
Women’s Studies 162. Feminist Research in the Social Sciences: Seminar Course
Catalog Number: 4429 Enrollment: Limited to 12.
Cameron Macdonald (University of Connecticut)
Half course (fall term). Th., 2–4. EXAM GROUP: 16, 17
Is there a feminist social science? If so, what does it look like? Do woman-centered epistemologies lead to different kinds of knowledge claims? Do feminist researchers uncover previously silenced perspectives? These questions have stimulated lively debates for decades. We will explore the philosophical and ethical foundations of feminist research, discussing research strategies with prominent feminist scholars. Readings by Dorothy Smith, Patricia Hill Collins, Trin Minh-ha, Himmani Bannerji. Students will undertake individual research projects.
Note: Strongly recommended for all Women’s Studies students writing research-based theses.

Women’s Studies 164. Women, Citizenship, and Social Movements: Conference Course
Catalog Number: 7278 Enrollment: Limited to 20.
Kathy Coll
Half course (fall term). W., 3–5. EXAM GROUP: 8, 9
Examines how women in diverse contexts practice their politics. How does participation in social movements affect women’s sense of political identity, rights, entitlements? Which groups of women, excluded from full legal citizenship, actively challenge dominant notions of who should have full political rights? Feminist, cross-cultural, and international perspectives on citizenship complement US data. Readings include Aretxaga, Dagnino, Das, Hall, Ong, Rosaldo, Sapiro, Williams, others.
Note: Optional fieldwork projects in local community organizations count towards course work.

Of Primary Interest

Courses in women’s studies offered by other departments are cross-listed below. Those listed first focus centrally on the study of women and/or gender. Courses listed as “Of Related Interest” devote at least one specific segment to such questions. Many of the courses may be taken for graduate credit. Courses numbered in the 200s are primarily for graduate students. Students should also investigate offerings in other faculties in which they may cross-register, such as the Graduate School of Education, the Law School, the Medical School, and the Women’s Studies program at the Divinity School.
